The Bank of New York Mellon Corporation (the "Corporation"), acting through its subsidiaries, The Bank of New York Mellon and The Bank of New York Mellon Trust Company, N.A., is trustee on thousands of bond transactions which are secured by mortgages on real property that are held in trust and registered in the name of The Bank of New York Mellon or The Bank of New York Mellon Trust Company, N.A., as trustee. The mortgages are serviced by third-party service providers who are required to provide the necessary administrative services related to the mortgages, such as paying property taxes and complying with local real estate ordinances. From time to time, the third-party service providers may fail to fulfill their obligations, resulting in fines and judgments. Such fines and judgments may be assessed and entered against The Bank of New York Mellon or The Bank of New York Mellon Trust Company, N.A. because, as trustee, it is the lien-holder or owner of record. The third-party service provider is obligated to pay such fines and remedy or pay such judgments.

In addition, like all major institutions, the Corporation and/or its subsidiaries are subject to various litigations and proceedings pursuant to which judgments, injunctions or liens may be issued. There have been no judgments, injunctions or liens arising out of such litigations or proceedings in the last five years that would materially impair the Corporation's or its subsidiaries ability to perform the services relating to the Matter. For a description of certain legal proceedings, please see the "Legal Proceedings" section in the Corporation's Form 10-Ks and 10-Qs, which are available on our website, http://www.bnymellon.com.

and liabilities or to provide financial support in the event other members do not honor their obligations. We believe the likelihood that a clearing or settlement exchange (of which we are a member) would become insolvent is remote. Additionally, certain settlement exchanges have implemented loss allocation policies that enable the exchange to allocate settlement losses to the members of the exchange. It is not possible to quantify such mark-to-market loss until the loss occurs. In addition, any ancillary costs that occur as a result of any mark-to-market loss cannot be quantified. At Sept. 30, 2013 and Dec. 31, 2012, we have not recorded any material liabilities under these arrangements.

Legal proceedings

In the ordinary course of business, BNY Mellon and its subsidiaries are routinely named as defendants in or made parties to pending and potential legal actions and regulatory matters. Claims for significant monetary damages are often asserted in many of these legal actions, while claims for disgorgement, penalties and/or other remedial sanctions may be sought in regulatory matters. It is inherently difficult to predict the eventual outcomes of such matters given their complexity and the particular facts and circumstances at issue in each of these matters. However, on the basis of our current knowledge and understanding, we do not believe that judgments or settlements, if any, arising from these matters (either individually or in the aggregate, after giving effect to applicable reserves and insurance coverage) will have a material adverse effect on the consolidated financial position or liquidity of BNY Mellon, although they could have a material effect on net income in a given period.

In view of the inherent unpredictability of outcomes in litigation and regulatory matters, particularly where (i) the damages sought are substantial or indeterminate, (ii) the proceedings are in the early stages, or (iii) the matters involve novel legal theories or a large number of parties, as a matter of course there is considerable uncertainty surrounding the timing or ultimate resolution of litigation and regulatory matters, including a possible eventual loss, fine, penalty or business impact, if any, associated with each such matter. In accordance with applicable accounting guidance, BNY Mellon establishes accruals for litigation and regulatory matters when those matters proceed to a stage where they present loss contingencies that are both probable and reasonably estimable. In such cases, there may be a possible exposure to loss in excess of any amounts accrued. BNY Mellon will continue to monitor such matters for developments that could affect the amount of the accrual, and will adjust the accrual amount as appropriate. If the loss contingency in question is not both probable and reasonably estimable, BNY Mellon does not establish an accrual and the matter will continue to be monitored for any developments that would make the loss contingency both probable and reasonably estimable. BNY Mellon believes that its accruals for legal proceedings are appropriate and, in the aggregate, are not material to the consolidated financial position of BNY Mellon, although future accruals could have a material effect on net income in a given period.

For certain of those matters described herein for which a loss contingency may, in the future, be reasonably possible (whether in excess of a related accrued liability or where there is no accrued liability), BNY Mellon is currently unable to estimate a range of reasonably possible loss. For those matters where BNY Mellon is able to estimate a reasonably possible loss, the aggregate range of such reasonably possible loss is up to $650 million in excess of the accrued liability (if any) related to those matters.

Sentinel Matters

As previously disclosed, on Jan. 18, 2008, The Bank of New York Mellon filed a proof of claim in the Chapter 11 bankruptcy proceeding of Sentinel Management Group, Inc. ("Sentinel") pending in federal court in the Northern District of Illinois, seeking to recover approximately $312 million loaned to Sentinel and secured by securities and cash in an account maintained by Sentinel at The Bank of New York Mellon. On March 3, 2008, the bankruptcy trustee filed an adversary complaint against The Bank of New York Mellon seeking to disallow The Bank of New York Mellon's claim and seeking damages for allegedly aiding and abetting Sentinel insiders in misappropriating customer assets and improperly using those assets as collateral for the loan. In a decision dated Nov. 3, 2010, the court found for The Bank of New York Mellon and against the bankruptcy trustee, holding that The Bank of New York Mellon's loan to Sentinel is valid, fully secured and not subject to equitable subordination. The bankruptcy trustee appealed this decision, and on Aug. 9, 2012, the United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit issued a decision affirming the trial court's judgment. On Sept. 7, 2012, the bankruptcy trustee filed a petition for rehearing on the fraudulent transfer portion of the opinion and; on Nov. 30, 2012, the Court of Appeals withdrew its opinion and vacated its judgment. On Aug. 26, 2013, the Court of Appeals reversed its own prior decision and the district court's decision with respect to the bankruptcy trustee's fraudulent transfer and equitable subordination claims and remanded the case to the district court for further proceedings. See Note 5 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements for additional information.

As previously disclosed, in November 2009, the Division of Enforcement of the U.S. Commodities Futures Trading Commission ("CFTC") indicated that it is considering a recommendation to the CFTC that it file a civil enforcement action against The Bank of New York Mellon for possible violations of the Commodity Exchange Act and CFTC regulations in connection with its relationship to Sentinel. The Bank of New York Mellon responded in writing to the CFTC on Jan. 29, 2010 and provided an explanation as to why an enforcement action is unwarranted.

Securities Lending Matters

As previously disclosed, BNY Mellon or its affiliates have been named as defendants in a number of lawsuits initiated by participants in BNY Mellon's securities lending program, which is a part of BNY Mellon's Investment Services business. The lawsuits were filed on various dates from 2009 to 2013, and are currently pending in courts in New York, North Carolina and Illinois and in commercial court in London. The complaints assert contractual, statutory, and common law claims, including claims for negligence and breach of fiduciary duty. The plaintiffs allege losses in connection with the investment of securities lending collateral, including losses related to investments in Sigma Finance Inc. ("Sigma"), Lehman Brothers Holdings, Inc. and certain asset-backed securities, and seek damages as to those losses.

Foreign Exchange Matters

As previously disclosed, beginning in December 2009, government authorities have been conducting inquiries seeking information relating primarily to standing instruction foreign exchange transactions in connection with custody services BNY Mellon provides to public pension plans and certain other custody clients. BNY Mellon is cooperating with these inquiries.

In addition, in early 2011, as previously disclosed, the Virginia Attorney General's Office and the Florida Attorney General's Office each intervened in a qui tam lawsuit pending in its jurisdiction, and, on Aug. 11, 2011, filed superseding complaints. On Nov. 9, 2012, the Virginia court, which had previously dismissed all of the claims against BNY Mellon, dismissed the lawsuit with prejudice by agreement of the parties. On Oct. 4, 2011, the New York Attorney General's Office, the New York City Comptroller and various city pension and benefit funds filed a lawsuit asserting, claims under the Martin Act and state and city false claims acts. On Aug. 5, 2013, the court dismissed the false claims act claims, and certain plaintiffs have since filed a notice of appeal. Also, on Oct. 4, 2011, the United States Department of Justice ("DOJ") filed a civil lawsuit seeking civil penalties under 12 U.S.C. Section 1833a and injunctive relief under 18 U.S.C. Section 1345 based on alleged ongoing violations of 18 U.S.C. Sections 1341 and 1343 (mail and wire fraud). On Jan. 17, 2012, the court approved a partial settlement resolving the DOJ's claim for injunctive relief. In October 2011, several political subdivisions of the state of California intervened in a qui tam lawsuit that was removed to federal district court in California. On March 30, 2012, the court dismissed certain of plaintiffs' claims, including all claims under the California False Claims Act. Certain plaintiffs have since filed an amended complaint. Several plaintiffs also had their claims dismissed for improper venue and one refiled on Sept. 5, 2012 in a different California federal district court. On Oct. 26, 2011, the Massachusetts Securities Division filed an Administrative Complaint against BNY Mellon.

BNY Mellon has also been named as a defendant in several putative class action federal lawsuits filed on various dates in 2011 and 2012. The complaints, which assert claims including breach of contract and ERISA and securities laws violations, all allege that the prices BNY Mellon charged for standing instruction foreign exchange transactions executed in connection with custody services provided by BNY Mellon were improper. In addition, BNY Mellon has been named as a nominal defendant in several derivative lawsuits filed in 2011 and 2012 in state and federal court in New York. On July 2, 2013, the court in the consolidated federal derivative action dismissed all of plaintiffs' claims, and plaintiffs have appealed that decision. On Oct. 1, 2013, the court in the consolidated state derivative action dismissed all of plaintiff's claims. BNY Mellon was also named in a qui tam lawsuit filed on May 22, 2012 in Massachusetts state court, but the court dismissed all of plaintiff's claims on Sept. 10, 2013. The plaintiff has filed a notice of appeal. To the extent these lawsuits are pending in federal court, they are being coordinated for pre-trial purposes in federal court in New York.

Lyondell Litigation

As previously disclosed, in an action filed in New York State Supreme Court for New York County, on Sept. 14, 2010, plaintiffs as holders of debt issued by Basell AF in 2005 allege that The Bank of New York Mellon, as indenture trustee, breached its contractual and fiduciary obligations by executing an intercreditor agreement in 2007 in connection with Basell's acquisition of Lyondell Chemical Company. Plaintiffs sought damages for their alleged losses resulting from the execution of the 2007 intercreditor agreement that allowed the company to increase the amount of its senior debt. After its motion to dismiss was denied in part, BNY Mellon appealed the denial. On May 21, 2013, the appellate court found in our favor and held that BNY Mellon had been released from liability. Plaintiffs have sought leave to reargue or, in the alternative, to pursue an appeal to the New York Court of Appeals. The appellate court denied plaintiffs' motion on Sept. 26, 2013. Plaintiffs have sought leave to pursue an appeal directly from the Court of Appeals.

Tax Litigation

As previously disclosed, on Aug. 17, 2009, BNY Mellon received a Statutory Notice of Deficiency disallowing tax benefits for the 2001 and 2002 tax years in connection with a 2001 transaction that involved the payment of UK corporate income taxes that were credited against BNY Mellon's U.S. corporate income tax liability. On Nov. 10, 2009, BNY Mellon filed a petition with the U.S. Tax Court contesting the disallowance of the benefits. Trial was held from April 16 to May 17, 2012. On Feb. 11, 2013, the Tax Court upheld the IRS's Notice of Deficiency and disallowed BNY Mellon's tax credits and associated transaction costs. On Sept. 23, 2013, the Tax Court issued a supplemental opinion, partially reducing the tax implications to BNY Mellon of its earlier decision. BNY Mellon will appeal the Tax Court's ruling once a formal decision is entered, which awaits the Tax Court's computation of the amounts owed. See Note 11 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements for additional information.

Mortgage-Securitization Trusts Proceeding

As previously disclosed, The Bank of New York Mellon as trustee is the petitioner in a legal proceeding filed in New York State Supreme Court, New York County on June 29, 2011, seeking approval of a proposed settlement involving Bank of America Corporation and bondholders in certain Countrywide residential mortgage-securitization trusts. The New York and Delaware Attorneys General have intervened in this proceeding. The trial in this matter began on June 3, 2013.

Matters Related to R. Allen Stanford

In late December 2005, Pershing LLC became a clearing firm for Stanford Group Co. ("SGC"), a registered broker dealer that was part of a group of entities ultimately controlled by R. Allen Stanford. Stanford International Bank ("SIB"), also controlled by Stanford, issued certificates of deposit ("CDs"). Some investors allegedly wired funds from their SGC accounts to purchase CDs. In 2009, the SEC charged Stanford with operating a Ponzi scheme in connection with the sale of CDs, and SGC was placed into receivership. Pershing has been sued by alleged purchasers of CDs in three lawsuits currently pending in federal court in Texas. In addition, alleged purchasers have filed FINRA arbitration claims against Pershing. Since August 2013, operative statements of claim have been filed with FINRA in Texas, Florida and Georgia. The purchasers allege that Pershing, as SGC's clearing firm, assisted Stanford in a fraudulent scheme, and assert contractual, statutory and common law claims.

ECONOMIC DISCLOSURE STATEMENT
FILED BY
THE BANK OF NEW YORK MELLON

The Disclosing Party was established in 1784 under the name The Bank of New York and is now a wholly-owned subsidiary of The Bank of New York Mellon Corporation (the "Corporation"). The Corporation has identified 60 predecessor institutions established before 1866, including The Bank of New York.

There are scattered references in the records of the Corporation's pre-1866 predecessors to clients located in the southern states where slavery was practiced during the slavery era. The Corporation's predecessors provided business services to these southern clients which included: issuing loans to individuals, banks and other institutions; maintaining individual and correspondent banking accounts; providing reciprocal banking services for other banks; and providing bond and stock administration and depositary services on behalf of other banks and municipalities. Some of these predecessors may have also invested in bonds and stocks of southern institutions or bonds issued by southern states. The southern states, municipalities, banks, companies and individuals referenced in the records are: Bank of Baltimore; City Bank of Baltimore; Stephen Duncan; DuPlanty, McCall & Co.; Bank of Kentucky; Bank of Maryland; State of Maryland; Bank of Montgomery; Bank of North Carolina; Bank of South Carolina; New Orleans Canal and Banking Company; City of New Orleans; Commercial Bank of New Orleans; Planters Bank of Mississippi; Simsville Cotton Factory; Southern Life Insurance and Trust Company; Planters Bank of Tennessee; State of Tennessee. The Bank of New York also held one or more bank accounts on behalf of Charles P. Leverich and/or his New York company Charles P. Leverich & Co. ("Leverich & Co."). Leverich was a director of The Bank of New York from 1840 to 1876, and also was a Vice President (1853-1863) and President (1863-1876) of the Bank. Leverich & Co. was a New York cotton broker which had extensive dealings with southern clients from the 1830s through 1879, when the firm was dissolved. Leverich & Co. also acted as a factor for southern planters. It also appears that that Leverich & Co. may have helped manage a plantation -- James Porter's Oak Lawn in Bayou Teche, Louisiana -- for one of its southern clients.

Based on the Corporation's research, there are indications in United States census records for the period 1790 to 1860 that some directors of The Bank of New York and some officers and directors of the Farmer's Bank of the State of Delaware may have owned slaves before, during and/or after their association with such institutions.

A predecessor of the Corporation, the New York Life Insurance and Trust Company ("NYLITC") (which bears no relation to the present New York Life Insurance Company), was founded in 1830 and merged with The Bank of New York in 1922. NYLITC issued life insurance policies to some of its clients, including a few individuals who resided in the southern states where slavery was practiced during the slavery era. There are no indications in the records that NYLITC issued any slaveholder insurance policies.

The records of NYLITC reflect that in 1842, NYLITC loaned a sum of money to the Southern Life Insurance and Trust Company ("Southern Life"). This loan was secured by an assignment to NYLITC of several mortgages originated and held by Southern Life, including a mortgage dated April 1, 1837, on "Hanson's Plantation," located in St. John's County, near St. Augustine, Florida, and owned by John Hanson and Margaret Cook. This Southern Life mortgage included a pledge of 21 named slaves. The names and ages of these slaves are recorded in the NYLITC ledger entry for the loan and are listed in Appendix A to this statement. There are no indications in the records that Southern Life ever defaulted on this loan, or that NYLITC ever foreclosed on any of the assigned mortgages.

The Bank of New York Mellon Corporation (the "Corporation"), acting through its subsidiaries, The Bank of New York Mellon and The Bank of New York Mellon Trust Company, N.A., is trustee on thousands of bond transactions which are secured by mortgages on real property that are held in trust and registered in the name of The Bank of New York Mellon or The Bank of New York Mellon Trust Company, N.A., as trustee. The mortgages are serviced by third-party service providers who are required to provide the necessary administrative services related to the mortgages, such as paying property taxes and complying with local real estate ordinances. From time to time, the third-party service providers may fail to fulfill their obligations, resulting in fines and judgments. Such fines and judgments may be assessed and entered against The Bank of New York Mellon or The Bank of New York Mellon Trust Company, N.A. because, as trustee, it is the lien-holder or owner of record. The third-party service provider is obligated to pay such fines and remedy or pay such judgments.

In addition, like all major institutions, the Corporation and/or its subsidiaries are subject to various litigations and proceedings pursuant to which judgments, injunctions or liens may be issued. There have been no judgments, injunctions or liens arising out of such litigations or proceedings in the last five years that would materially impair the Corporation's or its subsidiaries ability to perform the services relating to the Matter. For a description of certain legal proceedings, please see the "Legal Proceedings" section in the Corporation's Form 10-Ks and 10-Qs, which are available on our website, http://www.bnymellon.com.

the nature of events that would trigger indemnification or the level of indemnification for a certain event. We believe, however, that the possibility that we will have to make any material payments for these indemnifications is remote. At Sept. 30, 2012 and Dec. 31, 2011, we have not recorded any material liabilities under these arrangements.

Clearing and Settlement Exchanges

We are a minority equity investor in, and member of, several industry clearing or settlement exchanges through which foreign exchange, securities, or other transactions settle. Certain of these industry clearing or settlement exchanges require their members to guarantee their obligations and liabilities or to provide financial support in the event other members do not honor their obligations. We believe the likelihood that a clearing or settlement exchange (of which we are a member) would become insolvent is remote. Additionally, certain settlement exchanges have implemented loss allocation policies which enable the exchange to allocate settlement losses to the members of the exchange. It is not possible to quantify such mark-to-market loss until the loss occurs. In addition, any ancillary costs that occur as a result of any mark-to-market loss cannot be quantified. At Sept. 30, 2012 and Dec. 31, 2011, no material liabilities were recorded under these arrangements.

Legal proceedings

In the ordinary course of business, BNY Mellon and its subsidiaries are routinely named as defendants in or made parties to pending and potential legal actions and regulatory matters. Claims for significant monetary damages are often asserted in many of these legal actions, while claims for disgorgement, penalties and/or other remedial sanctions may be sought in regulatory matters. It is inherently difficult to predict the eventual outcomes of such matters given their complexity and the particular facts and circumstances at issue in each of these matters. However, on the basis of our current knowledge and understanding, we do not believe that judgments or settlements, if any, arising from these matters (either individually or in the aggregate, after giving effect to applicable reserves and insurance coverage) will have a material adverse effect on the consolidated financial position or liquidity of BNY Mellon, although they could have a material effect on net income in a given period.

In view of the inherent unpredictability of outcomes in litigation and regulatory matters, particularly where (i) the damages sought are substantial or indeterminate, (ii) the proceedings are in the early stages, or (iii) the matters involve novel legal theories or a large number of parties, as a matter of course there is considerable uncertainty surrounding the timing or ultimate resolution of litigation and regulatory matters, including a possible eventual loss, fine, penalty or business impact, if any, associated with each such matter. In accordance with applicable accounting guidance, BNY Mellon establishes reserves for litigation and regulatory matters when those matters proceed to a stage where they present loss contingencies that are both probable and reasonably estimable. In such cases, there may be a possible exposure to loss in excess of any amounts accrued. BNY Mellon will continue to monitor such matters for developments that could affect the amount of the reserve, and will adjust the reserve amount as appropriate. If the loss contingency in question is not both probable and reasonably estimable, BNY Mellon does not establish a reserve and the matter will continue to be monitored for any developments that would make the loss contingency both probable and reasonably estimable. BNY Mellon believes that its accruals for legal proceedings are appropriate and, in the aggregate, are not material to the consolidated financial position of BNY Mellon, although future accruals could have a material effect on net income in a given period.

For certain of those matters described herein for which a loss contingency may, in the future, be reasonably possible (whether in excess of a related accrued liability or where there is no accrued liability), BNY Mellon is currently unable to estimate a range of reasonably possible loss. For those matters where BNY Mellon is able to estimate a reasonably possible loss, exclusive of matters described in Note 11 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements, subject to the accounting and reporting requirements of ASC 740 (FASB Interpretation 48), the aggregate range of such reasonably possible loss is up to $750 million in excess of the accrued liability (if any) related to those matters.

Sentinel Matters
As previously disclosed, on Jan. 18, 2008, The Bank of New York Mellon filed a proof of claim in the Chapter 11 bankruptcy proceeding of Sentinel Management Group, Inc. ("Sentinel") pending in federal court in the Northern District of Illinois, seeking to recover approximately $312 million loaned to Sentinel and secured by securities and cash in an account maintained by Sentinel at The Bank of New York Mellon. On March 3, 2008, the bankruptcy trustee filed an adversary complaint against The Bank of New York Mellon seeking to disallow The Bank of New York Mellon's claim and seeking damages for allegedly aiding and abetting Sentinel insiders in misappropriating customer assets and improperly using those assets as collateral for the loan. In a decision dated Nov. 3, 2010, the court found for The Bank of New York Mellon and against the bankruptcy trustee, holding that The Bank of New York Mellon's loan to Sentinel is valid, fully secured and not subject to equitable subordination. The bankruptcy trustee appealed this decision, and on August 9, 2012, the United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit issued a decision affirming the trial court's judgment. On September 7, 2012, the bankruptcy trustee filed a petition for rehearing.

As previously disclosed, in November 2009, the Division of Enforcement of the U.S. Commodities Futures Trading Commission ("CFTC") indicated that it is considering a recommendation to the CFTC that it file a civil enforcement action against The Bank of New York Mellon for possible violations of the Commodity Exchange Act and CFTC regulations in connection with its relationship to Sentinel. The Bank of New York Mellon responded in writing to the CFTC on Jan. 29, 2010 and provided an explanation as to why an enforcement action is unwarranted.

Securities Lending Matters
As previously disclosed, BNY Mellon or its affiliates have been named as defendants in a number of lawsuits initiated by participants in BNY Mellon's securities lending program, which is a part of BNY Mellon's Investment Services business. The lawsuits were filed on various dates from December 2008 to 2012, and are currently pending in courts in New York, South Carolina and North Carolina and in commercial court in London. The complaints assert contractual, statutory, and common law claims, including claims for negligence and breach of fiduciary duty. The plaintiffs allege losses in connection with the investment of securities lending collateral, including losses related to investments in Sigma Finance Inc. ("Sigma"), Lehman Brothers Holdings, Inc. and certain asset-backed securities, and seek damages as to those losses. Two of the pending cases seek to proceed as class actions.

On Oct. 25, 2012, the court entered final approval of a previously-announced settlement of the Oklahoma class action lawsuit concerning Sigma losses. Under the terms of the settlement, The Bank of New York Mellon agreed to pay $280 million in exchange for a complete release of claims in the class action.

Matters Relating To Bernard L. Madoff
As previously disclosed, on May 11, 2010, the New York State Attorney General commenced a civil lawsuit against Ivy Asset Management LLC ("Ivy"), a subsidiary of BNY Mellon that manages primarily funds-of-hedge-funds, and two of its former officers in New York state court. The lawsuit alleges that Ivy, in connection with its role as sub-advisor to investment managers whose clients invested with Madoff, did not disclose certain material facts about Madoff. The complaint seeks an accounting of compensation received from January 1997 to the present by the Ivy defendants in connection with the Madoff investments, and unspecified damages, including restitution, disgorgement, costs and attorneys' fees.

As previously disclosed, on Oct. 21, 2010, the U.S. Department of Labor commenced a civil lawsuit against Ivy, two of its former officers, and others in federal court in the Southern District of New York. The lawsuit alleges that Ivy violated the Employee Retirement Income Security Act ("ERISA") by failing to disclose certain material facts about Madoff to investment managers subadvised by Ivy whose clients included employee benefit plan investors. The complaint seeks disgorgement and damages. On Dec. 8, 2010, the Trustee overseeing the Madoff liquidation sued many of the same defendants in bankruptcy court in New York, seeking to avoid withdrawals from Madoff investments made by various funds-of-funds (including six funds-of-funds managed by Ivy).

As previously disclosed, Ivy or its affiliates have been named in a number of civil lawsuits filed beginning Jan. 27, 2009 relating to certain investment funds that allege losses due to the Madoff investments. Ivy acted as a sub-advisor to the investment managers of some of those funds. Plaintiffs assert various causes of action including securities and common-law fraud. Certain of the cases have been certified as class actions and/or assert derivative claims on behalf of the funds. Most of the cases have been consolidated in two actions in federal court in the Southern District of New York, with certain cases filed in New York State Supreme Court for New York and Nassau counties.

Medical Capital Litigations

As previously disclosed, The Bank of New York Mellon has been named as a defendant in a number of class actions and non-class actions brought by numerous plaintiffs in connection with its role as indenture trustee for debt issued by affiliates of Medical Capital Corporation. The actions, filed in late 2009 and currently pending in federal court in the Central District of California, allege that The Bank of New York Mellon breached its fiduciary and contractual obligations to the holders of the underlying securities, and seek unspecified damages. On June 7, 2012, The Bank of New York Mellon reached a conditional settlement with the Federal Equity Receiver for Medical Capital Corporation and its affiliates. The plaintiffs have opposed the settlement with the Receiver. They challenge the Receiver's authority to bind them to any settlement, and allege that the settlement is inadequate.

Foreign Exchange Matters

As previously disclosed, beginning in December 2009, government authorities have been conducting inquiries seeking information relating primarily to standing instruction foreign exchange transactions in connection with custody services BNY Mellon provides to public pension plans and certain other custody clients. BNY Mellon is cooperating with these inquiries.

In addition, in early 2011, as previously disclosed, the Virginia Attorney General's Office and the Florida Attorney General's Office each filed a Notice of Intervention in a qui tam lawsuit pending in its jurisdiction. These offices filed complaints superseding the qui tam lawsuits on Aug. 11, 2011. On May 1, 2012, the Virginia court dismissed the lawsuit in its entirety. On July 10, 2012, the Virginia Attorney General's office filed a motion seeking leave of the court to file an amended complaint. On Oct. 4, 2011, the New York Attorney General's Office, the New York City Comptroller and various city pension and benefit funds filed a lawsuit whereby, among other things, the plaintiffs assert claims under the Martin Act and state and city false claims acts. Also, on Oct. 4, 2011, the United States Department of Justice ("DOJ") filed a civil lawsuit seeking civil penalties under 12 U.S.C. Section 1833a and injunctive relief under 18 U.S.C. Section 1345 based on alleged ongoing violations of 18 U.S.C. Sections 1341 and 1343 (mail and wire fraud). On Jan. 17, 2012, the court approved a partial settlement resolving the DOJ's claim for injunctive relief. In October 2011, several political subdivisions of the state of California intervened in a qui tam lawsuit pending in California state court, previously under seal, and, on Nov. 28, 2011, BNY Mellon removed the lawsuit to federal district court in California. On March 30, 2012, the court dismissed certain of plaintiffs' claims, including all claims under the California False Claims Act, and provided plaintiffs an opportunity to file a motion seeking leave to replead. Several plaintiffs also had their claims dismissed for improper venue and one refiled on Sept. 5, 2012 in a different California federal district court. On Oct. 26, 2011, the Massachusetts Securities Division filed an Administrative Complaint against BNY Mellon.

BNY Mellon has also been named as a defendant in several putative class action federal lawsuits filed on various dates in 2011. The complaints, which assert varying claims, including breach of contract, and violations of ERISA, state and federal law, all allege that the prices BNY Mellon charged and reported for standing instruction foreign exchange transactions executed in connection with custody services provided by BNY Mellon were improper. In addition, BNY Mellon has been named as a nominal defendant in several derivative lawsuits filed on various dates in 2011 and 2012 in state and federal court in New York. BNY Mellon has also been named as a defendant in a lawsuit filed on March 12, 2012 in Ohio state court, and subsequently removed to federal district court in Ohio, asserting claims including breach of contract and fraud. BNY Mellon was also named in a qui tam lawsuit originally filed under seal in October 2009 in Massachusetts state court, but the plaintiff voluntarily dismissed the lawsuit on May 16, 2012. To the extent these lawsuits are pending in federal court, they have been consolidated for pre-trial purposes in federal court in New York.

Lyondell Litigation

As previously disclosed, in an action filed in New York State Supreme Court for New York County, on Sept. 14, 2010, plaintiffs as holders of debt issued by Basell AF in 2005 allege that The Bank of New York Mellon, as indenture trustee, breached its contractual and fiduciary obligations by executing an intercreditor agreement in 2007 in connection with Basell's acquisition of Lyondell Chemical Company. Plaintiffs are seeking damages for their alleged losses resulting from the execution of the 2007 intercreditor agreement that allowed the company to increase the amount of its senior debt.

Tax Litigation

As previously disclosed, on Aug. 17, 2009, BNY Mellon received a Statutory Notice of Deficiency disallowing tax benefits for the 2001 and 2002 tax years in connection with a 2001 transaction that involved the payment of U.K. corporate income taxes that were credited against BNY Mellon's U.S. corporate income tax liability. On Nov. 10, 2009, BNY Mellon filed a petition with the U.S. Tax Court contesting the disallowance of the benefits. Trial was held from April 16 to May 17, 2012. The aggregate tax benefit for all six years in question is approximately $900 million, including interest. In the event BNY Mellon is unsuccessful in defending its position, the IRS has agreed not to assess underpayment penalties. See Note 11 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements for additional information.

Mortgage-Securitization Trusts Proceeding

As previously disclosed, The Bank of New York Mellon as trustee is the petitioner in a legal proceeding filed in New York State Supreme Court, New York County on June 29, 2011, seeking approval of a proposed settlement involving Bank of America Corporation and bondholders in certain Countrywide residential mortgage-securitization trusts. The New York and Delaware Attorneys General have intervened in this proceeding.

Note 19 – Review of businesses

We have an internal information system that produces performance data along product and service lines for our two principal businesses and the Other segment.

Organization of our business

On Dec. 31, 2011, BNY Mellon sold its Shareowner Services business. In the first quarter of 2012, we reclassified the results of the Shareowner Services business from the Investment Services business to the Other segment. The reclassification did not impact the consolidated results. All prior periods have been restated.

Business accounting principles

Our business data has been determined on an internal management basis of accounting, rather than the generally accepted accounting principles used for consolidated financial reporting. These measurement principles are designed so that reported results of the businesses will track their economic performance.

Business results are subject to reclassification whenever improvements are made in the measurement principles, or when organizational changes are made.

The accounting policies of the businesses are the same as those described in Note 1 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements in BNY Mellon's 2011 Annual Report.

The operations of acquired businesses are integrated with the existing businesses soon after they are completed. As a result of the integration of staff support functions, management of customer relationships, operating processes and the financial impact of funding acquisitions, we cannot precisely determine the impact of acquisitions on income before taxes and therefore do not report it.

ECONOMIC DISCLOSURE STATEMENT
FILED BY
THE BANK OF NEW YORK MELLON

The Disclosing Party was established in 1784 under the name The Bank of New York and is now a wholly-owned subsidiary of The Bank of New York Mellon Corporation (the "Corporation"). The Corporation has identified 60 predecessor institutions established before 1866, including The Bank of New York.

There are scattered references in the records of the Corporation's pre-1866 predecessors to clients located in the southern states where slavery was practiced during the slavery era. The Corporation's predecessors provided business services to these southern clients which included: issuing loans to individuals, banks and other institutions; maintaining individual and correspondent banking accounts; providing reciprocal banking services for other banks; and providing bond and stock administration and depositary services on behalf of other banks and municipalities. Some of these predecessors may have also invested in bonds and stocks of southern institutions or bonds issued by southern states. The southern states, municipalities, banks, companies and individuals referenced in the records are: Bank of Baltimore; City Bank of Baltimore; Stephen Duncan; DuPlanty, McCall & Co.; Bank of Kentucky; Bank of Maryland; State of Maryland; Bank of Montgomery; Bank of North Carolina; Bank of South Carolina; New Orleans Canal and Banking Company; City of New Orleans; Commercial Bank of New Orleans; Planters Bank of Mississippi; Simsville Cotton Factory; Southern Life Insurance and Trust Company; Planters Bank of Tennessee; State of Tennessee. The Bank of New York also held one or more bank accounts on behalf of Charles P. Leverich and/or his New York company Charles P. Leverich & Co. ("Leverich & Co."). Leverich was a director of The Bank of New York from 1840 to 1876, and also was a Vice President (1853-1863) and President (1863-1876) of the Bank. Leverich & Co. was a New York cotton broker which had extensive dealings with southern clients from the 1830s through 1879, when the firm was dissolved. Leverich & Co. also acted as a factor for southern planters. It also appears that that Leverich & Co. may have helped manage a plantation -- James Porter's Oak Lawn in Bayou Teche, Louisiana -- for one of its southern clients.

Based on the Corporation's research, there are indications in United States census records for the period 1790 to 1860 that some directors of The Bank of New York and some officers and directors of the Farmer's Bank of the State of Delaware may have owned slaves before, during and/or after their association with such institutions.

A predecessor of the Corporation, the New York Life Insurance and Trust Company ("NYLITC") (which bears no relation to the present New York Life Insurance Company), was founded in 1830 and merged with The Bank of New York in 1922. NYLITC issued life insurance policies to some of its clients, including a few individuals who resided in the southern states where slavery was practiced during the slavery era. There are no indications in the records that NYLITC issued any slaveholder insurance policies.

The records of NYLITC reflect that in 1842, NYLITC loaned a sum of money to the Southern Life Insurance and Trust Company ("Southern Life"). This loan was secured by an assignment to NYLITC of several mortgages originated and held by Southern Life, including a mortgage dated April 1, 1837, on "Hanson's Plantation," located in St. John's County, near St. Augustine, Florida, and owned by John Hanson and Margaret Cook. This Southern Life mortgage included a pledge of 21 named slaves. The names and ages of these slaves are recorded in the NYLITC ledger entry for the loan and are listed in Appendix A to this statement. There are no indications in the records that Southern Life ever defaulted on this loan, or that NYLITC ever foreclosed on any of the assigned mortgages.

We have an Other segment, which includes credit-related services, the leasing portfolio, corporate treasury activities (including our investment securities portfolio), our equity investment in Wing Hang Bank Limited, our equity interest in ConvergEx Group, business exits and corporate overhead.

For a further discussion of BNY Mellon's products and services, see the "Overview", "Summary of financial results", "Fee and other revenue – Foreign exchange and other trading revenue", "Review of businesses" and "International operations" sections in the MD&A section in the Annual Report and Notes 24 and 25 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements in the Annual Report, which portions are incorporated herein by reference. See the "Available Information" section on page 1 of this Form 10-K, which is incorporated herein by reference, for a description of how to access financial and other information regarding BNY Mellon.

We were formed as a bank holding company ("BHC") and have our executive offices in New York, New York. With its subsidiaries, BNY Mellon has been in business since 1784.

On July 1, 2007, The Bank of New York Company, Inc. and Mellon Financial Corporation ("Mellon Financial") merged into BNY Mellon, with BNY Mellon being the surviving entity (the "merger").

Our two principal banks are:

- The Bank of New York Mellon, a New York state chartered bank, which houses our Investment Services businesses, including Asset Servicing, Issuer Services, Treasury Services, Broker-Dealer and Advisor Services as well as the bank-advised business of Asset Management.
- BNY Mellon, National Association ("BNY Mellon, N.A."), a nationally-chartered bank, which houses our Wealth Management business.

Our two principal U.S. banks engage in trust and custody activities, investment management services, banking services and various securities-related activities.

We have four other U.S. bank and/or trust companies concentrating on trust products and services across the United States: The Bank of New York Mellon Trust Company, National Association, BNY Mellon Trust of Delaware, BNY Mellon Investment Servicing Trust Company and BNY Mellon Trust Company of Illinois. Most of our asset management businesses, along with our Pershing businesses, are direct or indirect non-bank subsidiaries of BNY Mellon.

Each of our bank and trust companies are subject to regulation by the applicable banking regulatory authority. The deposits of our U.S. banking subsidiaries are insured by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation to the extent provided by law.

BNY Mellon's branches and subsidiaries outside the United States are subject to regulation by non-U.S. regulatory authorities in addition to the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System (the "Federal Reserve"). The Bank of New York Mellon SA/NV ("BNYMSA") is the main banking subsidiary of The Bank of New York Mellon in continental Europe. It is authorized and regulated as a credit institution by the National Bank of Belgium. BNYMSA has its principal office in Brussels and branches in Amsterdam, the Netherlands; Dublin, Ireland; Frankfurt, Germany; London, England; the City of Luxembourg, Luxembourg and Paris, France. BNYMSA's activities are in the Investment Services segment of BNY Mellon with a focus on global custody, asset servicing and collateral management. For additional discussion, see the "MD&A — Supervision and Regulation" section in the Annual Report.

Information on international operations is presented in the "Net interest revenue", "Income tax", "Review of businesses", "International operations", "Consolidated balance sheet review" and "Supervision and Regulation" sections in the MD&A section in the Annual Report, Notes 4, 5 and 25 of the Exhibit 21.1 to this Form 10-K presents a list of BNY Mellon's primary subsidiaries as of Dec. 31, 2013.

Supervision and Regulation

Information on BNY Mellon's supervision and regulation obligations can be found in the "MD&A — Supervision and Regulation" section in the Annual Report. That information is incorporated into this item by reference.

Competition

BNY Mellon is subject to intense competition in all aspects and areas of our business. Our Investment Management business competes with asset management firms, hedge funds, investment banking companies and other financial services companies, including trust banks, brokerage firms, and insurance companies. We may compete with these firms and companies domestically or internationally. Our Investment Services business competes with domestic and foreign financial services firms that offer custody services, corporate trust services, clearing services, collateral services, credit services, securities brokerage, foreign exchange services, derivatives services, depositary receipt services and cash management services and related products, as well as a wide range of technology service providers, such as financial services data processing firms. Competition is based on a number of factors including, among others, customer service, quality and range of products and services offered, price, reputation, interest rates, lending limits and customer convenience.

Many of our competitors, with the particular exception of bank and financial holding companies, banks and trust companies, are not subject to regulation as extensive as that described under the "MD&A — Supervision and Regulation" section in the Annual Report and, as a result, may have a competitive advantage over us and our subsidiaries in certain respects.

Many broad-based financial services firms have the ability to offer a wide range of products, from loans, deposit-taking and insurance to brokerage and asset management, which may enhance their competitive position.

As part of our business strategy, we seek to distinguish ourselves from competitors by the level of service we deliver to our clients. We also believe that technological innovation is an important competitive factor, and, for this reason, have made and continue to make substantial investments in this area. The ability to recover quickly from unexpected events is a competitive factor, and we have devoted significant resources to being able to implement this. For additional discussion regarding competition, see "MD&A — Risk Factors – We are subject to intense competition in all aspects of our business, which could negatively affect our ability to maintain or increase our profitability" in the Annual Report, which is incorporated herein by reference.

Employees

At Dec. 31, 2013, BNY Mellon and its subsidiaries had approximately 51,100 employees.

Pursuant to the merger, BNY Mellon assumed Mellon Financial's obligations under this Replacement Capital Covenant, and BNY Mellon amended this Replacement Capital Covenant on Sept. 11, 2012. In this section, we refer to this Replacement Capital Covenant as so amended as the "2006 RCC" and to the Junior Subordinated Debt Securities and the Preferred Securities together as the "2006 Securities".

BNY Mellon agreed in the 2006 RCC for the benefit of persons that buy, hold or sell a specified series of its long-term indebtedness for money borrowed, called "Covered Debt", that on or before Sept. 5, 2056:

- BNY Mellon will not repay, redeem or repurchase, and will cause the 2006 Trust not to repay, redeem or repurchase, any of the 2006 Securities, with limited exceptions, unless:
  - BNY Mellon has obtained the prior approval of the Federal Reserve to do so if such approval is then required under the Federal Reserve's capital rules; and
  - the principal amount repaid or the applicable redemption or repurchase amount does not exceed specified percentages of the aggregate amount of net cash proceeds that BNY Mellon and its subsidiaries have received since Sept. 11, 2012 from the issuance of certain securities specified in the 2006 RCC that, generally described, based on the standards in effect at the time the 2006 RCC was originally adopted would have been expected to receive equity credit at the time of sale or issuance equal to or greater than the equity credit attributed to the 2006 Securities based on such standards at the time of such repayment, redemption or repurchase; and
- BNY Mellon will not pay any interest that has been deferred on the 2006 Securities other than out of the net proceeds of common stock or certain non-cumulative perpetual preferred stock that is subject to a replacement capital covenant similar to the 2006 RCC, subject to certain limitations, and BNY Mellon will not redeem interest on the Junior Subordinated Debt Securities that it has elected to capitalize, as permitted by the terms of such securities, except with the proceeds raised from the issuance or sale of common stock or rights to purchase common stock.

On June 19, 2007, Mellon Financial entered into a Replacement Capital Covenant in connection with (i) the issuance by Mellon Capital IV (the "2007 Trust") of 500,000 of its 6.244% Fixed-to-Floating Rate Normal Preferred Capital Securities, or "Normal PCS" (together with Stripped PCS and Capital PCS issued pursuant to the terms of the Normal PCS, the "PCS"), having a stated amount of $1,000 per Normal PCS and $500,000,000 in the aggregate and (ii) the issuance by Mellon Financial to the 2007 Trust of $500,000,000 of its 6.044% Junior Subordinated Notes, or "Junior Notes", and a 1/100th interest in a Stock Purchase Contract under which the 2007 Trust was obligated to purchase, and Mellon Financial was obligated to sell, one share of Mellon Financial's Non-Cumulative Perpetual Preferred Stock, Series L, $100,000 liquidation preference per share, which, pursuant to the merger, became an obligation to purchase Non-Cumulative Perpetual Preferred Stock, Series A, $100,000 liquidation preference per share, of BNY Mellon (the "Preferred Stock"). The 2007 Trust sold the Junior Notes in a remarketing on May 21, 2012 and purchased the Preferred Stock on June 20, 2012. Pursuant to the merger, BNY Mellon assumed Mellon Financial's obligation under this Replacement Capital Covenant, and BNY Mellon amended this Replacement Capital Covenant on May 8 and Sept. 11, 2012. In this section, we refer to this Replacement Capital Covenant as so amended as the "2007 RCC", to the 2006 RCC and the 2007 RCC together as the "RCCs" and to the Preferred Stock and the PCS collectively as the "2007 Securities".

BNY Mellon agreed in the 2007 RCC for the benefit of persons who buy, hold, or sell a specified series of its long-term indebtedness for money borrowed, called "Covered Debt", that on or before the "Termination Date", as defined in the 2007 RCC (anticipated to be June 20, 2022):

- BNY Mellon and its subsidiaries will not redeem or repurchase any of the 2007 Securities with limited exceptions, unless:
  - BNY Mellon has obtained the prior approval of the Federal Reserve to do so if such approval is then required under the Federal Reserve's capital rules applicable to BHCs; and
  - the applicable redemption or repurchase amount does not exceed specified percentages of the aggregate amount of net cash proceeds that BNY Mellon and its subsidiaries have received since Sept. 11, 2012 from the issuance of common stock or other securities specified in the 2007 RCC that, generally described, based on the standards in effect at the time the 2007 RCC was originally adopted would have been expected to receive equity credit at the time of issuance equal to or greater than the equity credit attributed to the 2007 Securities at the time of such redemption or repayment.

The series of long-term indebtedness for borrowed money that is Covered Debt under the RCCs as of the date of this Form 10-K is BNY Mellon's 5.50% subordinated notes due Nov. 15, 2018, which have CUSIP No. 585515AE9. Each series of long-term indebtedness for money borrowed that is Covered Debt, including BNY Mellon's 5.50% subordinated notes due Nov. 15, 2018, will cease to be Covered Debt on the earliest of (i) the date that is two years prior to the final maturity date or the defeasance of such series of notes and (ii) if BNY Mellon or a subsidiary elects to redeem or repurchase such series of notes in whole or in part and after giving effect to such redemption or repurchase the outstanding principal amount of such series is less than $100,000,000, the applicable redemption or repurchase date. Each RCC includes provisions under which BNY Mellon will then identify a new series of its long-term indebtedness for money borrowed to become the Covered Debt benefiting from such RCC.

The full text of each RCC, as amended and restated, is filed as Exhibit 99.1 and 99.2 to our Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended Dec. 31, 2012. The description of each RCC set forth above is qualified by reference to its full text.

(a) See "Supplemental information – Explanation of GAAP and Non-GAAP financial measures" beginning on page 118 for a calculation of these ratios.

(b) Non-GAAP excludes merger and integration ("M&I"), litigation and restructuring charges. Additionally, Non-GAAP for 2013 excludes the net impact of the U.S. Tax Court's decisions regarding certain foreign tax credits.

(c) Includes fee revenue, net interest revenue and income from consolidated investment management funds, net of net income attributable to noncontrolling interests.

(d) The common dividend payout ratio was 26% for 2013 after adjusting for the net impact of the U.S. Tax Court's decisions regarding certain foreign tax credits.

(e) Includes discontinued operations in 2010 and 2009.

(f) When in this Annual Report we refer to BNY Mellon's or our bank subsidiary's "Basel I" capital measures (e.g., Basel I Total capital or Basel I Tier 1 capital), we mean that capital measure, as calculated under the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System's (the "Federal Reserve") risk-based capital rules that are based on the 1988 Basel Accord, which is often referred to as "Basel I." Similarly, when in this Annual Report we refer to BNY Mellon's "Basel III" capital measures (e.g., Basel III Tier 1 common equity), we mean that capital measure as calculated under the final revised capital rules (the "Final Capital Rules") released by the Federal Reserve on July 2, 2013.

(g) At Dec. 31, 2013, the estimated Basel III Tier 1 common equity ratio is based on our interpretation of the Final Capital Rules, on a fully phased-in basis. For periods prior to Dec. 31, 2013, these ratios were estimated using our interpretation of the Federal Reserve's Notices of Proposed Rulemaking ("NPRs") dated June 7, 2012, on a fully phased-in basis.

(h) Changes in January 2014 to the probable loss model associated with unsecured wholesale credit exposures within our Advanced Approach capital model will impact risk-weighted assets. The Company did not include the impact at Dec. 31, 2013. However, a preliminary estimate of the revised methodology to the portfolio at Sept. 30, 2013 would have added approximately 6% to the risk-weighted assets

How we reported results

Throughout this Annual Report, certain measures, which are noted as "Non-GAAP financial measures," exclude certain items. BNY Mellon believes that these measures are useful to investors because they permit a focus on period-to-period comparisons using measures that relate to our ability to enhance revenues and limit expenses in circumstances where such matters are within our control. We also present the net interest margin on a fully taxable equivalent ("FTE") basis. We believe that this presentation allows for comparison of amounts arising from both taxable and tax-exempt sources and is consistent with industry practice. Certain immaterial reclassifications have been made to prior periods to place them on a basis comparable with the current period presentation. See "Supplemental information - Explanation of GAAP and Non-GAAP financial measures" beginning on page 118 for a reconciliation of financial measures presented in accordance with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP") to adjusted Non-GAAP financial measures.

All information for 2013, 2012 and 2011 in this Annual Report is reported on a net income basis. On Jan. 15, 2010, BNY Mellon sold Mellon United National Bank ("MUNB"), our former national bank subsidiary located in Florida. We applied discontinued operations accounting to this business. As a result, certain information for 2010 and 2009 in this Annual Report is reported on a continuing operations basis.

BNY Mellon can act as a single point of contact for clients looking to create, trade, hold, manage, service, distribute or restructure investments.

BNY Mellon's businesses benefit from the global growth in financial assets and from the globalization of the investment process. Over the long term, our goals are focused on deploying capital to accelerate the long-term growth of our businesses and achieving superior total returns to shareholders by generating first quartile earnings per share growth over time relative to a group of peer companies.

Key components of our strategy include:

- focusing on organic growth opportunities;
- providing superior client service versus peers;
- delivering strong investment performance relative to benchmarks;
- generating above-median revenue growth relative to peer companies;
- increasing the percentage of revenue and income derived from outside the United States;
- maintaining a highly liquid balance sheet with excellent credit quality;
- improving efficiency and reducing operational risk; and
- disciplined capital deployment.

The Basel I Tier 1 capital ratio has been our principal capital measure through 2013 with a targeted ratio of Basel I Tier 1 capital to risk-weighted assets of 10%. Our current target is to maintain our Basel III Tier 1 common equity ratio more than 100 basis points above the regulatory minimum guidelines. We expect to establish a target Basel III Supplementary Leverage ratio when the ongoing rulemaking and commentary process ends and we move closer to implementation.

Key 2013 and subsequent events

Acquisition of HedgeMark International, LLC

On Feb. 24, 2014, BNY Mellon announced that it has signed an agreement to acquire the remaining 65% interest of HedgeMark International, LLC, a current affiliate and a provider of hedge fund managed account and risk analytic services. The deal is expected to close in the second quarter, subject to regulatory approval. BNY Mellon has held a 35% ownership stake in HedgeMark since 2011.

Exit from parallel run period for calculating risk-weighted assets under the advanced approaches rule

On Feb. 21, 2014 the Federal Reserve announced that BNY Mellon had been approved to exit parallel run reporting for U.S. regulatory capital purposes, and will transition from the general risk-based capital rules to the Final Capital Rules' Advanced Approaches, effective starting in the second quarter of 2014, subject to ongoing qualification. We will be required to comply with Advanced Approaches reporting and public disclosures commencing on June 30, 2014. This means, among other things, for purposes of determining whether we meet minimum risk-based capital requirements, starting with the second quarter of 2014 our common equity Tier 1 capital ratio, Tier 1 capital ratio, and total capital ratio will be the lower of that calculated under the general risk-based capital rules (during 2014 these ratios are determined using a Basel III numerator and Basel I risk-weightings) and under the Advanced Approaches rule.

Volcker Rule

On Dec. 10, 2013, final rules to implement the Volcker Rule were adopted. BNY Mellon must conform its covered activities and investments with the final Volcker Rule by July 21, 2015. The Volcker Rule prohibits covered banking organizations, including BNY Mellon, from engaging in proprietary trading and conditionally allows banking organizations to hold or sponsor only certain U.S. and foreign private equity and hedge funds. Ownership interests in covered funds that banking entities organize and offer will be limited to 3% of the total outstanding ownership interests of any individual fund at any time more than one year after the date of its establishment, and with respect to the aggregate value of all such ownership interests in covered funds, 3% of the banking organization's Tier 1 capital. Moreover, beginning in the third quarter of 2015, a banking entity relying on the final Volcker Rule's exemption for sponsoring covered funds will need to deduct from its Tier 1 capital the value of related ownership interests, calculated in accordance with the final rule. For additional information regarding the Volcker Rule, see "Supervision and Regulation".

Proposed rulemaking concerning implementation of minimum liquidity standards

On Oct. 24, 2013, the Federal Reserve approved a notice of proposed rulemaking developed jointly with the Office of the Comptroller of the Currency ("OCC") and the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation ("FDIC") regarding the U.S. implementation of the Basel III liquidity coverage ratio (the "LCR Notice"). The LCR Notice would establish a quantitative liquidity coverage ratio requirement for certain banking organizations, including BNY Mellon, designed to ensure that such organizations maintain an adequate level of unencumbered high-quality liquid assets equal to the entity's expected net cash outflow for a 30-day time horizon under an acute liquidity stress scenario. This proposal was open for comment until Jan. 31, 2014. For additional information regarding the LCR Notice, see "Supervision and Regulation".

Sale of Newton's private client business

On Sept. 27, 2013, Newton Management Limited, together with Newton Investment Management Limited, an investment boutique of BNY Mellon, sold Newton's private client business. At the time of the sale, assets under management related to Newton's private client business totaled $5 billion. We recorded a pre-tax gain of $27 million and an after-tax gain of $5 million related to this transaction.

New risk-based and leverage regulatory capital rules

In July 2013, the U.S. banking agencies finalized rules (the "Final Capital Rules") revising the capital framework applicable to U.S. bank holding companies ("BHCs") and banks. The Final Capital Rules implement Basel III and certain provisions of the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act (the "Dodd-Frank Act" or "Dodd-Frank") for U.S. BHCs and banks (including by redefining the components of capital and establishing higher minimum percentages for applicable capital ratios) and substantially revise the agencies' general risk-based capital rules in a manner designed to make them more risk sensitive. The Final Capital Rules establish a graduated implementation schedule and will be principally phased-in by 2019. In general, the Final Capital Rules largely adhere to the rules as initially proposed in June 2012. Our estimated Basel III Tier 1 common equity ratio (Non-GAAP) calculated under the Standardized Approach and based on our interpretation of the Final Capital Rules, on a fully phased-in basis, was 10.6% at Dec. 31, 2013. For additional information on the Final Capital Rules, see "Capital" and "Supervision and Regulation".

Supplementary leverage ratio proposals

The Final Capital Rules implement, among other things, for Advanced Approaches banking organizations, including the Company, a new Basel III-based supplementary leverage ratio with a minimum of 3%, to become effective Jan. 1, 2018. In addition, the Basel Committee and the U.S. banking agencies are each independently considering potential changes to the supplementary leverage ratio that, individually or taken together, could make it substantially more restrictive. In January 2014, the Basel Committee finalized modifications to the Basel III supplementary leverage ratio. Those modifications would adjust the supplementary leverage ratio's denominator (referred to as the "exposure amount") by making changes to the calculation of the exposure amount attributable to certain derivatives exposures and certain securities financing transactions but would maintain the minimum Tier 1 supplementary leverage ratio requirement of 3%. These changes to the supplementary leverage ratio denominator have not yet been adopted in the U.S.

Separately, on July 9, 2013, the U.S. banking agencies proposed revisions to the supplementary leverage ratio under a notice of proposed rulemaking that would only apply to the largest U.S. BHCs and banks, including BNY Mellon. The July 9 proposal would require BNY Mellon and other bank holding companies that are G-SIBs to maintain a 5% supplementary Tier 1 leverage ratio (comprised of the current minimum requirement of 3% plus a 2% buffer) and require bank subsidiaries of those bank holding companies (including our largest bank subsidiary, The Bank of New York Mellon), in order to qualify as "well capitalized" under the U.S. banking agencies' prompt corrective action framework, to maintain a 6% supplementary Tier 1 leverage ratio. For additional information regarding the supplementary leverage ratio proposals, see "Supervision and Regulation".

Sale of SourceNet Solutions

On May 31, 2013, BNY Mellon sold SourceNet Solutions, our accounts payable outsourcing support services provider that was part of our Investment Services business. The impact of the sale was not significant on net income.

ConvergEx

ConvergEx, an entity in which BNY Mellon has a minority interest, completed a divestiture of its software platform business. As a result of the divestiture and other events, we recognized an after-tax gain of $109 million on our equity investment in April 2013. This gain was offset by an after-tax loss recorded in December 2013 of $115 million related to the write-down of the goodwill in our equity investment in ConvergEx. The net impact of these events resulted in a net loss of $6 million, or less than $0.01 per diluted common share, in 2013.

Capital plan and share repurchase program and dividend increase

In March 2013, BNY Mellon received confirmation that the Federal Reserve did not object to our 2013 capital plan submitted in connection with the Federal Reserve's Comprehensive Capital Analysis and Review ("CCAR"). The board of directors subsequently approved the repurchase of up to $1.35 billion worth of common shares through the first quarter of 2014, including both open market purchases and employee benefit plan repurchases, and a 15% increase in BNY Mellon's quarterly common stock dividend.

In 2013, we repurchased 35.1 million common shares at an average price of $29.24 per common share for a total of $1.03 billion. Through the 2013 capital plan, we are authorized to repurchase $385 million worth of common shares through the first quarter of 2014. Through Feb. 27, 2014, we repurchased 10.6 million common shares at an average price of $32.41 per common share for a total of $345 million.

On April 9, 2013, The Bank of New York Mellon Corporation announced a 15% increase in the quarterly common stock dividend, from $0.13 per share to $0.15 per share.

We submitted our 2014 capital plan on Jan. 6, 2014. The Federal Reserve has indicated it expects to publish its objection or non-objection to the capital plan and proposed capital actions, such as dividend payments and share repurchases, on March 26, 2014. We anticipate announcing our 2014 capital plan shortly thereafter.

U.S. Tax Court rulings

As previously disclosed, on Feb. 11, 2013, the U.S. Tax Court issued a ruling against BNY Mellon upholding the IRS' disallowance of certain foreign tax credits claimed for the 2001 and 2002 tax years. As a result of this ruling, BNY Mellon recorded an $854 million after-tax charge in the first quarter of 2013.

As previously disclosed, on Sept. 23, 2013, the U.S. Tax Court amended its prior ruling. The new ruling increased the interest expense that BNY Mellon could deduct as a valid business expense and excluded certain items from BNY Mellon's taxable income for those years. The combination of these items for all years involved and related interest, increased after-tax income in 2013 by $261 million.

As a result of these rulings by the U.S. Tax Court, BNY Mellon recorded a net after-tax charge of $593 million, or $0.50 per diluted common share, in 2013. The U.S. Tax Court ruling was finalized on Feb. 20, 2014.

Summary of financial results

We reported net income applicable to common shareholders of BNY Mellon of $2.0 billion, or $1.74 per diluted common share in 2013. Excluding the net impact of the U.S. Tax Court's decision related to the disallowance of certain foreign tax credits, net income applicable to common shareholders totaled $2.64 billion, or $2.24 per diluted common share, in 2013 - Non-GAAP. These results compare with $2.4 billion, or $2.03 per diluted common share in 2012 and $2.5 billion, or $2.03 per diluted common share in 2011.

Highlights of 2013 results

- AUC/A totaled $27.6 trillion at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with $26.3 trillion at Dec. 31, 2012. The increase primarily reflects higher market values and net new business. (See the "Investment Services business" beginning on page 24.)
- Assets under management ("AUM"), excluding securities lending assets, totaled a record $1.6 trillion at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with $1.4 trillion at Dec. 31, 2012. The increase primarily resulted from net new business and higher equity market values. (See the "Investment Management business" beginning on page 21).
- Investment services fees totaled $6.8 billion in 2013, an increase of 4% compared with $6.6 billion in 2012. The increase reflects higher core asset servicing fees driven by organic growth and higher market values, higher clearing services fees and higher Depositary Receipts revenue, partially offset by lower Corporate Trust fees reflecting the continued run-off of high margin structured debt securitizations. (See the "Investment Services business" beginning on page 24).

- Investment management and performance fees totaled $3.4 billion in 2013, compared with $3.2 billion in 2012. The increase was driven by higher equity market values, net new business and the full-year impact of the acquisition of the remaining 50% interest in Meriten Investment Management GmbH ("Meriten"), partially offset by the average impact of the stronger U.S. dollar and higher money market fee waivers. (See the "Investment Management business" beginning on page 21).
- Foreign exchange and other trading revenue totaled $674 million in 2013, compared with $692 million in 2012. In 2013, foreign exchange revenue increased 17% year-over-year, driven by higher volumes and volatility. Other trading revenue decreased in 2013 reflecting lower fixed income trading revenue. (See "Fee and other revenue" beginning on page 9).
- Investment income and other revenue totaled $416 million in 2013 compared with $427 million in 2012. The decrease primarily resulted from lower leasing and seed capital gains and a decline in revenue on foreign currency remeasurement, primarily offset by higher equity investment revenue and asset-related gains driven by the pre-tax gain on the sale of Newton's private client business in 2013. (See "Fee and other revenue" beginning on page 9).
- Net interest revenue totaled $3.0 billion in 2013, an increase of $36 million compared with 2012, as a change in the mix of interest-earning assets, lower funding costs and higher average interest-earning assets driven by higher deposits were primarily offset by lower yields. Net interest margin (FTE) was 1.13% in 2013 compared with 1.21% in 2012. The decrease primarily reflects the impact of lower market rates on interest-earning assets, partially offset by a change in the mix of earning assets. (See "Net interest revenue" beginning on page 13).
- The provision for credit losses was a credit of $35 million in 2013 and a credit of $80 million in 2012. The credit in 2013 was primarily driven by a broad improvement in the credit quality of the loan portfolio and a reduction in our qualitative allowance. (See "Asset quality and allowance for credit losses" beginning on page 49).
- Noninterest expense totaled $11.3 billion in 2013, a decrease of $27 million compared with 2012, reflecting lower litigation expense, primarily offset by higher staff, software and our branding initiatives. (See "Noninterest expense" beginning on page 16).
- The provision for income taxes totaled $1.5 billion (40.9% effective tax rate-GAAP) in 2013 and included a net charge of $593 million resulting from the U.S. Tax Court's decisions related to the disallowance of certain foreign tax credits. Excluding the net charge related to the disallowance of certain foreign tax credits, the provision for income taxes totaled $927 million (25.0% effective tax rate) on an operating basis-Non-GAAP. This compares with an income tax provision of $779 million (23.6% effective tax rate) in 2012. (See "Income taxes" on page 18).
- The net unrealized pre-tax gain on our total investment securities portfolio was $309 million at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with $2.4 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. The decrease primarily reflects an increase in long-term interest rates. (See "Investment securities" beginning on page 41).
- At Dec. 31, 2013, our estimated Basel III Tier 1 common equity ratio (Non-GAAP) calculated under the Standardized Approach and based on our interpretation of and expectations regarding the Final Capital Rules, on a fully phased-in basis, was 10.6%. (See "Capital" beginning on page 60).

Results for 2012

In 2012 we reported net income applicable to common shareholders of BNY Mellon of $2.4 billion, or $2.03 per diluted common share. These results were primarily driven by:

- Investment services fees totaled $6.6 billion in 2012 compared with $6.8 billion in 2011. Improved asset servicing revenue, driven by net new business and higher market values, as well as higher clearing and treasury services revenues, was more than offset by the impact of the sale of the Shareowner Services business in the fourth quarter of 2011, lower Depositary Receipts revenue and lower Corporate Trust fees reflecting the continued run-off of high margin structured debt securitizations.
- Investment management and performance fees totaled $3.2 billion in 2012 compared with $3.0 billion in 2011. The increase was driven by higher market values, net new business and higher performance fees.
- Foreign exchange and other trading revenue totaled $692 million in 2012 compared with $848 million in 2011. In 2012, foreign exchange revenue totaled $520 million, a decrease of 32% compared with 2011, driven by a sharp decline in volatility and a modest decrease in volumes. Other trading revenue was $172 million in 2012 compared with $87 million in 2011. The increase was primarily driven by improved fixed income trading revenue.

- The provision for credit losses was a credit of $80 million in 2012 compared with a provision of $1 million in 2011. The credit in 2012 was largely driven by a reduction in the allowance for credit losses related to the residential mortgage loan portfolio.
- Noninterest expense totaled $11.3 billion in 2012 compared with $11.1 billion in 2011. The increase was driven by higher litigation expense and the cost of generating certain tax credits, partially offset by the impact of the sale of Shareowner Services and the impact of our Operational Excellence Initiatives.

Results for 2011

In 2011, we reported net income applicable to common shareholders of BNY Mellon of $2.5 billion, or $2.03 per diluted common share. These results were primarily driven by:

- Investment services fees totaled $6.8 billion reflecting the full-year impact of the acquisitions of Global Investment Servicing ("GIS") on July 1, 2010 and BHF Asset Servicing GmbH ("BAS") on Aug. 2, 2010 (collectively, "the Acquisitions"), and net new business.
- Investment management and performance fees totaled $3.0 billion reflecting net new business and higher average equity markets.
- Foreign exchange and other trading revenue totaled $848 million driven by lower fixed income trading revenue and lower foreign exchange revenue.
- Noninterest expense totaled $11.1 billion reflecting the full-year impact of the Acquisitions, higher staff expense, volume-related expenses and software expense.

(a) Asset servicing fees include securities lending revenue of $155 million in 2013, $198 million in 2012 and $183 million in 2011.

(b) Issuer services fees excluding Shareowner Services were $1,251 million (Non-GAAP) in 2011. The Shareowner Services business was sold on Dec. 31, 2011.

(d) Includes the AUC/A of CIBC Mellon of $1.2 trillion at Dec. 31, 2013 and $1.1 trillion at both Dec. 31, 2012 and Dec. 31, 2011.

Fee and other revenue

Fee and other revenue totaled $11.8 billion in 2013, an increase of 3%, compared with $11.4 billion in 2012. The year-over-year increase was primarily driven by higher investment management revenue, asset servicing revenue and clearing services revenue, partially offset by lower net securities gains, foreign exchange and other trading revenue and distribution and servicing fees.

Investment services fees

Investment services fees were impacted by the following compared with 2012:

- Asset servicing fees increased 3% primarily reflecting organic growth and higher market values, partially offset by lower securities lending revenue primarily driven by narrower spreads.
- Clearing services fees increased 6% primarily driven by higher mutual fund and asset-based fees and clearance revenue reflecting an increase in DARTs, partially offset by higher money market fee waivers.
- Issuer services fees increased 4% primarily reflecting higher Depositary Receipts revenue driven by corporate actions, partially offset by lower money market mutual fund balances and the continued run-off of high margin structured debt securitizations in Corporate Trust. We continue to estimate that the run-off of high margin structured debt securitizations could reduce the Company's total annual revenue by up to one-half of 1% if the structured debt markets do not recover.
- Treasury services fees increased 1% primarily reflecting higher cash management fees.

See the "Investment Services business" in "Review of businesses" for additional details.

Investment management and performance fees

Investment management and performance fees totaled $3.4 billion in 2013, an increase of 7% compared with 2012. The increase was primarily driven by higher equity market values, net new business and the full-year impact of the Meriten acquisition, partially offset by higher money market fee waivers and the average impact of the stronger U.S. dollar. Performance fees were $130 million in 2013 and $136 million in 2012.

Total AUM for the Investment Management business was a record $1.6 trillion at Dec. 31, 2013, compared with $1.4 trillion at Dec. 31, 2012. The increase primarily resulted from net new business and higher equity market values. Long-term inflows in 2013 totaled $95 billion and primarily benefited from liability-driven investments and other fixed-income products, index funds and alternative investments.

See the "Investment Management business" in "Review of businesses" for additional details regarding the drivers of investment management and performance fees.

Foreign exchange and other trading revenue

Foreign exchange and other trading revenue (in millions)	2013	2012	2011
Foreign exchange	$ 608	$ 520	$ 761
Other trading revenue:
Fixed income	38	142	65
Equity/other	28	30	22
Total other trading revenue	66	172	87
Total foreign exchange and other trading revenue	$ 674	$ 692	$ 848

Foreign exchange and other trading revenue decreased $18 million, or 3%, from $692 million in 2012. In 2013, foreign exchange revenue totaled $608 million, an increase of 17% compared with $520 million in 2012. The increase was driven by higher volumes and volatility. Other trading revenue totaled $66 million in 2013, a decrease of 62% compared with 2012. The decrease primarily reflects lower fixed income trading revenue due to lower derivatives trading revenue and a loss on inventory driven by higher interest rates. Foreign exchange revenue and fixed income trading revenue is reported in the Investment Services business and the Other segment. Equity/other trading revenue is primarily reported in the Other segment.

The foreign exchange trading engaged in by the Company generates revenues, which are influenced by the volume of client transactions and the spread realized on these transactions. Revenues are impacted by market pressures which continue to be increasingly competitive. The level of volume and spreads is affected by market volatility, the level of cross-border assets held in custody for clients, the level and nature of underlying cross-border investments and other transactions undertaken by corporate and institutional clients. These revenues also depend on our ability to manage the risk associated with the currency transactions we execute. A substantial majority of our foreign exchange trades are undertaken for our custody clients in transactions where BNY Mellon acts as principal, and not as an agent or broker. As a principal, we earn a profit, if any, based on our ability to risk manage the aggregate foreign currency positions that we buy and sell on a daily basis. Generally speaking, custody clients enter into foreign exchange transactions in one of three ways: negotiated trading with BNY Mellon, BNY Mellon's standing instruction program, or transactions with third-party foreign exchange providers. Negotiated trading generally refers to orders entered by the client or the client's investment manager, with all decisions related to the transaction, usually on a transaction-specific basis, made by the client or its investment manager. Such transactions may be initiated by (i) contacting one of our sales desks to negotiate the rate for specific transactions, (ii) using electronic trading platforms, or (iii) electing other methods such as those pursuant to a benchmarking arrangement, in which pricing is determined by an objective market rate adjusted by a pre-negotiated spread. Our custody clients choose to use third-party foreign exchange providers other than BNY Mellon for a substantial majority of their U.S. dollar-equivalent volume foreign exchange transactions. The preponderance of the notional value of our trading volume with clients is in negotiated trading. Our standing instruction program, including a standing instruction program option called the Defined Spread Offering, which the Company introduced to clients in the first quarter of 2012, provides custody clients and their investment managers with an end-to-end solution that allows them to shift to BNY Mellon the cost, management and execution risk, often in small transactions not otherwise eligible for a more favorable rate or transactions in restricted and difficult to trade currencies. We incur substantial costs in supporting the global operational infrastructure required to administer the standing instruction program; on a per-transaction basis, the costs associated with the standing instruction program exceed the costs associated with negotiated trading. In response to competitive market pressures and client requests, we are continuing to develop standing instruction program products and services and making these new products and services available to our clients. In the first quarter of 2014, we upgraded one of our standard standing instruction programs, known as Session Range. The upgrades include pricing pursuant to pre-defined rules and enhanced post-trade reporting.

With respect to our historical Session Range program, we typically assign a price derived from the daily pricing range for marketable-size foreign exchange transactions (generally more than $1 million) executed between global financial institutions, known as the "interbank range." Using the interbank range for the given day, we typically price purchases of currencies at or near the low end of this range and sales of currencies at or near the high end of this range. A description of the pricing rules used in the upgraded Session Range program is set forth in the program's disclosure documentation, which is available to clients and their investment managers. The standing instruction program Defined Spread Offering prices transactions in each pricing cycle (several times a day in the case of developed market currencies) by adding a predetermined spread to an objective market source for developed and certain emerging market currencies or to a reference rate computed by BNY Mellon for other emerging market currencies.

A shift by custody clients from the standing instruction program to other trading options combined with competitive market pressures on the foreign exchange business may negatively impact our foreign exchange revenue. We continue to invest in our foreign exchange trading and execution capabilities, which is leading towards enhanced customer service and higher volumes. For the year ended Dec. 31, 2013, our total revenue for all types of foreign exchange trading transactions was $608 million, or approximately 4% of our total revenue and approximately 41% of our foreign exchange revenue resulted from foreign exchange transactions undertaken through our standing instruction program.

Distribution and servicing fees

Distribution and servicing fee revenue earned from mutual funds are primarily based on average assets in the funds and the sales of funds that we manage or administer and are primarily reported in the Investment Management business. These fees, which include 12b-1 fees, fluctuate with the overall level of net sales, the relative mix of sales between share classes, the funds' market values and money market fee waivers.

The $12 million decrease in distribution and servicing fee revenue compared with 2012 primarily reflects higher money market fee waivers and the average impact of the stronger U.S. dollar. The impact of distribution and servicing fees on income in any one period is partially offset by distribution and servicing expense paid to other financial intermediaries to cover their costs for distribution and servicing of mutual funds. Distribution and servicing expense is recorded as noninterest expense on the income statement.

Financing-related fees

Financing-related fees, which are primarily reported in the Other segment, include capital markets fees, loan commitment fees and credit-related fees. Financing-related fees totaled $172 million in both 2013 and 2012.

Investment and other income, which is primarily reported in the Other segment and Investment Management business, includes revenue from insurance contracts, equity investments, asset-related gains, expense reimbursements from our CIBC Mellon joint venture, seed capital gains, lease residual gains, transitional services agreements, gains and losses on private equity investments, and other income and loss. Asset-related gains include loan, real estate and other asset dispositions. Expense reimbursements from our CIBC Mellon joint venture relate to expenses incurred by BNY Mellon on behalf of the CIBC Mellon joint venture. Transitional services agreements primarily relate to the Shareowner Services business, which was sold on Dec. 31, 2011. Other income (loss) primarily includes foreign currency remeasurement gain (loss), other investments and various miscellaneous revenues. The $11 million decrease in investment and other income compared with 2012 primarily resulted from lower lease residual and seed capital gains and lower revenue on foreign currency remeasurement, partially offset by higher equity investment revenue, as well as asset-related gains related to the sale of Newton's private client business.

Net securities gains

Net securities gains totaled $141 million in 2013 compared with $162 million in 2012. The low interest rate environment in 2013 created the opportunity for us to realize gains as we rebalanced and managed the duration risk of the investment securities portfolio.

Fee and other revenue totaled $11.4 billion in 2012 compared with $11.5 billion in 2011. The decrease primarily reflects the impact of the sale of the Shareowner Services business.

Fee and other revenue was also impacted by the following:

- Investment services fees decreased 4% compared with 2011 reflecting the impact of lower issuer services fees driven by lower Depository Receipts revenue and lower Corporate Trust fees partially offset by an increase in asset servicing fees, clearing services fees, and treasury services fees.
- Investment management and performance fees increased 6% primarily reflecting higher market values, net new business, higher performance fees and the Meriten acquisition.
- Foreign exchange and other trading revenue decreased 18%. Foreign exchange revenue decreased 32% driven by a sharp decline in volatility and a modest decrease in volumes. Other trading revenue increased 98% due to improved fixed income trading revenue.
- Net securities gains totaled $162 million in 2012 compared with $48 million in 2011.

Net interest revenue

Net interest revenue (dollars in millions)	2013	2012	2011	2013 vs. 2012	2012 vs. 2011

Net interest margin (FTE)	1.13%	1.21%	1.36%	(8) bps	(15) bps

Net interest revenue of $3.0 billion in 2013 increased $36 million compared with 2012 as a change in the mix of interest-earning assets, lower funding costs and higher average interest-earning assets driven by higher deposits were primarily offset by lower yields.

The net interest margin (FTE) was 1.13% in 2013 compared with 1.21% in 2012. The decline in the net interest margin (FTE) primarily reflects the impact of lower market rates on higher interest-earning assets, partially offset by a change in the mix of earning assets.

Average interest-earning assets were $273 billion in 2013, compared with $250 billion in 2012. The increase primarily reflects higher client deposits and uncertainty in the global marketplace. Average total securities increased to $108 billion in 2013, up from $99 billion in 2012, reflecting our strategy to invest in high-quality investment securities. Average loans increased to $48 billion in 2013, up from $43 billion in 2012, primarily driven by higher non-margin loans. Average interest-bearing deposits with the Federal Reserve and other central banks increased to $67 billion in 2013, up from $64 billion in 2012, reflecting higher client deposits.

Net interest revenue totaled $3.0 billion in 2012, a decrease of $11 million compared with 2011, as higher average assets driven by growth in client deposits, increased investment in high quality investment securities and higher loan levels, were more than offset by narrower spreads, lower accretion, the elimination of interest on European Central Bank deposits and lower yields on the reinvestment of securities. The net interest margin (FTE) was 1.21% in 2012 compared with 1.36% in 2011. The decline was primarily driven by lower reinvestment yields, the elimination of interest on European Central Bank deposits, lower accretion, and increased client deposits which were invested in lower-yielding assets.

Total noninterest expense excluding amortization of intangible assets and M&I, litigation and restructuring charges - Non-GAAP	$ 10,894	$ 10,390	$ 10,294		5 %	1 %

(a) Total noninterest expense excluding Shareowner Services was $10,923 million (Non-GAAP) in 2011. The Shareowner Services business was sold on Dec. 31, 2011.

Total noninterest expense decreased $27 million compared with 2012, primarily reflecting lower litigation expense, partially offset by higher staff, software, business development, net occupancy and consulting expenses. Excluding amortization of intangible assets and M&I, litigation and restructuring charges, noninterest expense increased 5% compared with 2012.

We continue to invest in our Compliance, Risk and other control functions in light of increasing regulatory requirements. Accordingly, our expenses are continuing to increase in those areas as a result of the need to hire additional staff and advisors and to enhance our technology platforms.

Staff expense

Given our mix of fee-based businesses, which are staffed with high-quality professionals, staff expense comprised 55% of total noninterest expense in both 2013 and 2012, excluding amortization of intangible assets and M&I, litigation and restructuring charges.

Staff expense is comprised of:

- compensation expense, which includes:
  - salary expense, primarily driven by headcount;
  - the cost of temporary services and overtime; and
  - severance expense;
- incentive expense, which includes:
  - additional compensation earned under a wide range of sales commission and incentive plans designed to reward a combination of individual, business unit and corporate performance goals; as well as,
  - stock-based compensation expense; and
- employee benefit expense, primarily medical benefits, payroll taxes, pension and other retirement benefits.

Staff expense was $6.0 billion in 2013, an increase of 4% compared with 2012. The increase in staff expense was primarily driven by higher incentive expense as a result of higher pre-tax income, higher compensation expense reflecting the continued investment in our business, and higher employee benefits primarily resulting from increased pension expense.

Non-staff expense

Non-staff expense includes certain expenses that vary with the levels of business activity and levels of expensed business investments, fixed infrastructure costs and expenses associated with corporate activities related to technology, compliance, legal, productivity initiatives and business development.

Non-staff expense, excluding amortization of intangible assets and M&I, litigation and restructuring charges, totaled $4.9 billion in 2013, an increase of 5% compared with 2012. The increase primarily reflects higher software, business development, net occupancy, consulting and other expenses. Increased software was driven by enhancements to our technology platforms and periodic reimbursable customer technology expenses. Reimbursement for these expenses is included in fee revenue. The higher business development expense resulted from our corporate branding investments and other marketing initiatives. The increase in net occupancy expense resulted from costs related to our global footprint and New York City real estate initiative. Any benefits resulting from these initiatives will be realized in future periods. The higher consulting expense was driven by regulatory/ compliance requirements in support of business initiatives. The increase in other expense resulted from a provision for administrative errors in certain off-shore tax-exempt funds and higher regulatory costs, partially offset by a decrease in the cost of generating certain tax credits.

In 2013, we incurred $70 million of M&I, litigation and restructuring charges compared with $559 million in 2012. The decrease reflects lower litigation expense. A majority of the litigation expense in 2012 related to the Sigma and Medical Capital Corp. settlements.

The financial services industry has seen a continuing increase in the level of litigation and enforcement activity. As a result, we anticipate our legal and litigation costs to continue at elevated levels. For additional information on our legal proceedings, see Note 22 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements.

In 2013, we recorded $45 million in restructuring charges, reflecting additional severance charges. For additional information on restructuring charges, see Note 11 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements.

Noninterest expense was $11.3 billion in 2012, an increase of $221 million, or 2%, compared with 2011. The increase primarily reflects higher litigation expense, higher variable costs, the cost of generating certain tax credits in 2012, higher software amortization, employee benefits expense and business development expense, the impact of the Meriten acquisition and the benefit of state tax credits which were recorded in 2011. Partially offsetting these increases was the impact of the sale of the Shareowner Services business and savings from our Operational Excellence Initiatives.

Operational Excellence Initiatives update

Gross savings (b)	$ 636	$ 500 - $ 520
Incremental program expenses to achieve goals (c)	$ 58	$ 70 - $ 90

(a) Targeted program savings were expected to be $650 million - $700 million by the end of 2014.

(b) Represents the estimated pre-tax run rate expense savings since program inception in 2011. Total Company actual operating expense may increase or decrease due to other factors.

(c) Program costs include incremental costs to plan and execute the programs including dedicated program managers, consultants, severance and other costs. Program costs may include restructuring expenses, where applicable.

In 2013, we achieved savings of $716 million on a run-rate basis in the fourth quarter of 2013. In 2013, we achieved the following operational excellence initiatives:

- Realized savings from business restructuring, management rationalization and vendor management in Investment Services.
- Realized savings from reengineering activities relating to Investment Boutique restructurings and Dreyfus back office operations consolidations.

- Realized savings from continued insourcing of third-party contract developers to our Global Delivery Centers and staffing efficiencies in the Technology organization.
- Realized savings from optimizing internal technology platforms used by employees.
- Executed an enhanced procurement process to reduce operating expenses.
- Continued global footprint position migrations.
- Lowered operating costs as we continued job migrations to the new Eastern European Global Delivery Center and our existing Global Delivery Centers.
- Consolidated offices and reduced real estate by an additional 250,000 square feet, primarily in the New York Metro region.
- Moved the New York-based treasury and trading operations from leased space in December 2013 and January 2014 and consolidated into an owned building in downtown Manhattan, which will facilitate future savings.

Income taxes

BNY Mellon recorded an income tax provision of $1,520 million (40.9% effective tax rate) in 2013 including a net charge of $593 million resulting from the U.S. Tax Court's decisions related to the disallowance of certain foreign tax credits. Excluding the net charge related to the disallowance of certain foreign tax credits, the provision for income taxes totaled $927 million (25.0% effective tax rate) on an operating basis - Non-GAAP. This compares with $779 million (23.6% effective tax rate) in 2012 and $1.0 billion (29.0% effective tax rate) in 2011.

See "Supplemental information - Explanation of GAAP and Non-GAAP financial measures" beginning on page 118 for additional information.

We expect the effective tax rate to be approximately 26% in the first quarter of 2014.

We have an internal information system that produces performance data along product and service lines for our two principal businesses and the Other segment.

Business accounting principles

Our business data has been determined on an internal management basis of accounting, rather than the generally accepted accounting principles used for consolidated financial reporting. These measurement principles are designed so that reported results of the businesses will track their economic performance.

For information on the accounting principles of our businesses, the primary types of revenue by business and how our businesses are presented and analyzed, see Note 24 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements.

Business results are subject to reclassification whenever improvements are made in the measurement principles or when organizational changes are made.

The results of our businesses may be influenced by client activities that vary by quarter. In the second quarter, we typically experience an increase in securities lending fees due to an increase in demand to borrow securities outside of the United States. In the third quarter, Depositary Receipts revenue is typically higher due to an increased level of client dividend payments paid in the quarter. Also in the third quarter, volume-related fees may decline due to reduced client activity. In the fourth quarter, we typically incur higher business development and marketing expenses. In our Investment Management business, performance fees are typically higher in the fourth quarter, as the fourth quarter represents the end of the measurement period for many of the performance fee-eligible relationships.

Net securities gains (losses) are recorded in the Other segment. M&I expense is a corporate-level item and is recorded in the Other segment. Beginning in the fourth quarter of 2013, restructuring charges were recorded in the businesses. Prior to the fourth quarter of 2013, restructuring charges were reported in the Other segment.

The results of our businesses in 2013 were driven by the following factors. The Investment Management business benefited from higher market values and net new business. Results in the Investment Services business benefited from increased core asset servicing fees driven by organic growth and higher market values, mutual fund and asset-based fees and clearance revenue reflecting an increase in DARTS, higher Depositary Receipts revenue and higher foreign exchange and other trading revenue, partially offset by the continued run-off of high margin structured debt securitizations in Corporate Trust.

Net interest revenue increased as a change in the mix of interest-earning assets and higher average interest-earning assets were primarily offset by the continued impact of the low interest rate environment.

Noninterest expense decreased slightly compared with 2012 as a result of lower litigation expense, partially offset by higher staff, software and business development expenses.

The following table presents the value of certain market indices at period end and on an average basis.

Fee revenue in Investment Management, and to a lesser extent in Investment Services, is impacted by the value of market indices. At Dec. 31, 2013, using the Standard & Poor's ("S&P") 500 Index as a proxy for the global equity markets, we estimate that a 100-point change in the value of the S&P 500 Index spread evenly throughout the year, would impact fee revenue by less than 1% and diluted earnings per common share by $0.02 to $0.04. If however, global equity markets do not perform in line with the S&P 500 Index, the impact to fee revenue and earnings per share could be different.

The following consolidating schedules show the contribution of our businesses to our overall profitability.

Business description

Our Investment Management business is comprised of our affiliated investment management boutiques, wealth management business and global distribution companies.

Our Investment Management business is responsible, through various subsidiaries, for institutional, intermediary, retirement and retail investment management, distribution and related services across North America, EMEA and Asia-Pacific. The investment management boutiques offer a broad range of equity, fixed income, cash and alternative/ overlay products. In addition to the investment subsidiaries, this business includes BNY Mellon Investment Management EMEA Limited, BNY Mellon Investment Management Hong Kong and BNY Mellon Investment Management Singapore, which are responsible for the investment management and distribution of locally registered products, and the Dreyfus Corporation and its affiliates, which are responsible for U.S. investment management and distribution of retail mutual funds, separately managed accounts and annuities. We are one of the world's largest asset managers with a top-10 position in the U.S., Europe and globally.

Through BNY Mellon Wealth Management, we offer a full array of investment management, wealth and estate planning and private banking solutions to help clients protect, grow and transfer their wealth. We provide these services through an extensive network of offices in the U.S. and select locations around the world. Clients include high-net-worth individuals and families, family offices, charitable gift programs, endowments and foundations. BNY Mellon Wealth Management is ranked as the nation's seventh largest wealth manager.

The results of the Investment Management business are driven by the period-end, average level and mix of assets managed and the level of activity in client accounts. The overall level of AUM for a given period is determined by:

- the beginning level of AUM;
- the net flows of new assets during the period resulting from new business wins and existing client enrichments, reduced by the loss of clients and withdrawals; and
- the impact of market price appreciation or depreciation, the impact of any acquisitions or divestitures and foreign exchange rates.

The mix of AUM is determined principally by client asset allocation decisions among equities, fixed income, money market and alternative investments and overlay products.

Managed equity assets typically generate higher percentage fees than money market and fixed-income assets. Also, actively managed assets typically generate higher management fess than indexed or passively managed assets of the same type.

Management fees are typically subject to fee schedules based on the overall level of assets managed for a single client or by individual asset class and style. This is most prevalent for institutional assets where amounts we manage for individual clients are typically large.

A key driver of organic growth in investment management and performance fees is the amount of net new AUM flows. Overall market conditions are also key drivers, with a significant long-term economic driver being growth of global financial assets.

Performance fees are generally calculated as a percentage of a portfolio's performance in excess of a benchmark index or a peer group's performance.

Net interest revenue is determined by loan and deposit volumes and the interest rate spread between customer rates and internal funds transfer rates on loans and deposits. Expenses in this business are mainly driven by staffing costs, incentives and distribution and servicing expense.

Review of financial results

Investment management and performance fees are dependent on the overall level and mix of AUM and the management fees expressed in basis points (one-hundredth of one percent) charged for managing those assets. Assets under management were $1.6 trillion at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with $1.4 trillion at Dec. 31, 2012, an increase of 14%. The increase primarily resulted from net new business and higher equity market values. Net long-term inflows were $95 billion in 2013 and benefited from liability-driven investments and other fixed-income products, index funds and alternative investments. Net short-term inflows were $5 billion in 2013.

Revenue generated in the Investment Management business included 46% from non-U.S. sources in 2013 compared with 45% in 2012.

In 2013, Investment Management had pre-tax income of $994 million compared with $910 million in 2012. Excluding amortization of intangible assets, pre-tax income increased $40 million in 2013 compared with 2012. Investment Management results for 2013 reflect higher equity market values, net new business, the impact of the Meriten acquisition and the pre-tax gain on the sale of Newton's private client business, partially offset by higher money market fee waivers and the average impact of the stronger U.S. dollar.

Investment management fees in the Investment Management business were $3.3 billion in 2013 compared with $3.1 billion in 2012. The increase was primarily driven by higher equity market values, net new business and the impact of the Meriten acquisition, partially offset by higher money market fee waivers and the average impact of the stronger U.S. dollar.

Performance fees were $130 million in 2013 compared with $137 million in 2012. Performance across a range of strategies generated positive returns, which were primarily offset with exceptional performance fees generated on liability-driven investments in 2012.

In 2013, 36% of investment management fees in the Investment Management business were generated from managed mutual fund fees. These fees are based on the daily average net assets of each fund and the management fee paid by that fund. Managed mutual fund fee revenue increased 6% in 2013 compared with 2012. The increase primarily reflects higher equity market values and net new business.

Distribution and servicing fees were $172 million in 2013 compared with $187 million in 2012. The decrease primarily reflects higher money market fee waivers and the average impact of the stronger U.S. dollar.

Other fee revenue was $142 million in 2013 compared with $130 million in 2012. The increase resulted from the pre-tax gain on the sale of Newton's private client business.

Net interest revenue was $260 million in 2013 compared with $214 million in 2012. The increase primarily resulted from higher average loans and deposits. Average loans increased 18% in 2013 compared with 2012, while average deposits increased 22% in 2013 compared with 2012.

Noninterest expense excluding amortization of intangible assets was $2.8 billion in 2013 compared with $2.6 billion in 2012. The increase primarily reflects higher incentive expense driven by improved results, the impact of the Meriten acquisition, investments in strategic initiatives and the annual employee merit increase.

Income before taxes totaled $910 million in 2012 compared with $703 million in 2011. Income before taxes (excluding intangible amortization) was $1.1 billion in 2012 compared with $916 million in 2011. Fee and other revenue increased $264 million compared to 2011, primarily due to higher market values, net new business in both the investment management boutiques and wealth management business, higher seed capital gains and higher performance fees. Net interest revenue increased $10 million compared to 2011 primarily as a result of higher average loan and deposit levels, partially offset by narrower spreads and lower accretion. Noninterest expense (excluding intangible amortization) increased $89 million compared to 2011, primarily due to higher incentives expense resulting from an increase in performance fees, the annual employee merit increase, the Meriten acquisition and higher business development expenses.

Business description

Our Investment Services business provides global custody and related services, broker-dealer services, global collateral services, corporate trust and depositary receipt and clearing services, as well as global payment/working capital solutions to global financial institutional clients.

Our comprehensive suite of financial solutions includes: global custody, global fund services, securities lending, investment manager outsourcing, performance and risk analytics, alternative investment services, securities clearance, collateral management, corporate trust, American and global depositary receipt programs, cash management solutions, payment services, liquidity services and other linked revenues, principally foreign exchange, global clearing and execution, managed account services and global prime brokerage solutions. Our clients include corporations, public funds and government agencies, foundations and endowments; global financial institutions including banks, broker-dealers, asset managers, insurance companies and central banks; financial intermediaries and independent registered investment advisors; and hedge fund managers. We help our clients service their financial assets through a network of offices and operations centers in 35 countries across six continents.

The results of this business are driven by a number of factors, which include: the level of transaction activity; the range of services provided, including custody, accounting, fund administration, daily valuations, performance measurement and risk analytics, securities lending, and investment manager back-office outsourcing; the number of accounts; and the market value of assets under custody and/or administration. Market interest rates impact both securities lending revenue and the earnings on client deposit balances. Business expenses are driven by staff, technology investment, equipment and space required to support the services provided by the business and the cost of execution, clearance and custody of securities.

We are one of the leading global securities servicing providers with $27.6 trillion of AUC/A at Dec. 31, 2013. We are the largest custodian for U.S. corporate and public pension plans and we service 46% of the top 50 endowments. We are a leading custodian in the UK and service 20% of UK pensions that require a custodian. Globalization tends to drive cross-border investment and capital flows, which increases the opportunity to provide solutions to our clients. The changing regulatory environment is also driving demand for new products and services among clients.

BNY Mellon is a leader in both global securities and U.S. Government securities clearance. We settle securities transactions in over 100 markets and handle most of the transactions cleared through the Federal Reserve Bank of New York for 17 of the 21 primary dealers. We are a leader in servicing tri-party repo collateral with approximately $2 trillion globally. We currently service approximately $1.3 trillion of the $1.6 trillion tri-party repo market in the U.S.

BNY Mellon offers tri-party collateral agency services to dealers and cash investors active in the tri-party repurchase, or repo, market. We currently have approximately 84% of the market share of the U.S. tri-party repo market. As agent, we facilitate settlement between dealers (cash borrowers) and investors (cash lenders). Our involvement in a transaction commences after a dealer and investor agree to a tri-party repo trade and send instructions to us. We maintain custody of the collateral (the subject securities of the repo), monitor the eligibility and sufficiency of the collateral, and execute the payment and delivery instructions agreed to and provided by the principals.

BNY Mellon continues to work to significantly reduce the risk associated with the secured intraday credit it provides to dealers with respect to their tri-party repo trades. BNY Mellon has implemented several important measures in that regard, including reducing the amount of time during which we extend intraday credit, implementing three-way trade confirmations, reducing the amount of credit provided in connection with processing collateral substitutions, introducing a functionality that enables us to "roll" maturing trades into new trades without extending credit, and requiring dealers to prefund their repayment obligations in connection with trades collateralized by DTC sourced securities. Additionally, in 2013, we limited the collateral eligible to secure intraday credit to certain more liquid asset classes, resulting in a reduction of exposures secured by less liquid forms of collateral. We anticipate that the combination of these measures will have reduced risks substantially in our tri-party repo activity in the near term and, together with technology enhancements currently in development, will achieve the practical elimination (defined as a 90% reduction) of intraday credit related to tri-party repo processing by the end of 2014.

These efforts are consistent with the recommendations of the Tri-Party Repo Infrastructure Reform Task Force (the "Task Force") that was sponsored by the Payment Risk Committee of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and included representatives from a diverse group of market participants, including BNY Mellon.

Since May 2010, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York has released monthly reports on the tri-party repo market, including information on aggregate volumes of collateral used in all tri-party repo transactions by asset class, concentrations, and margin levels, which are available at http://www.newyorkfed.org/banking/tpr_infr_reform.html.

In 2012, we formed Global Collateral Services which serves broker-dealers and institutional investors facing expanding collateral management needs as a result of current and emerging regulatory and market requirements. Role of BNY Mellon, as a trustee, for mortgage-backed securitizations

BNY Mellon acts as trustee and document custodian for certain mortgage-backed security ("MBS") securitization trusts. The role of trustee for MBS securitizations is limited; our primary role as trustee is to calculate and distribute monthly bond payments to bondholders. As a document custodian, we hold the mortgage, note, and related documents provided to us by the loan originator or seller and provide periodic reporting to these parties. BNY Mellon, either as document custodian or trustee, does not receive mortgage underwriting files (the files that contain information related to the creditworthiness of the borrower). As trustee or custodian, we have no responsibility or liability for the quality of the portfolio; we are liable only for performance of our limited duties as described above and in the trust documents. BNY Mellon is indemnified by the servicers or directly from trust assets under the governing agreements. BNY Mellon may appear as the named plaintiff in legal actions brought by servicers in foreclosure and other related proceedings because the trustee is the nominee owner of the mortgage loans within the trusts.

Review of financial results

AUC/A at Dec. 31, 2013 were $27.6 trillion, an increase of 5% from $26.3 trillion at Dec. 31, 2012. The increase was primarily driven by higher market values and net new business. AUC/A were comprised of 36% equity securities and 64% fixed income securities at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with 33% equity securities and 67% fixed income securities at Dec. 31, 2012.

Income before taxes was $2.8 billion in 2013 compared with $2.2 billion in 2012. Income before taxes, excluding amortization of intangible assets, was $2.9 billion in 2013 compared with $2.4 billion in 2012. The increase compared with 2012 reflects higher asset servicing and clearing services fees and higher foreign exchange revenue, higher net interest revenue and lower litigation expense.

Revenue generated in the Investment Services business included 35% from non-U.S. sources in 2013 compared with 36% in 2012.

Investment services fees increased $263 million, or 4%, in 2013 compared with 2012 reflecting the following factors:

- Asset servicing fees (global custody, broker-dealer services and global collateral services) were $3.8 billion in 2013 compared with $3.7 billion in 2012. The increase primarily reflects higher core asset servicing fees driven by organic growth and higher market values, partially offset by lower securities lending revenue primarily driven by narrower spreads.
- Clearing services fees were $1.3 billion in 2013 compared with $1.2 billion in 2012. The increase was driven by higher mutual fund and asset-based fees and clearance revenue reflecting an increase in DARTs, partially offset by higher money market fee waivers.
- Issuer services fees (Corporate Trust and Depositary Receipts) were $1.1 billion in 2013, compared with $1.0 billion in 2012. The increase primarily resulted from higher Depositary Receipts revenue driven by corporate actions, partially offset by lower money market mutual fund balances and the continued run-off of high margin structured debt securitizations in Corporate Trust.
- Treasury services fees were $544 million in 2013 compared with $527 million in 2012. The increase primarily reflects higher cash management fees.

Foreign exchange and other trading revenue totaled $687 million in 2013, compared with $641 million in 2012. The increase was primarily driven by higher volumes and volatility.

Net interest revenue was $2.5 billion in 2013 compared with $2.4 billion in 2012, primarily reflecting higher average loans and deposits.

Noninterest expense, excluding amortization of intangible assets, was $7.2 billion in 2013, compared with $7.4 billion in 2012. The decrease primarily resulted from lower litigation expense, partially offset by higher staff, software and volume-driven expenses, as well as higher consulting expense driven by regulatory/compliance requirements and business initiatives.

Income before taxes totaled $2.2 billion in 2012 compared with $3.0 billion in 2011. Income before taxes, excluding intangible amortization,was $2.4 billion in 2012 compared with $3.2 billion in 2011. Fee and other revenue decreased $288 million reflecting lower foreign exchange revenue, Depositary Receipts revenue and Corporate Trust fees, partially offset by higher asset servicing fees driven by net new business, higher market values and higher clearing services revenue reflecting higher mutual fund fees and cash management balances. Net interest revenue decreased $128 million compared with 2011, primarily reflecting lower accretion and narrower spreads, partially offset by higher average customer deposits. Noninterest expense, excluding amortization of intangible assets, increased $367 million compared with 2011. The increase primarily resulted from higher litigation expense and higher software amortization expenses, partially offset by volume-driven expenses and the impact of the Operational Excellence Initiatives.

- a 33.9% equity interest in ConvergEx;
- business exits, including the results of the Shareowner Services business in 2011; and

- gains (losses) associated with the valuation of investment securities and other assets.

Review of financial results

The Other segment had a pre-tax loss of $114 million in 2013 compared with pre-tax income of $98 million in 2012.

Total fee and other revenue decreased $103 million compared with 2012. The decrease primarily reflects lower fixed income trading revenue due to lower derivatives trading revenue and a loss on inventory driven by higher interest rates, lower leasing and securities gains and lower foreign currency remeasurement, partially offset by higher equity investment revenue driven by a gain on the sale of a property.

Net interest revenue decreased $84 million compared with 2012. The decrease primarily reflects increases to the internal credit rates to the businesses for domestic deposits in 2013.

The provision for credit losses was a credit of $36 million in 2013 primarily driven by a broad improvement in the credit quality of the loan portfolio and a reduction in our qualitative allowance.

Noninterest expense (excluding amortization of intangible assets) decreased $17 million in 2013 compared with 2012. The decrease primarily reflects lower M&I expense and a decrease in the cost of generating certain tax credits, partially offset by higher restructuring charges, net occupancy expense, pension expense and higher business development expenses related to our corporate branding investment.

Income before taxes totaled $98 million in 2012 compared with a pre-tax loss of $127 million in 2011. Total revenue decreased $59 million in 2012 compared with 2011, primarily reflecting the impact of the sale of the Shareowner Services business in 2011 and lower gains on loans held-for-sale retained from a previously divested bank subsidiary, partially offset by higher net interest revenue, net securities gains and fixed income trading revenue. Noninterest expense, excluding amortization of intangible assets, decreased $191 million in 2012 compared with 2011. The decrease was driven by the impact of the sale of the Shareowner Services business and lower restructuring charges, partially offset by the costs of certain tax credits in 2012 and the benefit of state investment tax credits received in 2011.

At Dec. 31, 2013, our international operations managed 42% of BNY Mellon's AUM compared with 41% at Dec. 31, 2012. The increase primarily resulted from higher market values and net new business.

In 2013, BNY Mellon CSD SA/NV received regulatory approval as a designated securities settlement system and issuer central securities depository based in Belgium. BNY Mellon CSD SA/NV will help integrate and simplify settlement and safekeeping services across Europe for the benefit of our customers.

In Europe, we maintain a significant presence in the Undertakings for Collective Investment in Transferable Securities Directives ("UCITS") servicing field. Revenue generated in the Investment Services business includes 35% from non-U.S. sources in 2013 compared with 36% in 2012.

Our financial results, as well as our level of AUM and AUC/A, are impacted by the translation of financial results denominated in foreign currencies to the U.S. dollar. We are primarily impacted by activities denominated in the British pound and the Euro. If the U.S. dollar depreciates against these currencies, the translation impact is a higher level of fee revenue, net interest revenue, noninterest expense and AUM and AUC/A. Conversely, if the U.S. dollar appreciates, the translated levels of fee revenue, net interest revenue, noninterest expense and AUM and AUC/A will be lower.

The increase in 2013 primarily reflects higher investment management revenue, partially offset by lower asset servicing and Corporate Trust revenue. Investment Services generated 62% and Investment Management generated 37% of EMEA revenues. Net income from EMEA was $822 million in 2013 compared with $761 million in 2012 and $867 million in 2011.

The increase in 2013 primarily resulted from higher equity investment revenue, partially offset by lower investment management revenue. Revenue from APAC in 2013 was generated by Investment Services 67%, Investment Management 23% and the Other segment 10%. Net income from APAC was $399 million in 2013 compared with $349 million in 2012 and $325 million in 2011.

Exposure in Ireland, Italy, Spain, Portugal and Greece

The following tables present our on- and off-balance sheet exposure in Ireland, Italy and Spain at Dec. 31, 2013 and Dec. 31, 2012. We have provided expanded disclosure on these countries as they have experienced particular market focus on credit quality and are countries experiencing economic concerns. Where appropriate, we are offsetting the risk associated with the gross exposure in these countries with collateral that has been pledged, which primarily consists of cash or marketable securities, or by transferring the risk to a third-party guarantor in another country.

BNY Mellon has a limited economic interest in the performance of assets of consolidated investment management funds, and therefore they are excluded from this presentation. The liabilities of consolidated investment management funds represent the interest of the noteholders of the funds and are solely dependent on the value of the assets of the funds. Any loss in the value of assets of consolidated investment management funds would be incurred by the fund's noteholders.

At Dec. 31, 2013, BNY Mellon had exposure of less than $1 million in both Portugal and in Greece. At Dec. 31, 2012, BNY Mellon had exposure of less than $1 million in Portugal and no exposure in Greece. Additionally, BNY Mellon had no sovereign exposure to the countries disclosed below at Dec. 31, 2012.

Our exposure in Ireland is principally related to Irish-domiciled investment funds. Servicing provided to these funds and fund families may result in overdraft exposure. See "Risk management" for additional information on how our exposures are managed. Exposure in the tables below reflect the country of operations and risk of the immediate counterparty.

Cross-border risk

Foreign assets are subject to the general risks attendant on the conduct of business in each foreign country, including economic uncertainties and each foreign government's regulations. In addition, our foreign assets may be affected by changes in demand or pricing resulting from fluctuations in currency exchange rates or other factors. Cross-border outstandings include loans, acceptances, interest-bearing deposits with other banks, other interest-bearing investments, and other monetary assets which are denominated in U.S. dollars or other non-local currency. Also included are local currency outstandings not hedged or funded by local borrowings.

The table below shows our cross-border outstandings for the last three years where cross-border exposure exceeds 1.00% of total assets (denoted with "*") or exceeds 0.75% but less than or equal to 1.00% of total assets (denoted with "").

Emerging markets exposure

We determine our emerging markets exposures using the MSCI Emerging Markets (EM) IMI Index. Our emerging markets exposures totaled $15 billion at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with $11 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. The increase in emerging markets exposure was primarily driven by higher global trade finance loans with banks located in China.

Critical accounting estimates

Our significant accounting policies are described in Note 1 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements under "Summary of significant accounting and reporting policies". Our critical accounting estimates are those related to the allowance for loan losses and allowance for lending-related commitments, fair value of financial instruments and derivatives, other-than-temporary impairment, goodwill and other intangibles, and pension accounting. Further information on policies related to the allowance for loan losses and allowance for lending-related commitments can be found under "Summary of significant accounting and reporting policies" in Note 1 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements. Additionally, further information can be found in the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements related to the following: the valuation of derivatives and securities where quoted market prices are not available can be found under "Fair value measurement" in Note 20; information on other-than-temporary impairment can be found in "Securities" in Note 4; policies related to goodwill and intangible assets can be found in "Goodwill and intangible assets" in Note 6; and information on pensions can be found in "Employee benefit plans" in Note 18.

Allowance for loan losses and allowance for lending-related commitments

The allowance for loan losses and allowance for lending-related commitments represent management's estimate of probable losses inherent in our credit portfolio. This evaluation process is subject to numerous estimates and judgments.

We utilize a quantitative methodology and qualitative framework for determining the allowance for loan losses and the allowance for lending-related commitments. Within this qualitative framework, management applies judgment when assessing internal risk factors and environmental factors to compute an additional allowance for each component of the loan portfolio.

The three elements of the allowance for loan losses and the allowance for lending-related commitments include the qualitative allowance framework. The three elements are:

- an allowance for impaired credits of $1 million or greater;
- an allowance for higher risk-rated credits and pass-rated credits; and
- an allowance for residential mortgage loans.

Our lending is primarily to institutional customers. As a result, our loans are generally larger than $1 million. Therefore, the first element, impaired credits, is based on individual analysis of all impaired loans of $1 million or greater. The allowance is measured by the difference between the recorded value of impaired loans and their impaired value. Impaired value is either the present value of the expected future cash flows from the borrower, the market value of the loan, or the fair value of the collateral.

The second element, higher risk-rated credits and pass-rated credits, is based on our probable loss model. All loans over $1 million are individually analyzed before being assigned a credit rating. All borrowers are assigned to pools based on their credit rating. The probable loss inherent in each loan in a pool incorporates the borrower's credit rating, loss given default rating and maturity. The loss given default incorporates a recovery expectation and an estimate of the use of the facility at default (usage given default). The borrower's probability of default is derived from the associated credit rating. Borrower ratings are reviewed at least annually and are periodically mapped to third-party databases, including rating agency and default and recovery databases, to ensure ongoing consistency and validity. Higher risk-rated credits are reviewed quarterly. We completed our annual update of the allowance parameters utilized in our probable loss model to calculate the quantitative allowance in the fourth quarter of 2013, which increased the quantitative allowance by $20 million.

The third element, the allowance for residential mortgage loans, is determined by segregating six mortgage pools into delinquency periods ranging from current through foreclosure. Each of these delinquency periods is assigned a probability of default. A specific loss given default is assigned for each mortgage pool. In 2012, BNY Mellon began assigning all residential mortgage pools, except home equity lines of credit, a probability of default and loss given default based on default and loss data derived from our residential mortgage portfolio. Prior to 2012, estimates of probability of default and loss given default factors were based on a combination of external data from third-party databases and internal data. The decision to change was triggered when five years of historical data became available in 2012. The use of internal historical data provides a better estimate of the allowance, given that it is based on actual default and loss experience on our residential mortgage portfolio. The use of internal historical default and loss data resulted in a credit to the allowance for credit losses of $51 million in 2012. For each pool, the inherent loss is calculated using the above factors. The resulting probable loss factor (the probability of default multiplied by the loss given default) is applied against the loan balance to determine the allowance held for each pool. For home equity lines of credit, probability of default and loss given default are based on external data from third-party databases due to the small size of the portfolio and insufficient internal data.

The qualitative framework is used to determine an additional allowance for each portfolio based on the factors below:

Internal risk factors:

- Nonperforming loans to total non-margin loans;
- Criticized assets to total loans and lending-related commitments;
- Ratings volatility;
- Borrower concentration; and
- Significant concentration in high risk industries.

Environmental risk factors:

- U.S. non-investment grade default rate;
- Unemployment rate; and
- Change in real GDP.

The objective of the qualitative framework is to capture incurred losses that may not have been fully captured in the quantitative reserve, which is based primarily on historical data. Management determines the qualitative allowance each period based on judgment informed by consideration of internal and external risk factors and other considerations that may be deemed relevant during the period. Once determined in the aggregate, our qualitative allowance is then allocated to each of our loan classes based on the respective classes' quantitative allowance balances with the allocations adjusted, when necessary, for class specific risk factors.

For each risk factor, we calculate the minimum and maximum values, and percentiles in-between, to evaluate the distribution of our historical experience. The distribution of historical experience is compared to the risk factor's current quarter observed experience to assess the current risk inherent in the portfolio and overall direction/trend of a risk factor relative to our historical experience.

Based on this analysis, we assign a risk level - no impact, low, moderate, high and elevated - to each risk factor for the current quarter. Management assesses the impact of each risk factor to determine an aggregate risk level. We do not quantify the impact of any particular risk factor. Management's assessment of the risk factors, as well as the trend in the quantitative allowance, supports management's judgment for the overall required qualitative allowance. A smaller qualitative allowance may be required when our quantitative allowance has reflected incurred losses associated with the aggregate risk level. A greater qualitative allowance may be required if our quantitative allowance does not yet reflect the incurred losses associated with the aggregate risk level.

The methodologies to determine the loss given default, probability of default and usage given default allowance parameters utilized in our probable loss model to calculate the quantitative allowance were updated in the fourth quarter of 2013. In management's judgment, the quantitative allowance is now capturing additional incurred losses associated with the aggregate risk level in the credit portfolio. The update to the allowance parameters included in the quantitative allowance resulted in a lower qualitative allowance as a percentage of the total allowance for credit losses. In 2013, the qualitative allowance decreased $30 million primarily driven by the improvement in the U.S. housing market and internal and environmental risk factors and the updates to the allowance parameters in the fourth quarter of 2013 described above.

To the extent actual results differ from forecasts or management's judgment, the allowance for credit losses may be greater or less than future charge-offs.

The credit rating assigned to each credit is a significant variable in determining the allowance. If each credit were rated one grade better, the allowance would have decreased by $84 million, while if each credit were rated one grade worse, the allowance would have increased by $185 million. Similarly, if the loss given default were one rating worse, the allowance would have increased by $30 million, while if the loss given default were one rating better, the allowance would have decreased by $29 million. For impaired credits, if the net carrying value of the loans was 10% higher or lower, the allowance would have decreased or increased by $1 million, respectively.

Fair value of financial instruments

The guidance related to Fair Value Measurement included in Accounting Standards Codification ("ASC") 820 defines fair value, establishes a framework for measuring fair value, and expands disclosures about assets and liabilities measured at fair value. The standard also established a three-level hierarchy for fair value measurements based upon the transparency of inputs to the valuation of an asset or liability as of the measurement date.

Fair value - Securities

Level 1 - Securities - Recent quoted prices from exchange transactions are used for debt and equity securities that are actively traded on exchanges and for U.S. Treasury securities and U.S. Government securities that are actively traded in highly liquid over-the-counter markets.

Level 2 - Securities - For securities where quotes from recent transactions are not available for identical securities, we determine fair value primarily based on pricing sources with reasonable levels of price transparency. The pricing sources employ financial models or obtain comparisons to similar instruments to arrive at "consensus" prices.

Specifically, the pricing sources obtain recent transactions for similar types of securities (e.g., vintage, position in the securitization structure) and ascertain variables such as discount rate and speed of prepayment for the type of transaction and apply such variables to similar types of bonds. We view these as observable transactions in the current market place and classify such securities as Level 2.

In addition, we have significant investments in more actively traded agency RMBS and other types of securities such as sovereign debt. The pricing sources derive the prices for these securities largely from quotes they obtain from three major inter-dealer brokers. The pricing sources receive their daily observed trade price and other information feeds from the inter-dealer brokers.

For securities with bond insurance, the financial strength of the insurance provider is analyzed and that information is included in the fair value assessment for such securities.

The pricing sources discontinue pricing any specific security whenever they determine there is insufficient observable data to provide a good faith opinion on price. The pricing sources did not discontinue pricing for any securities in our investment securities portfolio at Dec. 31, 2013.

We obtain prices for our Level 1 and Level 2 securities from multiple pricing sources. We have designed controls to develop an understanding of the pricing sources' securities pricing methodology and have implemented specific internal controls over the valuation of securities.

As appropriate, we review the quality control procedures and pricing methodologies used by the pricing sources, including the process for obtaining prices provided by the pricing sources, their valuation methodology and controls for each class of security.

Prices received from pricing sources are subject to validation checks that help determine the completeness and accuracy of the prices. These validation checks are reviewed by management and, based on the results, may be subject to additional review and investigation. We also review securities with no price changes (stale prices) and securities with zero values.

We have a surveillance process in place to monitor the accuracy of prices provided by the pricing sources. We utilize a hierarchy that compares security prices obtained from multiple pricing sources against established thresholds. Discrepancies that fall outside of these thresholds are challenged with the pricing services and adjusted if necessary.

If further research is required, we review and validate these prices with the pricing sources. We also validate prices from pricing sources by comparing prices received to actual observed prices from actions such as purchases and sales, when possible.

Level 3 - Securities - Where we have used our own cash flow models, which included a significant input into the model that was deemed unobservable, to estimate the value of securities, we classify them in Level 3 of the ASC 820 hierarchy. More than 99% of our securities are valued by pricing sources with reasonable levels of price transparency. Less than 1% of our securities are priced based on economic models and non-binding dealer quotes, and are included in Level 3 of the fair value hierarchy.

See Note 20 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements for details of our securities by ASC 820 hierarchy level.

Fair value - Derivative financial instruments

Level 1 - Derivative financial instruments - Includes derivative financial instruments that are actively traded on exchanges, principally listed equity options.

Level 2 - Derivative financial instruments - Includes the vast majority of our over-the-counter derivative financial instruments. Derivatives classified as Level 2 are valued utilizing discounted cash flow analysis and financial models for which the valuation inputs are observable or can be corroborated, directly or indirectly, for substantially the full term of the instrument. Valuation inputs include interest rates, foreign exchange rates, equity prices, credit spreads, option volatilities and other factors. The valuation process takes into consideration factors such as counterparty credit quality, liquidity and concentration concerns. Level 2 over-the-counter derivatives generally include interest rate swaps and options, foreign exchanges forwards and options, forward rate agreements, equity swaps and options, and credit default swaps.

Level 3 - Derivative financial instruments - Certain derivatives that are highly structured require significant judgment and analyses to adjust the value determined by standard pricing models. These derivatives are included in Level 3 of the ASC 820 hierarchy and comprise less than 1% of our derivative financial instruments at fair value.

To test the appropriateness of the valuations, we subject the models to review and approval by an independent internal risk management function, benchmark the models against similar instruments and validate model estimates to actual cash transactions. In addition, we perform detailed reviews and analyses of profit and loss. Valuation adjustments are determined and controlled by a function independent of the area initiating the risk position. As markets and products develop and the pricing for certain products becomes more transparent, we refine our valuation methods. Any changes to the valuation models are reviewed by management to ensure the changes are justified.

To confirm that our valuation policies are consistent with exit prices as prescribed by ASC 820, we review our derivative valuations using recent transactions in the marketplace, pricing services and the results of similar types of transactions. In determining fair value for these instruments, observable inputs are utilized where available as required by ASC 820.

For details of our derivative financial instruments by ASC 820 hierarchy level, see Note 20 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements.

Fair value option

ASC 825 provides the option to elect fair value as an alternative measurement basis for selected financial assets, financial liabilities, unrecognized firm commitments and written loan commitments which are not subject to fair value under other accounting standards. Under ASC 825, fair value is used for both the initial and subsequent measurement of the designated assets, liabilities and commitments, with the changes in fair value recognized in income. See Note 21 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements for additional disclosure regarding the fair value option.

Fair value - Judgments

In times of illiquid markets and financial stress, actual prices and valuations may significantly diverge from results predicted by models. In addition, other factors can affect our estimate of fair value, including market dislocations, incorrect model assumptions, and unexpected correlations. These valuation methods could expose us to materially different results should the models used or underlying assumptions be inaccurate. See "Summary of significant accounting and reporting policies" in Note 1 to the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements.

Other-than-temporary impairment

The guidance included in ASC 320 defines the other-than-temporary impairment ("OTTI") model for investments in debt securities. Under this guidance, a debt security is considered impaired if its fair value is less than its amortized cost basis. An OTTI is triggered if (1) the intent is to sell the security; (2) the security will more likely than not have to be sold before the impairment is recovered, or (3) the amortized cost basis is not expected to be recovered. When an entity does not intend to sell the security before recovery of its cost basis, it will recognize the credit component of an OTTI of a debt security in earnings and the remaining portion in accumulated other comprehensive income.

The determination of whether a credit loss exists is based on best estimates of the present value of cash flows to be collected from the debt security. Generally, cash flows are discounted at the effective interest rate implicit in the debt security at the time of acquisition. For debt securities that are beneficial interests in securitized financial assets and are not high credit quality, ASC 325 provides that cash flows be discounted at the current yield used to accrete the beneficial interest.

For each security in the investment securities portfolio (including, but not limited to, those whose fair value is less than their amortized cost basis), an extensive, regular review is conducted to determine if an OTTI has occurred. For example, to determine if an unrealized loss on non-agency RMBS is other-than-temporary, we project total estimated defaults of the underlying assets (mortgages) and multiply that calculated amount by an estimate of realizable value upon sale of these assets in the marketplace (severity) in order to determine the projected collateral loss. We also evaluate the current credit enhancement underlying the bond to determine the impact on cash flows. If we determine that a given non-agency RMBS will be subject to a write-down or loss, we record the expected credit loss as a charge to earnings.

In recent years, improving home prices helped to stabilize the credit performance of non-agency RMBS transactions. This in turn enabled us to maintain generally stable assumptions for these transactions throughout the year with regard to estimated defaults and the amount we expect to receive to cover the value of the original loan. See Note 4 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements for projected weighted-average default rates and loss severities at Dec. 31, 2013 and 2012 for the 2007, 2006 and late-2005 non-agency RMBS and the securities previously held in the Grantor Trust we established in connection with the restructuring of our investment securities portfolio in 2009. If actual delinquencies, default rates and loss severity assumptions worsen, we would expect additional impairment losses to be recorded in future periods.

Net securities gains in 2013 were $141 million compared with $162 million in 2012. The low interest rate environment in 2013 created the opportunity for us to realize gains as we rebalanced and managed the duration risk of the investment securities portfolio.

At Dec. 31, 2013, if we were to increase each of our projected loss severity and default rates by 100 basis points on each of the positions in our Alt-A, subprime and prime RMBS portfolios, including the securities previously held by the Grantor Trust, credit-related impairment charges on these securities would have increased by $2 million (pre-tax). If we were to decrease each of our projected loss severity and default rates by 100 basis points on each of the positions, credit-related impairment charges on these securities would have been immaterial.

Goodwill and other intangibles

We initially record all assets and liabilities acquired in purchase acquisitions, including goodwill, indefinite-lived intangibles and other intangibles, in accordance with ASC 805 Business Combinations. Goodwill, indefinite-lived intangibles and other intangibles are subsequently accounted for in accordance with ASC 350 Intangibles - Goodwill and Other. The initial measurement of goodwill and intangibles requires judgment concerning estimates of the fair value of the acquired assets and liabilities. Goodwill ($18.1 billion at Dec. 31, 2013) and indefinite-lived intangible assets ($2.7 billion at Dec. 31, 2013) are not amortized but subject to tests for impairment annually or more often if events or circumstances indicate it is more likely than not they may be impaired. Other intangible assets are amortized over their estimated useful lives and are subject to impairment if events or circumstances indicate a possible inability to realize the carrying amount.

BNY Mellon's three business segments include seven reporting units for which annual goodwill impairment testing is done in accordance with ASC 350. The Investment Management segment is comprised of two reporting units; the Investment Services segment is comprised of four reporting units; and one reporting unit is included in the Other segment.

The goodwill impairment test is performed in two steps. The first step compares the estimated fair value of the reporting unit with its carrying amount, including goodwill. If the estimated fair value of the reporting unit exceeds its carrying amount, goodwill of the reporting unit is considered not impaired. However, if the carrying amount of the reporting unit were to exceed its estimated fair value, a second step would be performed that would compare the implied fair value of the reporting unit's goodwill with the carrying amount of that goodwill. An impairment loss would be recorded to the extent that the carrying amount of goodwill exceeds its implied fair value. A substantial goodwill impairment charge would not have a significant impact on our financial condition, but could have an adverse impact on our results of operations. In addition, due to regulatory restrictions, the Company's subsidiary banks could be restricted from distributing available cash to the Parent resulting in the Parent needing to issue additional long-term debt.

In the second quarter of 2013, we performed our annual goodwill test on all seven reporting units using an income approach to estimate the fair values of each reporting unit. Estimated cash flows used in the income approach were based on management's projections as of April 1, 2013. The discount rate applied to these cash flows ranged from 10% to 12.5% and incorporated a 6.75% market equity risk premium. Estimated cash flows extend far into the future, and, by their nature, are difficult to estimate over such an extended time frame.

As of the date of the annual test, the fair values of six of the Company's reporting units were substantially in excess of the respective reporting units' carrying value. The fair value of the Asset Management reporting unit, which is one of the two reporting units in the Investment Management segment, exceeded its carrying value by approximately 25%. The Asset Management reporting unit has $7.6 billion of allocated goodwill. For the Asset Management reporting unit, in the future, small changes in the assumptions could produce a non-cash goodwill impairment, which would have no effect on our regulatory capital ratios. In addition, certain money market fee waiver practices and changes in the level of assets under management could have an effect on Asset Management broadly, as well as the fair value of this reporting unit.

Key judgments in accounting for intangibles include useful life and classification between goodwill and indefinite-lived intangibles or other intangibles requiring amortization.

Indefinite-lived intangible assets are evaluated for impairment at least annually by comparing their fair values, estimated using discounted cash flow analyses, to their carrying values. Other amortizing intangible assets ($1.8 billion at Dec. 31, 2013) are evaluated for impairment if events and circumstances indicate a possible impairment. Such evaluation of other intangible assets is initially based on undiscounted cash flow projections.

See Notes 1 and 6 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements for additional information regarding goodwill, intangible assets and the annual and interim impairment testing.

Pension accounting

BNY Mellon has defined benefit pension plans covering approximately 19,200 U.S. employees and approximately 11,700 non-U.S. employees.

BNY Mellon has two qualified and several non-qualified defined benefit pension plans in the U.S. and several pension plans overseas. As of Dec. 31, 2013, the U.S. plans accounted for 78% of the projected benefit obligation. The pension expense for BNY Mellon plans was $176 million in 2013 compared with $141 million in 2012 and $93 million in 2011.

A net pension expense of $68 million is expected to be recorded by BNY Mellon in 2014, assuming currency exchange rates at Dec. 31, 2013. The expected decrease in pension expense in 2014 is primarily driven by an increase in the discount rate and favorable asset returns for the U.S. plans. The discount rate is discussed below.

A number of key assumption and measurement date values determine pension expense. The key elements include the long-term rate of return on plan assets, the discount rate, the market-related value of plan assets and the price used to value stock in the Employee Stock Ownership Plan ("ESOP"). Since 2011, these key elements have varied as follows:

Domestic plans:
Long-term rate of return on plan assets	7.25%	7.25%	7.38%	7.50%
Discount rate	4.99%	4.25%	4.75%	5.71%
Market-related value of plan assets (a)	$ 4,430	$ 4,121	$ 3,763	$ 3,836
ESOP stock price (a)	$ 32.81	$ 24.60	$ 22.96	$ 29.48
Net U.S. pension credit/ (expense)	N/A	$ (133)	$ (107)	$ (54)
All other net pension credit/(expense)	N/A	(43)	(34)	(39)
Total net pension credit/ (expense)	N/A	$ (176)	$ (141)	$ (93)

(a) Market-related value of plan assets and ESOP stock price are for the beginning of the plan year. See "Summary of significant accounting and reporting policies" in Note 1 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements.

The discount rate for U.S. pension plans was determined after reviewing equivalent rates obtained by discounting the pension plans' expected cash flows using various high-quality, long-term corporate bond yield curves. We also reviewed the results of several models that matched bonds to our pension cash flows. After reviewing the various indices and models, we selected a discount rate of 4.99% as of Dec. 31, 2013.

The discount rates for foreign pension plans are based on high-quality corporate bond rates in countries that have an active corporate bond market. In those countries with no active corporate bond market, discount rates are based on local government bond rates plus a credit spread.

Our expected long-term rate of return on plan assets is based on anticipated returns for each applicable asset class. Anticipated returns are weighted for the expected allocation for each asset class and are based on forecasts for prospective returns in the equity and fixed income markets, which should track the long-term historical returns for these markets. We also consider the growth outlook for U.S. and global economies, as well as current and prospective interest rates.

The market-related value of plan assets also influences the level of pension expense. Differences between expected and actual returns are recognized over five years to compute an actuarially derived market-related value of plan assets.

Unrecognized actuarial gains and losses are amortized over the future service period of active employees if they exceed a threshold amount. BNY Mellon currently has $1.3 billion of unrecognized losses which are being amortized.

The annual impacts of hypothetical changes in the key assumptions on pension costs are shown in the table below.

Pension expense

(dollar amounts in millions, except per share amounts)	Increase in pension expense		(Decrease) in pension expense
Long-term rate of return on plan assets	(100) bps	(50) bps	50 bps	100 bps
Change in pension expense	$ 53	$ 26	$ (27)	$ (53)
Discount rate	(50) bps	(25) bps	25 bps	50 bps
Change in pension expense	$ 45	$ 22	$ (22)	$ (42)
Market-related value of plan assets	(20) %	(10) %	10 %	20 %
Change in pension expense	$214	$107	$(107)	$(213)
ESOP stock price	$ (10)	$ (5)	$ 5	$ 10
Change in pension expense	$ 12	$ 6	$ (5)	$ (11)

In addition to its pension plans, BNY Mellon has an ESOP. Benefits payable under The Bank of New York Mellon Corporation Pension Plan are offset by the equivalent value of benefits earned under the ESOP for employees who participated in the legacy Retirement Plan of The Bank of New York Company, Inc.

Consolidated balance sheet review

At Dec. 31, 2013, total assets were $374 billion compared with $359 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. Total assets averaged $342 billion in 2013 compared with $315 billion in 2012. Fluctuations in the period-end and average total assets were primarily driven by the level of client deposits. Deposits totaled $261 billion at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with $246 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. Total deposits averaged $226 billion in 2013 and $204 billion in 2012. At Dec. 31, 2013, total interest-bearing deposits were 54% of total interest-earning assets compared with 52% at Dec. 31, 2012.

At Dec. 31, 2013, we had $44 billion of liquid funds and $111 billion of cash (including $104 billion of overnight deposits with the Federal Reserve and other central banks) for a total of $155 billion of available funds. This compares with available funds of $145 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. The increase in available funds resulted from an increase in client deposits. Total available funds as a percentage of total assets was 41% at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with 40% at Dec. 31, 2012. Of the $44 billion in liquid funds held at Dec. 31, 2013, $35 billion was placed in interest-bearing deposits with large, highly-rated global financial institutions with a weighted-average life to maturity of approximately 59 days. Of the $35 billion, $6 billion was placed with banks in the Eurozone.

Investment securities were $99 billion, or 26% of total assets, at Dec. 31, 2013, compared with $101 billion, or 28% of total assets, at Dec. 31, 2012. The decrease primarily reflects a decrease in the unrealized gain on our investment securities portfolio.

Trading assets were $12 billion at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with $9 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. The increase in trading assets resulted from a higher level of securities inventory, primarily U.S. equity securities and Agency RMBS, as we expand our broker-dealer business.

Loans were $52 billion, or 14% of total assets, at Dec. 31, 2013, compared with $47 billion, or 13% of total assets, at Dec. 31, 2012. The increase in loan levels primarily reflects higher loans in the financial institutions portfolio, and higher margin loans driven by our term loan program.

Long-term debt totaled $19.9 billion at Dec. 31, 2013 and $18.5 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. The Parent issued $3.9 billion of senior debt in 2013, which was partially offset by $1.6 billion of maturities, a decrease in the fair value of hedged long-term debt, $300 million of repayments of trust preferred securities and calls of subordinated debt of $107 million.

Total The Bank of New York Mellon Corporation's shareholders' equity was $37.5 billion at Dec. 31, 2013 and $36.4 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. The increase primarily reflects earnings retention, higher additional paid-in capital resulting from employee stock options and awards and employee benefit plan contributions, and the issuance of noncumulative perpetual preferred stock, partially offset by a decline in the value of the investment securities portfolio, net of taxes, and share repurchases.

Investment securities

In the discussion of our investment securities portfolio, we have included certain credit ratings information because the information indicates the degree of credit risk to which we are exposed, and significant changes in ratings classifications for our investment securities portfolio could indicate increased credit risk for us and could be accompanied by a reduction in the fair value of our investment securities portfolio.

The following table presents the distribution of our total investment securities portfolio:

Investment securities portfolio (dollars in millions)	Dec. 31, 2012 Fair value	2013 change in unrealized gain/(loss)	Dec. 31, 2013 Amortized cost	Dec. 31, 2013 Fair value	Fair value as a % of amortized cost (a)	Unrealized gain/(loss)	Ratings AAA/ AA-	A+/ A-	BBB+/ BBB-	BB+ and lower	Not rated

(a) Amortized cost before impairments.

(b) Primarily comprised of exposure to UK, Germany, Netherlands and France.

(c) These RMBS were included in the former Grantor Trust and were marked-to-market in 2009. We believe these RMBS would receive higher credit ratings if these ratings incorporated, as additional credit enhancement, the difference between the written-down amortized cost and the current face amount of each of these securities.

(d) Includes RMBS, commercial MBS and other securities. Primarily comprised of exposure to UK and Netherlands.

(e) Primarily comprised of exposure to Canada, UK and Netherlands.

(f) Includes commercial paper of $2.2 billion and $1.7 billion, fair value, and money market funds of $2.2 billion and $938 million, fair value, at Dec. 31, 2012 and Dec. 31, 2013, respectively.

(g) Includes net unrealized losses on derivatives hedging securities available-for-sale of $305 million at Dec. 31, 2012 and net unrealized gains on derivatives hedging securities available-for-sale of $678 million at Dec. 31, 2013.

The fair value of our investment securities portfolio was $99.4 billion at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with $100.7 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. The decrease in the fair value of the investment securities portfolio primarily reflects a decrease in the unrealized gain on our investment securities. Additionally, during 2013, we reevaluated the mix of the securities portfolio and decreased investments in U.S. Treasury securities, European floating rate notes, money market funds, foreign covered bonds and commercial paper. We increased investments in sovereign debt, commercial MBS, consumer asset-backed securities and state and political subdivisions. In 2013, we received $829 million of paydowns and sold $235 million of sub-investment grade securities.

At Dec. 31, 2013, the total investment securities portfolio had a net unrealized pre-tax gain of $309 million compared with $2.4 billion at Dec. 31, 2012.

The decline in the valuation of the investment securities portfolio was primarily driven by an increase in long-term interest rates. The unrealized net of tax gain on our investment securities available-for-sale portfolio included in accumulated other comprehensive income was $357 million at Dec. 31, 2013, compared with $1.3 billion at Dec. 31, 2012.

At both Dec. 31, 2013 and Dec. 31, 2012, 89% of the securities in our portfolio were rated AAA/AA-.

We routinely test our investment securities for OTTI. (See "Critical accounting estimates" for additional disclosure regarding OTTI.)

The following table presents the amortizable net purchase premium related to the investment securities portfolio and accretable discount related to the restructuring of the investment securities portfolio.

Net premium amortization and discount accretion of investment securities (a) (dollars in millions)	2013	2012
Amortizable purchase premium (net of discount) relating to investment securities:
Balance at period end	$ 2,377	$ 2,476
Estimated average life remaining at period end (in years)	5.2	4.2
Amortization	$ 625	$ 575	(b)
Accretable discount related to the restructuring of the investment securities portfolio:
Balance at period end	$ 642	$ 871
Estimated average life remaining at period end (in years)	6.0	5.3
Accretion	$ 218	$ 279	(b)

(a) Amortization of purchase premium decreases net interest revenue while accretion of discount increases net interest revenue. Both were recorded on a level yield basis.

(b) The amortization and accretion amounts reported for 2012 have been restated from previously reported amounts. There was no impact to consolidated results.

The increase in the net premium amortization in 2013 primarily relates to an increase in net purchase premium throughout 2012.

In 2013, securities gains of $141 million were recorded as we reduced the size of the investment securities portfolio and its sensitivity to interest rates. In addition, in 2013 Agency RMBS securities with an amortized cost of $7.3 billion and fair value of $7.0 billion were transferred from available-for-sale securities to held-to-maturity securities. These combined actions are expected to mute the impact to our accumulated other comprehensive income in the event of a rise in interest rates.

The following table presents pre-tax securities gains (losses) by type.

Equity investments

Our equity investments are primarily categorized as other assets. Included in other assets are (parenthetical amounts indicate carrying values at Dec. 31, 2013): joint ventures and other equity investments ($1.6 billion), seed capital ($308 million), Federal Reserve Bank stock ($441 million), private equity investments ($86 million), and tax advantaged low-income housing investments ($543 million). For additional information on the fair value of our private equity investments and certain seed capital, see Note 7 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements.

Our equity investment in Wing Hang, which is located in Hong Kong, had a fair value of $963 million (book value of $535 million) based on its share price at Dec. 31, 2013. Equity income related to our investment in Wing Hang totaled $95 million in 2013, including $37 million from the sale of a property. Equity income totaled $44 million in 2012 and $53 million in 2011. An agreement with certain other shareholders of Wing Hang prohibits the sale of this interest without their permission. We received stock dividends from Wing Hang with a value of $13 million (or 1.4 million shares) in 2013, $14 million (or 1.5 million shares) in 2012 and $12 million (or 1.1 million shares) in 2011, as well as cash dividends of $4 million in 2013. No cash dividends were received in 2012 or 2011.

Private equity activities consist of investments in private equity funds, mezzanine financings, and direct equity investments. Consistent with our policy to focus on our core activities, we continue to reduce our exposure to these activities. The carrying and fair value of our private equity investments was $86 million at Dec. 31, 2013, down $13 million from $99 million at Dec. 31, 2012. At Dec. 31, 2013, private equity investments consisted of investments in private equity funds of $63 million, direct equity of less than $15 million, and leveraged bond funds of $8 million. Income on these investments was $6 million in 2013.

At Dec. 31, 2013, we had $31 million of unfunded investment commitments to private equity funds. If unused, the commitments expire between 2014 and 2017.

Commitments to private equity limited partnerships may extend beyond the expiration period shown above to cover certain follow-on investments, claims and liabilities, and organizational and partnership expenses.

Total	$ 51.7	$ 41.1	$ 92.8	$ 46.6	$ 38.7	$ 85.3

At Dec. 31, 2013, total exposures were $92.8 billion, an increase of 9% from $85.3 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. The increase in total exposure was generally broad-based across most portfolios and reflects:

- loan growth in Private Wealth, margin secured lending to financial institutions and trade finance; and
- an increase in unfunded commitments resulting from a renewed effort to grow our credit portfolio to support client relationships where revenue growth opportunities exist.

Our financial institutions and commercial portfolios comprise our largest concentrated risk. These portfolios made up 57% of our total lending exposure at Dec. 31, 2013 and 55% at Dec. 31, 2012. Additionally, a substantial portion of our overdrafts relate to financial institutions and commercial customers.

Financial institutions

The diversity of the financial institutions portfolio is shown in the following table.

Financial institutions portfolio exposure (dollar amounts in billions)	Dec. 31, 2013					Dec. 31, 2012
	Loans	Unfunded commitments	Total exposure	% Inv. grade	% due <1 yr	Loans	Unfunded commitments	Total exposure

The financial institutions portfolio exposure was $31.4 billion at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with $27.0 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. The increase primarily reflects higher exposure to banks driven by a higher level of trade finance loans.

Financial institution exposures are high quality, with 93% of the exposures meeting the investment grade equivalent criteria of our internal credit rating classification at Dec. 31, 2013. Each customer is assigned an internal credit rating, which is mapped to an equivalent external rating agency grade based upon a number of dimensions which are continually evaluated and may change over time. The exposure to financial institutions is generally short-term. Of these exposures, 67% expire within one year, and 35% expire within 90 days. In addition, 36% of the financial institutions exposure is secured. For example, securities industry and asset managers often borrow against marketable securities held in custody.

For ratings of non-U.S. counterparties, as a conservative measure, our internal credit rating is generally capped at a rating equivalent to the sovereign rating of the country where the counterparty resides regardless of the internal credit rating assigned to the counterparty or the underlying collateral.

Our bank exposure primarily relates to our global trade finance and U.S. dollar-clearing businesses. These exposures are predominately to investment grade counterparties and are short term in nature.

The asset manager portfolio exposures are high-quality, with 97% of the exposures meeting our investment grade equivalent ratings criteria as of Dec. 31, 2013. These exposures are generally short-term liquidity facilities, with the vast majority to regulated mutual funds.

Commercial

The diversity of the commercial portfolio is presented in the following table.

Commercial portfolio exposure (dollar amounts in billions)	Dec. 31, 2013					Dec. 31, 2012
	Loans	Unfunded commitments	Total exposure	% Inv. grade	% due <1 yr	Loans	Unfunded commitments	Total exposure

Total	$ 1.6	$ 19.5	$ 21.1	94%	13%	$ 1.4	$ 18.3	$ 19.7

The commercial portfolio exposure increased 7% to $21.1 billion at Dec. 31, 2013, from $19.7 billion at Dec. 31, 2012, reflecting an increase in all segments of our commercial portfolio.

The table below summarizes the percentage of the financial institutions and commercial portfolio exposures that are investment grade.

Percentage of the portfolios that are investment grade	Dec. 31, 2013	2012	2011
Financial institutions	93%	93%	93%
Commercial	94%	93%	91%

Our credit strategy is to focus on investment grade names to support cross-selling opportunities and avoid single name/industry concentrations and our goal is to maintain a predominantly investment grade loan portfolio. The execution of our strategy has resulted in 93% of our financial institutions portfolio and 94% of our commercial portfolio rated as investment grade at Dec. 31, 2013.

Wealth management loans and mortgages

Our wealth management exposure was $11.5 billion at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with $10.6 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. The increase primarily reflects growth in the wealth management mortgage portfolio. Wealth management loans and mortgages are primarily comprised of loans to high-net-worth individuals, which are secured by marketable securities and/or residential property. Wealth management mortgages are primarily interest-only adjustable rate mortgages with an average loan to value ratio of 64% at origination. In the wealth management portfolio, 1% of the mortgages were past due at Dec. 31, 2013.

At Dec. 31, 2013, the wealth management mortgage portfolio was comprised of the following geographic concentrations: New York - 21%; California - 21%; Massachusetts - 16%; Florida - 8%; and other - 34%.

Commercial real estate

Our income producing commercial real estate facilities are focused on experienced owners and are structured with moderate leverage based on existing cash flows. Our commercial real estate lending activities also include construction and renovation facilities. Our client base consists of experienced developers and long-term holders of real estate assets. Loans are approved on the basis of existing or projected cash flows, and supported by appraisals and knowledge of local market conditions. Development loans are structured with moderate leverage, and in many instances, involve some level of recourse to the developer. Our commercial real estate exposure totaled $4.4 billion at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with $3.6 billion at Dec. 31, 2012.

At Dec. 31, 2013, 59% of our commercial real estate portfolio was secured. The secured portfolio is diverse by project type, with 54% secured by residential buildings, 15% secured by office buildings, 12% secured by retail properties, and 19% secured by other categories. Approximately 99% of the unsecured portfolio is comprised of real estate investment trusts ("REITs"), which are primarily investment grade, and real estate operating companies.

At Dec. 31, 2013, our commercial real estate portfolio is comprised of the following concentrations: New York metro - 45%; REITs and real estate operating companies - 40%; and other - 15%.

Lease financings

The leasing portfolio exposure totaled $2.3 billion and included $166 million of airline exposures at Dec. 31, 2013, compared with $2.4 billion of leasing exposures, including $191 million of airline exposures, at Dec. 31, 2012. At Dec. 31, 2013, approximately 87% of the leasing exposure was investment grade.

At Dec. 31, 2013, the $2.1 billion non-airline lease financing portfolio consisted of exposures backed by well-diversified assets, primarily large-ticket transportation equipment. The largest component is rail, consisting of both passenger and freight trains. Assets are both domestic and foreign-based, with primary concentrations in the United States and Germany. Approximately 49% of the non-airline portfolio is additionally secured by highly rated securities and/or letters of credit from investment grade issuers. Excluding airline lease financing, counterparty rating equivalents at Dec. 31, 2013, were as follows:

- 61% of the counter parties were A, or equivalent;
- 32% were BBB; and
- 7% were non-investment grade.

At Dec. 31, 2013, our $166 million of exposure to the airline industry consisted of $68 million to major U.S. carriers, $74 million to foreign airlines and $24 million to U.S. regional airlines.

Our airline lease customers participated in the industry recovery that continued in 2013. However, a significant portion of these customers remain highly leveraged and vulnerable to both economic downturns and rising fuel prices. Because of these factors, we continue to maintain a sizable allowance for loan losses against these exposures and to closely monitor the portfolio.

We utilize the lease financing portfolio as part of our tax management strategy.

Other residential mortgages

The other residential mortgage portfolio primarily consists of 1-4 family residential mortgage loans and totaled $1.4 billion at Dec. 31, 2013, compared with $1.6 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. Included in this portfolio at Dec. 31, 2013 are $411 million of mortgage loans purchased in 2005, 2006 and the first quarter of 2007 that are predominantly prime mortgage loans, with a small portion of Alt-A loans. As of Dec. 31, 2013, the purchased loans in this portfolio had a weighted-average loan-to-value ratio of 76% at origination and 20% of the serviced loan balance was at least 60 days delinquent. The properties securing the prime and Alt-A mortgage loans were located (in order of concentration) in California, Florida, Virginia, the tri-state area (New York, New Jersey and Connecticut) and Maryland.

To determine the projected loss on the prime and Alt-A mortgage portfolios, we calculate the total estimated defaults of these mortgages and multiply that amount by an estimate of realizable value upon sale in the marketplace (severity).

Overdrafts

Overdrafts primarily relate to custody and securities clearance clients. Overdrafts occur on a daily basis in the custody and securities clearance business and are generally repaid within two business days.

Other loans

Other loans primarily includes loans to consumers that are fully collateralized with equities, mutual funds and fixed income securities, as well as bankers' acceptances.

Margin loans

Margin loans are collateralized with marketable securities and borrowers are required to maintain a daily collateral margin in excess of 100% of the value of the loan. Margin loans included $6.7 billion of loans at Dec. 31, 2013 and $5.1 billion at Dec. 31, 2012 related to a term loan program that offers fully collateralized loans to broker-dealers.

International loans

We have credit relationships in the international markets, particularly in areas associated with our securities servicing and trade finance activities. Excluding lease financings, these activities resulted in outstanding international loans of $12.5 billion at Dec. 31, 2013 and $9.1 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. The increase primarily resulted from an increase in loans to financial institutions, primarily banks, partially offset by lower overdrafts.

Matter related to Sentinel

In August 2007, BNY Mellon loaned $312 million to an asset manager, Sentinel Management Group, Inc. ("Sentinel"), secured by securities and cash. Sentinel filed for bankruptcy in 2007, and BNY Mellon's status as a secured lender is the subject of continuing litigation. In 2010, the district court ruled in favor of BNY Mellon, and the loan was repaid. An appellate court reversed the district court's ruling on Aug. 26, 2013, and remanded to the district court for further proceedings. BNY Mellon held no loans to Sentinel at Dec. 31, 2013. On Jan. 22, 2014, the Bankruptcy

Court, ordered that the funds distributed to BNY Mellon after the district court's favorable decision be returned to the bankruptcy estate and held in a reserve earmarked for purposes of BNY Mellon's claim until the district court issues its decision on the merits of the challenges to BNY Mellon's lien. Accordingly, the loan was reestablished as a fully collateralized performing loan in the first quarter of 2014. A total of $337 million, representing the loan and accrued interest, was recorded on Feb. 5, 2014. The ongoing litigation could result in a ruling adverse to BNY Mellon at some point in the future. For additional information on our legal proceedings related to this matter, see Note 22 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements.

Asset quality and allowance for credit losses

Over the past several years, we have improved our risk profile through greater focus on clients who are active users of our non-credit services, de-emphasizing broad-based loan growth. Our primary exposure to the credit risk of a customer consists of funded loans, unfunded formal contractual commitments to lend, standby letters of credit and overdrafts associated with our custody and securities clearance businesses.

The role of credit has shifted to one that complements our other services instead of as a lead product. We believe credit solidifies customer relationships and, through a disciplined allocation of capital, can earn acceptable rates of return as part of an overall relationship.

The following table details changes in our allowance for credit losses.

(a) The allowance for credit losses at Dec. 31, 2010, and 2009 excludes discontinued operations.

Net charge-offs were $8 million in 2013, $30 million in 2012 and $75 million in 2011. Net charge-offs in 2013 included $4 million of other residential mortgages primarily located in New York, California and New Jersey, $3 million of commercial loans and $3 million of foreign loans. Net charge-offs in 2012 included $16 million of other residential mortgages primarily located in California, Florida and New Jersey and $13 million of loans in the financial institutions portfolio. Net charge-offs in 2011 included $53 million of other residential mortgages primarily located in California, Florida, New York and New Jersey, a $10 million loan in the media portfolio and $6 million related to a broker-dealer holding company that filed for bankruptcy.

The provision for credit losses was a credit of $35 million in 2013 primarily driven by a broad improvement in the credit quality of the loan portfolio and a reduction in our qualitative allowance. The provision for credit losses was a credit of $80 million in 2012 and a provision of $1 million in 2011. We anticipate the quarterly provision for credit losses to be $0 to $15 million in 2014.

The total allowance for credit losses was $344 million at Dec. 31, 2013 and $387 million at Dec. 31, 2012. The ratio of the total allowance for credit losses to non-margin loans was 0.96% at Dec. 31, 2013, 1.16% at Dec. 31, 2012 and 1.59% at Dec. 31, 2011. The ratio of the allowance for loan losses to non-margin loans was 0.58% at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with 0.80% at Dec. 31, 2012 and 1.26% at Dec. 31, 2011. The decrease in the total allowance for credit losses and the lower ratios at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with both prior periods primarily reflect a decrease in the reserve for credit losses related to the residential mortgage and lease financing portfolios.

We had $15.7 billion of secured margin loans on our balance sheet at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with $13.4 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. We have rarely suffered a loss on these types of loans and do not allocate any of our allowance for credit losses to them. As a result, we believe that the ratio of total allowance for credit losses as a percentage of non-margin loans is a more appropriate metric to measure the adequacy of the reserve.

Based on an evaluation of the allowance for credit losses as discussed in "Critical accounting estimates" and Note 1 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements, we have allocated our allowance for credit losses as follows:

Allocation of allowance	2013	2012	2011	2010 (a)	2009 (a)
Commercial	24%	27%	18%	16%	25%
Other residential mortgages	16	23	31	41	26
Foreign	16	12	12	11	8
Financial institutions	14	9	13	2	12
Commercial real estate	12	8	7	7	7
Lease financing	11	13	13	16	13
Wealth management (b)	7	8	6	7	9
Total	100%	100%	100%	100%	100%

(a) Excludes discontinued operations in 2010 and 2009.
(b) Includes the allowance for wealth management mortgages.

The allocation of the allowance for credit losses is inherently judgmental, and the entire allowance for credit losses is available to absorb credit losses regardless of the nature of the loss.

Nonperforming assets

(a) Nonperforming assets at Dec. 31, 2010 and Dec. 31, 2009 exclude discontinued operations.
(b) Loans of consolidated investment management funds are not part of BNY Mellon's loan portfolio. Included in the loans of consolidated investment management funds are nonperforming loans of $16 million at Dec. 31, 2013, $174 million at Dec. 31, 2012, $101 million at Dec. 31, 2011 and $218 million at Dec. 31, 2010. These loans are recorded at fair value and therefore do not impact the provision for credit losses and allowance for loan losses, and accordingly are excluded from the nonperforming assets table above.

Balance at beginning of year	$ 249	$ 341
Additions	62	75

Paydowns/sales	(99)	(86)

Balance at end of year	$ 156	$ 249

Nonperforming assets were $156 million at Dec. 31, 2013, a decrease of $93 million compared with $249 million at Dec. 31, 2012. The decrease primarily resulted from repayments of $40 million in the commercial loan portfolio, $23 million in the other residential mortgage portfolio, $20 million in the wealth management portfolio, $13 million in the commercial real estate portfolio and $3 million in the financial institutions portfolio. Also in 2013, $37 million in the other residential mortgage portfolio and $2 million in the commercial real estate portfolio returned to accrual status. Charge-offs in 2013 were $7 million in the other residential mortgage portfolio and $3 million in the foreign loan portfolio. Additions in 2013 included $31 million in the other residential mortgage portfolio and $29 million in the commercial loan portfolio.

The following table shows loans past due 90 days or more and still accruing interest.

Total past due loans	$ 7	$ 6	$ 13	$ 33	$ 431

Loans past due 90 days or more at Dec. 31, 2013 were primarily comprised of other residential mortgage loans. For additional information, see Note 5 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements.

Deposits

Total deposits were $261.1 billion at Dec. 31, 2013, an increase of 6% compared with $246.1 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. The increase in deposits reflects higher levels of both foreign and domestic interest-bearing deposits primarily resulting from higher client deposits in our Investment Services business.

Noninterest-bearing deposits were $95.5 billion at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with $93.0 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. Interest-bearing deposits were $165.7 billion at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with $153.1 billion at Dec. 31, 2012.

The aggregate amount of deposits by foreign customers in domestic offices was $8.5 billion and $6.7 billion at Dec. 31, 2013 and 2012, respectively.

Deposits in foreign offices totaled $119.4 billion at Dec. 31, 2013, and $107.4 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. The majority of these deposits were in amounts in excess of $100,000 and were primarily overnight foreign deposits.

The following table shows the maturity breakdown of domestic time deposits of $100,000 or more at Dec. 31, 2013.

Domestic time deposits > $100,000 at Dec. 31, 2013 (in millions)	Certificates of deposit	Other time deposits	Total

Short-term borrowings

We fund ourselves primarily through deposits and, to a lesser extent, other short-term borrowings and long-term debt. Short-term borrowings are comprised of federal funds purchased and securities sold under repurchase agreements, payables to customers and broker-dealers, commercial paper and other borrowed funds. Certain other borrowings, for example, securities sold under repurchase agreements, require the delivery of securities as collateral.

See "Liquidity and dividends" below for a discussion of long-term debt and liquidity metrics that we monitor.

Information related to federal funds purchased and securities sold under repurchase agreements is presented below.

Payables to customers and broker-dealers were $15.7 billion at Dec. 31, 2013, compared with $15.3 billion at Sept. 30, 2013 and $16.1 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. Payables to customers and broker-dealers are driven by customer trading activity levels and market volatility.

The maximum daily balance in the fourth quarter of 2013 was $4.8 billion compared with $4.9 billion in the third quarter of 2013 and $2.4 billion in the fourth quarter of 2012. Fluctuations between periods were a result of attractive overnight borrowing opportunities. Our commercial paper matures within 397 days from date of issue and is not redeemable prior to maturity or subject to voluntary prepayment.

Other borrowed funds primarily include overdrafts of sub-custodian account balances in our Investment Services businesses and borrowings under lines of credit by our Pershing subsidiaries. Overdrafts typically relate to timing differences for settlements. Other borrowed funds were $663 million at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with $844 million at Sept. 30, 2013 and $1.4 billion Dec. 31, 2012. Other borrowed funds averaged $1.1 billion in the fourth quarter of 2013, $1.0 billion in the third quarter of 2013 and $1.1 billion in the fourth quarter of 2012. The maximum daily balance in the fourth quarter of 2013 was $7.4 billion compared with $3.7 billion in the third quarter of 2013 and $2.1 billion in the fourth quarter of 2012. Changes from prior periods primarily reflect higher overdrafts of sub-custodian account balances in our Investment Services businesses.

Liquidity and dividends

BNY Mellon defines liquidity as the ability of the Parent and its subsidiaries to access funding or convert assets to cash quickly and efficiently, especially during periods of market stress. Liquidity risk is the risk that BNY Mellon cannot meet its cash and collateral obligations at a reasonable cost for both expected and unexpected cash flows, without adversely affecting daily operations or our financial condition. Liquidity risk can arise from cash flow mismatches, market constraints from the inability to convert assets to cash, inability to raise cash in the markets, deposit run-off, or contingent liquidity events.

For additional information on our liquidity policy, see "Risk Management - Liquidity risk".

Our overall approach to liquidity management is to ensure that sources of liquidity are sufficient in amount and diversity such that changes in funding requirements at the Parent and at the various bank subsidiaries can be accommodated routinely without material adverse impact on earnings, daily operations or our financial condition.

BNY Mellon seeks to maintain an adequate liquidity cushion in both normal and stressed environments and seeks to diversify funding sources by line of business, customer and market segment. Additionally, we seek to maintain liquidity ratios within approved limits and liquidity risk tolerance, maintain a liquid asset buffer that can be liquidated, financed and/or pledged as necessary, and control the levels and sources of wholesale funds.

Potential uses of liquidity include withdrawals of customer deposits and client drawdowns on unfunded credit or liquidity facilities. We actively monitor unfunded lending-related commitments, thereby reducing unanticipated funding requirements.

When monitoring liquidity, we evaluate multiple metrics in order to have ample liquidity for expected and unexpected events. Metrics include cashflow mismatches, asset maturities, debt spreads, peer ratios, liquid assets, unencumbered collateral, funding sources and balance sheet liquidity ratios.

Internal ratios we currently monitor as part of our standard analysis include total loans as a percentage of total deposits, deposits as a percentage of total interest-earning assets, foreign deposits as a percentage of total interest-earning assets, purchased funds as a percentage of total interest-earning assets, liquid assets as a percentage of total interest-earning assets, liquid assets as a percentage of purchased funds, and discount window collateral and central bank deposits as a percentage of total deposits. All of these internal ratios exceeded our minimum guidelines at Dec. 31, 2013. In addition, we monitor the revised Basel III liquidity coverage ratio and continue to evaluate the U.S. banking agencies' proposal for the Basel III liquidity coverage ratio ("LCR").

We also perform liquidity stress tests to ensure the Company maintains sufficient liquidity resources under multiple stress scenarios. Stress tests are based on scenarios that measure liquidity risks under unlikely but plausible events. The Company performs these tests under various time horizons ranging from one day to one year in a base case, as well as supplemental tests to determine whether the Company's liquidity is sufficient for severe market events and firm-specific events. Under our scenario testing program, the results of the tests indicate that the Company has sufficient liquidity.

Commencing January 2015, we will also be subject to the liquidity requirements of the Federal Reserve's heightened prudential standards for BHCs with total consolidated assets of $50 billion or more, described under "Supervision and Regulation - Enhanced Prudential Standards".

We define available funds as liquid funds (which include interest-bearing deposits with banks and federal funds sold and securities purchased under resale agreements), cash and due from banks, and interest-bearing deposits with the Federal Reserve and other central banks. The table below presents our total available funds including liquid funds at period-end and on an average basis. The higher level of available funds at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with Dec. 31, 2012 primarily resulted from a higher level of client deposits and attractive overnight borrowing opportunities.

On an average basis for 2013 and 2012, non-core sources of funds such as money market rate accounts, federal funds purchased, trading liabilities, commercial paper and other borrowings were $21.3 billion and $20.5 billion, respectively. The increase primarily reflects higher levels of trading liabilities and federal funds purchased, partially offset by lower levels of money market rate accounts. Average foreign deposits, primarily from our European-based Investment Services business, were $101.3 billion for 2013 compared with $90.9 billion for 2012. The increase primarily reflects growth in client deposits. Domestic savings, interest-bearing demand and time deposits averaged $45.2 billion for 2013 compared with $36.5 billion for 2012. The increase primarily reflects higher time and interest-bearing demand deposits.

Average payables to customers and broker-dealers were $9.0 billion for 2013 and $8.0 billion for 2012. Payables to customers and broker-dealers are driven by customer trading activity and market volatility. Long-term debt averaged $19.1 billion for 2013 and $19.9 billion for 2012. The decrease in average long-term debt was driven by debt maturities and a decrease in the fair value of hedged long-term debt. Average noninterest-bearing deposits increased to $73.3 billion for 2013 from $70.0 billion for 2012 reflecting growth in client deposits. A significant reduction in our Investment Services business would reduce our access to deposits. See "Asset/liability management" for additional factors that could impact our deposit balances.

The Parent has four major sources of liquidity:

- cash on hand;
- dividends from its subsidiaries;
- access to the commercial paper market; and
- access to the debt and equity markets.

Subsequent to Dec. 31, 2013, our bank subsidiaries could declare dividends to the Parent of approximately $2.9 billion, without the need for a regulatory waiver. In addition, at Dec. 31, 2013, non-bank subsidiaries of the Parent had liquid assets of approximately $1.9 billion.

In April 2013, BNY Mellon announced a 15% increase in the quarterly common stock cash dividend from $0.13 to $0.15 per common share. Our common stock dividend payout ratio was 33% for the full-year of 2013, or 26% after adjusting for the net impact of the U.S. Tax Court's decisions regarding certain foreign tax credits. The Federal Reserve's current guidance provides that, for large bank holding companies like us, dividend payout ratios exceeding 30% of after-tax net income will receive particularly close scrutiny.

Restrictions on our ability to obtain funds from our subsidiaries are discussed in more detail in "Supervision and Regulation - Capital Planning and Stress Testing - Payment of Dividends, Stock Repurchases and Other Capital Distributions" and in Note 19 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements.

In 2013 and 2012, the Parent's average commercial paper borrowings were $690 million and $819 million, respectively. The Parent had cash of $6.8 billion at Dec. 31, 2013, compared with $4.0 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. In addition to issuing commercial paper for funding purposes, the Parent issues commercial paper, on an overnight basis, to certain custody clients with excess demand deposit balances. Overnight commercial paper outstanding issued by the Parent was $96 million at Dec. 31, 2013 and $338 million at Dec. 31, 2012. Net of commercial paper outstanding, the Parent's cash position at Dec. 31, 2013, increased by $3.0 billion compared with Dec. 31, 2012, primarily reflecting the issuance of senior medium term notes, preferred stock and dividends from its subsidiaries, partially offset by maturities of long-term debt and common share repurchases.

The Parent's major uses of funds are payment of dividends, repurchases of common stock, principal and interest payments on its borrowings, acquisitions and additional investments in its subsidiaries.

In 2013, we repurchased 35.1 million common shares at an average price of $29.24 per common share for a total of $1.03 billion.

The Parent's liquidity policy is to have sufficient unencumbered cash and cash equivalents on hand to meet its forecasted debt redemptions, net interest payments and net tax payments over the next 18 to 24 months without the need to receive dividends from its bank subsidiaries or issue debt. As of Dec. 31, 2013, the Parent was in compliance with its liquidity policy.

In addition to our other funding sources, we also have the ability to access the capital markets. In June 2013, we filed shelf registration statements on Form

S-3 with the Securities and Exchange Commission ("SEC") covering the issuance of certain securities, including an unlimited amount of debt, common stock, preferred stock and trust preferred securities, as well as common stock issued under the Direct Stock Purchase and Dividend Reinvestment Plans. These registration statements will expire in June 2016, at which time we plan to file new shelf registration statements.

Our ability to access the capital markets on favorable terms, or at all, is partially dependent on our credit ratings, which, as of Dec. 31, 2013, were as follows:

(a) Represents senior debt issuer default rating.

As a result of S&P's government support assumptions on certain U.S. financial institutions, the Parent's ratings by S&P benefit from one notch of "lift". Similarly, The Bank of New York Mellon's and BNY Mellon, N.A.'s ratings benefit from two notches of "lift" from Moody's Investor Service ("Moody's") and one notch of "lift" from S&P. In June 2013, S&P indicated that they are reconsidering the inclusion of assumed government support in its ratings on the eight U.S. bank holding companies that they view as having high systemic importance, including The Bank of New York Mellon Corporation.

On Nov. 14, 2013, Moody's concluded its previously announced reviews of the three large U.S. trust and custody banks' long-term ratings. As a result of these reviews, which included both U.S. government support ratings, and stand-alone ratings, Moody's downgraded all three of the large U.S. trust and custody banks. Moody's downgraded our ratings and those of The Bank of New York Mellon and BNY Mellon, N.A. by one notch. Our short-term ratings and those of The Bank of New York Mellon and BNY Mellon, N.A. were unchanged. For further discussion on the impact of a credit rating downgrade, see Note 23 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements.

Long-term debt totaled $19.9 billion at Dec. 31, 2013 and $18.5 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. In 2013, the Parent issued $3.9 billion of senior debt, partially offset by maturities of $1.6 billion, a decrease in the fair value of hedged long-term debt and $300 million of repayments of trust preferred securities. The fair value of the derivatives hedging long-term debt is recorded in other assets. Additionally, the Parent called $107 million of subordinated debt in 2013.

In February 2014, we issued $500 million of senior medium-term notes maturing in 2019 at an annual interest rate of 2.2%, $750 million of senior medium-term notes maturing in 2024 at an annual interest rate of 3.65% and $200 million of senior medium-term notes maturing in 2019 at an annual interest rate of 3-month LIBOR plus 50 basis points.

The Parent has $4.37 billion of long-term debt that will mature in 2014 and has the option to call $300 million of subordinated debt in 2014, which it may call and refinance if market conditions are favorable

In 2013, we issued 500,000 depositary shares (the "Series D depositary shares"), each representing a 1/100th ownership interest in a share of Series D Noncumulative Perpetual Preferred Stock, with a liquidation preference of $100,000 per share (the "Series D preferred stock"), of The Bank of New York Mellon Corporation. BNY Mellon will pay a dividend on the Series D preferred stock if declared by our board of directors, at an annual rate of 4.5% on each June 20 and December 20, to but excluding June 20, 2023; and a floating rate equal to three-month LIBOR plus 2.46% on each March 20, June 20, September 20 and December 20, from and including June 20, 2023. The proceeds of the offering totaled $494 million, net of issuance costs, a portion of which was used to redeem $300 million of 7.78% Trust Preferred Securities of BNY Institutional Capital Trust A.

At Dec. 31, 2013, we had $330 million of trust preferred securities outstanding. Under the Final Capital Rules, these trust-preferred securities may continue to be included in Tier 1 or Tier 2 capital up to the following percentages: calendar year 2014 - 50%; calendar year 2015 - 25%; and calendar year 2016 and beyond - 0%. Any decision to take action with respect to these trust preferred securities will be based on several considerations including interest rates, the availability of cash and capital, as well as the implementation of the Final Capital Rules.

The double leverage ratio is the ratio of investment in subsidiaries divided by our consolidated equity, which includes our noncumulative perpetual preferred stock plus trust preferred securities. Our double leverage ratio was 109.4% at Dec. 31, 2013 and 109.9% at Dec. 31, 2012. The double leverage ratio is monitored by regulators and rating agencies and is an important constraint on our ability to invest in our subsidiaries and expand our businesses.

Pershing LLC, an indirect subsidiary of BNY Mellon, has committed and uncommitted lines of credit in place for liquidity purposes which are guaranteed by the Parent. The committed line of credit of $750 million extended by 16 financial institutions matures in March 2014. There were no borrowings against this line in 2013. Pershing LLC has nine separate uncommitted lines of credit amounting to $1.6 billion in aggregate. Average daily borrowing under these lines was $8 million, in aggregate, in 2013.

The committed line of credit maintained by Pershing LLC requires the Parent to maintain:

- shareholders' equity of $5 billion;
- a ratio of Tier 1 capital plus the allowance for credit losses to nonperforming assets of at least 2.5; and
- a double leverage ratio less than 130%.

We are currently in compliance with these covenants.

Pershing Limited, an indirect UK-based subsidiary of BNY Mellon, has uncommitted lines of credit in place for liquidity purposes, which are guaranteed by the Parent. Pershing Limited has two separate uncommitted lines of credit amounting to $250 million in aggregate. Average daily borrowing under these lines was $62 million, in aggregate, in 2013.

Statement of cash flows

Cash used for operating activities was $642 million in 2013 compared with cash provided by operations of $1.6 billion in 2012 and $2.2 billion in 2011. In 2013, cash flows used for operations were principally changes in trading activities and accruals, partially offset by earnings. In 2012, cash flows from operations were principally the result of earnings, partially offset by changes in trading activities. In 2011, the cash flows from operations were principally the result of earnings.

In 2013, cash used for investing activities was $13.2 billion compared with $29.4 billion in 2012 and $80.2 billion in 2011. In 2013, purchases of securities, changes in interest-bearing deposits with the Federal Reserve and other central banks, loans and federal funds sold and securities purchased under resale agreements were a significant use of funds, partially offset by sales, paydowns and maturities of securities and a decrease in interest-bearing deposits with banks. In 2012, purchases of securities, and increases in interest-bearing deposits with banks, partially offset by sales, paydowns and maturities of securities, were significant uses of funds. In 2011, increases in interest-bearing deposits with the Federal Reserve and other central banks, and the purchase of securities, partially offset by a decrease in interest-bearing deposits with banks and sales, paydowns and maturities of securities, were significant uses of funds.

In 2013, cash provided by financing activities was $15.6 billion compared with $28.3 billion for 2012 and $78.8 billion in 2011. In 2013, an increase in deposits, the net proceeds from the issuance of long-term debt and changes in federal funds purchased and securities sold under repurchase agreements were significant sources of funds, partially offset by the repayment of long-term debt and common stock repurchases. In 2012, increases in deposits and payables to customers and broker dealers were significant sources of funds. In 2011, proceeds from issuances of long-term debt and increases in deposits and payables to customers and broker-dealers were significant sources of funds.

Commitments and obligations

We have contractual obligations to make fixed and determinable payments to third parties as indicated in the table below. The table excludes certain obligations such as trade payables and trading liabilities, where the obligation is short-term or subject to valuation based on market factors. In addition to the amounts shown in the table below, at Dec. 31, 2013, $866 million of unrecognized tax benefits have been recorded as liabilities in accordance with ASC 740. Related to these unrecognized tax benefits, we have also recorded a liability for potential interest of $203 million. At this point, it is not possible to determine when these amounts will be settled or resolved.

Total The Bank of New York Mellon Corporation shareholders' equity at Dec. 31, 2013 increased to $37.5 billion from $36.4 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. The increase primarily reflects earnings retention, approximately $500 million resulting from the exercise of stock options and awards and employee benefit plan contributions, an increase in the value of our pension assets and the issuance of $500 million of noncumulative perpetual preferred stock, partially offset by a decline in the value of our investment securities portfolio and share repurchases.
The unrealized net of tax gain on our available-for-sale investment securities portfolio recorded in accumulated other comprehensive income was $357 million at Dec. 31, 2013, compared with $1.3 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. The decrease in the valuation of the investment securities portfolio was driven by an increase in long-term interest rates.

In 2013, we repurchased 35.1 million common shares at an average price of $29.24 per common share for a total of $1.03 billion. Under the 2013 capital plan, we are authorized to repurchase $385 million worth of common shares in the first quarter of 2014. Through Feb. 27, 2014, we repurchased 10.6 million common shares at an average price of $32.41 per common share for a total of $345 million.

On Jan. 17, 2014, the board of directors declared a quarterly common stock dividend of $0.15 per share. This cash dividend was paid on Feb. 7, 2014, to shareholders of record as of the close of business on Jan. 31, 2014.

Capital adequacy

Regulators establish certain levels of capital for bank holding companies and banks, including BNY Mellon and our bank subsidiaries, in accordance with established quantitative measurements. For the Parent to maintain its status as a financial holding company, our bank subsidiaries and BNY Mellon must, among other things, qualify as "well capitalized".

As of Dec. 31, 2013 and Dec. 31, 2012, BNY Mellon and our bank subsidiaries were considered "well capitalized" on the basis of the Basel I Total and Tier 1 capital to risk-weighted assets ratios and the leverage ratio (Basel I Tier 1 capital to quarterly average assets as defined for regulatory purposes).

Our consolidated and largest bank subsidiary, The Bank of New York Mellon, capital ratios are shown below.

Consolidated and largest bank subsidiary capital ratios

(a) At Dec. 31, 2013, the estimated Basel III Tier 1 common equity ratio is based on our interpretation of the Final Capital Rules released by the Federal Reserve on July 2, 2013, on a fully phased-in basis. For periods prior to Dec. 31, 2013, these ratios were estimated using our interpretations of the NPRs dated June 7, 2012, on a fully phased-in basis. Both the Final Capital Rules and the NPRs require the Tier 1 common equity ratio to be the lower of the Standardized Approach or Advanced Approach. At Dec. 31, 2012, the ratio was higher under the Standardized Approach, and therefore was presented under the Advanced Approach.

(b) See "Supplemental Information - Explanation of GAAP and Non-GAAP financial measures" beginning on page 118 for a calculation of these ratios.

(c) On a fully phased-in basis, we expect to satisfy a minimum Basel III Tier 1 common equity ratio of at least 7%, 4.5% attributable to a minimum common equity Tier 1 ratio and 2.5% attributable to a capital conservation buffer (expected to rise to 8%, assuming an additional G-SIB buffer of 1%).

(d) Changes in January 2014 to the probable loss model associated with unsecured wholesale credit exposures within our Advanced Approach capital model will impact risk-wighted assets. The Company did not include the impact at Dec. 31, 2013. However, a preliminary estimate of the revised methodology to the portfolio at Sept. 30, 2013 would have added approximately 6% to the risk-weighted assets.

(e) When in this Annual Report we refer to BNY Mellon's or our bank subsidiary's "Basel I" capital measures (e.g., Basel I Total capital or Basel I Tier 1 capital), we mean that capital measure, as calculated under the Federal Reserve's risk-based capital rules that are based on the 1988 Basel Accord, which is often referred to as "Basel I". Similarly, when in this Annual Report we refer to BNY Mellon's "Basel III" capital measures (e.g., Basel III Tier 1 common equity), we mean that capital measure as calculated under the Final Capital Rules released by the Federal Reserve on July 2, 2013. Includes full capital credit for certain capital instruments outstanding at Dec. 31, 2013. A phase-out of non-qualifying instruments began on Jan. 1, 2014.

(f) The minimum level required under current Basel I standards.

(g) The minimum leverage ratio is 3% or 4%, depending on factors specified in regulations.

Our estimated Basel III Tier 1 common equity ratio (Non-GAAP) calculated under the Standardized Approach, and based on our interpretation of the Final Capital Rules, on a fully phased-in basis, was 10.6% at Dec. 31, 2013. At Dec. 31, 2012, the estimated Basel III Tier 1 common equity ratio which was calculated under the Advanced Approach based on our interpretation of the NPR's, on a fully phased-in basis, was 9.8%. For additional information on the Final Capital Rules, see "Recent accounting and regulatory developments - Regulatory developments".

In 2013, net Basel III Tier 1 common equity increased $611 million. The table below presents the factors that impacted net Basel III Tier 1 common equity in 2013.

(a) Primarily related to employee stock options and awards and employee benefit plan contributions.

Our Basel I Tier 1 capital ratio was 16.2% at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with 15.0% at Dec. 31, 2012. Our Basel I Tier 1 leverage ratio was 5.4% at Dec. 31, 2013 and 5.3% at Dec. 31, 2012. The increases in these ratios primarily reflect earnings retention and the issuance of noncumulative perpetual preferred stock, partially offset by share repurchases and the redemption of trust-preferred securities. The Basel I Tier 1 capital ratio was also impacted by an increase in risk-weighted assets, while the Basel I Tier 1 leverage ratio was impacted by an increase in average assets. The leverage ratio of The Bank of New York Mellon was 5.3% at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with 5.4% at Dec. 31, 2012. The decrease in the leverage ratio of The Bank of New York Mellon reflects an increase in average assets.

The Tier 1 capital and total capital ratios for The Bank of New York Mellon increased at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with Dec. 31, 2012. The increases in these ratios primarily reflect earnings retention, partially offset by an increase in risk-weighted assets.

At Dec. 31, 2013, the amounts of capital by which BNY Mellon and our largest bank subsidiary, The Bank of New York Mellon, exceed the Basel I "well capitalized" thresholds are as follows.

The following table shows the impact of a $1 billion increase or decrease in risk-weighted assets/quarterly average assets or a $100 million increase or decrease in common equity on the consolidated capital ratios at Dec. 31, 2013.

(a) Quarterly average assets determined under Basel I regulatory rules. For Basel III, quarterly average assets are determined under the Final Capital Rules.

Our tangible BNY Mellon common shareholders' equity to tangible assets of operations ratio was 6.8% at Dec. 31, 2013 and 6.4% at Dec. 31, 2012. The increase primarily reflects earnings retention and an increase in the value of our pension assets, partially offset by a decline in the value of our investment securities portfolio and share repurchases.

At Dec. 31, 2013, we had $330 million of trust preferred securities outstanding which currently qualify as Tier 1 capital. Any decision to take action with respect to these trust preferred securities will be based on several considerations including interest rates, the availability of cash and capital, as well as the implementation of the Final Capital Rules.

Failure to satisfy regulatory standards, including "well capitalized" status or capital adequacy rules more generally, could result in limitations on our activities and adversely affect our financial condition. See the discussion of these matters in "Supervision and Regulation-Regulated Entities of BNY Mellon and Ancillary Regulatory Requirements" and "Risk Factors-Operational and Business Risk-Failure to satisfy regulatory standards, including "well capitalized" and "well managed" status or capital adequacy rules more generally, could result in limitations on our activities and adversely affect our business and financial condition."

Capital ratios vary depending on the size of the balance sheet at quarter-end and the level and types of investments in assets. The balance sheet size fluctuates from quarter to quarter based on levels of customer and market activity. In general, when servicing clients are more actively trading securities, deposit balances and the balance sheet as a whole are higher. In addition, when markets experience significant volatility or stress, our balance sheet size may increase considerably as client deposit levels increase.

The following tables present the components of our Basel I Tier 1 and Total risk-based capital, the Basel I risk-weighted assets as well as average assets used for leverage capital purposes at Dec. 31, 2013 and Dec. 31, 2012.

(b) Represents the maximum value of the shares authorized to be repurchased through the first quarter of 2014, including employee benefit plan repurchases, in connection with the Federal Reserve's non-objection to our 2013 capital plan.

On March 13, 2012, in connection with the Federal Reserve's non-objection to our 2012 capital plan, the Board of Directors authorized a stock purchase program providing for the repurchase of an aggregate of $1.16 billion of common stock beginning in the second quarter of 2012 and continuing through the first quarter of 2013. On March 14, 2013, in connection with the Federal Reserve's non-objection to our 2013 capital plan, the Board of Directors authorized a new stock purchase program providing for the repurchase of an aggregate of $1.35 billion of common stock beginning in the second quarter of 2013 and continuing through the first quarter of 2014.

Trading activities and risk management

Our trading activities are focused on acting as a market maker for our customers and facilitating customer trades. Positions managed for our own account are immaterial to our foreign exchange and other trading revenue and to our overall results of operations. The risk from market-making activities for customers is managed by our traders and limited in total exposure through a system of position limits, a value-at-risk ("VaR") methodology based on a Monte Carlo simulation, stop loss advisory triggers, and other market sensitivity measures. The calculation of our VaR used by management and presented below assumes a one-day holding period, utilizes a 99% confidence level, and incorporates the non-linear characteristics of options. See Note 23 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements for additional information on the VaR methodology.

The following tables indicate the calculated VaR amounts for the trading portfolio for the designated periods:

VaR (a)	2013
(in millions)	Average	Minimum	Maximum	Dec. 31,
Interest rate	$ 10.7	$ 6.8	$ 14.8	$ 7.7
Foreign exchange	1.1	0.4	2.4	0.6
Equity	2.5	1.1	4.4	2.3

VaR (a)	2012
(in millions)	Average	Minimum	Maximum	Dec. 31,

Foreign exchange	1.7	0.2	4.8	0.7
Equity	1.9	0.9	3.4	1.8
Diversification	(3.3)	N/M	N/M	(2.7)
Overall portfolio	10.9	5.0	17.0	10.5

(a) VaR figures do not reflect the impact of credit valuation adjustment ("CVA") guidance in ASC 820. This is consistent with the regulatory treatment. VaR exposure does not include the impact of the Company's consolidated investment management funds and seed capital investments.

N/M - Because the minimum and maximum may occur on different days for different risk components, it is not meaningful to compute a portfolio diversification effect.

The interest rate component of VaR represents instruments whose values predominantly vary with the level or volatility of interest rates. These instruments include, but are not limited to: debt securities, mortgage-backed securities, swaps, swaptions, forward rate agreements, exchange-traded futures and options, and other interest rate derivative products.

The foreign exchange component of VaR represents instruments whose values predominantly vary with the level or volatility of currency exchange rates or interest rates. These instruments include, but are not limited to: currency balances, spot and forward transactions, currency options, and exchange-traded futures and options, and other currency derivative products.

The equity component of VaR is comprised of instruments that represent an ownership interest in the form of domestic and foreign common stock or other equity-linked instruments. These instruments include, but are not limited to: common stock, exchange-traded funds, Depositary Receipts, listed equity options (puts and calls), OTC equity options, equity total return swaps, equity index futures and other equity derivative products.

The diversification component of VaR is the risk reduction benefit that occurs when combining portfolios and offsetting positions, and from the correlated behavior of risk factor movements.

During 2013, interest rate risk-generated 75% of average VaR, equity risk generated 18% of average VaR and foreign exchange risk accounted for 7% of average VaR. During 2013, our daily trading loss did not exceed our calculated VaR amount of the overall portfolio on any given day.

The following table of total daily trading revenue or loss illustrates the number of trading days in which our trading revenue or loss fell within particular ranges during the past five quarters. The dispersion of trading results was wider year-over-year reflecting fluctuations in foreign exchange revenue due mainly to changes in market volatility impacting spreads, changes in interest rates and the inclusion of CVA and overnight index swap ("OIS") curve discounting, which began June 30, 2013.

(a) For quarters prior to June 30, 2013, the distribution of trading revenues (losses) does not reflect the impact of the CVA and corresponding hedge and OIS curve discounting.

Foreign exchange and other trading

Foreign exchange and other trading revenue totaled $674 million in 2013 and $692 million in 2012. In 2013, foreign exchange revenue totaled $608 million, an increase of 17% compared with $520 million in 2012 driven by higher volumes and volatility. Other trading revenue totaled $66 million in 2013 compared with $172 million in 2012. The decrease primarily reflects lower fixed income trading revenue due to lower derivatives trading revenue and a loss on inventory driven by higher interest rates. Foreign exchange revenue and fixed income trading revenue is reported in the Investment Services business and the Other segment. Equity/other trading revenue is primarily reported in the Other segment.

Trading assets include debt and equity instruments and derivative assets, primarily interest rate and foreign exchange contracts, not designated as hedging instruments. Trading assets were $12 billion at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with $9 billion at Dec. 31, 2012. The increase in trading assets primarily resulted from a higher level of securities inventory, primarily U.S. equity securities and Agency RMBS as we expand our broker-dealer business.

Trading liabilities include debt and equity instruments, and derivative liabilities, primarily interest rate and foreign exchange contracts, not designated as hedging instruments. Trading liabilities were $7 billion at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with $8 billion at Dec. 31, 2012.

Under our mark-to-market methodology for derivative contracts, an initial "risk-neutral" valuation is performed on each position assuming time-discounting based on a AA credit curve. In addition, we consider credit risk in arriving at the fair value of our derivatives.

As required by ASC 820, Fair Value Measurements and Disclosures, we reflect external credit ratings as well as observable credit default swap spreads for both ourselves as well as our counterparties when measuring the fair value of our derivative positions. Accordingly, the valuation of our derivative positions is sensitive to the current changes in our own credit spreads, as well as those of our counterparties. In addition, in cases where a counterparty is deemed impaired, further analyses are performed to value such positions.

At Dec. 31, 2013, our over-the-counter ("OTC") derivative assets of $4.2 billion included a CVA deduction of $26 million. Our OTC derivative liabilities of $5.6 billion included a debit valuation adjustment ("DVA") of $9 million related to our own credit spread. Net of hedges, the CVA decreased $29 million and the DVA decreased $12 million in 2013. The net impact of these adjustments increased foreign exchange and other trading revenue by $17 million in 2013.

At Dec. 31, 2012, our OTC derivative assets of $5.1 billion included a CVA deduction of $103 million. Our OTC derivative liabilities of $7.0 billion included a DVA of $29 million related to our own credit spread. Net of hedges, the CVA decreased $80 million and the DVA decreased $16 million in 2012. The net impact of these adjustments increased foreign exchange and other trading revenue by $64 million in 2012.

The table below summarizes the risk ratings for our foreign exchange and interest rate derivative counterparty credit exposure. This information indicates the degree of risk to which we are exposed. Significant changes in ratings classifications for our foreign exchange and other trading activity could result in increased risk for us. The changes year-over-year were impacted by a decrease in aggregate exposure across the portfolio primarily impacting both the AAA to AA- and the BBB+ to BBB- categories. The decreases were largely driven by increases in swap rates over the year which caused certain exposures to decline in value.

Asset/liability management

Our diversified business activities include processing securities, accepting deposits, investing in securities, lending, raising money as needed to fund assets, and other transactions. The market risks from these activities are interest rate risk and foreign exchange risk. Our primary market risk is exposure to movements in U.S. dollar interest rates and certain foreign currency interest rates. We actively manage interest rate sensitivity and use earnings simulation and discounted cash flow models to identify interest rate exposures.

An earnings simulation model is the primary tool used to assess changes in pre-tax net interest revenue. The model incorporates management's assumptions regarding interest rates, balance changes on core deposits, market spreads, changes in the prepayment behavior of loans and securities and the impact of derivative financial instruments used for interest rate risk management purposes. These assumptions have been developed through a combination of historical analysis and future expected pricing behavior and are inherently uncertain. As a result, the earnings simulation model cannot precisely estimate net interest revenue or the impact of higher or lower interest rates on net interest revenue. Actual results may differ from projected results due to timing, magnitude and frequency of interest rate changes, and changes in market conditions and management's strategies, among other factors.

These scenarios do not reflect strategies that management could employ to limit the impact as interest rate expectations change. The table below relies on certain critical assumptions regarding the balance sheet and depositors' behavior related to interest rate fluctuations and the prepayment and extension risk in certain of our assets. To the extent that actual behavior is different from that assumed in the models, there could be a change in interest rate sensitivity.

We evaluate the effect on earnings by running various interest rate ramp scenarios from a baseline scenario. These scenarios are reviewed to examine the impact of large interest rate movements. Interest rate sensitivity is quantified by calculating the change in pre-tax net interest revenue between the scenarios over a 12-month measurement period.

The following table shows net interest revenue sensitivity for BNY Mellon:

Estimated changes in net interest revenue

(dollars in millions)	Dec. 31, 2012	March 31, 2013	June 30, 2013	Sept. 30, 2013	Dec. 31, 2013
up 200 bps parallel rate ramp vs. baseline (a)	$ 607	$ 351	$ 402	$ 617	$ 677
up 100 bps parallel rate ramp vs. baseline (a)	435	311	324	387	466
Long-term up 50 bps, short-term unchanged (b)	128	142	130	174	44
Long-term down 50 bps, short-term unchanged (b)	(93)	(114)	(123)	(144)	(47)

(a) In the parallel rate ramp, both short-term and long-term rates move in four equal quarterly increments.

(b) Long-term is equal to or greater than one year.

The 100 basis point ramp scenario assumes rates increase 25 basis points in each of the next four quarters and the 200 basis point ramp scenario assumes a 50 basis point per quarter increase.

Our net interest revenue sensitivity table above incorporates assumptions about the impact of changes in interest rates on depositor behavior based on historical experience. Given the current historically low interest rate environment, a rise in interest rates could lead to higher depositor withdrawals than historically experienced.

Growth or contraction of deposits could also be affected by the following factors:

- Monetary policy;
- Global economic uncertainty;
- Our ratings relative to other financial institutions' ratings; and
- Money market mutual fund and other regulatory reform.

Any of these events could change our assumptions about depositor behavior and have a significant impact on our balance sheet and net interest revenue.

We also project future cash flows from our assets and liabilities over a long-term horizon and then discount these cash flows using instantaneous parallel shocks to prevailing interest rates. This measure reflects the structural balance sheet interest rate sensitivity by discounting all future cash flows. The aggregation of these discounted cash flows is the Economic Value of Equity ("EVE"). The following table shows how the EVE would change in response to changes in interest rates:

Estimated changes in EVE	Dec. 31, 2013
Rate change:
up 200 bps vs. baseline	(4.2)%
up 100 bps vs. baseline	(2.0)%

These results do not reflect strategies that management could employ to limit the impact as interest rate expectations change.

The asymmetrical accounting treatment of the impact of a change in interest rates on our balance sheet may create a situation in which an increase in interest rates can adversely affect reported equity and regulatory capital, even though economically there may be no impact on our economic capital position. For example, an increase in rates will result in a decline in the value of our available-for-sale securities portfolio, which will be reflected through a reduction in other comprehensive income in our shareholders' equity thereby affecting our tangible common equity ("TCE") ratios. Under current accounting rules, to the extent the fair value option provided in ASC 825 is not applied, there is no corresponding change on our fixed liabilities, even though economically these liabilities are more valuable as rates rise.

We project the impact of this change using the same interest rate shock assumptions described earlier and compare the projected mark-to-market on the investment securities portfolio at Dec. 31, 2013, under the higher rate environments versus a stable rate scenario. The table below shows the impact of a change in interest rates on the TCE ratio:

up 100 bps vs. baseline	(41)

These results do not reflect strategies that management could employ to limit the impact as interest rate expectations change.

To manage foreign exchange risk, we fund foreign currency-denominated assets with liability instruments denominated in the same currency. We utilize various foreign exchange contracts if a liability denominated in the same currency is not available or desired, and to minimize the earnings impact of translation gains or losses created by investments in foreign markets. The foreign exchange risk related to the interest rate spread on foreign currency-denominated asset/liability positions is managed as part of our trading activities. We use forward foreign exchange contracts to protect the value of our net investment in foreign operations. At Dec. 31, 2013, net investments in foreign operations totaled $12 billion and were spread across 13 foreign currencies.

Risk management overview

Governance

Risk management and oversight begins with the Board of Directors and two key Board committees: the Risk Committee and the Audit Committee.

The Risk Committee is comprised entirely of independent directors and meets on a regular basis to review and assess the control processes with respect to the Company's inherent risks. They also review and assess the risk management activities of the Company and the Company's fiduciary risk policies and activities. Policy formulation and day-to-day oversight of the Risk Management Framework is delegated to the Chief Risk Officer, who, together with the Chief Auditor and Chief Compliance Officer, helps ensure an effective risk management governance structure. The roles and responsibilities of the Risk Committee are described in more detail in its charter, a copy of which is available on our website, www.bnymellon.com.

The Audit Committee is also comprised entirely of independent directors, all of whom are financially literate within the meaning of the NYSE listing standards, and one of whom has been determined to be an audit committee financial expert as set out in the rules and regulations under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended (the "Exchange Act"), with accounting or related financial management expertise within the meaning of the NYSE listing standards. All members of the Audit Committee have been determined to have banking and financial management expertise within the meaning of the FDIC rules. The Audit Committee meets on a regular basis to perform an oversight review of the integrity of the financial statements and financial reporting process, compliance with legal and regulatory requirements, our independent registered public accountant's qualifications and independence, and the performance of our registered public accountant and internal audit function. The Audit Committee also reviews management's assessment of the adequacy of internal controls. The functions of the Audit Committee are described in more detail in its charter, a copy of which is available on our website, www.bnymellon.com.

The Senior Risk Management Committee ("SRMC") is the most senior management body responsible for ensuring that emerging risks are weighed against the corporate risk appetite and that any material amendments to the risk appetite statement are properly vetted and recommended to the Executive Committee and the Board for approval. The SRMC also reviews any material breaches to our risk appetite and approves action plans required to remediate the issue. SRMC provides oversight for the risk management, compliance and ethics framework. The Chief Executive Officer, Chief Risk Officer and Chief Financial Officer are among SRMC's members.

Risk appetite statement

BNY Mellon defines risk appetite as the level of risk it is normally willing to accept while pursuing the interests of our major stakeholders, including our clients, shareholders, employees and regulators. The Company has adopted the following as its risk appetite statement: "Risk taking is a fundamental characteristic of providing financial services and arises in every transaction we undertake. Our risk appetite is driven by the fact that our Company is the global leader in providing services that enable the management and servicing of financial assets in more than 100 markets worldwide and has been designated by international regulators as one of the 29 Global Systemically Important Financial Institutions ("G-SIFIs"). This designation recognizes our fundamental importance to the health and operation of the global capital markets and carries with it a responsibility to maintain the highest standards of excellence. As a result, we are committed to maintaining a strong balance sheet throughout market cycles and to delivering operational excellence to meet the expectations of our major stakeholders, including our clients, shareholders, employees and regulators. The balance sheet will be characterized by strong liquidity, superior asset quality, ready access to external funding sources at competitive rates and a strong capital structure that supports our risk taking activities and is adequate to absorb potential losses. These characteristics support our goal of having superior debt ratings among our peers. To that end, the Company's Risk Management Framework has been designed to:

- ensure that appropriate risk tolerances ("limits") are in place to govern our risk taking activities across all businesses and risk types;
- ensure that our risk appetite principles permeate the Company's culture and are incorporated into our strategic decision-making processes;

- ensure rigorous monitoring and reporting of key risk metrics to senior management and the Board of Directors; and
- ensure that there is an on-going, and forward-looking, capital planning process to support our risk taking activities."

Primary risk types

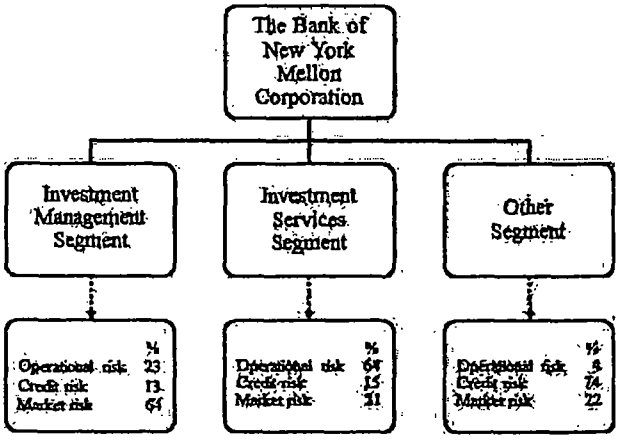
The understanding, identification and management of risk are essential elements for the successful management of BNY Mellon. Our primary risk categories are:

Type of risk	Description
Operational/ business	The risk of loss resulting from inadequate or failed internal processes, human factors and systems, breaches of technology and information systems, or from external events. Also includes fiduciary risk, reputational risk, and litigation risk.
Market	The risk of loss due to adverse changes in the financial markets. Our market risks are primarily interest rate, foreign exchange, and equity risk. Market risk particularly impacts our exposures that are marked-to-market such as the securities portfolio, trading book, and equity investments.
Credit	The possible loss we would suffer if any of our borrowers or other counterparties were to default on their obligations to us. Credit risk is resident in the majority of our assets, but primarily concentrated in the loan and securities books, as well as off-balance-sheet exposures such as lending commitments, letters of credit, and securities lending indemnifications.
Liquidity	The risk that BNY Mellon cannot meet its cash and collateral obligations at a reasonable cost for both expected and unexpected cash flows, without adversely affecting daily operations or financial conditions. Liquidity risk can arise from cash flow mismatches, market constraints from inability to convert assets to cash, inability to raise cash in the markets, deposit run-off, or contingent liquidity events. Thus, liquidity risk can be inherent in the majority of our balance sheet exposures.

The following table presents the primary types of risk typically embedded in on- and off-balance-sheet instruments.

Risks of our on- and off-balance-sheet instruments
Assets:
Interest-bearing deposits with banks	credit
Federal funds sold and securities purchased under resale agreements	market, credit
Securities	market, credit
Trading assets	market, credit
Loans	credit
Goodwill	operational/business, market
Intangible assets	operational/business, market
Liabilities:
Deposits	liquidity
Federal funds purchased and securities sold under repurchase agreements	liquidity
Trading liabilities	market, liquidity
Payables to customers and broker-dealers	liquidity
Commercial paper	liquidity
Off-balance-sheet instruments:
Lending commitments	credit, liquidity
Standby letter of credit	credit, liquidity
Commercial letters of credit	credit, liquidity
Securities lending indemnifications	market, credit

The following chart provides a guide to the primary risks inherent in our businesses. Liquidity risk is managed on a stand-alone basis at the Consolidated and Bank levels. Management of liquidity risk is the responsibility of the Corporate Treasury Group which is reported in the Other segment. The percentages below are based on the allocation of economic capital at Dec. 31, 2013 to protect against unexpected economic losses over a one-year period at a level consistent with the solvency of a target debt rating.



Operational/business risk

Overview

In providing a comprehensive array of products and services, we may be exposed to operational/business risk. Operational/business risk may result from, but is not limited to, errors related to transaction processing, breaches of internal control systems and compliance requirements, fraud by employees or persons outside BNY Mellon or business interruption due to system failures or other events. Operational/ business risk may also include breaches of our technology and information systems resulting from unauthorized access to confidential information or from internal or external threats, such as cyber attacks. Operational/business risk also includes potential legal or regulatory actions that could arise as a result of noncompliance with applicable laws and/or regulatory requirements. In the case of an operational event, we could suffer a financial loss as well as damage to our reputation.

To address these risks, we maintain comprehensive policies and procedures and an internal control framework designed to provide a sound operational environment. These controls have been designed to manage operational/business risk at appropriate levels given our financial strength, the business environment and markets in which we operate, the nature of our businesses, and considering factors such as competition and regulation. Our internal auditors and internal control group monitor and test the overall effectiveness of our internal controls and financial reporting systems on an ongoing basis.

We have also established procedures that are designed to ensure compliance with generally accepted conduct, ethics and business practices which are defined in our corporate policies. These include training programs such as for our "Code of Conduct," and "Know Your Customer" programs, and compliance training programs such as those regarding information protection, suspicious activity reporting, and operational risk.

Operational/business risk management

We have established operational/business risk management as an independent risk discipline. The Operational Risk Management ("ORM") Group and Information Risk Management ("IRM") Group report to the Chief Risk Officer. The organizational framework for operational/business risk is based upon a strong risk culture that incorporates both governance and risk management activities comprising:

- Board Oversight and Governance - The Risk Committee of the Board approves and oversees our operational/business risk management strategy in addition to credit and market risk. The Risk Committee meets regularly to review and approve operational/business risk management initiatives, discuss key risk issues, and review the effectiveness of the risk management systems.
- Accountability of Businesses - Business managers are responsible for maintaining an effective system of internal controls commensurate with their risk profiles and in accordance with BNY Mellon policies and procedures.
- ORM Group - The ORM Group is responsible for developing risk management policies and tools for assessing, measuring, monitoring and managing operational risk for BNY Mellon. The primary objectives of the ORM group are to promote effective risk management, identify emerging risks, create incentives for generating continuous improvement in controls, and to optimize capital.

- IRM Group - The IRM Group is responsible for developing policies, methods and tools for identifying, assessing, measuring, monitoring and governing information and technology risk for BNY Mellon. The IRM Group partners with the businesses to help maintain and protect the confidentiality, integrity, and availability of the firm's information and technology assets from internal and external threats such as cyber attacks.

Market risk

In addition to the Risk Committee and SRMC, oversight of market risk is performed by certain committees and through executive review meetings. Detailed reviews of derivative trading positions and stress tests results are conducted during the Global Markets Weekly Risk Review. Senior managers from Risk Management, Finance and Sales and Trading attend the review.

Regarding the Treasury function, oversight is provided by the Treasury Risk Committee, bi-weekly Portfolio Management Group risk meetings, Business Risk meetings, and numerous portfolio reviews.

Business Risk meetings for the Global Markets business also provide a forum for market risk oversight. The goal of Business Risk meetings, which are held at least quarterly, is to review key risk and control issues and related initiatives facing all lines of business including Global Markets. The following activities are also addressed during Business Risk meetings:

- Reporting of all new Monitoring Limits and changes to existing limits; and
- Monitoring of trading exposures, VaR, market sensitivities and stress testing results.

The Derivatives Documentation Committee reviews and approves variations in the Company's documentation standards as it relates to derivative transactions. In addition, this committee reviews all outstanding confirmations to identify potential exposure to the Company. Finally, the Risk Quantification and Modeling Committee validates and reviews back-testing results for the Company's VaR model.

Credit risk

To balance the value of our activities with the credit risk incurred in pursuing them, we set and monitor internal credit limits for activities that entail credit risk, most often on the size of the exposure and the maximum maturity of credit extended. For credit exposures driven by changing market rates and prices, exposure measures include an add-on for such potential changes.

We manage credit risk at both the individual exposure level as well as the portfolio level. Credit risk at the individual exposure level is managed through our credit approval system and involves four approval levels up to and including the Chief Risk Officer of the Company. The requisite approvals are based upon the size and relative risk of the aggregate exposure under consideration. The Credit Risk Group is responsible for approving the size, terms and maturity of all credit exposures as well as the ongoing monitoring of the creditworthiness of the counterparty. In addition, they are responsible for assigning and maintaining the risk ratings on each exposure.

Credit risk management at the portfolio level is supported by the Basel & Capital Adequacy Group, within the Risk Management and Compliance Sector. The Basel & Capital Adequacy Group is responsible for calculating two fundamental credit measures. First, we project a statistically probable credit loss, used to help determine the appropriate loan loss reserve and to measure customer profitability. Credit loss considers three basic components: the estimated size of the exposure whenever default might occur, the probability of default before maturity and the severity of the loss we would incur, commonly called "loss given default." For institutional lending, where most of our credit risk is created, unfunded commitments are assigned a usage given default percentage. Borrowers/Counterparties are assigned ratings by Credit Portfolio Managers ("CPMs") and the Chief Credit Officer ("CCO") on an 18-grade scale, which translate to a scaled probability of default. Additionally, transactions are assigned loss-given-default ratings (on a 7-grade scale) that reflect the transactions' structures including the effects of guarantees, collateral, and relative seniority of position.

The second fundamental measurement of credit risk calculated by the Basel & Capital Adequacy Group is called economic capital. Our economic capital model estimates the capital required to support the overall credit risk portfolio. Using a Monte Carlo simulation engine and measures of correlation among borrower defaults, the economic model examines extreme and highly unlikely scenarios of portfolio credit loss in order to estimate credit-related capital, and then allocates that capital to individual borrowers and exposures. The credit-related capital calculation supports a second tier of policy standards and limits by serving as an input to both profitability analysis and concentration limits of capital at risk with any one borrower, industry or country.

The Basel & Capital Adequacy Group is responsible for the calculation methodologies and the estimates of the inputs used in those methodologies for the determination of expected loss and economic capital. These methodologies and input estimates are regularly evaluated to ensure their appropriateness and accuracy. As new techniques and data become available, Basel & Capital Adequacy attempts to incorporate, where appropriate, those techniques or data.

Credit risk is intrinsic to much of the banking business. However, BNY Mellon seeks to limit both on- and off-balance sheet credit risk through prudent underwriting and the use of capital only where risk-adjusted returns warrant. We seek to manage risk and improve our portfolio diversification through syndications, asset sales, credit enhancements, credit derivatives, and active collateralization and netting agreements. In addition, we have a separate Credit Risk Review Group, which is part of Internal Audit, made up of experienced loan review officers who perform timely reviews of the loan files and credit ratings assigned to the loans.

Liquidity risk

Our overall approach to liquidity management is to ensure that sources of liquidity are sufficient in amount and diversity such that changes in funding requirements at the Parent and at the various bank subsidiaries can be accommodated routinely without material adverse impact on earnings, daily operations or our financial condition.

The Board of Directors is ultimately responsible for the liquidity risk of the Company and approves the liquidity risk tolerances. The Asset Liability Committee ("ALCO") is the senior management committee responsible for the oversight of liquidity management. ALCO is responsible to ensure that Board approved strategies, policies, and procedures for managing liquidity are appropriately executed. Senior management is also responsible for regularly reporting the liquidity position of the Company to the Board of Directors. The Treasury Risk Committee is responsible for reviewing liquidity stress tests and various liquidity metrics including contractual cash flow gaps for liquidity, liquidity stress metrics and ratios, Liquidity Coverage Ratio, Net Stable Funding Ratio and client deposit concentration. The Treasury Risk Committee approves and validates stress test methodologies and assumptions.

BNY Mellon seeks to maintain an adequate liquidity cushion in both normal and stressed environments and seeks to diversify funding sources by line of business, customer and market segment. Additionally, we seek to maintain liquidity ratios within approved limits and liquidity risk tolerance, maintain a liquid asset buffer that can be liquidated, financed and/or pledged as necessary, and control the levels and sources of wholesale funds.

Potential uses of liquidity include withdrawals of customer deposits and client drawdowns on unfunded credit or liquidity facilities. We actively monitor unfunded lending-related commitments, thereby reducing unanticipated funding requirements.

When monitoring liquidity, we evaluate multiple metrics to ensure ample liquidity for expected and unexpected events. Metrics include cashflow mismatches, asset maturities, debt spreads, peer ratios, liquid assets, unencumbered collateral, funding sources and balance sheet liquidity ratios. We monitor the revised Basel III liquidity coverage ratio and continue to evaluate the U.S. banking agencies' proposal for the Basel III LCR. Internal ratios we currently monitor as part of our standard analysis include total loans as a percentage of total deposits, deposits as a percentage of total interest-earning assets, foreign deposits as a percentage of total interest-earnings assets, purchased funds as a percentage of total interest-earning assets, liquid assets as a percentage of total interest-earning assets, liquid assets as a percentage of purchased funds, and discount window collateral and central bank deposits as a percentage of total deposits. All of these internal ratios exceeded our minimum guidelines at Dec. 31, 2013.

We also perform liquidity stress tests to ensure the Company maintains sufficient liquidity resources under multiple stress scenarios. Stress tests are based on scenarios that measure liquidity risks under unlikely but plausible events. The Company performs these tests under various time horizons ranging from one day to one year in a base case, as well as supplemental tests to determine whether the Company's liquidity is sufficient for severe market events and firm-specific events. Under our scenario testing program, the results of the tests indicate that the Company has sufficient liquidity.

Stress Testing

It is the policy of the Company to perform Enterprise-wide Stress Testing at regular intervals as part of its Internal Capital Adequacy Assessment Process ("ICAAP"). Additionally, the Company performs an analysis of capital adequacy in a stressed environment in its Enterprise-Wide Stress Test Framework, as required by the enhanced prudential standards issued pursuant to the Dodd-Frank Act.

Enterprise-Wide Stress Testing performs analysis across the Company's Lines of Business, products, geographic areas, and risk types incorporating the results from the different underlying models and projections given a certain stress-test scenario. It is an important component of assessing the adequacy of capital (as in the ICAAP) as well as identifying any high risk touch points in business activities. Furthermore, by integrating enterprise-wide stress testing into the Company's capital planning process, the results provide a forward-looking evaluation of the ability to complete planned capital actions in a more-adverse-than-anticipated economic environment.

Economic capital required

BNY Mellon has implemented a methodology to quantify economic capital. We define economic capital as the capital required to protect against unexpected economic losses over a one-year period at a level consistent with the solvency of a target debt rating. We quantify economic capital requirements for the risks inherent in our business activities using statistical modeling techniques and then aggregate them at the consolidated level. A capital reduction, or diversification benefit, is applied to reflect the unlikely event of experiencing an extremely large loss in each type of risk at the same time. Economic capital requirements are directly related to our risk profile. As such, it has become a part of our internal capital adequacy assessment process and, along with regulatory capital, are a key component to ensuring that the actual level of capital is commensurate with our risk profile and sufficient to provide the financial flexibility to undertake future strategic business initiatives.

The framework and methodologies to quantify each of our risk types have been developed by the Basel & Capital Adequacy Group and are designed to be consistent with our risk management principles. The framework has been approved by senior management and has been reviewed by the Risk Committee of the Board of Directors. Due to the evolving nature of quantification techniques, we expect to continue to refine the methodologies used to estimate our economic capital requirements.

Economic capital required at Dec. 31, 2013 (in millions)
Credit	$	2,875
Market		1,968
Operational		3,492
Other		(26)
Economic capital required - consolidated	$	8,309
Basel I Tier 1 common equity	$	16,443
Capital cushion	$	8,134

Global compliance

Our global compliance function provides leadership, guidance, and oversight to help our businesses identify applicable laws and regulations and implement effective measures to meet the specific requirements. Compliance takes a proactive approach by anticipating evolving regulatory standards and remaining aware of industry best practices, legislative initiatives, competitive issues, and public expectations and perceptions. The function uses its global reach to disseminate information about compliance-related matters throughout BNY Mellon. The Chief Compliance and Ethics Officer reports to the Chief Risk Officer, is a member of key committees of BNY Mellon and provides regular updates to the Risk Committee of the Board of Directors.

Internal audit

Internal Audit is an independent, objective assurance function that reports directly to the Audit Committee of the Company's Board of Directors. It assists the Company in accomplishing its objectives by bringing a systematic, disciplined, risk-based approach to evaluate and improve the effectiveness of the Company's risk management, control, and governance processes. The scope of Internal Audit's work includes the review and evaluation of the adequacy, effectiveness, and sustainability of risk management procedures, internal control systems, information systems and governance processes.

Evolving Regulatory Environment

BNY Mellon, together with its subsidiaries, engages in banking, investment advisory and other financial activities in the U.S. and 35 other countries, and is subject to extensive regulation. Global supervisory authorities generally are charged with ensuring the safety and soundness of financial institutions, protecting the interests of customers, including depositors in banking entities and investors in mutual funds and other pooled vehicles, and safeguarding the integrity of securities and other financial markets and promoting systemic resiliency and financial stability in the relevant country. They are not, however, generally charged with protecting the interests of our stockholders or non-deposit creditors. This discussion outlines the material elements of selected laws and regulations applicable to us. Changes in these standards, or in their application, cannot be predicted, but may have a material effect on our businesses and results of operations.

The financial services industry has been the subject of enhanced regulatory scrutiny in recent years globally, and we expect this trend to continue in the future. Our business has been subject to myriad new global reform measures. In particular, the Dodd-Frank Wall Street Reform and Consumer Protection Act of 2010 (the "Dodd-Frank Act"), when fully implemented, will significantly restructure the financial regulatory regime in the United States and enhance supervision and prudential standards for bank holding companies ("BHCs") like BNY Mellon. The implications of the Dodd-Frank Act for our businesses will depend to a large extent on the manner in which forthcoming rules are implemented by the primary U.S. financial regulatory agencies - the Federal Reserve, the FDIC, the OCC, the SEC and the Commodity Futures Trading Commission (the "CFTC"). The implications will also depend upon changes in market practices and structures in response to the requirements of the Dodd-Frank Act and financial reforms in other jurisdictions. Many aspects of the Dodd-Frank Act remain subject to further rulemaking, take effect over various transition periods, or contain other elements that make it difficult to precisely anticipate their final impact. The Dodd-Frank Act contains many major domestic reforms that will eventually apply to BNY Mellon and that will affect its businesses and those of its clients not only domestically but also internationally. In addition, other national and global reform measures that are being considered or have been adopted by various policy makers (including the U.S. implementation of the Basel III capital and liquidity framework) may materially impact us. Relevant regulatory initiatives, whether national or global, are discussed further below.

Enhanced Prudential Standards

Sections 165 and 166 of the Dodd-Frank Act direct the Federal Reserve to enact heightened prudential standards applicable to BHCs with total consolidated assets of $50 billion or more, such as BNY Mellon, and certain designated nonbank financial companies (generally referred to as "systemically important financial institutions" or "SIFIs"). Dodd-Frank mandates that the requirements applicable to SIFIs be more stringent than those applicable to other financial companies. In December 2011, the Federal Reserve issued for public comment a notice of proposed rulemaking, which we refer to as the "Proposed SIFI Rules," establishing enhanced prudential standards for:

- risk-based capital requirements and leverage limits;
- liquidity requirements;
- single-counterparty credit exposure limits;
- stress testing of capital;
- overall risk management requirements; and
- remedial actions that SIFIs must take during the early stages of financial distress if specified trigger events occur (referred to as the "early remediation provisions").

The rules addressing stress testing of capital were finalized and effective commencing with the third quarter of 2013. In February 2014, the Federal Reserve adopted rules ("Final SIFI Rules") to implement the liquidity and risk management requirements of the Proposed SIFI Rules. Beginning Jan. 1, 2015, the rules require BHCs with $50 billion or more in total consolidated assets to comply with enhanced liquidity and overall risk management standards, including a buffer of highly liquid assets based on projected funding needs for 30 days, and increased involvement by boards of directors in liquidity and overall risk management. The liquidity buffer is in addition to the U.S. banking agencies' proposal on minimum liquidity standards discussed below and described by the Federal Reserve as being "complementary" to those liquidity standards. The Federal Reserve has not yet adopted final rules addressing the Proposed SIFI Rules' singlecounterparty credit limits or early remediation provisions.

The Final SIFI Rules do not address single-counterparty credit limits, short-term debt limits, or early remediation provisions. The Federal Reserve noted that it is still developing the single-counterparty credit limit rule, taking into account the Basel Committee's large exposure limits.

Similar to the single-counterparty credit limits in the Proposed SIFI Rules, the Basel Committee released a Consultative Document in March 2013 outlining a supervisory framework for measuring and controlling large exposures. The framework is conceptually analogous to the single-counterparty exposure limits in the proposed SIFI rules; however, it differs from the U.S. proposal in multiple ways, including exposure measurement methodologies and the base denominator for calculating credit exposure limits.

The Basel's Committee's large exposures proposal includes specific proposals for the treatment of securities finance transactions, including securities lending transactions. As proposed, the framework eschews credit exposure measurement methodologies for securities finance transactions that firms have developed to comply with previous risk-based capital rules. Instead, the proposal includes a risk-insensitive measurement methodology that relies on static collateral haircuts.

Capital Planning and Stress Testing

Payment of Dividends, Stock Repurchases and Other Capital Distributions

The Parent is a legal entity separate and distinct from its bank subsidiaries and other subsidiaries. Dividends and interest from its subsidiaries are the Parent's principal sources of funds to make capital contributions or loans to its subsidiaries, to service its own debt, to honor its guarantees of debt issued by its subsidiaries or of trust preferred securities issued by a trust or to make its own capital distributions. Various federal and state statutes and regulations limit the amount of dividends that may be paid to the Parent by our bank subsidiaries without regulatory consent. If, in the opinion of the applicable federal regulatory agency, a depository institution under its jurisdiction is engaged in or is about to engage in an unsafe or unsound practice (which, depending on the financial condition of the bank, could include the payment of dividends), the regulator may require, after notice and hearing, that the bank cease and desist from such practice. The OCC, the Federal Reserve and the FDIC have indicated that the payment of dividends would constitute an unsafe and unsound practice if the payment would reduce a depository institution's capital to an inadequate level. Moreover, under the Federal Deposit Insurance Act, as amended (the "FDI Act"), an insured depository institution may not pay any dividends if the institution is undercapitalized or if the payment of the dividend would cause the institution to become undercapitalized. In addition, the federal bank regulatory agencies have issued policy statements which provide that FDIC-insured depository institutions and their holding companies should generally pay dividends only out of their current operating earnings.

In general, the amount of dividends that may be paid by The Bank of New York Mellon, BNY Mellon, N.A., The Bank of New York Mellon Trust Company, National Association and BNY Mellon Trust Company of Delaware is limited to the lesser of the amounts calculated under a "recent earnings" test and an "undivided profits" test. Under the recent earnings test, a dividend may not be paid if the total of all dividends declared and paid by the entity in any calendar year exceeds the current year's net income combined with the retained net income of the two preceding years, unless the entity obtains prior regulatory approval. Under the undivided profits test, a dividend may not be paid in excess of the entity's "undivided profits" (generally, accumulated net profits that have not been paid out as dividends or transferred to surplus). The ability of its bank subsidiaries to pay dividends to the Parent may also be affected by various minimum capital requirements for banking organizations.

BNY Mellon's capital distributions are subject to Federal Reserve oversight. The major component of that oversight is the Federal Reserve's CCAR, implementing its capital plan rules. These rules require BHCs having $50 billion or more in total consolidated assets (including BNY Mellon) to submit annual capital plans to their respective Federal Reserve Bank. We are also required to collect and report certain related data on a quarterly basis to allow the Federal Reserve to monitor progress against the annual capital plans. BNY Mellon and other affected BHCs may pay dividends, repurchase stock, and make other capital distributions only in accordance with a capital plan that has been reviewed by the Federal Reserve and as to which the Federal Reserve has not objected. The Federal Reserve may object to a capital plan if the plan does not show that the covered BHC will meet, for each quarter throughout the nine-quarter planning horizon covered by the capital plan, all minimum regulatory capital ratios under applicable capital rules as in effect for that quarter as well as all minimum regulatory capital ratios and maintain a Tier 1 common to risk-weighted assets ratio of at least 5% calculated under existing general risk-based capital rules as currently in effect, in each case on a pro forma basis under the base case and stressful scenarios (including a severely adverse scenario provided by the Federal Reserve). The capital plan rules also stipulate that a covered BHC may not make a capital distribution unless after giving effect to the distribution it will meet all minimum regulatory capital ratios and maintain a Tier 1 common to risk-weighted assets ratio of at least 5%.

The purpose of CCAR is to ensure that these BHCs have robust, forward-looking capital planning processes that account for their unique risks and that permit continued operations during times of economic and financial stress. The CCAR rule, consistent with prior Federal Reserve Board guidance, provides that capital plans contemplating dividend payout ratios exceeding 30% of projected after-tax net income will receive particularly close scrutiny. BNY Mellon's common stock dividend payout ratio was 33% in 2013, or 26% after adjusting for the net impact of the U.S. Tax Court's decisions regarding certain foreign tax credits.

We submitted our 2014 capital plan to the Federal Reserve on Jan. 6, 2014. The Federal Reserve has indicated that it expects to publish either its objection or non-objection to the capital plan and proposed capital actions, such as dividend payments and share repurchases, on March 26, 2014. We anticipate announcing our 2014 capital plan shortly thereafter.

Regulatory Stress-Testing Requirements

In addition to the CCAR stress testing requirements, Federal Reserve regulations also include the new Dodd-Frank Act stress tests ("DFAST"), which were adopted in final form in October 2012. The CCAR and Dodd-Frank stress testing requirements substantially overlap, and the Federal Reserve implements them at the BHC level on a coordinated basis.

Under these DFAST regulations, we are required to undergo regulatory stress tests conducted by the Federal Reserve annually, and to conduct our own internal stress tests pursuant to regulatory requirements twice annually. In addition, The Bank of New York Mellon is required to conduct its own annual internal stress test (although this bank is permitted to combine certain reporting and disclosure of its stress test results with the results of BNY Mellon). These requirements, which began in the fourth quarter of 2012, involve both company-run and supervisory-run testing of capital under various scenarios, including baseline, adverse and severely adverse scenarios provided by the appropriate banking regulator. Results from our annual company-run stress tests are reported to the appropriate regulators and published. We published the results of our company-run stress test on March 14, 2013, and the results of our company-run mid-year stress test on Sept. 16, 2013.

Capital Requirements - Existing U.S. Requirements

As a BHC, we are subject to consolidated regulatory capital rules administered by the Federal Reserve. Our bank subsidiaries are subject to similar capital requirements administered by the Federal Reserve in the case of The Bank of New York Mellon and by the OCC in the case of our national bank subsidiaries, BNY Mellon, N.A. and The Bank of New York Mellon Trust Company, National Association. These requirements are intended to ensure that banking organizations have adequate capital given the risk levels of their assets and off-balance sheet financial instruments.

The U.S. banking agencies' capital rules have been based on three main components:

- Risk-based capital rules applicable to all banking organizations based on the Basel Committee on Banking Supervision's 1988 agreement, International Convergence of Capital and Measurement Standards ("Basel I"). The banking agencies refer to these rules as the "general risk-based capital rules".
- Risk-based capital rules applicable to banking organizations having $250 billion or more in total consolidated assets or $10 billion or more in foreign exposures (including BNY Mellon), based upon the advanced internal ratings-based approach for credit risk and the advanced measurement approach for operational risk within the Basel Committee on Banking Supervision's comprehensive June 2006 release, International Convergence of Capital Measurement and Capital Standards: A Revised Framework ("Basel II"). The agencies refer to these rules as the "Advanced Approaches" risk-based capital rules.

- A Tier 1 leverage ratio that measures Tier 1 capital to total assets.

In addition, the risk-based capital rules incorporate a measure for market risk in foreign exchange and commodity activities and in the trading of debt and equity instruments. The market risk-based capital rules require banking organizations with significant trading activities to maintain capital for market risk in an amount calculated by using the banking organizations' own internal value-at-risk models, subject to parameters set by the regulators. Effective Jan. 1, 2013, the U.S. banking agencies made substantial amendments to their market risk rules implementing revisions, commonly known as "Basel II.5", that the Basel Committee had made to the Basel framework's market risk provisions.

General Risk-Based Capital Rules

Under the agencies' general risk-based capital rules based on Basel I, the risk-based capital ratio is determined by dividing the sum of the capital components (Tier 1 and Tier 2 capital) by risk-weighted assets (including certain off-balance sheet items, such as standby letters of credit). The required minimum ratio of total capital (the sum of Tier 1 and Tier 2 capital) to risk-adjusted assets is 8.0%. The required minimum ratio of Tier 1 capital to risk-adjusted assets is 4.0%.

The general risk-based capital rules provide that voting common stockholders' equity should be the predominant element within Tier 1 capital and that banks should avoid over-reliance on non-common equity elements. Risk-adjusted assets are determined by classifying assets and certain off-balance sheet items into weighted categories. These rules are minimum standards based primarily on broad credit-risk considerations and do not take into account the other types of risk to which a banking organization may be exposed. The federal banking agencies retain significant discretion to set higher capital requirements for categories of banks or for an individual bank as situations warrant. At Dec. 31, 2013, BNY Mellon's Tier 1 capital to risk-adjusted assets and Total capital to risk-adjusted assets ratios were 16.2% and 17.0%, respectively.

Advanced Approaches Risk-Based Capital Rules

The U.S. banking agencies' Advanced Approaches risk-based capital rules are based on Basel II's Advanced Approaches. On Feb. 21, 2014, the Federal Reserve announced that BNY Mellon had been approved to exit parallel run reporting for U.S. regulatory capital purposes, and will transition from the general risk-based capital rules to the Final Capital Rules' Advanced Approaches, effective starting in the second quarter of 2014, subject to ongoing qualification. We will be required to comply with advanced approaches reporting and public disclosures commencing on June 30, 2014. This means, among other things, for purposes of determining whether we meet minimum risk-based capital requirements, starting with the second quarter of 2014 our common equity Tier 1 capital ratio, Tier 1 capital ratio, and total capital ratio will be the lower of that calculated under the general risk-based capital rules (during 2014 these ratios are determined using a Basel III numerator and Basel I risk-weightings) and under the Advanced Approaches rule.

Capital Requirements - Basel III Final Capital Rules and Proposals

In July 2013, the U.S. banking agencies approved the Final Capital Rules. The Final Capital Rules are largely based on the Basel Committee's December 2010 final capital framework for strengthening international capital standards, now officially identified by the Basel Committee as "Basel III", and also implement, through the new "Standardized Approach" discussed below, a revised calculation of risk-weighted assets that, effective Jan. 1, 2015, will replace the calculation of risk-weighted assets under the existing general risk-based capital rules. The Final Capital Rules:

- Redefine the components of capital in the numerator of regulatory capital ratios in a more narrow way than existing standards;
- Increase the minimum risk-based capital ratios under the general risk-based capital rules and the Advanced Approaches;
- Change the measure of risk-weighted assets in the denominator of the general risk-based capital rules according to the "Standardized Approach,"

so that the Standardized Approach is the new "general risk-based capital" standard;
- Change the measure of risk-weighted assets in the denominator of the risk-based capital ratios in the agencies' Advanced Approaches rules;
- Establishes a capital conservation buffer;
- Introduces a countercyclical capital buffer for advanced approaches banking organizations; and
- Establishes a supplementary leverage ratio for advanced approaches banking organizations.

The Final Capital Rules allow a graduated implementation schedule that began on Jan. 1, 2014 for Advanced Approaches banking organizations, including BNY Mellon and will be substantially phased-in by 2019. The applicable transition periods for the revised minimum regulatory capital ratios, definitions of regulatory capital, and regulatory capital adjustments and deductions also began on Jan. 1, 2014. In addition, BNY Mellon must begin using the new Standardized Approach risk-weightings on Jan. 1, 2015 (during 2014 Basel III looks to Basel I's risk-weightings in lieu of its Standardized Approach); meet the minimum ratios for the capital conservation buffer and countercyclical capital buffer during the transition period beginning on Jan. 1, 2016; and begin compliance with the new Basel III-based supplementary leverage ratio on Jan. 1, 2018.

The Final Capital Rules do not address certain matters concerning financial institution capital, liquidity and related matters expected to be the subject of regulation in the near term. These items include U.S. implementation of capital surcharges for global systemically important banks ("G-SIBs") (for which BNY Mellon was originally provisionally assigned a 1.5% surcharge, but which has been reduced to 1.0% at the international level), Basel III's liquidity standards, loss absorbency standards designed to facilitate a holding company "single point of entry" resolution under Title II of the Dodd-Frank Act, and capital charges designed to discourage overreliance on short-term wholesale funding practices.

New Minimum Capital Ratios and Capital Buffers

Consistent with the terms of the Basel III Framework and the Dodd-Frank Act, the Final Capital Rules require Advanced Approaches banking institutions to satisfy three minimum risk-based capital ratios using both the new Standardized Approach risk-weightings on Jan. 1, 2015 (during 2014 Basel III looks to Basel I's risk weightings in lieu of the Standardized Approach) and the Advanced Approach (for BNY Mellon, commencing with the second quarter of 2014):

- a common equity Tier 1 ("CET1") ratio of 4.0% as of Jan. 1, 2014, increasing to 4.5% beginning Jan. 1, 2015;
- a Tier 1 capital ratio of 5.5% on Jan. 1, 2014, increasing to 6.0% beginning Jan. 1, 2015; and
- a total capital ratio of 8.0% (unchanged from the existing general risk-based capital rules).

In addition, these minimum ratios will be supplemented by a new capital conservation buffer that phases in, beginning on Jan. 1, 2016, in increments of 0.625% per year until it reaches 2.5% on Jan. 1, 2019. BNY Mellon expects the 2.5% capital conservation buffer, as applied to it, to increase by an assumed additional G-SIB buffer applicable to BNY Mellon of 1%, noted above.

The capital conservation buffer is designed to absorb losses during periods of economic stress and applies to all banking organizations. Banking organizations with a ratio of common equity Tier 1 capital to risk-weighted assets above the minimum but below the conservation buffer (or below the combined capital conservation buffer and countercyclical capital buffer, when the latter is applied) are expected to face constraints on dividends, equity repurchases and compensation based on the amount of the shortfall.

During periods of excessive growth the capital conservation buffer may be expanded up to an additional 2.5% through the imposition of a countercyclical capital buffer. The countercyclical capital buffer, when applicable, applies only to advanced approaches banking organizations. The countercyclical capital buffer is initially set to zero, but it could increase if the banking agencies determine that there is excessive credit in the markets that could lead to wide-spread market failure.

At Dec. 31, 2013, our estimated Basel III common equity Tier 1 ratio was 11.3% under the Advanced Approaches and 10.6% under the Standardized Approach, both on a fully phased-in basis based on our understanding of the Final Capital Rules and the final market risk rules.

New Measure of Capital

The Final Capital Rules, like Basel III, provide for a number of new deductions from and adjustments to common equity Tier 1 capital. These include, for example, providing that unrealized gains and losses on all available for sale debt securities may not be filtered out for regulatory capital purposes, and the requirement that mortgage servicing rights, deferred tax assets dependent upon future taxable income and significant investments in non-consolidated financial entities be deducted from Tier 1 common equity to the extent that any one such category exceeds 10% of common equity Tier 1 or all such categories in the aggregate exceed 15% of common equity Tier 1.

The Final Capital Rules redefine regulatory capital elements resulting in, among other things, cumulative perpetual preferred stock and trust preferred instruments no longer qualifying as Tier 1 capital, subject to a phase-out schedule. Non-qualifying capital instruments, such as trust preferred securities, that were issued and included in Tier 1 or Tier 2 capital prior to May 19, 2010 (and that are also outstanding on the effective date of the final rule) may continue to be included in Tier 1 or Tier 2 capital up to the following percentages: calendar year 2014: 50%; calendar year 2015: 25%; and calendar year 2016 and later dates: 0%. Certain non-qualifying instruments no longer eligible for inclusion in Tier 1 capital may still be included in Tier 2 capital over a gradual phase-out schedule terminating in 2022. At Dec. 31, 2013, BNY Mellon had $330 million of outstanding trust preferred securities.

New General Risk-Based Capital Rules: Standardized Approach

The Final Capital Rules amend the agencies' general risk-based capital rules, replacing the risk-weight categories used to calculate risk-weighted assets in the denominator of capital ratios with a broader array of risk weighting categories that are intended to be more risk sensitive, known as the "Standardized Approach." The new risk-weights for the Standardized Approach range from 0% to 1,250% compared with the risk-weights of 0% to 100%, in general, in the Basel I risk-based capital rules. Higher risk-weights would apply to a variety of exposures, including certain securitization exposures, equity exposures, claims on securities firms and exposures to counterparties on over-the-counter derivatives. Compared with Basel I, the risk-weighting changes likely to have significance for BNY Mellon are the application of the collateral haircut approach to securities lending, the replacement of the 20% risk-weight for banks with OECD country risk classification ratings, the increased risk-weights for securitizations, the removal of the 50% risk-weight cap on derivative transactions, application of 1,250% risk-weight to default fund contribution and the elimination of the 0% risk-weight for commitments of less than one year.

Concerning securities finance transactions, including transactions in which we serve as agent and provide securities replacement indemnification to a securities lender, the Final Capital Rules do not permit a banking organization to use a simple VaR approach to calculate exposure amounts for repo-style transactions or to use internal models to calculate the exposure amount for the counterparty credit exposure for repo-style transactions under the Standardized Approach (although these methodologies are included in the Advanced Approaches). Under the Standardized Approach, a banking organization may use a collateral haircut approach to recognize the credit risk mitigation benefits of financial collateral that secures a repo-style transaction, including an agented securities lending transaction, among other transactions. To apply the collateral haircut approach, a banking organization must determine the exposure amount and the relevant risk weight for the counterparty or guarantor. Banking organizations may calculate market price volatility and foreign exchange volatility using their own internal estimates with prior written approval of their primary Federal supervisor.

Tier 1 and Supplementary Leverage Ratios

As noted above, the U.S. banking agencies historically have required banks to meet a minimum Tier 1 leverage ratio. The Final Capital Rules retain this Tier 1 leverage ratio but now require a minimum 4% ratio for all banking organizations (eliminating the existing exception for certain banking organization to maintain only a 3% minimum). On Dec. 31, 2013, the Tier 1 leverage ratio for The Bank of New York Mellon Corporation was 5.4% and our primary banking subsidiary, The Bank of New York Mellon, was 5.3%.

The Final Capital Rules also implement a new 3% Basel III-based supplementary leverage ratio for Advanced Approaches banking organizations, including BNY Mellon, to become effective Jan. 1, 2018. Unlike the Tier 1 leverage ratio, the supplementary leverage ratio includes certain off-balance sheet exposures in the denominator, including the potential future credit exposure of derivative contracts and 10% of the notional amount of unconditionally cancellable commitments.

Subsequent to the U.S. banking agencies' adoption of the Final Capital Rules:

- The Basel Committee finalized (in Jan. 2014) modifications to the Basel III supplementary leverage ratio. Those modifications would adjust the supplementary leverage ratio's denominator (referred to as the "exposure amount") by making changes to the calculation of the exposure amount attributable to certain derivatives exposures and certain securities financing transactions but would retain the minimum Tier 1 supplementary leverage ratio requirement of 3%.
- The U.S. banking agencies proposed to increase the minimum supplementary leverage ratio requirement for the largest U.S. banks (those deemed to be G-SIBs). The agencies' proposal would require BNY Mellon and other bank holding companies that are G-SIBs to maintain a 5% supplementary Tier 1 leverage ratio (comprised of the current minimum requirement of 3% plus a 2% buffer) and require bank subsidiaries of those bank holding companies, in order to qualify as "well capitalized" under the prompt corrective action regulations discussed below, to maintain a 6% supplementary Tier 1 leverage ratio. The agencies have not yet acted upon these proposals.

Prompt Corrective Action

The FDI Act, as amended by the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation Improvement Act of 1991 ("FDICIA"), requires the federal banking agencies to take "prompt corrective action" in respect of depository institutions that do not meet specified capital requirements. FDICIA establishes five capital categories for FDIC-insured banks: "well capitalized," "adequately capitalized," "undercapitalized," "significantly undercapitalized," and "critically undercapitalized." The FDI Act imposes progressively more restrictive constraints on operations, management and capital distributions the less capital the institution holds.

A depository institution is deemed to be "well capitalized" if the depository institution has a total risk-based capital ratio of at least 10.0%; Tier 1 risk-based capital ratio of at least 6.0%; and Tier 1 leverage ratio of at least 5.0%. FDICIA's prompt corrective action provisions only apply to depository institutions and not to BHCs. The Federal Reserve's regulations applicable to BHCs do include a concept of a "well capitalized" BHC, defined as one maintaining a total risk-based capital ratio of at least 10.0% and a Tier 1 risk-based capital ratio of at least 6.0% (but not a leverage measure). A bank holding company that is not well capitalized under that definition (or whose bank subsidiaries are not well capitalized and well managed under applicable prompt corrective action standards) may not become a financial holding company and, if it is a financial holding company but then falls out of well-capitalized status, may be restricted in certain of its activities and ultimately may lose financial holding company status.

The Final Capital Rules establish revised "well capitalized" thresholds for insured depository institutions under the federal banking agencies' prompt corrective action framework. Under the Final Capital Rules, an insured depository institution is deemed to be "well capitalized" if it has:

- a Tier 1 common equity ratio of at least 6.5%;
- a Tier 1 capital ratio of at least 8%;
- a total capital ratio of at least 10%; and
- a Tier 1 leverage ratio of at least 5%.

Effective January 2018, the Final Capital Rules also require an Advanced Approaches institution to maintain a supplementary leverage ratio of at least 3% to qualify for the "adequately capitalized" status but does not have a minimum supplementary leverage ratio requirement to meet "well capitalized" status. However, as noted above, the U.S. banking agencies proposed revisions to the supplementary leverage ratio that would establish a supplementary leverage ratio "well capitalized" threshold of 6% for covered insured depository institutions, including The Bank of New York Mellon.

At Dec. 31, 2013, BNY Mellon and all of its bank subsidiaries were "well capitalized" based on the ratios and rules applicable to them noted above. A bank's capital category, however, is determined solely for the purpose of applying the prompt corrective action rules and may not be an accurate representation of the bank's overall financial condition or prospects.

Liquidity Standards - Basel III and U.S. Proposals

Historically, regulation and monitoring of bank and BHC liquidity principally have been addressed as a supervisory matter, both in the U.S. and internationally, without required formulaic measures. The Basel III framework requires banks and BHCs to measure their liquidity against specific liquidity tests that, although similar in some respects to liquidity measures historically applied by banks and regulators for management and supervisory purposes, will be required by regulation. One test, referred to as the liquidity coverage ratio ("LCR"), is designed to ensure that the banking entity maintains an adequate level of unencumbered high-quality liquid assets equal to the entity's expected net cash outflow for a 30-day time horizon under an acute liquidity stress scenario. The other, referred to as the net stable funding ratio ("NSFR"), is designed to promote more medium- and long-term funding of the assets and activities of banking entities over a one-year time horizon. The Basel Committee issued the final LCR document in January 2013 and proposed revisions to the NSFR in January 2014. The Basel III liquidity framework, as modified in January 2013, contemplates that the LCR will be introduced Jan. 1, 2015 with the minimum requirement beginning at 60%, rising in equal annual steps of 10 percentage points to reach 100% on Jan. 1, 2019. Similarly, it contemplates that the NSFR will be subject to an observation period through mid-2016 and, subject to any revisions resulting from the analyses conducted and data collected during the observation period, implemented as a minimum standard by Jan. 1, 2018. The Federal Reserve expects to issue a proposal regarding implementation of this one-year measure after completion of the Basel Committee's work, and in advance of the NSFR's effective date of January 2018.

In October 2013, the Federal Reserve, OCC, and FDIC issued an NPR to implement the Basel III liquidity coverage ratio in the U.S. ("Proposed LCR Rule"). The agencies indicated that the Proposed LCR Rule is more stringent than the Basel III LCR in certain elements, including the eligibility of high-quality liquid assets and an accelerated implementation timeline. Starting on Jan. 1, 2015, covered companies would be required to meet a liquidity coverage ratio of 80% percent, increasing annually by 10% increments until Jan. 1, 2017, at which time covered companies would be required to meet a liquidity coverage ratio of 100%. This proposal was open for comment until Jan. 31, 2014.

Separately, the Final SIFI Rules address liquidity requirements for BHCs with $50 billion or more in total assets, including BNY Mellon. These enhanced liquidity requirements include an independent review of liquidity risk management; establishment of cash flow projections, a contingency funding plan, and liquidity risk limits; liquidity stress testing under multiple stress scenarios and time horizons tailored to the specific products and profile of the company; and maintenance of a liquidity buffer of unencumbered highly liquid assets sufficient to meet projected net cash outflows over 30 days under a range of stress scenarios. In the release accompanying those rules, the Federal Reserve states that these enhanced liquidity requirements are designed to complement the LCR. The LCR would provide a standardized measure to allow comparison across BHCs, while the Final SIFI Rules' internal stress test requirements provide a view of the BHC under various scenarios, time horizons, and tailored to the profile of the company.

Volcker Rule and Related European Initiatives

The Dodd-Frank Act mandated that the U.S. banking agencies, the SEC and CFTC adopt rules that prohibit banks and their affiliates from engaging in proprietary trading and investing in and sponsoring certain hedge funds and private equity funds. This provision is commonly called the "Volcker Rule".

On Dec. 10, 2013, final rules to implement the Volcker Rule were adopted. Banks, including BNY Mellon, and affiliates must conform their covered activities and investments with the final Volcker Rule regulations by July 21, 2015, and are expected to engage in good-faith efforts that will result in conformance of all of their covered activities and investments by no later than the end of this conformance period. The final Volcker Rule will also require us to develop an extensive compliance program, subject to CEO attestation, addressing proprietary trading and covered fund activities.

The Volcker Rule prohibits covered companies, including BNY Mellon, from engaging in proprietary trading and conditionally allows us to sponsor certain U.S. and foreign private equity and hedge funds ("covered funds"). The designation of covered funds is expected to affect our ability to own or provide seed capital to launch new hedge funds, private equity funds and other covered funds. In addition, our ability to engage in certain transactions with covered funds (including, without limitation, certain U.S. funds for which BNY Mellon acts as both sponsor/manager and custodian) will be affected. In general, the conditions limit us from owning interests in covered funds, prohibit the funds from sharing the same or similar name with a BNY Mellon affiliate, and restrict the way BNY Mellon can transact and service these funds. The restrictions concerning proprietary trading do not contain a broad exemption for asset-liability management functions, but contain more limited exceptions for, among other things, bona fide liquidity risk management and risk-mitigating hedging activities, as well as certain classes of exempted instruments, including government securities. Ownership interests in covered funds that banking organizations organize and offer will be limited to 3% of the total outstanding ownership interests of any individual fund at any time more than one year after the date of its establishment, and with respect to the aggregate value of all such ownership interests in covered funds, 3% of the banking organization's Tier 1 capital. Moreover, beginning in the third quarter of 2015, a banking entity relying on the final Volcker Rule's exemption for sponsoring covered funds will need to deduct from its Tier 1 capital, the value of related ownership interests, calculated in accordance with the final rule. The final Volcker Rule is highly complex, and its full impact will not be known until market practices and structures are fully developed. BNY Mellon has until July 2015 to bring its covered activities and transactions into compliance, absent further extensions by the regulators.

On Jan. 29, 2014, the European Commission ("EC") announced proposals concerning structural measures to improve the resilience of EU credit institutions, which will be similar in effect to the Volcker Rule, for the stated purpose of regulating the proprietary trading activities of large and complex banks. The new rules would also give supervisors the power to require such banks to separate certain trading activities from their deposit-taking business. We are in the process of monitoring the evolution of these proposals to evaluate their impact on our European operations.

Derivatives

U.S. and EU regulators are in the process of implementing comprehensive rules governing the supervision, structure, trading and regulation of cleared and over-the-counter derivatives markets and participants. Dodd-Frank and the European Market Infrastructure Regulation ("EMIR") each require or impose a large number of requirements in this area, many of which are not yet final. Once these rules are finalized, including with respect to how Dodd-Frank and EMIR complement each other in relation to cross-border activities, they could affect the way various BNY Mellon subsidiaries operate, including where and with whom they transact, and changes to the markets and participants will impact business models and profitability of certain BNY Mellon subsidiaries.

Money Market Fund Reforms

Regulators have focused on risks that money market funds ("MMFs") may pose to financial stability. In November 2012, the Financial Stability Oversight Council proposed several recommendations for money market mutual fund reform, which include requiring money market funds to use a floating net asset value, requiring them to maintain a capital buffer of up to 1% of a fund's value coupled with a holdback of 3 to 5% on redemptions to create a "first loss" position and discourage runs, and requiring them to maintain a capital buffer of up to 3% of a fund's value combined with other measures, such as investment diversification requirements, minimum liquidity levels, and/or more robust diversification requirements.

In June 2013, the SEC issued proposed rules for institutional prime MMFs. The proposal sets forth two potential requirements, which could be adopted independently or combined. First, the SEC proposed to require institutional prime funds to float their net asset values. Second, the SEC proposed to limit redemptions during times of stress. Under this alternative, non-government MMFs would be required to impose a 2% liquidity fee and 30-day redemption gate if the fund's level of weekly liquid assets fell below 15% of its total assets, unless the fund's board determined that it was not in the best interest of the fund. That determination would be subject to the board's fiduciary duty.

Beyond these primary reform proposals, the SEC release proposed other potential changes, including tightening diversification requirements, enhancing disclosure requirements, strengthening stress testing and new reporting requirements for both MMFs and unregistered liquidity funds (these funds could serve as alternatives to money market funds for some investors).

Meanwhile, EU legislation on MMFs proposed by the EC, which has been under consideration in the European Parliament, include: (i) requirements for "constant value" ("CNAV") MMFs, including a 3% capital buffer; (ii) a requirement to perform internal credit ratings; (iii) restrictions on the types of assets in which MMFs can invest, including with respect to asset-backed commercial paper; (iv) diversification restrictions, including on collateral received on reverse repurchase agreements; (v) a prohibition or restriction of use of amortized cost accounting in "variable" NAV funds; (vi) a possible ban on MMF-level ratings, and (vii) stricter disclosure requirements. The final regulation is expected to be adopted later in 2014, with subsequent transition period before taking full effect.

Tri-Party Repo Reform

BNY Mellon offers tri-party collateral agency services to dealers and cash investors active in the tri-party repurchase, or repo, market. As agent, we facilitate settlement between dealers (cash borrowers) and investors (cash lenders). Our involvement in a transaction commences after a dealer and investor agree to a tri-party repo trade and send instructions to us. We settle the trade, maintain custody of the collateral (the subject securities of the repo), monitor the eligibility and sufficiency of the collateral, and execute the payment and delivery instructions agreed to and provided by the principles.

Regulatory agencies worldwide have begun to re-examine systemic risks in various financial markets, including the tri-party repo market. The Payment Risk Committee of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York sponsored a Task Force on Tri-Party Repo Infrastructure Reform to examine the risks in the tri-party repo market and to decide what changes should be implemented so that such risks may be mitigated or avoided in the future. The Task Force issued its recommendations on May 17, 2010 and its final report regarding the tri-party repo market on Feb. 15, 2012.

BNY Mellon continues to work to significantly reduce the risk associated with the secured intraday credit it provides to dealers with respect to their tri-party repo trades. BNY Mellon has implemented several important measures in that regard, including reducing the amount of time during which we extend intraday credit, implementing three-way trade confirmations, reducing the amount of credit provided in connection with processing collateral substitutions, introducing a functionality that enables us to "roll" maturing trades into new trades without extending credit, and requiring dealers to prefund their repayment obligations in connection with trades collateralized by DTC sourced securities. Additionally, in 2013, we limited the collateral eligible to secure intraday credit to certain more liquid asset classes, resulting in a reduction of exposures secured by less liquid forms of collateral. We anticipate that the combination of these measures will have reduced risks substantially in our tri-party repo activity in the near term and, together with technology enhancements currently in development, will achieve the practical elimination (defined as a 90% reduction) of intraday credit related to tri-party repo processing by the end of 2014.

Since May 2010, the Federal Reserve Bank of New York has released monthly reports on the tri-party repo market, including information on aggregate volumes of collateral used in all tri-party repo transactions by asset class, concentrations, and margin levels, which is available at http://www.newyorkfed.org/banking/tpr_infr_reform.html.

Resolution Planning

As required by the Dodd-Frank Act, the Federal Reserve and FDIC jointly issued a final rule requiring certain organizations, including each BHC with consolidated assets of $50 billion or more, to report periodically to regulators a resolution plan for its rapid and orderly resolution in the event of material financial distress or failure. In addition, the FDIC issued a final rule that requires insured depository institutions with $50 billion or more in total assets, such as The Bank of New York Mellon, to submit to the FDIC periodic plans for resolution in the event of the institution's failure.

The two resolution plan rules are complementary, and we submitted our resolution plan in conformity with both rules. The public portions of our resolution plan are available on the FDIC's website. We are required to submit updated resolution plans annually.

Resolution planning efforts might also become required in foreign jurisdictions where we have operations. We submitted the first phase of our UK resolution plan to the Financial Services Authority ("FSA") in June 2012.

In the EU, recent legislation on bank structural reform proposed by the EC has focused on addressing transparency of any collateral movements where legal title passes in relation to securities financing transactions ("SFTs"), which include repos and securities lending arrangements. Accordingly, information requirements are proposed for imposition on market participants engaging in SFTs, including the composition of the underlying collateral, if the underlying collateral is available for use or has been used, and the haircuts applied. It is proposed that reporting requirements would be leveraged off of pre-existing infrastructures and processes, e.g., the reporting of derivative contracts to a trade repository as required under EMIR.

Insolvency of an Insured Depository Institution or a Bank Holding Company

If the FDIC is appointed as conservator or receiver for an insured depository institution such as The Bank of New York Mellon or BNY Mellon, N.A., upon its insolvency or in certain other events, the FDIC has the power to:

- Transfer any of the depository institution's assets and liabilities to a new obligor, including a newly formed "bridge" bank without the approval of the depository institution's creditors;
- Enforce the terms of the depository institution's contracts pursuant to their terms without regard to any provisions triggered by the appointment of the FDIC in that capacity; or
- Repudiate or disaffirm any contract or lease to which the depository institution is a party, the performance of which is determined by the FDIC to be burdensome and the disaffirmance or repudiation of which is determined by the FDIC to promote the orderly administration of the depository institution.

In addition, under federal law, the claims of holders of domestic deposit liabilities and certain claims for administrative expenses against an insured depository institution would be afforded a priority over other general unsecured claims against such an institution, including claims of debt holders of the institution, in the "liquidation or other resolution" of such an institution by any receiver. As a result, whether or not the FDIC ever sought to repudiate any debt obligations of The Bank of New York Mellon or BNY Mellon, N.A., the debt holders would be treated differently from, and could receive, if anything, substantially less than, the depositors of the bank.

The Dodd-Frank Act created a new resolution regime (known as the "orderly liquidation authority") for systemically important non-bank financial companies, including BHCs and their affiliates. Under the orderly liquidation authority, the FDIC may be appointed as receiver for the systemically important institution, and its failed non-bank subsidiaries, for purposes of liquidating the entity if, among other conditions, it is determined at the time of the institution's failure that it is in default or in danger of default and the failure poses a risk to the stability of the U.S. financial system.

If the FDIC is appointed as receiver under the orderly liquidation authority, then the powers of the receiver, and the rights and obligations of creditors and other parties who have dealt with the institution, would be determined under the Dodd-Frank Act provisions, and not under the insolvency law that would otherwise apply. The powers of the receiver under the orderly liquidation authority were based on the powers of the FDIC as receiver for depository institutions under the FDI Act. However, the provisions governing the rights of creditors under the orderly liquidation authority were modified in certain respects to reduce disparities with the treatment of creditors' claims under the U.S. Bankruptcy Code as compared to the treatment of those claims under the new authority. Nonetheless, substantial differences in the rights of creditors exist as between these two regimes, including the right of the FDIC to disregard the strict priority of creditor claims in some circumstances, the use of an administrative claims procedure to determine creditors' claims (as opposed to the judicial procedure utilized in bankruptcy proceedings), and the right of the FDIC to transfer claims to a "bridge" entity.

The orderly liquidation authority provisions of the Dodd-Frank Act became effective upon enactment. However, a number of rulemakings are required under the terms of Dodd-Frank, and a number of provisions of the new authority require clarification. The FDIC has completed its initial phase of rulemaking under the orderly liquidation authority, but additional rules are under consideration. These rules may affect the manner in which the new authority is applied, particularly with respect to broker-dealer and futures commission merchant subsidiaries of BHCs.

In December 2013, the FDIC released a notice outlining the single point of entry ("SPOE") strategy and soliciting comments on how a SPOE resolution approach would be implemented in the U.S. A SPOE approach would replace a distressed BHC with a bridge holding company, which could then continue subsidiary bank operations. The agencies may require minimum amounts of equity and unsecured debt at the holding company level to assist in implementing the SPOE strategy.

It is expected that EU legislation will differ significantly from the U.S. SPOE approach, which is addressed more specifically below in the "Operations and Regulations Outside of the United States" discussion.

Depositor Preference

Under federal law, depositors and certain claims for administrative expenses and employee compensation against an insured depository institution are afforded a priority over other general unsecured claims against such an institution, including federal funds and letters of credit, in the "liquidation or other resolution" of such an institution by any receiver. The UK Prudential Regulatory Authority ("PRA") (formerly the Financial Services Authority) published a consultation paper in September 2012 concerning the implications of national depositor preference regimes of countries not within the European Economic Area ("EEA") (including, among others, the U.S.) that prioritize the claims of home-country depositors over those of depositors outside the home country if a deposit taking banking organization becomes insolvent. The proposed PRA rules would prohibit firms, including BNY Mellon, from non-EEA countries that operate such regimes from accepting deposits through a UK branch, unless measures are introduced to eliminate the perceived disadvantage to UK depositors caused by the subordination of their claims in favor of home country depositors. The proposal would also require certain depositor notice undertakings. The PRA initially intended that these new standards would start to take effect by January 2013, with a full compliance deadline of January 2015, but the consultation period for its proposal was extended to Jan. 31, 2013. The PRA has not taken further action on its proposal.

As a result of this proposal, U.S. banks may change their deposit agreements to make UK branch deposits payable in the U.S. to provide depositor preference to UK branch deposits. The FDIC issued a final rule in September 2013 clarifying that these UK branch deposits payable in the U.S. are not FDIC insured.

Transactions with Affiliates and Insiders

Transactions between BNY Mellon's bank subsidiaries, on the one hand, and BNY Mellon and its non-bank subsidiaries, on the other, are regulated by the Federal Reserve. These regulations limit the types and amounts of transactions (including loans due and extensions of credit from the U.S. bank subsidiaries) that may take place and generally require those transactions to be on an arm's-length basis. These regulations generally do not apply to transactions between a U.S. bank subsidiary and its subsidiaries. In general, these restrictions require that any extensions of credit by a BNY Mellon bank subsidiary to BNY Mellon or to a BNY Mellon non-bank subsidiary must be secured by designated amounts of specified collateral and are limited, as to any one of BNY Mellon or such non-bank affiliates, to 10% of the lending bank's capital stock and surplus, and, as to BNY Mellon and all such non-bank affiliates in the aggregate, to 20% of such lending bank's capital stock and surplus.

The Dodd-Frank Act significantly expanded the coverage and scope of the limitations on affiliate transactions within a banking organization. For example, commencing in July 2012, the Dodd-Frank Act required that the 10% of capital limit on covered transactions apply to financial subsidiaries. Commencing in July 2012, Dodd-Frank also expanded the definition of a "covered transaction" to include derivatives transactions and securities lending transactions with a non-bank affiliate under which a bank (or its subsidiary) has credit exposure (with the term "credit exposure" to be defined by the Federal Reserve under its existing rulemaking authority). Collateral requirements will apply to such transactions as well as to certain repurchase and reverse repurchase agreements.

Deposit Insurance

Our U.S. banking subsidiaries, including The Bank of New York Mellon and BNY Mellon, N.A., accept deposits, and those deposits have the benefit of FDIC insurance up to the applicable limit. The current limit for FDIC insurance for deposit accounts is $250,000 for each depositor account. Under the FDI Act, insurance of deposits may be terminated by the FDIC upon a finding that the insured depository institution has engaged in unsafe and unsound practices, is in an unsafe or unsound condition to continue operations or has violated any applicable law, regulation, rule, order or condition imposed by a bank's federal regulatory agency.

The FDIC's Deposit Insurance Fund (the "DIF") is funded by assessments on insured depository institutions. The FDIC assesses DIF premiums based on a bank's average consolidated total assets, less the average tangible equity of the insured depository institution during the assessment period. For larger institutions, such as The Bank of New York Mellon and BNY Mellon, N.A., assessments are determined based on CAMELS ratings and forward-looking financial measures to calculate the assessment rate, which is subject to adjustments by the FDIC, and the assessment base.

The Dodd-Frank Act also directed the FDIC to determine whether and to what extent adjustments to the assessment base are appropriate for custody banks. During 2011, the FDIC concluded that certain liquid assets could be excluded from the deposit insurance assessment base of custody banks that satisfy certain institutional eligibility criteria. This has the effect of reducing the amount of DIF insurance premiums due from custody banks. The Bank of New York Mellon is a custody bank for this purpose. The custody bank assessment adjustment may not exceed total transaction account deposits identified by the institution as being directly linked to a fiduciary or custody and safekeeping asset.

Source of Strength and Liability of Affiliates

Federal Reserve policy historically has required BHCs to act as a source of strength to their bank subsidiaries and to commit capital and financial resources to support those subsidiaries. The Dodd-Frank Act codified this policy as a statutory requirement. Such support may be required by the Federal Reserve at times when we might otherwise determine not to provide it. In addition, any loans by BNY Mellon to its bank subsidiaries would be subordinate in right of payment to depositors and to certain other indebtedness of its banks. In the event of a BHC's bankruptcy, any commitment by the BHC to a federal bank regulator to maintain the capital of a subsidiary bank will be assumed by the bankruptcy trustee and entitled to a priority of payment. In addition, in certain circumstances BNY Mellon's insured depository institutions could be assessed for losses incurred by another BNY Mellon insured depository institution. In the event of impairment of the capital stock of one of BNY Mellon's national banks or The Bank of New York Mellon, BNY Mellon, as the banks' stockholder, could be required to pay such deficiency.

Incentive Compensation Arrangements Proposal

The Dodd-Frank Act requires federal regulators to prescribe regulations or guidelines regarding incentive-based compensation practices at certain financial institutions. On April 14, 2011, federal regulators including the FDIC, the Federal Reserve and the SEC, issued a proposed rule which, among other things, would require certain executive officers of covered financial institutions with total consolidated assets of $50 billion or more, such as ours, to defer at least 50% of their annual incentive-based compensation for a minimum of three years. The comment period on the proposed rule closed May 31, 2011. Final regulations have not been issued as of this date.

Anti-Money Laundering and the USA Patriot Act

A major focus of governmental policy on financial institutions has been aimed at combating money laundering and terrorist financing. The USA PATRIOT Act of 2001 contains numerous anti-money laundering requirements for financial institutions that are applicable to BNY Mellon's bank, broker-dealer and investment adviser subsidiaries and mutual funds and private investment companies advised or sponsored by our subsidiaries. Those regulations impose obligations on financial institutions to maintain appropriate policies, procedures and controls to detect, prevent and report money laundering and terrorist financing and to verify the identity of their customers. Certain of those regulations impose specific due diligence requirements on financial institutions that maintain correspondent or private banking relationships with non-U.S. financial institutions or persons.

Privacy

The privacy provisions of the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act generally prohibit financial institutions, including BNY Mellon, from disclosing nonpublic personal financial information of consumer customers to third parties for certain purposes (primarily marketing) unless customers have the opportunity to "opt out" of the disclosure. The Fair Credit Reporting Act restricts information sharing among affiliates for marketing purposes.

Acquisitions

Federal and state laws impose notice and approval requirements for mergers and acquisitions involving depository institutions or BHCs. The BHC Act requires the prior approval of the Federal Reserve for the direct or indirect acquisition by a BHC of more than 5% of any class of the voting shares or all or substantially all of the assets of a commercial bank, savings and loan association or BHC. In reviewing bank acquisition and merger applications, the bank regulatory authorities will consider, among other things, the competitive effect of the transaction, financial and managerial issues including the capital position of the combined organization, convenience and needs factors, including the applicant's record under the Community Reinvestment Act of 1977 which requires U.S. banks to help serve the credit needs of their communities (including credit to low and moderate income individuals and geographies) and the effectiveness of the subject organizations in combating money laundering activities. In addition, prior Federal Reserve approval would be required for certain large non-banking acquisitions and investments.

Regulated Entities of BNY Mellon and Ancillary Regulatory Requirements

BNY Mellon is regulated as a BHC and a financial holding company ("FHC") under the Bank Holding Company Act of 1956, as amended by the Gramm-Leach-Bliley Act and by the Dodd-Frank Act (the "BHC Act"). We are subject to supervision by the Federal Reserve. In general, the BHC Act limits a BHC's business activities to banking, managing or controlling banks, performing certain servicing activities for subsidiaries, engaging in activities incidental to banking, and engaging in any activity, or acquiring and retaining the shares of any company engaged in any activity, that is either financial in nature or complementary to a financial activity and does not pose a substantial risk to the safety and soundness of depository institutions or the financial system generally.

A BHC's ability to maintain FHC status is dependent upon a number of factors, including:

- its U.S. depository institution subsidiaries qualifying on an ongoing basis as "well capitalized" and "well managed" under the prompt corrective regulations of the appropriate regulatory agency (discussed above under "Prompt Corrective Action"); and
- the BHC itself, qualifying on an ongoing basis as "well capitalized" and "well managed" under applicable Federal Reserve regulations.

An FHC that does not continue to meet all the requirements for FHC status will, depending on which requirements it fails to meet, lose the ability to undertake new activities, or make acquisitions, that are not generally permissible for BHCs without FHC status or to continue such activities.

The Bank of New York Mellon, which is BNY Mellon's largest bank subsidiary, is a New York state chartered bank, a member of the Federal Reserve System and subject to regulation, supervision and examination by the Federal Reserve and the New York State Department of Financial Services. BNY Mellon's national bank subsidiaries, BNY Mellon, N.A. and The Bank of New York Mellon Trust Company, National Association, are chartered as national banking associations subject to primary regulation, supervision and examination by the OCC.

We operate a number of broker-dealers that engage in securities underwriting and other broker-dealer activities in the United States. These companies are SEC-registered broker-dealers and members of Financial Industry Regulatory Authority, Inc. ("FINRA"), a securities industry self-regulatory organization. BNY Mellon's non-bank subsidiaries engaged in securities-related activities are regulated by supervisory agencies in the countries in which they conduct business.

Certain of BNY Mellon's public finance and advisory activities are regulated by the Municipal Securities

Rulemaking Board. The SEC issued its final Municipal Advisors Rule in September 2013 to require municipal advisors to register with the SEC if they provide advice to municipal entities or certain other persons on the issuance of municipal securities, or about certain investment strategies or municipal derivatives. The Municipal Advisors Rule becomes effective on July 1, 2014.

Certain of BNY Mellon's subsidiaries are registered with the CFTC as commodity pool operators or commodity trading advisors and, as such, are subject to CFTC regulation. BNY Mellon also has a subsidiary that clears futures and derivatives trades on behalf of institutional clients and is registered with the CFTC as a futures commission merchant and is a member of the National Futures Association. The Bank of New York Mellon provisionally registered as a Swap Dealer (as defined in the Dodd-Frank Act) with the CFTC, through the National Futures Association. As a Swap Dealer, The Bank of New York Mellon is subject to regulation, supervision and examination by the CFTC. In connection with certain Dodd-Frank clearing requirements, The Bank of New York Mellon became a member of LCH Clearnet Limited's SwapClear interest rate swap clearing service in 2012.

Certain of our subsidiaries are registered investment advisors under the Investment Advisers Act of 1940, as amended, and as such are supervised by the SEC. They are also subject to various U.S. federal and state laws and regulations and to the laws and regulations of any countries in which they conduct business. Our subsidiaries advise both public investment companies which are registered with the SEC under the Investment Company Act of 1940 (the "'40 Act"), including the Dreyfus family of mutual funds, and private investment companies which are not registered under the '40 Act.

Certain of our investment management, trust and custody operations provide services to employee benefit plans that are subject to the Employee Retirement Income Security Act of 1974, as amended ("ERISA"), administered by the U.S. Department of Labor. ERISA imposes certain statutory duties, liabilities, disclosure obligations, and restrictions on fiduciaries, as applicable, related to the services being performed and fees being paid. Certain proposed expansions of the definition of a fiduciary could require certain BNY Mellon businesses to modify their practices, which could adversely affect results of such businesses.

Operations and Regulations Outside of the United States

In Europe, branches of The Bank of New York Mellon are subject to regulation in the countries in which they are established, in addition to being subject to oversight by the US regulators referred to above. The Bank of New York Mellon SA/NV ("BNY Mellon SA/NV") is a public limited liability company incorporated under the laws of Belgium. BNY Mellon SA/NV, which has been granted a banking license by the National Bank of Belgium, is authorized to carry out all banking and savings activities as a credit institution. BNY Mellon SA/NV conducts its activities in Belgium as well as through branch offices in the United Kingdom, Luxembourg, the Netherlands, France and Germany.

Effective Feb. 1, 2013, The Bank of New York Mellon (Ireland) Limited (the "Irish Bank") merged with the BNY Mellon SA/NV. As part of the merger process, BNY Mellon SA/NV established a branch in Ireland. As of Feb. 1, 2013, this branch carries on the business activity in Ireland that was previously conducted by the Irish Bank.

Certain of our financial services operations in the UK are subject to regulation and supervision by the Financial Conduct Authority ("FCA") and the Prudential Regulation Authority ("PRA"), whose functions were transferred to them from the previous Financial Services Authority effective April 1, 2013. The PRA is responsible for the authorization and prudential regulation of firms that carry on PRA-regulated activities, including banks. PRA-authorized firms are also subject to regulation by the FCA for conduct purposes. In contrast, FCA-authorized firms (such as investment management firms) have the FCA as their sole regulator for both prudential and conduct purposes although subject to the residual overarching jurisdiction of the PRA, if matters of systemic significance are in issue. As a result, FCA-authorized firms must comply with FCA prudential and conduct rules and the FCA's Principles for Businesses, while dual-regulated firms must comply with the FCA conduct rules and FCA Principles, as well as the applicable PRA prudential rules and the PRA's Principles for Businesses.

The PRA regulates The Bank of New York Mellon (International) Limited, our UK incorporated bank, as well as the UK branches of The Bank of New York Mellon and BNY Mellon SA/NV. Certain of BNY Mellon's UK incorporated subsidiaries are authorized to conduct investment business in the UK. Their investment management advisory activities and their sale and marketing of retail investment products are regulated by the FCA. Certain UK investment funds, including BNY Mellon Investment Funds, are registered with the FCA and are offered for retail sale in the UK.

Since the financial crisis, the European Union and its Member States have, in the same way as their US counterparts, engaged in a significant overhaul of bank regulation and supervision. To increase the resilience of banks and to reduce the impact of potential bank failures, new rules on capital requirements for banks and bank recovery and resolution have been adopted. The EU's Banking Union (described further below) has been launched. Further measures are under way, including providing for a structural separation of the risks associated with certain banks' trading activities from their deposit-taking function.

Proposed legislation for a Bank Recovery and Resolution Directive, which contemplates a recovery and resolution framework for the EU, moved from the European Parliament to the European Council for consideration in December 2013. This directive would provide for resolution planning and a set of harmonized powers to resolve or implement recovery of relevant institutions, including branches of non-European Economic Area ("EEA") banks operating within the EEA. The directive includes the preparation of recovery and resolution plans, giving relevant EEA regulators powers to impose requirements on an institution before resolution actions become necessary; a set of resolution tools and powers to facilitate the resolution of failing entities, such as the power to "bail-in" the debt of an institution (including certain deposit obligations); and the power to require a firm to change its structure to remove impediments to resolvability. Unlike in the United States, where an SPOE approach is expected to be implemented, it provides for a "multiple points of entry" approach coupled with intra-group bail-in requirements.

Aspects of the Banking Union will enter into force Nov. 4, 2014. The key components of the Banking Union include a single resolution mechanism ("SRM") and a single supervisory mechanism ("SSM").

In December 2013, the European Council set out its general approach on the SRM. This approach endorses the bail-in rules established in the Bank Recovery and Resolution Directive. It provides for a Resolution Fund, which is to be funded by the banking industry. It also provides for a single resolution board with broad powers in case of bank resolution. Finally, it provides for EU Member States entering into cooperation agreements with non-EEA countries with the caveat that in certain circumstances they can refuse to recognize proceedings. This SRM approach has not been adopted yet, and the EU Parliament is expected to continue negotiations in early 2014. Various BNY Mellon subsidiaries and branches are expected to fall within the scope of this Directive.

In addition, the Capital Requirements Directive IV (and related Regulation) ("CRD IV") will affect BNY Mellon's EU subsidiaries by implementing Basel III and other changes, including the enhancement of the quality of capital, and the strengthening of capital requirements for counterparty credit risk, resulting in higher capital requirements. In the EU Member States, the CRD IV introduces substantive parts of the new European supervisory architecture, including the development of the Single Rule Book for financial services. A "Single Rule Book" is to replace existing separately implemented rules within EU Member States, with a harmonized approach to implementation across the EU. Elements of CRD IV will apply not only to BNY Mellon banking branches and subsidiaries but also to investment management and brokerage entities. The CRD IV became effective on Jan. 1, 2014, with certain provisions phased in from 2014 to 2019.

Our Investment Management and Investment Services businesses are subject to significant regulation in numerous jurisdictions around the world relating to, among other things, the safeguarding, administration and management of client assets and client funds. Various new and revised European Directives will impact our provision of these services, including revisions to the Markets in Financial Instruments Directive, the new Alternative Investment Fund Managers Directive, the Directive on Undertakings for Collective Investments in Transferable Securities, the Central Securities

Depository Regulation, the European Market Infrastructure Regulation and the Securities Law Legislation. These new and revised European Directives will impact our operations and risk profile and provide new opportunities for the provision of BNY Mellon products and services.

The types of activities in which the foreign branches of our banking subsidiaries and our international subsidiaries may engage are subject to various restrictions imposed by the Federal Reserve. Those foreign branches and international subsidiaries are also subject to the laws and regulatory authorities of the countries in which they operate and, in the case of banking subsidiaries, may be subject to regulatory capital requirements in the jurisdictions in which they operate. As of Dec. 31, 2013, each of BNY Mellon's non-U.S. banking subsidiaries had capital ratios above their specified minimum requirements.

European Central Bank SSM and Comprehensive Assessments

In October 2013, the European Council adopted regulations creating an SSM to oversee banks and other credit institutions. The SSM will be composed of the European Central Bank (the "ECB") and the supervisory authorities of the member states. It will cover the prudential supervision of all major banks in the 18 countries comprising the Eurozone and non-Eurozone countries that choose to participate through close cooperation agreements. The ECB will have direct oversight of Eurozone banks, although the extent of its oversight will be differentiated and made in close cooperation with national supervisors. The ECB will assume its supervisory tasks in November 2014.

In advance of the SSM, the ECB began in November 2013 a comprehensive assessment of certain credit institutions, which due to their size and systemic characteristics, fall under direct supervision by the ECB. The assessment consists of a supervisory risk assessment of key risks, an asset quality review to enhance transparency of bank assets, and a stress test to review the resiliency of bank balance sheets, which will be conducted in conjunction with the European Banking Authority. This assessment is expected to continue until November 2014. The Bank of New York Mellon SA/NV, our Belgian banking subsidiary, is included in this exercise.

On Jan. 29, 2014, in addition to the proposed new rules on structural reform of the European Union banking sector referred to above, the EC adopted accompanying measures aimed at increasing transparency of certain transactions in the "shadow banking" sector, including for providing for enhanced transparency and reporting of SFTs (securities financing transactions). The proposal on structural reform of European Union banks is intended to apply only to the largest and most complex European Union banks with significant trading activities.

Making or continuing an investment in securities issued by us, including our common stock, involves certain risks that you should carefully consider. The following discussion sets forth the most significant risk factors that could affect our business, financial condition or results of operations. However, other factors, besides those discussed below or in other of our reports filed with or furnished to the SEC, also could adversely affect our business, financial condition or results of operations. We cannot assure you that the risk factors described below or elsewhere in our reports address all potential risks that we may face. These risk factors also serve to describe factors which may cause our results to differ materially from those described in forward-looking statements included herein or in other documents or statements that make reference to this Annual Report. See "Forward-looking Statements."

Operational and Business Risk

We are subject to extensive government regulation and supervision and have been impacted by a significant amount of rulemaking as a result of the 2008 financial crisis. Failure to comply with these regulations could have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations.

We operate in a highly regulated environment, and are subject to a comprehensive statutory and regulatory regime, including oversight by governmental agencies both in the U.S. and outside the U.S. In light of the 2008 financial crisis, domestic and international policy makers are increasing their focus on the financial services industry. New or modified regulations and related regulatory guidance are significantly altering the regulatory framework in which we operate and may have unforeseen or unintended adverse effects on us or the financial services industry more generally.

The regulatory and supervisory focus of U.S. banking agencies is primarily intended to protect the safety and soundness of the banking system and federally insured deposits, and not to protect our shareholders or creditors. Additionally, banking regulators have wide discretion in the ongoing examination and the enforcement of applicable banking statutes, regulations, and guidelines, and may restrict our ability to engage in certain activities or acquisitions, or may require us to maintain more capital.

In common with their U.S. counterparts, European policy makers and regulators have also increased their focus on financial services providers and our European operations are being directly affected and will continue to be affected by the changes to the regulatory environment that those regulators are driving.

Other provisions in recent legislative and regulatory changes or proposals impact or are likely to impact BNY Mellon, including:

- Leverage and Risk-Based Capital Standards. The Final Capital Rules issued by the U.S. banking agencies in July 2013 revise the capital framework applicable to U.S. bank holding companies and banks, including by redefining the components of capital, establishing higher minimum percentages for applicable capital ratios, revising the general risk-based capital rules, and introducing a supplementary leverage ratio. The Final Capital Rules subject U.S. bank holding companies and banks, including BNY Mellon and its banking subsidiaries, to more stringent capital requirements, which could restrict growth, activities or operations, or trigger divestiture of assets or operations. We must also separately obtain final approval from the agencies for the use of certain models used to calculate risk-weighted assets under Basel III's Advanced Approaches. While the U.S. agencies have not yet finalized a capital surcharge for U.S. G-SIBs, we currently expect to be subject to a surcharge of 1.0%. Impacts could include, but are not limited to, potential dilution of existing stockholders, and competitive disadvantage compared to financial institutions not under the same regulatory framework;

- Additional Supplementary Leverage Ratio Proposals. In addition to the Final Capital Rules, the U.S. banking agencies in July 2013 proposed a buffer to the supplementary leverage ratio for the largest U.S. bank holding companies and banks, including BNY Mellon and its principal banking subsidiaries, to become effective Jan. 1, 2018. The Basel Committee also proposed to revise exposure measurement methodologies in June of 2013 and finalized the revisions, with changes, in January of 2014. The supplementary leverage ratio is expected to subject BNY Mellon to a more stringent leverage requirement, which includes certain off-balance sheet items, which could restrict growth, activities or operations;

- The Volcker Rule. On Dec. 10, 2013, the final rules to implement the Volcker Rule were adopted. The Volcker Rule prohibits us from engaging in proprietary trading and conditionally allows us to sponsor certain U.S. and foreign private equity and hedge funds ("covered funds"). The conditions limit us from owning interests in covered funds, prohibit the funds from sharing the same or similar name with a BNY Mellon affiliate, and restrict the way BNY Mellon can transact and service these funds. BNY Mellon has until July 2015 to bring its proprietary trading and covered fund activities and transactions into compliance, absent further extensions by the regulators. Should regulators not exercise their authority to permit organizations to retain certain investments, including certain illiquid investments, beyond the conformance period, we could incur losses when disposing of such investments. We could be forced to sell such investments at a discount in the secondary market as a result of both the constrained timing of such sales and the possibility that other financial institutions are likewise liquidating investments at the same time. Resolving the name prohibition may involve significant legal, marketing and compliance costs that are not quantifiable at this time and could vary based on how the prohibition is implemented by the regulators. The servicing restrictions could impact BNY Mellon's ability to provide certain ancillary lending functions to covered funds that we custody, which could constrain our ability to perform this function or act as custodian. Our ownership interest in covered funds that we organize and offer will be limited to 3% of the total outstanding ownership interests of any individual fund at any time more than one year after the date of its establishment, and with respect to the aggregate value of all such ownership interests in covered funds, 3% of our Tier 1 capital. Moreover, beginning in the third quarter of 2015, we expect to be required to deduct from Tier 1 capital the value of our ownership interests in such covered funds, calculated in accordance with the final rule. The Volcker Rule also contains extensive compliance and recordkeeping requirements, which could increase the costs of operations;

- Liquidity Risk Management. Basel III established two minimum liquidity risk measures. The liquidity coverage ratio ("LCR") measures the amount of unencumbered, high-quality, liquid assets relative to net cash outflows an institution could encounter under a significant 30-day stress scenario, and is designed to allow an institution to withstand such liquidity stress. The net stable funding ratio ("NSFR") is designed to address longer-term liquidity mismatch concerns, by requiring firms to hold stable sources of long-term funding over a one-year period. Depending upon the final contours of the LCR and NSFR as ultimately implemented in the U.S., these requirements could require BNY Mellon to increase its holdings of high-quality, and potentially lower-yielding, liquid assets, and to reevaluate the composition of its liabilities structure to include more longer-dated debt;

- Orderly Liquidation Authority "Single Point of Entry". A "single point of entry" approach would replace a distressed bank holding company with a bridge holding company, which could continue subsidiary bank operations. The FDIC recently released a notice describing a potential single point of entry strategy, outlining its perspectives and soliciting comments on how a single point of entry resolution approach could be implemented in the U.S. The agencies may set minimum amounts of equity and unsecured debt at the holding company level to assist in implementing the single point of entry strategy;

- Money Market Mutual Fund Reform. In June 2013, the SEC issued a series of policy proposals designed to enhance money market fund regulation, including limitations on redemptions, liquidity fees, and requiring money market funds to float their net asset value. The European Union has proposed similar initiatives affecting our European money market funds business. If these reforms cause the money market mutual fund market to contract, our business as a servicer and manager of such funds could be impacted;

- Tri-Party Repo Reform. The Task Force on Tri-Party Repo Infrastructure Reform's review of the risks in the tri-party repo market, and associated recommendations, may increase our compliance costs and has required us to implement several measures to change how tri-party repo transactions are conducted;

- Resolution Planning. Large BHCs must develop and submit to the FDIC and the Federal Reserve for review resolution plans for their rapid and orderly resolution in the event of material financial distress or failure. If the FDIC and the Federal Reserve jointly determine that our plan is not credible and we fail to address the deficiencies in a timely manner, the FDIC and the Federal Reserve may jointly impose more stringent capital, leverage or liquidity requirements or restrictions on our growth, activities or operations. Ultimately, we could be required to divest assets or operations that the regulators determine necessary to facilitate our orderly resolution if we fail to adequately remedy any deficiencies identified in our plan within two years;

- Enhanced Prudential Standards/Single Counterparty Credit Limits. Under the Dodd-Frank Act, we are considered to be a systemically important financial institution and are subject to heightened prudential standards and supervision. Final enhanced prudential standards issued by the Federal Reserve could increase our operational, compliance and risk management costs. Other proposed enhanced prudential standards applicable to SIFIs under the Dodd-Frank Act, and similar Basel Committee initiatives, could limit single counterparty credit exposures, and could result in our needing to limit certain business volumes to be able to comply with such limits;

- European Resolution and Structural Reform Proposals. European legislators have initiated proposals to establish European bank resolution mechanisms to operate across the Eurozone. In December 2013, the EU Council set out its general approach on the resolution mechanism to be applied to Europe. Their approach endorses the bail-in rules established in the European Bank Recovery and Resolution Directive. It provides for a "Resolution Fund", which is to be funded by the banking industry. It also provides for a single resolution board with broad powers in case of bank resolution. Finally, it provides for EU Member States entering into cooperation agreements with non-EEA countries with the caveat that in certain circumstances they can refuse to recognize proceedings. This approach has not been adopted yet, and the EU Parliament is expected to continue negotiations in early 2014. Unlike in the United States, it provides for a "multiple points of entry" approach coupled with intra-group bail-in requirements. Various BNY Mellon subsidiaries and branches are expected to fall within the scope of this Directive. With regard to other structural reforms, on Jan. 29, 2014, the EC proposed new rules on structural reform of the EU banking sector for the stated purpose of regulating the proprietary trading activities of large and complex banks. The new rules would also give supervisors the power to require such banks to separate certain trading activities from their deposit-taking business. The proposal on structural reform of EU banks is intended to apply only to the largest and most complex EU banks with significant trading activities. Various BNY Mellon subsidiaries and branches are expected to fall within the scope of this Directive and the effects on our European businesses could be similar to the effect of various Volcker Rule proposals; and

- Investment Services in Europe. The Alternative Investment Fund Managers Directive ("AIFMD"), which is coming into force progressively in 2014, is having a direct effect on our alternative fund manager clients and our depository business and other products offered across Europe. AIFMD imposes heightened depository obligations, which have both operational and, potentially, capital effects. Our businesses servicing regulated funds in Europe will be affected similarly by the revised directive governing undertakings for collective investment in transferable securities, known as UCITS IV, anticipated to be formally adopted in the third quarter of 2014 and to take effect two years after that.

In addition, U.S. regulatory agencies - banking, securities and commodities - continue to publish notices of proposed regulations required by the Dodd-Frank Act, and new bodies created by the Dodd-Frank Act (including the Financial Stability Oversight Council and the Consumer Finance Protection Bureau) have commenced operations. The related findings of various regulatory and commission studies, the interpretations issued as part of the rulemaking process and the final regulations that are issued with respect to various elements of the new law may cause changes that impact the profitability of our business activities and require that we change certain of our business practices and plans. These changes will continue to expose us to additional regulatory costs and require us to invest significant management attention and resources to make any necessary changes, all of which could impact our profitability. See "Supervision and Regulation" in this Annual Report for additional information regarding the potential impact of the regulatory environment on our business.

Failure to comply with these regulations, as well as other laws, regulations or policies could result in sanctions by regulatory agencies, civil money penalties and reputational damage, which could have a material adverse effect on our business, financial condition and results of operations. Although we have policies and procedures designed to prevent any such violations, there can be no assurance that such violations will not occur. If violations do occur, they could damage our reputation, increase our legal and compliance costs, and ultimately adversely impact our results of operations. Laws, regulations or policies currently affecting us and our subsidiaries may change at any time. Regulatory authorities may also change their interpretation of these statutes and regulations. Therefore, our business may also be adversely affected by future changes in laws, regulations, policies or interpretations or regulatory approaches to compliance and enforcement. See "Supervision and Regulation" in this Annual Report.

Regulatory actions or litigation could materially adversely affect our results of operations or harm our businesses or reputation.

Like many major financial institutions, we are the subject of inquiries, investigations, lawsuits and proceedings by counterparties, clients, other third parties and regulatory and other governmental agencies in the United States and abroad, as well as the Department of Justice and state attorneys general. See "Legal proceedings" in Note 22 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements in this Annual Report for a discussion of material legal and regulatory proceedings in which we are involved. With regard to many firms in the financial services industry, the number of these investigations and proceedings, as well as the amount of penalties and fines sought, has increased substantially in recent years. Further, we may become subject to regulatory scrutiny, inquiries or investigations, and potentially client-related inquiries or claims, relating to broad, industry-wide concerns that could lead to increased expenses or reputational damage. For example, many participants in the foreign exchange industry are currently receiving heightened regulatory scrutiny concerning alleged potential manipulation with respect to published foreign exchange benchmarks and we, like a number of others, have received inquiries from government authorities seeking information. Responding to inquiries, investigations, lawsuits and proceedings, regardless of the ultimate outcome of the matter, is time-consuming and expensive and can divert the attention of our senior management from our business. The outcome of such proceedings may be difficult to predict or estimate until late in the proceedings, which may last a number of years.

Our businesses involve the risk that clients or others may sue us, claiming that we have failed to perform under a contract or otherwise failed to carry out a duty perceived to be owed to them. This risk may be heightened during periods when credit, equity or other financial markets are deteriorating in value or are particularly volatile, or when clients or investors are experiencing losses. In addition, as a publicly held company, we are subject to the risk of claims under the federal securities laws, and volatility in our stock price increases this risk.

Actions brought against us may result in lawsuits, enforcement actions, injunctions, settlements, damages, fines or penalties, which could have a material adverse effect on our financial condition or results of operations or require changes to our business. Claims for significant monetary damages are asserted in many of these legal actions, while claims for disgorgement, penalties and/or other remedial sanctions may be sought in regulatory matters. Although we establish accruals for our litigation and regulatory matters in accordance with applicable accounting guidance when those matters proceed to a stage where they present loss contingencies that are both probable and reasonably estimable, nonetheless there may be a possible material exposure to loss in excess of any amounts accrued. Any or all of these risks could result in increased regulatory supervision and affect our ability to attract and retain customers or maintain access to the capital markets. Adverse governmental scrutiny and legal proceedings can also adversely impact the morale and performance of our employees.

Adverse publicity with respect to us, other well-known companies and the financial services industry generally could materially adversely affect our results of operations or harm our businesses or reputation.

We are subject to reputational, legal and regulatory risk in the ordinary course of our business. The 2008 financial crisis and current political and public sentiment regarding financial institutions have resulted in a significant amount of adverse media coverage of financial institutions. Harm to our reputation can result from numerous sources, including adverse publicity arising from events in the financial markets, our perceived failure to comply with legal and regulatory requirements, the purported actions of our employees or alleged financial reporting irregularities involving ourselves or other large and well-known companies. Additionally, a failure to deliver appropriate standards of service and quality or a failure to appropriately describe our products and services can result in customer dissatisfaction, lost revenue, higher operating costs, heightened regulatory scrutiny and litigation. Actions by the financial services industry generally or by other members of or individuals in the financial services industry can also negatively impact our reputation. For example, public perception that some consumers may have been treated unfairly by financial institutions has damaged the reputation of the financial services industry as a whole. Should any of these or other events or factors that can undermine our reputation occur, there is no assurance that the additional costs and expenses that we may need to incur to address the issues giving rise to the reputational harm would not adversely affect our earnings and results of operations.

Continued litigation and regulatory investigations and proceedings involving our foreign exchange standing instruction program and resulting adverse publicity could affect our reputation and negatively impact our foreign exchange business.

Beginning in 2009, our foreign exchange standing instruction program became the subject of litigation and regulatory investigations and proceedings. See "Legal proceedings" in Note 22 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements in this Annual Report. These litigation and regulatory investigations and proceedings have generated substantial scrutiny of, and adverse publicity concerning, our foreign exchange standing instruction program. Continued litigation involving our foreign exchange standing instruction program, and the resulting scrutiny and adverse publicity, could affect our reputation and discourage clients from doing business with us. For example, these proceedings have resulted in the loss of Ohio public fund custody clients, which has attracted media attention and led to inquiries from other clients, investors and employees. If we continue to be subject to these proceedings and the resulting adverse publicity relating to our foreign exchange standing instruction program, our reputation could be further affected, adversely impacting our business and results of operations. See "Fee and other revenue - Foreign exchange and other trading revenue" in the MD&A - Results of Operations section of this Annual Report for more information regarding our foreign exchange business, including business practices, results of operations and trends.

Failure to satisfy regulatory standards, including "well capitalized" and "well managed" status or capital adequacy rules more generally, could result in limitations on our activities and adversely affect our business and financial condition.

Under regulatory capital adequacy rules and other regulatory requirements, BNY Mellon and our subsidiary banks must meet thresholds that include quantitative measures of assets, liabilities and certain off-balance sheet items, subject to qualitative judgments by regulators about components, risk weightings and other factors. As discussed under "Supervision and Regulation" in this Annual Report, BNY Mellon is regulated as a BHC and a financial holding company ("FHC"). Our ability to maintain our status as an FHC is dependent upon a number of factors, including our U.S. depository institution subsidiaries qualifying on an ongoing basis as "well capitalized" and "well managed" under the banking agencies' prompt corrective action regulations and upon BNY Mellon qualifying on an ongoing basis as "well capitalized" and "well managed" under applicable Federal Reserve regulations. Failure by BNY Mellon or one of our U.S. bank subsidiaries to qualify as "well capitalized" and "well managed", if unremedied over a period of time, would cause us to lose our status as an FHC and could affect the confidence of clients in us, compromising our competitive position. Additionally, an FHC that does not continue to meet all the requirements for FHC status could lose the ability to undertake new activities or make acquisitions that are not generally permissible for BHCs without FHC status or to continue such activities.

Our bank subsidiaries are also subject to capital requirements, administered by the Federal Reserve in the case of The Bank of New York Mellon and by the OCC in the case of our national bank subsidiaries, BNY Mellon, N.A. and The Bank of New York Mellon Trust Company, National Association. Failure by one of our bank subsidiaries to maintain its status as "well capitalized" could lead to, among other things, higher FDIC assessments. A further failure by BNY Mellon or one of our U.S. bank subsidiaries to maintain its status as "adequately capitalized" would lead to regulatory sanctions and limitations and could lead the federal banking agencies to take "prompt corrective action."

The Federal Reserve has set a minimum leverage ratio of at least 3% or 4% for BHCs (depending on factors specified in regulations), including BNY Mellon, and requires The Bank of New York Mellon to maintain a leverage ratio of at least 5% to maintain its "well capitalized" status. The leverage ratio measures the ratio of Basel I Tier 1 capital to quarterly average assets, as defined under Basel I regulatory guidelines.

As part of the Final Capital Rules, BNY Mellon will be required to maintain a minimum leverage ratio of 4%, and The Bank of New York Mellon will be required to maintain a leverage ratio of 5% to maintain its "well capitalized" status. In addition to this traditional total leverage constraint, the Final Capital Rules will require an additional supplementary leverage ratio with a minimum of 3%, to become effective Jan. 1, 2018. The supplementary leverage ratio measures Tier 1 capital against an organization's total leverage exposure, which includes not only a firm's total assets but also many off-balance sheet exposures. On July 9, 2013, the U.S. banking agencies proposed revisions to the supplementary leverage ratio under a notice of proposed rulemaking that would only apply to the largest U.S. BHCs and banks, including BNY Mellon. The July 9 proposal would increase the supplementary leverage requirement for affected holding companies to 5%. In addition, this proposal would establish a supplementary leverage ratio "well capitalized" threshold of 6% for affected insured depository institutions under the U.S. banking agencies' prompt corrective action framework, including our largest banking subsidiary, The Bank of New York Mellon. Separately, in January of 2014 the Basel Committee adopted amendments to its supplementary leverage ratio's exposure measure principally concerning securities financing transactions, off-balance sheet credit conversion factors, the treatment of cash variation margin, central clearing, and written credit derivatives.

If our company or our subsidiary banks failed to meet these minimum capital rules and other regulatory requirements, we may not be able to deploy capital in the operation of our business or distribute capital to stockholders, which may adversely affect our business. If we are not able to meet the Final Capital Rules' additional, more stringent, capital adequacy standards, we may not remain "well capitalized." See "Supervision and Regulation" and the "Liquidity and dividends" and "Capital - Capital adequacy" sections in the MD&A - Results of Operations section in this Annual Report.

Our business may be materially adversely affected by operational risk.

We are exposed to operational risk as a result of conducting various fee-based services in our Investment Services and Investment Management businesses. Examples of operational risk include: the risk of loss resulting from errors related to transaction processing; breaches of the internal control system and compliance requirements; fraud by employees or persons outside BNY Mellon; business interruption due to system failures; unsuccessful or difficult implementation of computer systems upgrades; natural disasters or other events; or other risk of loss resulting from inadequate or failed internal processes, people and systems or from external events. Operational risk may also include breaches of our technology and information systems resulting from unauthorized access to confidential information or from internal or external threats, such as cyber attacks. Operational risk also includes potential legal or regulatory actions that could arise as a result of non-compliance with applicable laws, regulatory requirements or contracts which could have an adverse effect on our reputation and could result in the imposition of fines or civil money penalties or the payment of damages. Further, national regulators in the UK and Ireland continue to focus on rules around the protection of client assets, with consultative exercises being conducted by the FCA in the UK with regard to the UK CASS regime and by the Irish Central Bank with regard to implementation of a new regime in Ireland. We continue to assess our operational models and risks in light of these regulatory priorities.

In addition, our businesses and the markets in which we operate are continuously evolving. We may fail to fully understand the implications of changes in our businesses or the financial markets or fail to adequately or timely enhance our risk framework to address those changes. If our risk framework is ineffective, either because it fails to keep pace with changes in the financial markets, regulatory requirements, our businesses, our counterparties, clients or service providers or for other reasons, we could incur losses, suffer reputational damage or find ourselves out of compliance with applicable regulatory or contractual mandates or expectations.

We use various risk models in analyzing and monitoring many risk categories. However, these models, processes and strategies are inherently limited because they involve techniques, including the use of historical data in some circumstances, and judgments that cannot anticipate every economic and financial outcome in the markets in which we operate, nor can they anticipate the specifics and timing of such outcomes.

An important aspect of managing our operational risk is creating a risk culture in which all employees fully understand that there is risk in every aspect of our business and the importance of managing risk as it relates to their job functions. We continue to enhance our risk management program to support our risk culture, ensuring that it is sustainable and appropriate to our role as a major financial institution. Nonetheless, if we fail to create the appropriate environment that sensitizes all of our employees to managing risk, our business could be adversely impacted. We regularly assess and monitor operational risk in our business and provide for disaster and business recovery planning, including geographical diversification of our facilities. However, despite our efforts to assess and monitor operational risk, our risk management program may not be effective in all cases. The occurrence of various events, including unforeseeable and unpreventable events, such as systems failures or natural disasters, could damage our physical facilities or our computer systems or software, cause delay or disruptions to operational functions, impair our clients, vendors and counterparties and ultimately negatively impact our results of operations due to potentially higher expenses and lower revenues. When we record balance sheet reserves for probable and estimable loss contingencies related to operational losses (or when we disclose a range of reasonably possible loss for reasonably possible and estimable loss contingencies), our estimated exposure may not be sufficient to cover our actual exposure, which could have a material adverse effect on our consolidated results of operations in the period in which such actions or matters are resolved. For a discussion of operational risk see "Risk Management - Operational/business risk" and "Business Continuity" in the MD&A section in this Annual Report.

A failure or circumvention of our controls and procedures could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

Management regularly reviews and updates our internal controls, disclosure controls and procedures, and corporate governance policies and procedures. Any system of controls, however well designed and operated, is based in part on certain assumptions and can provide only reasonable, not absolute, assurances that the objectives of the system are met. Any failure or circumvention of our controls and procedures or failure to comply with regulations related to controls and procedures could have a material adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition. If we identify material weaknesses in our internal control over financial reporting or are otherwise required to restate our financial statements, we could be required to implement other expensive and time-consuming remedial measures and could lose investor confidence in the accuracy and completeness of our financial reports. In addition, there are risks that individuals, either employees or contractors, consciously circumvent established control mechanisms by, for example, exceeding trading or investment management limitations, or committing fraud.

If our information systems experience a disruption or breach in security that results in a loss of confidential client information or impacts our ability to provide services to our clients, our business and results of operations may be adversely affected.

We rely on communications and information systems to conduct our business. Our businesses that rely heavily on technology, including our Investment Services business, are particularly vulnerable to security breaches and technology disruptions. While our information systems have been subjected to cyber threats, including hacker attacks, computer viruses or other malicious code, denial of service efforts, limited unavailability of service, phishing attacks, and unauthorized access attempts, we deploy a broad range of sophisticated defenses and we have avoided a material breach, but notwithstanding these efforts, it is possible we could suffer a material breach or disruption in the future. The security of our computer systems, software and networks, and those functions that we may outsource, may continue to be subjected to cyber threats that could result in failures or disruptions in our business. Despite our efforts to ensure the integrity of our systems and information, it is possible that we may not be able to anticipate or to implement effective preventive measures against all cyber threats, especially because the techniques used change frequently or are not recognized until launched, and because security attacks can originate from a wide variety of sources, including outside third parties such as persons who are involved with organized crime or associated with external service providers or who may be linked to terrorist organizations or hostile foreign governments. Those parties may also attempt to fraudulently induce employees, customers or other users of our systems to disclose sensitive information in order to gain access to our data or that of our customers or clients.

Breaches of security may occur through intentional or unintentional acts by those having authorized or unauthorized access to our systems or our clients' or counterparties' confidential information, including employees and customers, as well as hackers. A breach of security that results in the loss of confidential client information may require us to reconstruct lost data or reimburse clients for data and credit monitoring efforts, may result in loss of customer business, or damage to our computers or systems and those of our customers and counterparties, would be costly and time-consuming, and may negatively impact our results of operations and reputation. Additionally, security breaches or disruptions of our information systems, or those of our service providers, could impact our ability to provide services to our clients, which could expose us to liability for damages which may not be covered by insurance, result in the loss of customer business, damage our reputation, subject us to regulatory scrutiny or expose us to civil litigation, any of which could have a material adverse effect on our financial condition and results of operations. In addition, the failure to upgrade or maintain our computer systems, software and networks, as necessary, could also make us susceptible to breaches and unauthorized access and misuse. There can be no assurance that any such failures, interruptions or security breaches will not occur or, if they do occur, that they will be adequately addressed. We may be required to expend significant additional resources to modify, investigate or remediate vulnerabilities or other exposures arising from information systems security risks. Furthermore, even if not directed at us specifically, attacks on other large financial institutions could disrupt the overall functioning of the financial system to the detriment of other financial institutions, including us.

As a result of the importance of communications and information systems to our business, we could also be adversely affected if attacks affecting the third party providers of our communications services impair our ability to process transactions and communicate with customers and counterparties. For a discussion of operational risk, see "Risk Management - Operational/business risk" and "Business Continuity" in the MD&A section in this Annual Report.

We depend on our technology; if we fail to update our technology our business may be adversely affected.

We are dependent on technology because many of our products and services involve processing large volumes of data. Our technology platforms must therefore provide global capabilities and scale. Rapid technological changes, together with competitive pressures, require significant and ongoing investments in technology to develop competitive new products and services or adopt new technologies. Technological advances which result in lower transaction costs may adversely impact our revenues. In addition, unsuccessful implementation of technological upgrades and new products may adversely impact our ability to service and retain customers. We cannot provide any assurance that our technology spending will achieve gains in competitiveness or profitability, and the costs we incur in product development could be substantial. Accordingly, we could incur substantial development costs without achieving corresponding gains in profitability.

Developments in the securities processing industry, including shortened settlement cycles and straight-through-processing, will necessitate ongoing changes to our business and operations and will likely require additional investment in technology. Our financial performance depends in part on our ability to develop and market new and innovative services, to adopt or develop new technologies that differentiate our products or provide cost efficiencies and to deliver these products and services to the market in a timely manner at a competitive price. Additionally, failure to ensure adequate review and consideration of critical business changes prior to and during introduction and deployment of key technological systems or failure to adequately align evolving client commitments and expectations with operational capabilities can have a negative impact on our operations.

We rely on a variety of measures to protect our intellectual property and proprietary information, including copyrights, trademarks, patents and controls on access and distribution. These measures may not prevent misappropriation or infringement of our intellectual property or proprietary information and a resulting loss of competitive advantage. Furthermore, if a third party were to assert a claim of infringement or misappropriation of its proprietary rights, obtained through patents or otherwise, against us with respect to one or more of our products, systems, or methods of doing business or conducting our operations, we could be required to spend significant amounts to defend such claims, develop alternative methods of operations, pay substantial money damages or obtain a license from the third party.

Change or uncertainty in monetary, tax and other governmental policies may impact our profitability and ability to compete.

The monetary, tax and other policies of the government and its agencies, including the Federal Reserve, have a significant impact on interest rates and overall financial market performance. The Federal Reserve regulates the supply of money and credit in the United States and its policies influence our cost of funds for lending, investing and capital raising activities and the return we earn on those loans and investments, both of which affect our net interest margin. For example, the Federal Reserve's low interest rate policies have resulted in, and could continue to result in, some reduction in our spread-based income and net interest revenue. The actions of the Federal Reserve also can materially affect the value of financial instruments we hold, and its policies also can affect our borrowers, potentially increasing the risk that they may fail to repay their loans.

Our business and earnings may also be adversely affected by the monetary, tax and other governmental policies that are adopted by various regulatory authorities, governments and international agencies. As a result of the 2008 financial crisis, there have been significant changes in these policies, which have imposed additional compliance, legal, review and response costs that have impacted our profitability. Changes in monetary, tax and other governmental policies are beyond our control and can be difficult to predict and we cannot determine the ultimate effect that any such changes would have upon our business, financial condition or results of operations.

We are subject to intense competition in all aspects of our business, which could negatively affect our ability to maintain or increase our profitability.

Many businesses in which we operate are intensely competitive around the world. Competitors include other banks, trading firms, broker dealers, investment banks, asset managers, insurance companies and a variety of other financial services and advisory companies whose products and services span the local, national and global markets in which we conduct operations. In addition, technological advances and the growth of internet-based commerce have made it possible for other types of institutions, such as outsourcing companies and data processing companies, to offer a variety of products and services competitive with certain areas of our business. Increased competition in any one or all of these areas may require us to make additional capital investments in our businesses in order to remain competitive.

Furthermore, pricing pressures, as a result of the willingness of competitors to offer comparable or improved products or services at a lower price, may result in a reduction in the price we can charge for our products and services, which could negatively affect our ability to maintain or increase our profitability.

Recently implemented and proposed regulations may impact our ability to conduct certain of our businesses in a cost-effective manner or at all. See "Supervision and Regulation" in this Annual Report. These regulations may not apply to all of our competitors, which could adversely impact our ability to compete effectively. A decline in our competitive position could adversely affect our ability to maintain or increase our profitability.

New lines of business or new products and services may subject us to additional risks, and the failure to grow our existing businesses could affect our results of operations.

From time to time, we may launch new lines of business or offer new products and services within existing lines of business. There are substantial risks and uncertainties associated with these efforts. We invest significant time and resources in developing and marketing new lines of business, products and services. Initial timetables for the introduction and development of new lines of business and/or new products or services may not be achieved and price and profitability targets may not be met. Our revenues and costs may fluctuate because generally new businesses or products and services require start-up costs while revenues may take time to develop, which may adversely impact our results of operations.

Our business may be adversely affected if we are unable to attract and retain employees.

Our success depends, in large part, on our ability to attract new employees, retain and motivate our existing employees, and continue to compensate our employees competitively amid intense public and regulatory scrutiny of the compensation practices of large financial institutions. Competition for the best employees in most activities in which we engage can be intense, and there can be no assurance that we will be successful in our efforts to recruit and retain key personnel. Factors that affect our ability to attract and retain talented and diverse employees include our compensation and benefits programs, our profitability and our reputation for rewarding and promoting qualified employees. Our ability to attract and retain key executives and other employees may be hindered as a result of regulations applicable to incentive compensation and other aspects of our compensation programs promulgated by the Federal Reserve and other regulators in the United States and worldwide, regulations on incentive compensation promulgated by various U.S. regulators pursuant to the Dodd-Frank Act and other existing and potential regulations. These regulations, which include and are expected to include mandatory deferral and clawback requirements, may not apply to some of our competitors and to other institutions with which we compete for talent. Our ability to recruit and retain key talent may be adversely affected by these regulations. In addition, aspects of our compensation programs are performance-based. If we do not achieve applicable performance thresholds for a relevant period, employee compensation may be adversely affected.

We are subject to political, economic, legal, operational and other risks that are inherent in operating globally and which may adversely affect our business.

In conducting our business and maintaining and supporting our global operations, we are subject to risks of loss from the outbreak of hostilities and various unfavorable political, economic, legal or other developments, including social or political instability, changes in governmental policies or policies of central banks, expropriation, nationalization, confiscation of assets, price controls, capital controls, exchange controls, unfavorable tax rates and tax court rulings and changes in laws and regulations. Our international clients accounted for 37% of our revenue in 2013. Our non-U.S. businesses are subject to extensive regulation by various non-U.S. regulators, including governments, securities exchanges, central banks and other regulatory bodies, in the jurisdictions in which those businesses operate. In many countries, the laws and regulations applicable to the financial services industry are uncertain and evolving, and may be applied with extra scrutiny to non-domestic companies, and it may be difficult for us to determine the exact requirements of local laws in every market or manage our relationships with multiple regulators in various jurisdictions. Our inability to remain in compliance with local laws in a particular market and manage our relationships with regulators could have an adverse effect not only on our businesses in that market but also on our reputation generally.

The failure to properly mitigate such risks, or the failure of our operating infrastructure to support such international activities could result in operational failures and regulatory fines or sanctions, which could adversely affect our business and results of operations.

In addition, we are subject in our global operations to rules and regulations relating to corrupt and illegal payments and money laundering, as well as laws relating to doing business with certain individuals, groups and countries, such as the U.S. Foreign Corrupt Practices Act, the USA PATRIOT Act, the Iran Threat Reduction and Syria Human Rights Act of 2012 and the UK Bribery Act. While we have invested and continue to invest significant resources in training and in compliance monitoring, the geographical diversity of our operations, employees, clients and customers, as well as the vendors and other third parties that we deal with, presents the risk that we may be found in violation of such rules, regulations or laws and any such violation could subject us to significant penalties or adversely affect our reputation.

Further, our businesses and operations from time to time enter into new regions throughout the world, including emerging and frontier markets. Various emerging and frontier market countries have experienced severe economic and financial disruptions, including significant devaluations of their currencies, defaults or threatened defaults on sovereign debt, capital and currency exchange controls, and low or negative growth rates in their economies. Crime, corruption, war or military actions, and a lack of an established legal and regulatory framework are additional challenges in certain emerging and frontier markets. Revenue from international operations and trading in non-U.S. securities and other obligations may be subject to negative fluctuations as a result of the above considerations. The possible effects of any of these conditions may adversely affect our business and results of operations.

Acts of terrorism, natural disasters, pandemics and global conflicts may have a negative impact on our business and operations.

Acts of terrorism, natural disasters, pandemics, global conflicts or other similar catastrophic events could have a negative impact on our business and operations. While we have in place business continuity and disaster recovery plans, such events could still damage our facilities, disrupt or delay the normal operations of our business (including communications and technology), result in harm or cause travel limitations on our employees, and have a similar impact on our clients, suppliers and counterparties. These events could also negatively impact the purchase of our products and services to the extent that those acts or conflicts result in reduced capital markets activity, lower asset price levels, or disruptions in general economic activity in the United States or abroad, or in financial market settlement functions. For example, in October 2012 several of our facilities in the northeastern U.S. were impacted by Superstorm Sandy and the New York Stock Exchange was closed for two trading days. While our business continuity plans functioned well and we did not experience a material financial impact from the storm, nonetheless the recovery required significant resources and we experienced some lost revenue opportunities. In addition, war, terror attacks, political unrest, global conflicts, the national and global efforts to combat terrorism and other potential military activities and outbreaks of hostilities may negatively impact economic growth, which could have an adverse effect on our business and operations, and may have other adverse effects on us in ways that we are unable to predict.

Our strategic acquisitions, including our ability to successfully integrate acquired businesses and potential liabilities from legacy claims against the acquired businesses, present risks and uncertainties and could have an adverse effect on our business, results of operations and financial condition.

From time to time, to achieve our strategic objectives, we have acquired or invested in other companies or businesses, and may do so in the future. Each acquisition poses integration challenges, including successfully retaining and assimilating clients and key employees, capitalizing on certain revenue synergies, integrating the acquired company's accounting management information, internal controls and other administrative systems and technology. We may be required to spend a significant amount of time and resources to integrate these acquisitions and the anticipated benefits may take longer to achieve than projected. Additionally, for a period of time after an acquisition we may be required to use legacy technology systems until we are able to convert the acquired business to desired technology systems. In the event that such technology conversion takes longer than anticipated, we may incur significant costs for the continued usage of legacy technology, operational and cost inefficiencies and client dissatisfaction resulting from the use of multiple technology systems. If we fail to successfully integrate strategic acquisitions, including doing so in a timely and cost-effective manner, we may not realize the expected benefits regarding such acquisitions, which could have an adverse impact on our business, financial condition and results of operations. In addition, we may incur expenses, costs, losses, and other liabilities in connection with the defense and/or settlement of legal and regulatory claims, investigations and proceedings related to actions or omissions of the acquired businesses prior to the date of our ownership. Moreover, to the extent we enter into an agreement to buy or sell an entity, there can be no guarantee that the transaction will close when anticipated, or at all. In particular, in certain instances we or the purchaser must seek regulatory approvals, which can delay or disrupt such acquisitions or dispositions.

Market Risk

Ongoing concerns about the financial stability of several countries in Europe, the failure or instability of any of our significant counterparties in Europe, or a breakup of the European Monetary Union could have a material adverse effect on our business and results of operations.

Despite improved financial market conditions, there remain ongoing concerns about the ability of certain European countries, particularly Greece, Ireland and Portugal, but also others such as Spain and Italy, to finance their deficits and service growing debt burdens. This loss of confidence has led to rescue measures for Greece, Ireland and Portugal by Eurozone countries and the International Monetary Fund as well as the newly established European Stability Mechanism and the European Central Bank's Outright Monetary Transactions program to stabilize Eurozone governments. Yields on government bonds of certain Eurozone countries, including Greece, Ireland, Italy, Portugal and Spain, have stabilized; however, it remains to be seen whether this stability is sustainable. The actions required to be taken by those countries as a condition to rescue packages, and by other countries to mitigate similar developments in their economies, have resulted in increased political discord within and among Eurozone countries. In addition, while the finance ministers of the Eurozone countries agreed to a common bank resolution regime and fund for failing banks in December 2013, the proposal must be approved, and could be amended, by the European Parliament, and certain details of the proposal have not been determined. We are primarily exposed to disruptions in European markets in three principal areas - on our balance sheet, in certain interest bearing deposits with banks, loans, trading assets and investment securities, as well as our Investment Management and Investment Services fee revenue. Additionally, continued disruptions in Europe could lead to increased client deposits and a larger balance sheet, which could adversely impact our leverage ratio. For additional information regarding our exposure, please see "International Operations - Exposure in Ireland, Italy, Spain, Portugal and Greece" in the MD&A - Results of operations section in this Annual Report.

The partial or full break-up of the European Monetary Union would be unprecedented and its impact highly uncertain. The exit of one or more countries from the European Monetary Union or the dissolution of the European Monetary Union could lead to redenomination of certain obligations of obligors in exiting countries. Any such exit and redenomination would cause significant uncertainty with respect to outstanding obligations of counterparties and debtors in any exiting country, whether sovereign or otherwise, and lead to complex and lengthy disputes and litigation. The resulting uncertainty and market stress could also cause, among other things, severe disruption to equity markets, significant increases in bond yields generally, potential failure or default of financial institutions, including those of systemic importance, a significant decrease in global liquidity, a freeze-up of global credit markets and a potential worldwide recession.

The interdependencies among European economies and financial institutions have contributed to concerns regarding the stability of European financial markets generally and certain institutions in particular. Financial services institutions are interdependent as a result of trading, clearing, counterparty or other relationships. We routinely execute transactions with European counterparties, including brokers and dealers, commercial banks, investment banks, mutual and hedge funds, and other institutional clients. As a result, defaults or non-performance by, or even rumors or questions about, one or more European financial institutions, or the financial markets generally, have in the past led to market-wide liquidity problems and could lead to losses by us or by other institutions in the future. Given the scope of our European operations, clients and counterparties, persistent disruptions in the European financial markets, the attempt of a country to abandon the Euro, the failure of a significant European financial institution, even if not an immediate counterparty to us, or persistent weakness in the Euro could have a material adverse impact on our business or results of operations.

Continuing uncertainty in financial markets and weakness in the economy generally may materially adversely affect our business and results of operations.

Our results of operations may be materially affected by conditions in the domestic and global financial markets and the economy generally, both in the United States and elsewhere around the world. While global economies and financial markets have shown signs of stabilizing over the past few years, a variety of factors raise concern over the course and strength of the economic recovery, including instability of certain emerging markets, volatile equity market values, high unemployment, governmental budget deficits (including, in the United States, at the federal, state and municipal level), contagion risk from possible default by other countries on sovereign debt, declining business and consumer confidence and the risk of increased inflation. The resulting economic pressure on consumers and lack of confidence in the financial markets may adversely affect certain portions of our business, financial condition and results of operations. A worsening of these conditions would likely exacerbate the adverse effects of these difficult market conditions on us and others in the financial services industry. In particular, we face the following risks in connection with these events, some of which are discussed at greater length in separate risk factors:

- The fees earned by our Investment Management business - that is, Asset Management and Wealth Management - are higher as assets under management increase. Those fees are also impacted by the composition of the assets under management, with higher fees for some asset categories as compared to others. Uncertain and volatile capital markets could result in reductions in assets under management because of investors' decisions to withdraw assets or from simple declines in the value of assets under management as markets decline. Uncertain and volatile financial markets may also result in changes in customer allocations of funds among money market, equity, fixed income or other investment alternatives. Those changes in allocation may be from higher fee investments to lower fee investments. For example, at Dec. 31, 2013, using the S&P 500 Index as a proxy for the global equity markets, we estimate that a 100-point change in the value of the S&P 500 Index spread evenly throughout the year, would impact fee revenue by less than 1% and diluted earnings per common share by $0.02 to $0.04.

- Continuing run-off of high margin structured debt securitizations could reduce our total annual revenue if the structured debt markets do not recover.

- Uncertain and volatile capital markets, particularly declines, could reduce the value of our investments in equity and debt securities, including pension and other post-retirement plan assets.

- Our ability to continue to operate certain commingled investment funds at a net asset value of $1.00 per unit and to allow unrestricted cash redemptions by investors in those commingled funds (or by investors in other funds managed by us which are invested in those commingled investment funds) may be adversely affected by depressed mark-to-market prices of the underlying portfolio securities held by such funds, or by material defaults on such securities or by the level of liquidity that could be achieved from the portfolio securities in such funds; and we may be faced with claims from investors and exposed to financial loss as a result of our operation of such funds.

- Low interest rates may result in the voluntary waiving of fees on certain money market mutual funds and related distribution fees by us and others in order to prevent clients' yields on such funds from becoming uneconomic, which could have an adverse impact on our revenue and results of operations.

- The process we use to estimate our projected credit losses and to ascertain the fair value of securities held by us is subject to uncertainty in that it requires use of statistical models and difficult, subjective and complex judgments, including forecasts of economic conditions and how these conditions might impair the ability of our borrowers and others to meet their obligations. In uncertain and volatile capital markets, our ability to estimate our projected credit losses may be impaired, which could adversely affect our overall profitability and results of operations.

Low or volatile interest rates could have a material adverse effect on our profitability.

Our net interest revenue and cash flows are sensitive to changes in short-term interest rates and changes in valuations in the debt or equity markets over which we have no control. Our net interest revenue is the difference between the interest income earned on our interest-earning assets, such as the loans we make and the securities we hold in our investment portfolio, and the interest expense incurred on our interest-bearing liabilities, such as deposits and borrowed money.

The global market crisis triggered a series of cuts in interest rates and the tentative recovery has kept U.S. short-term rates low, although long-term rates have started to rise. A continuing low short-term rate environment will further compress our net interest spreads, reduce our spread-based revenues and result in continued voluntary waiving of fees on certain money market mutual funds and related distribution fees by us and others in order to prevent the yields on such funds from becoming uneconomic, which has an adverse impact on our revenue and results of operations.

In addition, while a rise in long-term rates can improve investment yields as we deploy assets, our largely fixed-income securities portfolio is sensitive to a rise in long-term rates, which would reduce other comprehensive income in our shareholders' equity, thereby affecting our tangible common equity. For example, the rise in long-term interest rates in the second half of 2013 triggered a decline in the valuation of our securities portfolio and a reduction in the related unrealized gain of our investment securities.

Changes in interest rates could trigger one or more of the following, which could impact our business, results of operations and financial condition, including:

- net interest revenue, depending on our balance sheet position at the time of change. See the discussion under "Asset/liability management" in the MD&A - Results of Operations section in this Annual Report;
- increased number of delinquencies, bankruptcies or defaults and more nonperforming assets and net charge-offs;
- changes in deposit levels; and
- funding costs.

A more detailed discussion of the interest rate and market risks we face is contained under "Risk Management" in the MD&A section in this Annual Report.

Market volatility may adversely impact our business, financial condition and results of operations and our ability to manage risk.

As a financial institution, we are particularly sensitive to the capital and credit markets. When these markets are volatile or disruptive, we could experience a decline in our marked-to-market assets, including our securities portfolio, trading book and equity investments. A market downturn could also cause a decline in the value of the assets that we manage, hold in custody or administer, adversely impacting fee revenue and certain of our capital ratios. In addition, market volatility could produce downward pressure on our stock price and credit availability without regard to our underlying financial strength. If the market price of our common stock were to decline, we could be required to perform goodwill impairment testing. While a substantial goodwill impairment charge would not have a significant impact on our financial condition, it would have an adverse impact on our results of operations. For a discussion of goodwill, see "Critical accounting estimates - Goodwill and other intangibles" in the MD&A - Results of Operations section in this Annual Report. A significant market downturn could materially adversely impact our business, financial condition, results of operations and ability to manage risk. For a discussion of our management of market risk, see "Risk Management-Market risk" in the MD&A section in this Annual Report.

We may experience further write-downs of financial instruments that we own and other losses related to volatile and illiquid market conditions, reducing our earnings.

We maintain an investment securities portfolio of various holdings, types and maturities. These securities are primarily classified as available-for-sale and, consequently, are recorded on our balance sheet at fair value with unrealized gains or losses reported as a component of accumulated other comprehensive income, net of tax. Our portfolio includes U.S.

Agency RMBS, U.S. Treasuries, sovereign and sovereign-guaranteed debt, non-agency U.S. and non-U.S. residential mortgage-backed securities, European floating rate notes, commercial mortgage-backed securities, state and political subdivisions, foreign covered bonds, corporate bonds, collateralized loan obligations, U.S. government agency debt, consumer asset-backed securities and other securities, the values of which are subject to market price volatility to the extent unhedged. Our investment securities portfolio represented approximately 26% of our consolidated total assets as of Dec. 31, 2013. As such, our capital levels and consolidated results of operations and financial condition are materially exposed to the risks associated with our investment portfolio. In addition, if such investments suffer credit losses, as we experienced with some of our investments in 2009, we may recognize in earnings the credit losses as an other-than-temporary impairment which could impact our revenue in the quarter in which we recognize the losses. For example, net securities losses totaled $4.8 billion in the third quarter of 2009, primarily as a result of a charge related to restructuring the investment securities portfolio, which resulted in negative earnings per share that quarter. The losses in 2009 reflected both credit- and non-credit-related losses on our investment securities portfolio. We could experience losses related to our investment securities portfolio in the future, which could ultimately adversely affect our results of operations and capital levels. For information regarding our investment securities portfolio, refer to "Consolidated balance sheet review - Investment securities" and for information regarding the sensitivity of and risks associated with the market value of portfolio investments and interest rates, refer to the "Critical accounting estimates - Fair value - Securities" and "- Other-than-temporary impairment" sections both of which are in the MD&A - Results of Operations section in this Annual Report and Note 4 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements in this Annual Report.

We are dependent on fee-based business for a substantial majority of our revenue and our fee-based revenues could be adversely affected by a slowing in capital market activity, weak financial markets or negative trends in savings rates or in individual investment preferences.

Our principal operational focus is on fee-based business, which is distinct from commercial banking institutions that earn most of their revenues from loans and other traditional interest-generating products and services. Our fee-based businesses include investment management, custody, corporate trust, depositary receipts, clearing, collateral management and treasury services.

Fees for many of our products and services are based on the volume of transactions processed, the market value of assets managed and administered, securities lending volume and spreads, and fees for other services rendered. Corporate actions, cross-border investing, global mergers and acquisitions activity, new debt and equity issuances, and secondary trading volumes all affect the level of our revenues. If the volumes of these activities decrease, our revenues will also decrease, which would negatively impact our results of operations.

In addition, weak financial markets could result in reduced market values in some of the assets that we manage and administer and result in a corresponding decrease in the amount of fees we receive and therefore would have an adverse effect on our results of operations. Similarly, significant declines in the volume of capital markets activity would reduce the number of transactions we process and the amount of securities lending we do and therefore would also have an adverse effect on our results of operations.

Our business generally benefits when individuals invest their savings in mutual funds and other collective funds, in defined benefit plans, unit investment trusts or exchange traded funds. If there is a decline in the savings rates of individuals, or if there is a change in investment preferences that leads to less investment in mutual funds, other collective funds, defined benefit plans or defined contribution plans, our revenues could be adversely affected.

Our foreign exchange revenues may be adversely affected by a stable exchange-rate environment or decreased cross-border investing activity.

The degree of volatility in foreign exchange rates can affect the amount of our foreign exchange trading revenue. Most of our foreign exchange revenue is derived from our securities servicing client base. Activity levels and spreads are generally higher when there is more volatility. Accordingly, our foreign exchange revenue benefits from currency volatility and is likely to decrease during times of decreased currency volatility. However, increased volatility in foreign exchange rates tends to increase our market risk, which particularly impacts our exposures that are marked-to-market, such as the securities portfolio, trading book, and equity investments.

In addition, our future revenue may increase or decrease depending upon the extent of increases or decreases in cross-border or other investments made by our clients. Economic and political uncertainties resulting from terrorist attacks, military actions or other events, including changes in laws or regulations governing cross-border transactions, such as currency controls, could result in decreased cross-border investment activity.

Credit and Liquidity Risk

Any material reduction in our credit ratings or the credit ratings of our subsidiaries, The Bank of New York Mellon or BNY Mellon, N.A., could increase the cost of funding and borrowing to us and our rated subsidiaries and have a material adverse effect on our results of operations and financial condition and on the value of the securities we issue.

Our debt, preferred stock and trust preferred securities and the debt and deposits of our subsidiaries, The Bank of New York Mellon and BNY Mellon, N.A., are currently rated investment grade by the major rating agencies. These rating agencies regularly evaluate us and our rated subsidiaries and their outlook on us and our rated subsidiaries. Their credit ratings are based on a number of factors, including our financial strength, as well as factors not entirely within our control, including conditions affecting the financial services industry generally as well as the U.S. Government. In addition, rating agencies employ different models and formulas to assess the financial strength of a rated company, and from time to time rating agencies have, in their discretion, altered these models. Changes to rating agency models, general economic conditions, or other circumstances outside of our control could impact a rating agency's judgment of the rating or outlook it assigns us or our rated subsidiaries. In view of the difficulties experienced in recent years by many financial institutions, we believe that the rating agencies have heightened their level of scrutiny, increased the frequency and scope of their credit reviews, have requested additional information, and have adjusted upward the requirements employed in their models for maintenance of rating levels. For example, on Nov. 14, 2013, Moody's concluded its previously announced reviews of the three large U.S. trust and custody banks' long-term ratings. As a result of these reviews, which included both U.S. government support ratings, and stand-alone ratings, Moody's downgraded our ratings and those of The Bank of New York Mellon and BNY Mellon, N.A. by one notch. Our short-term ratings and those of The Bank of New York Mellon and BNY Mellon, N.A. were unchanged. The ratings of the other two large U.S. trust and custody banks were also downgraded.

Moreover, in June 2013, S&P indicated that it is reconsidering its inclusion of assumed government support in the ratings of eight U.S. bank holding companies that they view as having high systemic importance, including us. Currently, as a result of these government support assumptions, our ratings and those of The Bank of New York Mellon and BNY Mellon, N.A. benefit from one notch of "lift" from S&P and The Bank of New York Mellon and BNY Mellon, N.A. benefit from two notches of "lift" from Moody's. S&P continues to evaluate whether to reduce its support assumptions to below pre-financial crisis levels for banks that currently benefit from ratings uplift. There can be no assurance that we or our rated subsidiaries will maintain our respective credit ratings or outlook on our securities.

A material reduction in our credit ratings or the credit ratings of our rated subsidiaries could have a material adverse effect on our access to credit markets, the related cost of funding and borrowing, our credit spreads, our liquidity and on certain trading revenues, particularly in those businesses where counterparty creditworthiness is critical. In addition, in connection with certain over-the-counter derivatives contracts and other trading agreements, counterparties may require us to provide additional collateral or to terminate these contracts and agreements and collateral financing arrangements in the event of a credit ratings downgrade below certain ratings levels. The requirement to provide additional collateral or terminate these contracts and agreements could impair our liquidity by requiring us to find other sources of financing or to make significant cash payments or securities movements. If a rating agency downgrade were to occur during broader market instability, our options for responding to events may be more limited and more expensive. An increase in the costs of our funding and borrowing, or an impairment of our liquidity, could have a material adverse effect on our results of operations and financial condition. A material reduction in our credit ratings also could decrease the number of investors and counterparties willing or permitted to do business with or lend to us and adversely affect the value of the securities we have issued or may issue in the future.

We cannot predict what actions rating agencies may take, or what actions we may elect or be required to take in response thereto, which may adversely affect us. For further discussion on the impact of a credit rating downgrade, see "Disclosure of contingent features in over-the-counter ("OTC") derivative instruments" in Note 23 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements in this Annual Report.

The failure or instability of any of our significant counterparties, many of whom are major financial institutions and sovereign entities, and our assumption of credit and counterparty risk, could expose us to loss and adversely affect our business.

Our ability to engage in routine funding transactions could be adversely affected by the actions and commercial soundness of other financial institutions. Financial institutions are interrelated as a result of trading, clearing, counterparty or other relationships. We have exposure to many different industries and counterparties, particularly financial institutions, and we routinely execute transactions with counterparties in the financial industry, including brokers and dealers, commercial banks, investment banks, mutual and hedge funds, and other institutional clients. As a result, defaults or non-performance by, or even rumors or questions about, one or more financial institutions, or the financial services industry generally, have in the past led to market-wide liquidity problems and could lead to losses or defaults by us or by other institutions in the future. For example, as a result of our membership in several industry clearing or settlement exchanges, we may be required to guarantee obligations and liabilities or provide financial support in the event that other members do not honor their obligations or default. These obligations may be limited to members who dealt with the defaulting member or to the amount (or a multiple of the amount) of our contribution to a member's guarantee fund, or, in a few cases, the obligation may be unlimited. The consolidation of financial institutions in recent years and the failures of other financial institutions have increased the concentration of our counterparty risk. Under evolving regulatory restrictions on credit exposure, which are anticipated to include a broadening of the measure of credit exposure, we may be required to limit our exposures to specific counterparties or groups, including financial institutions and sovereign entities, to levels that we may currently exceed. The credit exposure restrictions under such evolving regulations may adversely affect our businesses and may require that we modify our operating models or our balance sheet management policies and practices.

The degree of client demand for short-term credit also tends to increase during periods of market turbulence, exposing us to further counterparty-related risks. For example, investors in collective investment vehicles for which we act as custodian may engage in significant redemption activity due to adverse market or economic news that was not anticipated by the fund's manager. Our relationship with our clients, the nature of the settlement process and our systems may result in our extension of short-term credit in such circumstances. For some types of clients, we provide credit to allow them to leverage their portfolios, which may expose us to potential loss if the client experiences credit difficulties. In addition to our exposure to financial institutions, we are from time to time exposed to concentrated credit risk at the industry or country level, potentially exposing us to a single market or political event or a correlated set of events. As a consequence, we may incur a loss in relation to one entity or product even though our exposure to one of its affiliates or across product types is over-collateralized. Moreover, not all of our counterparty exposure is secured and, when our exposure is secured, the realizable market value of the collateral may have declined by the time we exercise rights against that collateral. This risk may be particularly acute if we are required to sell the collateral into an illiquid or temporarily-impaired market. In addition, disputes with counterparties as to the valuation of collateral significantly increase in times of market stress and illiquidity.

We act as lender's agent in securities lending transactions between our customers, acting as lenders, and financial counterparties, including broker-dealers, acting as borrowers, wherein securities are lent by our customers and the loans are secured by a pledge of cash or securities posted by such financial counterparties. Typically, in the case of cash collateral, we invest the cash collateral pursuant to each customer's investment guidelines and instructions. In certain cases, we agree to indemnify our customers against a default by the borrower under a securities lending transaction and, therefore, may have to buy-in the loaned securities with the cash collateral or the proceeds from the liquidation of the non-cash collateral. In those instances, we, rather than our customers, are exposed to the risks of the defaulting counterparty on the securities lending transaction.

Although our overall business is subject to these interdependencies, several of our businesses are particularly sensitive to them, including our currency and other trading activities, our securities lending and tri-party repo businesses and our investment management business. There is no assurance that any such losses would not materially and adversely affect our results of operations.

We have credit, regulatory and reputation risks as a result of our tri-party repo collateral agency services, which could adversely affect our business and results of operations.

BNY Mellon offers tri-party collateral agency services to dealers and cash investors active in the repurchase transaction, or repo, market. BNY Mellon currently has approximately 84% of the market share of the U.S. tri-party repo market. As agent, we facilitate settlement between dealers (cash borrowers) and investors (cash lenders). Our involvement in a transaction commences after a dealer and investor agree to a tri-party repo trade and send instructions to us. We settle the trade, maintain custody of the collateral (the subject securities of the repo), monitor the eligibility and sufficiency of the collateral, and execute the payment and delivery instructions agreed to and provided by the principals.

Providing tri-party repo agent services to repo counterparties exposes BNY Mellon to credit risk at certain points in time. To facilitate trade settlement and collateral substitutions, we extend secured intraday credit to repo sellers (cash borrowers). In the event of a default by a repo seller to whom we have extended secured intraday credit, we would be at risk for the market value of the collateral securing such intraday credit, and for any shortfall in value after the liquidation of such collateral, which could adversely affect our results of operations.

BNY Mellon continues to work to significantly reduce the risk associated with the secured intraday credit it provides to dealers with respect to tri-party repo trades. We have implemented several important measures in that regard, including reducing the amount of time during which we extend intraday credit, implementing three-way trade confirmations, reducing the amount of credit provided in connection with processing collateral substitutions, introducing a functionality that enables us to "roll" maturing trades into new trades without extending credit, and requiring dealers to prefund their repayment obligations in connection with trades collateralized by DTC sourced securities. Additionally in 2013, we have limited the collateral eligible for intraday credit to certain more liquid asset classes, resulting in a reduction of exposures secured by less liquid forms of collateral. These efforts are consistent with the recommendations by the Tri-Party Repo Infrastructure Reform Task Force (the "Task Force") that was sponsored by the Payments Risk Committee of the Federal Reserve Bank of New York and included representatives from a diverse group of market participants, including BNY Mellon.

We anticipate that the combination of these measures will have reduced risks substantially in our tri-party repo business in the near term, and together with technology enhancements currently in development, will achieve the practical elimination (defined as a 90% reduction) of intraday credit related to tri-party repo processing by the end of 2014.

We believe the steps we are taking are responsive to concerns voiced publicly by regulators that financial services companies should reduce reliance on intraday credit provided by their tri-party repo agent banks and make risk management practices more resilient to stress events. Nevertheless, if a BNY Mellon client that is party to a repurchase transaction cleared by BNY Mellon becomes bankrupt or insolvent, BNY Mellon may become involved in disputes and litigation with the client's bankruptcy estate and other creditors, or involved in regulatory investigations, all of which can increase BNY Mellon's operational and litigation costs and may result in losses if the securities in the repurchase transaction decline in value.

We anticipate that regulators will continue to monitor the actions of market participants and use available supervisory tools to encourage constructive and timely action to reduce sources of risk in the tri-party repo market. Failure to meet regulatory expectations could result in regulatory and reputation risk and additional costs.

Our business, financial condition and results of operations could be adversely affected if we do not effectively manage our liquidity.

Our business is dependent in part on our ability to meet our cash and collateral obligations at a reasonable cost for both expected and unexpected cash flows. We attract client deposits through a variety of investment management and investment servicing businesses and we rely on those deposits as a low-cost and stable source of funding. Our ability to continue to attract those deposits, and other short-term funding sources, is subject to variability based on a number of factors, including volume and volatility in the global securities markets, the relative interest rates that we are prepared to pay for those deposits and the perception of safety of those deposits or short-term obligations relative to alternative short-term investments available to our clients. We could lose deposits if we suffer a significant decline in the level of our business activity, our credit ratings are materially downgraded or we are subject to significant negative press or significant regulatory action or litigation, among other reasons. If we were to lose a significant amount of deposits we may need to replace such funding with more expensive funding and/or reduce assets, which would reduce our net interest revenue. In addition, the Parent's access to both short-term money markets and long-term capital markets are significant sources of liquidity. Events or circumstances often outside of our control, such as market disruptions or loss of confidence of securities purchasers or counterparties in us or in the funds markets, could limit our access to capital markets, increase our cost of borrowing, adversely affect our liquidity, or impair our ability to execute our business plan. We also rely on dividends from our subsidiaries for funding. However, there are regulatory limitations on the extent to which our bank subsidiaries can supply funds to the Parent. If we are not able to obtain funds from our subsidiaries, we could be required to replace such funds through more expensive means and/or reduce assets. If we are unable to raise funds using the methods described above, we would likely need to finance or liquidate unencumbered assets, such as our investment portfolio, central bank deposits and bank placements, to meet funding needs. We may be unable to sell some of our assets, or we may have to sell assets at a discount from market value, either of which could adversely affect our financial condition and results of operations. Further, our ability to sell assets may be impaired if other market participants are seeking to sell similar assets at the same time, which could occur in a liquidity or other market crisis. Additionally, if we experience cash flow mismatches, deposit run-off or market constraints resulting from our inability to convert assets to cash or raise cash in the markets, our liquidity could be severely impacted. During periods of market uncertainty, our level of client deposits has in recent years tended to increase; however since such deposits have a foreseeable potential not to be permanent, we have historically deposited these so-called excess deposits with central banks and in other highly liquid and low-yielding instruments. These levels of excess client deposits, as a consequence, have increased our net interest revenue but have adversely affected our net interest margin. For a further discussion of our liquidity, see "Liquidity and dividends" in the MD&A - Results of Operations section in this Annual Report.

We could incur income statement charges through provision expense if our reserves for credit losses, including loan reserves, are inadequate.

When we loan money, commit to loan money or enter into a letter of credit or other contract with a counterparty, we incur credit risk, or the risk of losses if our borrowers do not repay their loans or our counterparties fail to perform according to the terms of their agreements. Our credit exposure is comprised of seven classes of financing receivables: financial institutions, commercial, commercial real estate, lease financings, wealth management loans and mortgages, overdrafts, and other residential mortgages. Though credit risk is inherent in lending activities, our revenues and profitability are adversely affected when our borrowers default in whole or in part on their loan obligations to us or when there is a significant change in the credit quality of our loan portfolio. We reserve for credit losses by establishing an allowance through a charge to earnings. The allowance for loan losses and allowance for lending-related commitments represents management's estimate of probable losses inherent in our credit portfolio. We utilize a quantitative methodology, which is supplemented with a qualitative framework that takes into account internal and external environmental factors that are not captured within the quantitative methodology, to determine the allowance for credit losses. This process requires us to make numerous complex and subjective estimates and assumptions relating to amounts which are inherently uncertain. As is the case with any such assessments, there is always the chance that we will fail to identify the proper factors or that we will fail to accurately estimate the impact of factors that we do identify. We cannot provide any assurance as to whether charge-offs related to our credit exposure may occur in the future. Current and future market and economic developments may increase default and delinquency rates and negatively impact the quality of our credit portfolio, which may impact our charge-offs. If the allowance for credit losses is inadequate due to deterioration in the credit quality of the portfolio or significant charge-offs, we would be required to record credit loss provisions against current earnings, which could adversely impact our net income.

Other Risk

Tax law changes or challenges to our tax positions with respect to historical transactions may adversely affect our net income, effective tax rate and our overall results of operations and financial condition.

In the course of our business, we receive inquiries and challenges from both U.S. and non-U.S. tax authorities on the amount of taxes we owe. If we are not successful in defending these inquiries and challenges, we may be required to adjust the timing or amount of taxable income or deductions or the allocation of income among tax jurisdictions, all of which can require a greater provision for taxes or otherwise negatively affect earnings. Probabilities and outcomes are reviewed as events unfold, and adjustments to the reserves are made when necessary, but the reserves may prove inadequate because we cannot necessarily accurately predict the outcome of any challenge, settlement or litigation or to what extent it will negatively affect us or our business. In addition, new tax laws or changes in existing tax laws or the interpretation of those laws worldwide could have a material impact on our net income. See Note 12 to Consolidated Financial Statements in this Annual Report for further information.

Changes in accounting standards governing the preparation of our financial statements and events occurring subsequent to the financial statements could have a material impact on our reported financial condition, results of operations and other financial data.

From time to time, the FASB, the IASB, the SEC and bank regulators change the financial accounting and reporting standards governing the preparation of our financial statements or the interpretation of those standards. In some cases, we could be required to apply a new or revised standard retroactively, resulting in our booking retroactive adjustments or restating prior period financial statements. See "Recent Accounting Developments" in the MD&A section and Note 2 to Consolidated Financial Statements in this Annual Report. These changes are difficult to predict and can materially impact how we record and report our financial condition and results of operations and other financial data.

Additionally, our accounting policies and methods are fundamental to how we record and report our financial condition and results of operations. Some of these policies and methods require use of estimates and assumptions that may affect the reported value of our assets or liabilities and results of operations and are critical because they require management to make difficult, subjective and complex judgments about matters that are inherently uncertain. If subsequent events occur that are materially different than the assumptions and estimates we used, we could be required to correct and restate prior period financial statements.

We are a non-operating holding company, and as a result, are dependent on dividends from our subsidiaries, including our subsidiary banks, to meet our obligations, including our obligations with respect to our securities, and to provide funds for payment of dividends to our stockholders and stock repurchases.

We are a non-operating holding company, whose principal assets and sources of income are our bank subsidiaries - The Bank of New York Mellon and BNY Mellon, N.A. - and our other subsidiaries. We are a legal entity separate and distinct from our banks and other subsidiaries and, therefore, we rely primarily on dividends and interest from these bank and other subsidiaries to meet our obligations, including our obligations with respect to our securities, and to provide funds for payment of common and preferred dividends to our stockholders, to the extent declared by our Board of Directors. At the same time, Federal Reserve rules provide that a bank holding company is expected to serve as a source of financial strength to its bank subsidiaries and to commit resources to support such banks if necessary.

There are various legal limitations on the extent to which our bank and other subsidiaries can finance or otherwise supply funds to us (by dividend or otherwise) and certain of our affiliates. Many of our subsidiaries, including our bank subsidiaries, are subject to laws that restrict dividend payments or authorize regulatory bodies to block or reduce the flow of funds from those subsidiaries to the parent company or other subsidiaries. Our bank subsidiaries are also subject to restrictions on their ability to lend to or transact with affiliates and to minimum regulatory capital and liquidity requirements, as well as restrictions on their ability to use funds deposited with them in bank or brokerage accounts to fund their businesses.

Although we maintain cash positions for liquidity at the holding company level, if our bank subsidiaries or other subsidiaries were unable to supply us with cash over time, we could be unable to meet our obligations (including our obligations with respect to our securities), declare or pay dividends in respect of our capital stock, or perform stock repurchases. See "MD&A - Supervision and Regulation," "MD&A - Results of Operations - Liquidity and dividends" and Note 19 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements in this Annual Report.

Because we are a holding company, our rights and the rights of our creditors, including the holders of our securities, to a share of the assets of any subsidiary upon the liquidation or recapitalization of the subsidiary will be subject to the prior claims of the subsidiary's creditors (including, in the case of our banking subsidiaries, their depositors) except to the extent that we may ourselves be a creditor with recognized claims against the subsidiary. The rights of holders of our securities to benefit from those distributions will also be junior to those prior claims. Consequently, our securities will be effectively subordinated to all existing and future liabilities of our subsidiaries.

Our ability to return capital to shareholders is subject to the discretion of our Board of Directors and may be limited by the Federal Reserve, applicable provisions of Delaware law or our failure to pay full and timely dividends on our preferred stock.

Holders of our common stock are only entitled to receive such dividends or other distributions of capital as our Board of Directors may declare out of funds legally available for such payments. Although we have historically declared cash dividends on our common stock, we are not required to do so. In addition to the Board of Directors' approval, our ability to take certain actions, including our ability to make acquisitions, declare dividends or repurchase our common stock, is dependent in part upon Federal Reserve non-objection under the annual regulatory review of the results of the CCAR process required by the Federal Reserve and the supervisory stress tests required under the Dodd-Frank Act. These evaluations, in turn, are dependent on, among other things, our successful demonstration that such actions would not adversely affect our regulatory capital position in the event of a stressed market environment. The Federal Reserve's current guidance provides that, for large BHCs like us, common stock dividend payout ratios exceeding 30% of after-tax net income will receive particularly close scrutiny. A failure to increase dividends along with our competitors, or any reduction of, or elimination of, our common stock dividend would likely adversely affect the market price of our common stock and market perceptions of BNY Mellon.

Our ability to declare or pay dividends on, or purchase, redeem or otherwise acquire, shares of our common stock or any of our shares that rank junior to the preferred stock as to the payment of dividends and/or the distribution of any assets on any liquidation, dissolution or winding-up of BNY Mellon will be prohibited, subject to certain exceptions, in the event that we do not declare and pay in full dividends for the then current dividend period of our Series A preferred stock or the last preceding dividend period of our Series C and Series D preferred stock.

In July 2013, the federal banking agencies finalized rules implementing the Basel III capital standards and certain related provisions of Dodd-Frank applicable to U.S. bank holding companies and banks. Portions of these rules are subject to interpretation and the rules will not be substantially phased in until 2019. However, these rules, together with our designation as a SIFI and a G-SIB, will result in increases in the minimum levels of regulatory capital that we and our subsidiary banks will be required to maintain, as well as changes in the manner in which our regulatory capital ratios are calculated. The requirement to maintain higher levels of capital and liquidity may constrain our ability to return capital to shareholders either in the form of common stock dividends or share repurchases.

Recently Issued Accounting Standards

ASU - 2014-01 - Accounting for Investments in Qualified Affordable Housing Projects - a Consensus of the FASB Emerging Issues Task Force

In January 2014, the Financial Accounting Standards Board ("FASB") issued Accounting Standards Update ("ASU") 2014-01, "Accounting for Investments in Qualified Affordable Housing Projects - a Consensus of the FASB Emerging Issues Task Force." This ASU permits entities that invest in a qualified affordable housing project through a limited liability entity to elect to account for the income statement effects of such investments using the proportional amortization method if certain conditions are met. The impact to the income statement would be recorded in income tax expense. For those investments in qualified affordable housing projects not accounted for using the proportional amortization method, the investment would be accounted for as an equity method investment or cost method investment. This ASU is effective for periods beginning on or after Dec. 15, 2014. Early adoption is permitted. BNY Mellon has not yet quantified the impact of the new standard.

Proposed Accounting Standards

Proposed ASU - Revenue from Contracts with Customers

In June 2010, the FASB issued a proposed ASU, "Revenue from Contracts with Customers." This proposed ASU is the result of a joint project of the FASB and the International Accounting Standards Board ("IASB") to clarify the principles for recognizing revenue and develop a common standard for U.S. GAAP and International Financial Reporting Standards ("IFRS"). This proposed ASU would establish a broad principle that would require an entity to identify the contract with a customer, identify the separate performance obligations in the contract, determine the transaction price, allocate the transaction price to the separate performance obligations and recognize revenue when each separate performance obligation is satisfied. In 2011, the FASB and the IASB revised several aspects of the original proposal to include distinguishing between goods and services, segmenting contracts, accounting for warranty obligations and deferring contract origination costs.

In November 2011, the FASB re-exposed the proposed ASU. A final standard is expected to be issued during the first half of 2014. The FASB and IASB tentatively decided that the effective date of the proposed standard would be annual reporting periods beginning on or after Jan. 1, 2017.

Proposed ASU - Principal versus Agent Analysis

In November 2011, the FASB issued a proposed ASU "Principal versus Agent Analysis." This proposed ASU would rescind the 2010 indefinite deferral of FAS 167 for certain investment funds, including mutual funds, hedge funds, mortgage real estate investment funds, private equity funds, and venture capital funds, and amends the pre-existing guidance for evaluating consolidation of voting general partnerships and similar entities. The proposed ASU also amends the criteria for determining whether an entity is a variable interest entity under FAS 167, which could affect whether an entity is within its scope. Accordingly, certain funds that previously were not consolidated must be reviewed to determine whether they will now be required to be consolidated. The proposed accounting standard will continue to require BNY Mellon to determine whether or not it has a variable interest in a variable interest entity. However, consolidation of its variable interest entity and voting general partnership asset management funds will be based on whether or not BNY Mellon, as the asset manager, uses its power as a decision maker as either a principal or an agent. Based on a preliminary review of the proposed ASU, we do not expect to be required to consolidate additional mutual funds, hedge funds, mortgage real estate investment funds, private equity funds, and venture capital funds. In addition, we expect to deconsolidate a portion of the CLOs we currently consolidate, with further deconsolidation possible depending on future changes to BNY Mellon's investment in subordinated notes. The FASB has recently begun redeliberating the proposed ASU. A final ASU is expected to be issued during the second half of 2014.

Proposed ASU - Leases

In May 2013, the FASB and IASB issued a revised proposed ASU on leases. The proposed ASU introduces new accounting models for both lessees and lessors, primarily to address concerns related to off-balance-sheet financing arrangements available to lessees under current guidance. The proposal would require lessees to account for all leases on the balance sheet, except for certain short-term leases that have a maximum possible lease term of 12 months or less, including any options to renew. A lessee would recognize on its balance sheet (1) an asset for its right to use the underlying asset over the lease term and (2) a liability representing its obligation to make lease payments over the lease term. The income statement impact for lessees would depend on the nature of the underlying asset - that is, whether the underlying asset is property or an asset other than property - and the terms and conditions of the lease. The proposed ASU also introduces new accounting guidance for lessors. Lessors would account for leases under either the new receivable-and-residual approach or an approach similar to current operating-lease accounting. The appropriate approach to use would depend on the nature of the underlying asset - that is, whether the underlying asset is property or an asset other than property - and the terms and conditions of the lease. If finalized, the proposed ASU would converge the most significant aspects of the FASB's and IASB's accounting for lease contracts. Comments on this proposed ASU were due in September 2013.

Proposed ASU - Financial Instruments - Credit Losses

In December 2012, the FASB issued a proposed ASU, "Financial Instruments-Credit Losses." This proposed ASU would result in a single model to account for credit losses on financial assets. The proposal would remove the probable threshold for recognizing credit losses and require a current estimate of the expected contractual cash flows an entity does not expect to collect on financial assets that are not measured at fair value through the income statement. The proposal would also change current practice for recognizing OTTI and interest income on debt securities. In addition, the proposal would result in the recognition of an allowance for credit losses for nearly all types of debt instruments. The proposal would expand the credit quality disclosures to require information about changes in the factors that influence estimates of credit losses and the reasons for those changes. The Board has tentatively decided to continue to refine the current expected credit loss model.

Proposed ASU - Effective Control for Transfers with Forward Agreements to Repurchase Assets and Accounting for Repurchase Financings

In January 2013, the FASB issued a proposed ASU, "Effective Control for Transfers with Forward Agreements to Repurchase Assets and Accounting for Repurchase Financings." This proposed ASU would require certain repurchase agreements to be accounted for as secured borrowings. For repurchase agreements and similar transactions accounted for as secured borrowings, an entity would be required to disclose the carrying value of the borrowing disaggregated by the type of collateral pledged. The proposed ASU would be effective for annual and interim periods beginning after Dec. 15, 2014.

Proposed ASU - Recognition and Measurement of Financial Assets and Financial Liabilities

In February 2013, the FASB issued a proposed ASU, "Recognition and Measurement of Financial Assets and Financial Liabilities." This proposed ASU would affect entities that hold financial assets and liabilities and would change the methodology related to recognition, classification, measurement and presentation of financial instruments. The scope of the proposed ASU would exclude instruments classified in shareholders' equity, share-based arrangements, pension plans, leases, guarantees and derivative instruments accounted under ASC 815, Derivatives and Hedging. Financial assets would be classified and measured based on the instrument's cash flow characteristics and an entity's business model for managing the instrument. Financial liabilities would generally be measured initially at their transaction price. The proposal includes three principal classification and measurement categories: (1) fair value for which all changes in fair value are recognized in net income; (2) fair value with qualifying changes in fair value recognized in other comprehensive income; and (3) amortized cost. This proposed ASU requires financial assets and liabilities to be presented separately on the balance sheet by measurement category. In addition, the fair value of financial assets and liabilities accounted for under amortized cost would be presented parenthetically on the balance sheet. In January 2014, the FASB tentatively decided not to continue to pursue the business model assessment approach for classification and measurement of financial assets. The Board is considering whether it should align, or keep separate, the recognition and measurement accounting models for debt securities and loans.

Proposed ASU - Reporting Discontinued Operations

In April 2013, the FASB issued a proposed ASU, "Reporting Discontinued Operations." This proposed ASU would change the criteria and enhance the reporting for discontinued operations. The proposal would also enhance disclosure requirements and add new disclosures for individually material dispositions that do not qualify as discontinued operations. Under the proposal, a discontinued operation is a component of an entity, or group of components of an entity, that either has been disposed of, or is classified as held for sale and (1) is part of a single coordinated plan to dispose of a separate major line of business or separate major geographical area of operations, or (2) is a business that, on acquisition, meets the criteria for classification as held for sale. The proposal no longer precludes the presentation of a discontinued operation if there is significant continuing involvement with the component after the disposal or if there are ongoing operations or cash flows. Under the proposal, for disposals that are material but do not qualify as discontinued operations, disclosures of pre-tax income or losses of the disposed component and a reconciliation of the major classes of assets and liabilities held for sale to the amounts presented separately on the balance sheet would be required. A final standard is expected to be issued during the first half of 2014.

Adoption of new accounting standards

IFRS

IFRS are a set of standards and interpretations adopted by the IASB. Commencing with the issuance of the "roadmap" in November 2008, the SEC has considered potential methods of incorporation of IFRS in the United States. The use of IFRS for U.S. companies with global operations would allow for streamlined reporting, allow for easier access to foreign capital markets and investments, and facilitate cross-border acquisitions, ventures or spin-offs.

In July 2012, the SEC staff released its final report on IFRS. This Final Report will be used by the SEC Commissioners to decide whether and, if so, when and how to incorporate IFRS into the financial reporting system for U.S. companies. It is not known when the SEC will make a final decision on the adoption of IFRS in the United States.

While the SEC decides whether IFRS will be required to be used in the preparation of our consolidated financial statements, a number of countries have mandated the use of IFRS by BNY Mellon's subsidiaries in their statutory reports filed in those countries. Such countries include Belgium, Brazil, the Netherlands, Australia, Hong Kong, Canada and South Korea.

Update to Internal Controls - Integrated Framework

On May 14, 2013, The Committee of Sponsoring Organizations of the Treadway Commission ("COSO") issued an updated version of its Internal Control - Integrated Framework (the "2013 Framework"). Originally issued in 1992, the framework helps organizations design, implement and evaluate the effectiveness of internal controls. Updates to the framework were intended to clarify internal control concepts and simplify their use and application. The 1992 framework will remain available during the transition period, which extends to Dec. 15, 2014, after which time COSO will consider it as superseded by the 2013 Framework. Concurrent with the 2013 Framework release, COSO indicated that organizations reporting externally should clearly disclose whether the original Framework or the updated Framework was utilized.

Business Continuity

We are prepared for events that could damage our physical facilities, cause delay or disruptions to operational functions, including telecommunications networks, or impair our employees, clients, vendors and counterparties. Key elements of our business continuity strategies are extensive planning and testing, and diversity of business operations, data centers and telecommunications infrastructure.

We have established multiple geographically diverse locations for our funds transfer and broker-dealer services operational units, which provide redundant functionality to facilitate uninterrupted operations.

Our securities clearing, commercial paper, mutual fund accounting and custody, securities lending, master trust, Unit Investment Trust, corporate trust, item processing, wealth management and treasury units have common functionality in multiple sites designed to facilitate continuance of operations or rapid recovery. In addition, we have recovery positions for over 13,100 employees on a global basis of which over 7,100 are proprietary.

We continue to enhance geographic diversity for business operations by moving additional personnel to growth centers outside of existing major urban centers. We replicate 100% of our critical production computer data to multiple recovery data centers.

We have an active telecommunications diversity program. All major buildings and data centers have diverse telecommunications carriers. The data centers have multiple fiber optic rings and have been designed so that there is no single point of failure.

All major buildings have been designed with diverse telecommunications access and connect to at least two geographically dispersed connection points. We have an active program to audit circuits for route diversity and to test customer back-up connections.

In 2003, the Federal Reserve, OCC and SEC jointly published the Interagency Paper, "Sound Practices to Strengthen the Resilience of the U.S. Financial System" ("Sound Practices Paper"). The purpose of the document was to define the guidelines for the financial services industry and other interested parties regarding "best practices" related to business continuity planning. Under these guidelines, we are a key clearing and settlement organization required to meet a higher standard for business continuity.

We believe we meet substantially all of the requirements of the Sound Practices Paper. As a core clearing and settlement organization, we believe that we are at the forefront of the industry in improving business continuity practices.

We are committed to seeing that requirements for business continuity are met not just within our own facilities, but also within those of vendors and service providers whose operation is critical to our safety and soundness. To that end, we have a Service Provider Management Office whose function is to review new and existing service providers and vendors to see that they meet our standards for business continuity, as well as for information security, financial stability, and personnel practices, etc.

We have developed a comprehensive plan to prepare for the possibility of a flu pandemic, which anticipates significant reduced staffing levels and will provide for increased remote working by staff for one or more periods lasting several weeks.

Although we are committed to observing best practices as well as meeting regulatory requirements, geopolitical uncertainties and other external factors will continue to create risk that cannot always be identified and anticipated.

Due to BNY Mellon's robust business recovery systems and processes, we are not materially impacted by climate change, nor do we expect material impacts in the near term. We have, and will continue to, implement processes and capital projects to deal with the risks of the changing climate. The Company has invested in the development of products and services that support the markets related to climate change.

Supplemental information - Explanation of GAAP and Non-GAAP financial measures

BNY Mellon has included in this Annual Report certain Non-GAAP financial measures based upon Tier 1 common equity and tangible common shareholders' equity. BNY Mellon believes that the ratio of Tier 1 common equity to risk-weighted assets and the ratio of tangible common shareholders' equity to tangible assets of operations are measures of capital strength that provide additional useful information to investors, supplementing the Tier 1 and Total capital ratios which are utilized by regulatory authorities. The ratio of Basel I Tier 1 common equity to risk-weighted assets excludes preferred stock and trust preferred securities from the numerator of the ratio. Unlike the Basel I Tier 1 and Total capital ratios, the tangible common shareholders' equity ratio fully incorporates those changes in investment securities valuations which are reflected in total shareholders' equity. In addition, this ratio is expressed as a percentage of the actual book value of assets, as opposed to a percentage of a risk-based reduced value established in accordance with regulatory requirements, although BNY Mellon in its calculation has excluded certain assets which are given a zero percent risk-weighting for regulatory purposes. Further, BNY Mellon believes that the return on tangible common equity measure, which excludes goodwill and intangible assets net of deferred tax liabilities, is a useful additional measure for investors because it presents a measure of BNY Mellon's performance in reference to those assets that are productive in generating income. BNY Mellon has provided a measure of tangible book value per share, which it believes provides additional useful information as to the level of such assets in relation to shares of common stock outstanding. BNY Mellon has presented its estimated Basel III Tier 1 common equity ratio based on its interpretation, expectations and understanding of the final Basel III rules released by the Federal Reserve on July 2, 2013, on a fully phased-in basis and on the application of such rules to BNY Mellon's businesses as currently conducted. The estimated Basel III Tier 1 common equity ratio is necessarily subject to, among other things, BNY Mellon's further review and implementation of the final Basel III rules, anticipated compliance with all necessary enhancements to model calibration, and other refinements, further implementation guidance from regulators and any changes BNY Mellon may make to its businesses. Consequently, BNY Mellon's estimated Basel III Tier 1 common equity ratio may change based on these factors. Management views the estimated Basel III Tier 1 common equity ratio as a key measure in monitoring BNY Mellon's capital position and progress against future regulatory capital standards. Additionally, the presentation of the estimated Basel III Tier 1 common equity ratio is intended to allow investors to compare BNY Mellon's estimated Basel III Tier 1 common equity ratio with estimates presented by other companies.

BNY Mellon has presented revenue measures that exclude the effect of net securities gains (losses) and noncontrolling interests related to consolidated investment management funds; and expense measures which exclude M&I expenses, litigation charges, restructuring charges, asset-based taxes and amortization of intangible assets; and measures which utilize net income excluding tax items such as the net charge related to the disallowance of certain foreign tax credits and the benefit of tax settlements and discrete tax benefits related to a tax loss on mortgages. Return on equity measures and operating margin measures, which exclude some or all of these items, are also presented. Return on equity measures also exclude the net charge related to the disallowance of certain foreign tax credits. BNY Mellon believes these measures are useful to investors because they permit a focus on period-to-period comparisons, which relate to the ability of BNY Mellon to enhance revenues and limit expenses in circumstances where such matters are within BNY Mellon's control. The excluded items, in general, relate to certain ongoing charges as a result of prior transactions or where we have incurred charges. M&I expenses primarily relate to the acquisitions of Global Investment Servicing on July 1, 2010 and BHF Asset Servicing GmbH on Aug. 2, 2010. M&I expenses generally continue for approximately three years after the transaction and can vary on a year-to-year basis depending on the stage of the integration. BNY Mellon believes the exclusion of M&I expenses provides investors with a focus on BNY Mellon's business as it would appear on a consolidated going-forward basis, after such M&I expenses have ceased. Future periods will not reflect such M&I expenses, and thus may be more easily compared with our current results if M&I expenses are excluded. Litigation charges represent accruals for loss contingencies that are both probable and reasonably estimable, but exclude standard business-related legal fees. Restructuring charges relate to our Operational Excellence Initiatives and migrating positions to Global Delivery Centers. Excluding these charges permits investors to view expenses on a basis consistent with how management views the business.

The presentation of income from consolidated investment management funds, net of net income attributable to noncontrolling interest related to the consolidation of certain investment management funds permits investors to view revenue on a basis consistent with how management views the business. BNY Mellon believes these presentations, as a supplement to GAAP information, give investors a clearer picture of the results of its primary businesses.

In this Annual Report, the net interest margin is presented on an FTE basis. We believe this presentation provides comparability of amounts arising from both taxable and tax-exempt sources, and is consistent with industry practice. The adjustment to an FTE basis has no impact on net income. Each of these measures as described above is used by management to monitor financial performance, both on a company-wide and business-level basis.

Estimated Basel III Tier 1 common equity ratio – Non-GAAP calculated under the Advanced Approach	11.3%	9.8%	7.1%

(a) At Dec. 31, 2013, the estimated Basel III Tier 1 common equity ratio is based on our interpretation of the Final Capital Rules released by the Federal Reserve on July 2, 2013, on a fully phased-in basis. For periods prior to Dec. 31, 2013, these ratios were estimated using our interpretation of the NPRs dated June 7, 2012, on a fully phased-in basis.

(b) Following are the primary differences between risk-weighted assets determined under Basel I and Basel III. Credit risk is determined under Basel I using predetermined risk-weights and asset classes and relies in part on the use of external credit ratings. Under Basel III both the Standardized and Advanced Approaches use a broader range of predetermined risk-weights and asset classes and certain alternatives to external credit ratings. Securitization exposure receives a higher risk-weighting under Basel III than Basel I, and Basel III includes additional adjustments for market risk, counterparty credit risk and equity exposures. Additionally, the Standardized Approach eliminates the use of the VaR approach for determining risk-weighted assets on certain repo-style transactions. Risk-weighted assets calculated under the Advanced Approach also include the use of internal credit models and parameters as well as an adjustment for operational risk.

(c) Changes in January 2014 to the probable loss model associated with unsecured wholesale credit exposures within our Advanced Approach capital model will impact risk-weighted assets. The Company did not include the impact at Dec. 31, 2013. However, a preliminary estimate of the revised methodology to the portfolio at Sept. 30, 2013 would have added approximately 6% to the risk-weighted assets.

Report of Management on Internal Control Over Financial Reporting

Management of BNY Mellon is responsible for establishing and maintaining adequate internal control over financial reporting for BNY Mellon, as such term is defined in Rule 13a-15(f) under the Exchange Act.

BNY Mellon's management, including its principal executive officer and principal financial officer, has assessed the effectiveness of BNY Mellon's internal control over financial reporting as of December 31, 2013. In making this assessment, management used the criteria set forth by the Committee of Sponsoring Organizations of the Treadway Commission in Internal Control - Integrated Framework (1992). Based upon such assessment, management believes that, as of December 31, 2013, BNY Mellon's internal control over financial reporting is effective based upon those criteria.

KPMG LLP, the independent registered public accounting firm that audited BNY Mellon's 2013 financial statements included in this Annual Report under "Financial Statements and Notes," has issued a report with respect to the effectiveness of BNY Mellon's internal control over financial reporting. This report appears on page 133.

Report of Independent Registered Public Accounting Firm

The Board of Directors and Shareholders
The Bank of New York Mellon Corporation:

We have audited The Bank of New York Mellon Corporation's ("BNY Mellon") internal control over financial reporting as of December 31, 2013, based on criteria established in Internal Control - Integrated Framework (1992) issued by the Committee of Sponsoring Organizations of the Treadway Commission (COSO). BNY Mellon's management is responsible for maintaining effective internal control over financial reporting and for its assessment of the effectiveness of internal control over financial reporting, included in the accompanying Report of Management on Internal Control over Financial Reporting. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on BNY Mellon's internal control over financial reporting based on our audit.

We conducted our audit in accordance with the standards of the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States). Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether effective internal control over financial reporting was maintained in all material respects. Our audit included obtaining an understanding of internal control over financial reporting, assessing the risk that a material weakness exists, and testing and evaluating the design and operating effectiveness of internal control based on the assessed risk. Our audit also included performing such other procedures as we considered necessary in the circumstances. We believe that our audit provides a reasonable basis for our opinion.

A company's internal control over financial reporting is a process designed to provide reasonable assurance regarding the reliability of financial reporting and the preparation of financial statements for external purposes in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles. A company's internal control over financial reporting includes those policies and procedures that (1) pertain to the maintenance of records that, in reasonable detail, accurately and fairly reflect the transactions and dispositions of the assets of the company; (2) provide reasonable assurance that transactions are recorded as necessary to permit preparation of financial statements in accordance with generally accepted accounting principles, and that receipts and expenditures of the company are being made only in accordance with authorizations of management and directors of the company; and (3) provide reasonable assurance regarding prevention or timely detection of unauthorized acquisition, use, or disposition of the company's assets that could have a material effect on the financial statements.

Because of its inherent limitations, internal control over financial reporting may not prevent or detect misstatements. Also, projections of any evaluation of effectiveness to future periods are subject to the risk that controls may become inadequate because of changes in conditions, or that the degree of compliance with the policies or procedures may deteriorate.

In our opinion, BNY Mellon maintained, in all material respects, effective internal control over financial reporting as of December 31, 2013, based on criteria established in Internal Control - Integrated Framework (1992) issued by the Committee of Sponsoring Organizations of the Treadway Commission.

We also have audited, in accordance with the standards of the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States), the consolidated balance sheets of BNY Mellon as of December 31, 2013 and 2012, and the related consolidated statements of income, comprehensive income, changes in equity, and cash flows for each of the years in the three-year period ended December 31, 2013, and our report dated February 28, 2014 expressed an unqualified opinion on those consolidated financial statements.

Note 1 - Summary of significant accounting and reporting policies

Basis of presentation

The accounting and financial reporting policies of BNY Mellon, a global financial services company, conform to U.S. generally accepted accounting principles ("GAAP") and prevailing industry practices.

In the opinion of management, all adjustments necessary for a fair presentation of financial position, results of operations and cash flows for the annual periods presented have been made. These financial statements should be read in conjunction with BNY Mellon's Annual Report on Form 10-K for the year ended Dec. 31, 2013. Certain immaterial reclassifications have been made to prior periods to place them on a basis comparable with current period presentation.

Use of estimates

The preparation of financial statements in conformity with U.S. GAAP requires management to make estimates based upon assumptions about future economic and market conditions which affect reported amounts and related disclosures in our financial statements. Although our current estimates contemplate current conditions and how we expect them to change in the future, it is reasonably possible that actual conditions could be worse than anticipated in those estimates, which could materially affect our results of operations and financial condition. Amounts subject to estimates are items such as the allowance for loan losses and lending-related commitments, the fair value of financial instruments and other-than-temporary impairments, goodwill and intangible assets and pension accounting. Among other effects, such changes in estimates could result in future impairments of investment securities, goodwill and intangible assets and establishment of allowances for loan losses and lending-related commitments as well as changes in pension and post-retirement expense.

Equity method investments

The consolidated financial statements include the accounts of BNY Mellon and its subsidiaries. Equity investments of less than a majority but at least 20% ownership are accounted for by the equity method and classified as other assets. Earnings on these investments are reflected in fee and other revenue as investment services fees, investment management and performance fees or investment and other income, as appropriate, in the period earned.

A loss in value of an equity investment that is determined to be other-than-temporary, is recognized by reducing the carrying value of the equity investment down to its fair value.

Our most significant equity method investments are:

Equity method investments at Dec. 31, 2013
(dollars in millions)	Percentage ownership	Book value
CIBC Mellon	50.0%	$ 576
Wing Hang	20.8%	$ 535
Siguler Guff	20.0%	$ 278
ConvergEx	33.9%	$ 133	(a)

(a) In addition to the common ownership interest noted, BNY Mellon also holds an interest in ConvergEx nonvoting Series B preferred units. The book value at Dec. 31, 2013 is reflective of our combined common and preferred interests in ConvergEx.

Acquired businesses

The income statement and balance sheet include results of acquired businesses accounted for under the acquisition method of accounting pursuant to ASC 805, Business Combinations and equity investments from the dates of acquisition. For acquisitions completed prior to Jan. 1, 2009, we record the fair value of any contingent payments as an additional cost of the equity acquired in the period that the payment becomes probable. For acquisitions completed after Jan. 1, 2009, contingent purchase consideration was measured at its fair value and recorded on the purchase date. Any subsequent changes in the fair value of a contingent consideration liability will be recorded through the income statement.

Parent financial statements

The Parent financial statements in Note 19 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements include the accounts of the Parent; those of a wholly-owned financing subsidiary that functions as a financing entity for BNY Mellon and its subsidiaries; and MIPA, LLC, a single-member limited liability company, created to hold and administer corporate-owned life insurance. Financial data for the Parent, the financing subsidiary and the single-member limited liability company are combined for financial reporting purposes because of the limited function of these entities and the unconditional guarantee by BNY Mellon of their obligations.

Nature of operations

BNY Mellon is a global leader in providing a broad range of financial products and services in domestic and international markets. Through our two principal businesses, Investment Management and Investment Services, we serve the following major classes of customers - institutions, corporations, and high net worth individuals. For institutions and corporations, we provide the following services:

- investment management;
- trust and custody;
- foreign exchange;
- fund administration;
- global collateral services;
- securities lending;
- depositary receipts;
- corporate trust;
- global payment/cash management;
- banking services; and
- clearing services.

For individuals, we provide mutual funds, separate accounts, wealth management and private banking services. BNY Mellon's investment management businesses provide investment products in many asset classes and investment styles on a global basis.

Variable interest entities

Accounting guidance on the consolidation of variable interest entities ("VIEs") is included in ASC 810 Consolidation, ASU 2009-17 "Improvements to Financial Reporting by Enterprises Involved with Variable Interest Entities", and ASU 2010-10 "Amendments for Certain Investment Funds," which defers ASU 2009-17 for certain asset managers' interests in entities that apply the specialized accounting guidance for investment companies or that have the attributes of investment companies and for interests in money market funds.

VIEs are defined as certain entities in which the equity investors:

- do not have sufficient equity at risk for the entity to finance its activities without additional subordinated financial support; or
- lack one or more of the following characteristics of a controlling financial interest:
  - The power, through voting rights or similar rights, to direct the activities of an entity that most significantly impact the entity's economic performance (ASU 2009-17 model).
  - The direct or indirect ability to make decisions about the entity's activities through voting rights or similar rights (ASC 810 model).
  - The obligation to absorb the expected losses of the entity.
  - The right to receive the expected residual returns of the entity.

We consider the underlying facts and circumstances of individual transactions when assessing whether or not an entity is a potential VIE. BNY Mellon is required to consolidate a VIE if BNY Mellon is determined to be the primary beneficiary.

As a result of ASU 2010-10, BNY Mellon continues to apply ASC 810 to its mutual funds, hedge funds, private equity funds, collective investment funds and real estate investment trusts. If these entities are determined to be VIEs, primary beneficiary calculations are prepared in accordance with ASC 810 to determine whether or not BNY Mellon is the primary beneficiary and required to consolidate the VIE. The primary beneficiary of a VIE is the party that absorbs a majority of the VIE's expected losses, receives a majority of its expected residual returns or both.

BNY Mellon has two securitizations and several CLOs, which are assessed for consolidation in accordance with ASU 2009-17. The primary beneficiary of these VIE's is the party that has both: (1) the power to direct the activities of the VIE that most significantly impact that entity's economic performance, and (2) the obligation to absorb losses, or the right to receive benefits, from the VIE that could potentially be significant to the VIE.

Voting interest entities

If BNY Mellon can exert control over the financial and operating policies of an investee, which generally can occur if there is a 50% or more voting interest or if partners or members of an investee do not have certain substantive rights, BNY Mellon consolidates the investee.

Investees structured as limited partnerships or limited liability companies for which BNY Mellon is either the general partner or managing member are presumed to be controlled by BNY Mellon. In accordance with ASC 810-20 Control of Partnerships and Similar Entities, we review the rights of the limited partners and members to determine whether that presumption can be overcome. The presumption of control is overcome when the limited partners or managing members have the ability to dissolve the entity, can remove BNY Mellon, as the general partner or managing member without cause based on a simple majority vote of unaffiliated limited partners or members or have other substantive participating rights. If the presumption of control is not overcome, the entity is consolidated.

Trading account securities, available-for-sale securities, and held-to-maturity securities

Securities are accounted for under ASC 320 Investments - Debt and Equity Securities. Securities are classified in the trading, available-for-sale investment or the held-to-maturity investment securities portfolios when they are purchased. Securities are classified as trading securities when our intention is to resell the securities. Securities are classified as available-for-sale securities when we intend to hold the securities for an indefinite period of time or when the securities may be used for tactical asset/liability purposes and may be sold from time to time to effectively manage interest rate exposure, prepayment risk and liquidity needs. Securities are classified as held-to-maturity securities when we intend to hold them until maturity.

Trading securities are stated at fair value. Trading revenue includes both realized and unrealized gains and losses. The liability incurred on short-sale transactions, representing the obligation to deliver securities, is included in trading liabilities at fair value.

Available-for-sale securities are stated at fair value. The difference between fair value and amortized cost representing unrealized gains or losses on assets classified as available-for-sale, are recorded net of tax as an addition to or deduction from other comprehensive income ("OCI"), unless a security is deemed to have an other-than-temporary impairment ("OTTI"). Gains and losses on sales of available-for-sale securities are reported in the income statement. The cost of debt and equity securities sold is determined on a specific identification and average cost method, respectively. Held-to-maturity securities are stated at cost.

Income on investment securities purchased is adjusted for amortization of premium and accretion of discount on a level yield basis.

We routinely conduct periodic reviews to identify and evaluate each investment security to determine whether OTTI has occurred. We examine various factors when determining whether an impairment, representing the fair value of a security being below its amortized cost, is other than temporary. The following are examples of factors that BNY Mellon considers:

- The length of time and the extent to which the fair value has been less than the amortized cost basis;
- Whether management has an intent to sell the security;
- Whether the decline in fair value is attributable to specific adverse conditions affecting a particular investment;
- Whether the decline in fair value is attributable to specific conditions, such as conditions in an industry or in a geographic area;
- Whether a debt security has been downgraded by a rating agency;
- Whether a debt security exhibits cash flow deterioration; and
- For each non-agency RMBS, we compare the remaining credit enhancement that protects the individual security from losses against the projected losses of principal and/or interest expected to come from the underlying mortgage collateral, to determine whether such credit losses might directly impact the relevant security.

The determination of whether a credit loss exists is based on best estimates of the present value of cash flows to be collected from the debt security.

Generally, cash flows are discounted at the effective interest rate implicit in the debt security at the time of acquisition. For debt securities that are beneficial interests in securitized financial assets and are not high credit quality, ASC 325 provides that cash flows be discounted at the current yield used to accrete the beneficial interest.

The credit component of an OTTI of a debt security is recognized in earnings and the non-credit component is recognized in OCI when we do not intend to sell the security and it is more likely than not that BNY Mellon will not be required to sell the security prior to recovery of its cost basis.

For held-to-maturity debt securities, the amount of OTTI recorded in OCI for the non-credit portion of a previous OTTI is amortized prospectively, as an increase to the carrying amount of the security, over the remaining life of the security on the basis of the timing of future estimated cash flows of the securities. In order not to be required to recognize the non-credit component of an OTTI in earnings, management is required to assert that it does not have the intent to sell the security and that it is more likely than not it will not have to sell the security before recovery of its cost basis.

If we intend to sell the security or it is more likely than not that BNY Mellon will be required to sell the security prior to recovery of its cost basis, the non-credit component of OTTI is recognized in earnings and subsequently accreted to interest income on an effective yield basis over the life of the security.

The accounting policies for the determination of the fair value of financial instruments and OTTI have been identified as "critical accounting estimates" as they require us to make numerous assumptions based on available market data. See Note 4 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements for these disclosures.

Loans and leases

Loans are reported net of any unearned discount. Certain loan origination and upfront commitment fees, as well as certain direct loan origination and commitment costs, are deferred and amortized as a yield adjustment over the lives of the related loans. Deferred fees and costs are netted against outstanding loan balances. Loans held for sale are carried at the lower of cost or market value.

Unearned revenue on direct financing leases is accreted over the lives of the leases in decreasing amounts to provide a constant rate of return on the net investment in the leases. Revenue on leveraged leases is recognized on a basis to achieve a constant yield on the outstanding investment in the lease, net of the related deferred tax liability, in the years in which the net investment is positive. Gains and losses on residual values of leased equipment sold are included in investment and other income. Considering the nature of these leases and the number of significant assumptions, there is risk associated with the income recognition on these leases should any of the assumptions change materially in future periods.

Nonperforming assets

Commercial loans are placed on nonaccrual status when principal or interest is past due 90 days or more, or when there is reasonable doubt that interest or principal will be collected.

When a first lien residential mortgage loan reaches 90 days delinquent, it is subject to an impairment test and may be placed on nonaccrual status. At 180 days delinquent, the loan is subject to further impairment testing. The loan will remain on accrual status if the realizable value of the collateral exceeds the unpaid principal balance plus accrued interest. If the loan is impaired, a charge-off is taken and the loan is placed on nonaccrual status. At 270 days delinquent, all first lien mortgages are placed on nonaccrual status. Second lien mortgages are automatically placed on nonaccrual status when they reach 90 days delinquent.

When a loan is placed on nonaccrual status, previously accrued and uncollected interest is reversed against current period interest revenue. Interest receipts on nonaccrual and impaired loans are recognized as interest revenue or are applied to principal when we believe the ultimate collectability of principal is in doubt. Nonaccrual loans generally are restored to an accrual basis when principal and interest become current and remain current for a specified period.

A loan is considered to be impaired, as defined by ASC 310 Accounting by Creditors for Impairment of a Loan, when it is probable that we will be unable to collect all principal and interest amounts due according to the contractual terms of the loan agreement. An impairment allowance on loans $1 million or greater is required to be measured based upon the loan's market price, the present value of expected future cash flows, discounted at the loan's initial effective interest rate, or at fair value of the collateral if the loan is collateral dependent. If the loan valuation is less than the recorded value of the loan, an impairment allowance is established by a provision for credit loss. Impairment allowances are not needed when the recorded investment in an impaired loan is less than the loan valuation.

Allowance for loan losses and allowance for lending-related commitments

The allowance for loan losses, shown as a valuation allowance to loans, and the allowance for lending-related commitments recorded in other liabilities are referred to as BNY Mellon's allowance for credit losses. The accounting policy for the determination of the adequacy of the allowances has been identified as a "critical accounting estimate" as it requires us to make numerous complex and subjective estimates and assumptions relating to amounts which are inherently uncertain.

The allowance for loan losses is maintained to absorb losses inherent in the loan portfolio as of the balance sheet date based on our judgment. The allowance determination methodology is designed to provide procedural discipline in assessing the appropriateness of the allowance. Credit losses are charged against the allowance. Recoveries are added to the allowance.

The methodology for determining the allowance for lending-related commitments considers the same factors as the allowance for loan losses, as well as an estimate of the probability of drawdown. We utilize a quantitative methodology and qualitative framework for determining the allowance for loan losses and the allowance for lending-related commitments. Within this qualitative framework, management applies judgment when assessing internal risk factors and environmental factors to compute an additional allowance for each component of the loan portfolio.

The three elements of the allowance for loan losses and the allowance for lending-related commitments include the qualitative allowance framework. The three elements are:

- an allowance for impaired credits of $1 million or greater;
- an allowance for higher risk-rated credits and pass-rated credits; and
- an allowance for residential mortgage loans.

Our lending is primarily to institutional customers. As a result, our loans are generally larger than $1 million. Therefore, the first element, impaired credits, is based on individual analysis of all impaired loans of $1 million and greater. The allowance is measured by the difference between the recorded value of impaired loans and their impaired value. Impaired value is either the present value of the expected future cash flows from the borrower, the market value of the loan, or the fair value of the collateral.

The second element, higher risk-rated credits and pass-rated credits, is based on our probable loss model. All loans over $1 million are individually analyzed before being assigned a credit rating. All borrowers are assigned to pools based on their credit rating. The probable loss inherent in each loan in a pool incorporates the borrower's credit rating, loss given default rating and maturity. The loss given default incorporates a recovery expectation and an estimate of the use of the facility at default (usage given default). The borrower's probability of default is derived from the associated credit rating. Borrower ratings are reviewed at least annually and are periodically mapped to third-party databases, including rating agency and default and recovery databases, to ensure ongoing consistency and validity. Higher risk-rated credits are reviewed quarterly.

The third element, the allowance for residential mortgage loans, is determined by segregating six mortgage pools into delinquency periods ranging from current through foreclosure. Each of these delinquency periods is assigned a probability of default. A specific loss given default is assigned for each mortgage pool. In 2012, BNY Mellon began assigning all residential mortgage pools, except home equity lines of credit, a probability of default and loss given default based on default and loss data derived from our residential mortgage portfolio. Prior to 2012, estimates of probability of default and loss given default factors were based on a combination of external data from third-party databases and internal data. The decision to change was triggered when five years of historical data became available in 2012. The use of internal historical data provides a better estimate of the allowance, given that it is based on actual default and loss experience on our residential mortgage portfolio. For each pool, the inherent loss is calculated using the above factors. The resulting probable loss factor (the probability of default multiplied by the loss given default) is applied against the loan balance to determine the allowance held for each pool. For home equity lines of credit, probability of default and loss given default are based on external data from third-party databases due to the small size of the portfolio and insufficient internal data.

The qualitative framework is used to determine an additional allowance for each portfolio based on the factors below:

Internal risk factors:

- Nonperforming loans to total non-margin loans;
- Criticized assets to total loans and lending-related commitments;
- Ratings volatility;
- Borrower concentration; and
- Significant concentration in high risk industries.

Environmental risk factors:

- U.S. non-investment grade default rate;
- Unemployment rate; and
- Change in real GDP

The objective of the qualitative framework is to capture incurred losses that may not have been fully captured in the quantitative reserve, which is based primarily on historical data. Management determines the qualitative allowance each period based on judgment informed by consideration of internal and external risk factors and other considerations that may be deemed relevant during the period. Once determined in the aggregate, our qualitative allowance is then allocated to each of our loan classes based on the respective classes' quantitative allowance balances with the allocations adjusted, when necessary, for class specific risk factors.

For each risk factor, we calculate the minimum and maximum values, and percentiles in-between, to evaluate the distribution of our historical experience. The distribution of historical experience is compared to the risk factor's current quarter observed experience to assess the current risk inherent in the portfolio and overall direction/trend of a risk factor relative to our historical experience.
Based on this analysis, we assign a risk level - no impact, low, moderate, high and elevated - to each risk factor for the current quarter. Management assesses the impact of each risk factor to determine an aggregate risk level. We do not quantify the impact of any particular risk factor. Management's assessment of the risk factors, as well as the trend in the quantitative allowance, supports management's judgment for the overall required qualitative allowance. A smaller qualitative allowance may be required when our quantitative allowance has reflected incurred losses associated with the aggregate risk level. A greater qualitative allowance may be required if our quantitative allowance does not yet reflect the incurred losses associated with the aggregate risk level.

The allocation of allowance for credit losses is inherently judgmental, and the entire allowance for credit losses is available to absorb credit losses regardless of the nature of the loss.

Premises and equipment

Premises and equipment are carried at cost less accumulated depreciation and amortization. Depreciation and amortization is computed using the straight-line method over the estimated useful life of the owned asset and, for leasehold improvements, over the lesser of the remaining term of the leased facility or the estimated economic life of the improvement. For owned and capitalized assets, estimated useful lives range from 2 to 40 years. Maintenance and repairs are charged to expense as incurred, while major improvements are capitalized and amortized to operating expense over their identified useful lives.

Software

BNY Mellon capitalizes costs relating to acquired software and internal-use software development projects that provide new or significantly improved functionality. We capitalize projects that are expected to result in longer-term operational benefits, such as replacement systems or new applications that result in significantly increased operational efficiencies or functionality. All other costs incurred in connection with an internal-use software project are expensed as incurred. Capitalized software is recorded in other assets.

Identified intangible assets and goodwill

Identified intangible assets with estimable lives are amortized in a pattern consistent with the assets' identifiable cash flows or using a straight-line method over their remaining estimated benefit periods if the pattern of cash flows is not estimable. Intangible assets with estimable lives are reviewed for possible impairment when events or changed circumstances may affect the underlying basis of the asset. Goodwill and intangibles with indefinite lives are not amortized, but are assessed annually for impairment, or more often if events and circumstances indicate it is more likely than not they may be impaired. The accounting policy for valuing and impairment testing of identified intangible assets and goodwill has been identified as a "critical accounting estimate" as it requires us to make numerous complex and subjective estimates. See Note 6 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements for additional disclosures related to goodwill and intangible assets.

Seed capital

Seed capital investments are classified as other assets. Unrealized gains and losses on seed capital investments are recorded in investment and other income.

Noncontrolling interests

Noncontrolling interests included in permanent equity are adjusted for the income or (loss) attributable to the noncontrolling interest holders and any distributions to those shareholders. Redeemable noncontrolling interests are reported as temporary equity. In accordance with ASC 480, Distinguishing Liabilities from Equity, BNY Mellon recognizes changes in the redemption value of the redeemable noncontrolling interests as they occur and adjusts the carrying value to be equal to the redemption value.

Fee revenue

We record investment services fees, investment management fees, foreign exchange and other trading revenue, financing-related fees, distribution and servicing, and other revenue when the services are provided and earned based on contractual terms, when amounts are determined and collectibility is reasonably assured.

Additionally, we recognize revenue from non-refundable, upfront implementation fees under outsourcing contracts using a straight-line method, commencing in the period the ongoing services are performed through the expected term of the contractual relationship. Incremental direct set-up costs of implementation, up to the related implementation fee or minimum fee revenue amount, are deferred and amortized over the same period that the related implementation fees are recognized. If a client terminates an outsourcing contract prematurely, the unamortized deferred incremental direct set-up costs and the unamortized deferred up-front implementation fees related to that contract are recognized in the period the contract is terminated.

Performance fees are recognized in the period in which the performance fees are earned and become determinable. Performance fees are generally calculated as a percentage of the applicable portfolio's performance in excess of a benchmark index or a peer group's performance. When a portfolio underperforms its benchmark or fails to generate positive performance, subsequent years' performance must generally exceed this shortfall prior to fees being earned. Amounts billable in subsequent years and which are subject to a clawback if performance thresholds in those years are not met, are not recognized since the fees are potentially uncollectible. These fees are recognized when it is determined that they will be collected. When a multi-year performance contract provides that fees earned are billed ratably over the performance period, only the portion of the fees earned that are non-refundable are recognized.

Net interest revenue

Revenue on interest-earning assets and expense on interest-bearing liabilities is recognized based on the effective yield of the related financial instrument.

Foreign currency translation

Assets and liabilities denominated in foreign currencies are translated to U.S. dollars at the rate of exchange on the balance sheet date. Transaction gains and losses are included in the income statement. Translation gains and losses on investments in foreign entities with functional currencies that are not the U.S. dollar are recorded as foreign currency translation adjustments in other comprehensive income (loss). Revenue and expense transactions are translated at the applicable daily rate or the weighted average monthly exchange rate when applying the daily rate is not practical.

Pension

The measurement date for BNY Mellon's pension plans is Dec. 31. Plan assets are determined based on fair value generally representing observable market prices. The projected benefit obligation is determined based on the present value of projected benefit distributions at an assumed discount rate. The discount rate utilized is based on the yield curves of high-quality corporate bonds available in the marketplace. The net periodic pension expense or credit includes service costs, interest costs based on an assumed discount rate, an expected return on plan assets based on an actuarially derived market-related value and amortization of prior years' actuarial gains and losses.

Actuarial gains and losses include the impact of plan amendments, gains or losses related to changes in the amount of the projected benefit obligation or plan assets resulting from experience different from the assumed rate of return, changes in the discount rate or other assumptions. To the extent an actuarial gain or loss exceeds 10% of the greater of the projected benefit obligation or the market-related value of plan assets, the excess is recognized over the future service periods of active employees.

Our expected long-term rate of return on plan assets is based on anticipated returns for each applicable asset class. Anticipated returns are weighted for the expected allocation for each asset class and are based on forecasts for prospective returns in the equity and fixed income markets, which should track the long-term historical returns for these markets. We also consider the growth outlook for U.S. and global economies, as well as current and prospective interest rates.

The market-related value utilized to determine the expected return on plan assets is based on the fair value of plan assets adjusted for the difference between expected returns and actual performance of plan assets. The difference between actual experience and expected returns on plan assets is included as an adjustment in the market-related value over a five-year period.

BNY Mellon's accounting policy regarding pensions has been identified as a "critical accounting estimate" as it requires management to make numerous complex and subjective assumptions relating to amounts which are inherently uncertain. See Note 18 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements for additional disclosures related to pensions.

Severance

BNY Mellon provides separation benefits for U.S.-based employees through The Bank of New York Mellon Corporation Supplemental Unemployment Benefit Plan. These benefits are provided to eligible employees separated from their jobs for business reasons not related to individual performance. Basic separation benefits are generally based on the employee's years of continuous benefited service. Severance for employees based outside of the U.S. is determined in accordance with local agreements and legal requirements. Severance expense is recorded when management commits to an action that will result in separation and the amount of the liability can be reasonably estimated.

Income taxes

We record current tax liabilities or assets through charges or credits to the current tax provision for the estimated taxes payable or refundable for the current year. Deferred tax assets and liabilities are recorded for future tax consequences attributable to differences between the financial statement carrying amounts of assets and liabilities and their respective tax bases. Deferred tax assets and liabilities are measured using enacted tax rates expected to apply to taxable income in the years in which those temporary differences are expected to be recovered or settled. A deferred tax valuation allowance is established if it is more likely than not that all or a portion of the deferred tax assets will not be realized. A tax position that fails to meet a more-likely-than-not recognition threshold will result in either reduction of current or deferred tax assets, and/or recording of current or deferred tax liabilities. Interest and penalties related to income taxes are recorded as income tax expense.

Derivative financial instruments

Derivative contracts, such as futures contracts, forwards, interest rate swaps, foreign currency swaps and options and similar products used in trading activities are recorded at fair value. Gains and losses are included in foreign exchange and other trading revenue in fee and other revenue. Unrealized gains are recognized as trading assets and unrealized losses are recognized as trading liabilities, after taking into consideration master netting agreements.

We enter into various derivative financial instruments for non-trading purposes primarily as part of our asset/liability management ("ALM") process. These derivatives are designated as either fair value or cash flow hedges of certain assets and liabilities when we enter into the derivative contracts. Gains and losses associated with fair value hedges are recorded in income as well as any change in the value of the related hedged item associated with the designated risks being hedged. Gains and losses on cash flow hedges are recorded in OCI, until reclassified into earnings to meet the risks being hedged. Foreign currency transaction gains and losses related to a hedged net investment in a foreign operation, net of their tax effect, are recorded with cumulative foreign currency translation adjustments within OCI.

We formally document all relationships between hedging instruments and hedged items, as well as our risk-management objectives and strategy for undertaking various hedging transactions.

We formally assess, both at the hedge's inception and on an ongoing basis, whether the derivatives that are used in hedging transactions are highly effective and whether those derivatives are expected to remain highly effective in future periods. At inception, the potential causes of ineffectiveness related to each of our hedges is assessed to determine if we can expect the hedge to be highly effective over the life of the transaction and to determine the method for evaluating effectiveness on an ongoing basis.

Recognizing that changes in the value of derivatives used for hedging or the value of hedged items could result in significant ineffectiveness, we have processes in place that are designed to identify and evaluate such changes when they occur. Quarterly, we perform a quantitative effectiveness assessment and record any ineffectiveness in current earnings.

We discontinue hedge accounting prospectively when we determine that a derivative is no longer an effective hedge, the derivative expires, is sold, or management discontinues the derivative's hedge designation. Subsequent gains and losses on these derivatives are included in foreign exchange and other trading revenue. For discontinued fair value hedges, the accumulated gain or loss on the hedged item is amortized on a yield basis over the remaining life of the hedged item. Accumulated gains and losses, net of tax effect, from discontinued cash flow hedges are reclassified from OCI and recognized in current earnings in foreign exchange and other trading revenue upon receipt of the hedged cash flow.

The accounting policy for the determination of the fair value of derivative financial instruments has been identified as a "critical accounting estimate" as it requires us to make numerous assumptions based on the available market data. See Note 23 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements for additional disclosures related to derivative financial instruments.

Statement of cash flows

We have defined cash as cash and due from banks. Cash flows from hedging activities are classified in the same category as the items hedged.

Stock-based compensation

Compensation expense relating to all share-based payments is recognized in the income statement, on a straight-line basis, over the applicable vesting period.

Certain of our stock compensation grants vest when the employee retires. ASC 718 requires the completion of expensing of new grants with this feature by the first date the employee is eligible to retire.

ASU 2011-11 - Disclosures about Offsetting Assets and Liabilities

In December 2011, the FASB issued ASU 2011-11, "Disclosures about Offsetting Assets and Liabilities". Entities are required to disclose both gross information and net information about both instruments and transactions eligible for offset in the balance sheet and instruments and transactions subject to an agreement similar to a master netting arrangement. The scope includes derivatives, sale and repurchase agreements and reverse sale and repurchase agreements, and securities borrowing and securities lending arrangements. See Note 23 "Derivative instruments" of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements for the related disclosure.

ASU 2012-02 - Testing Indefinite-Lived Intangible Assets for Impairment

In July 2012, the FASB issued ASU 2012-02, "Testing Indefinite-Lived Intangible Assets for Impairment." This guidance allows an entity an option to first assess qualitative factors to determine whether it is more likely than not (a likelihood of more than 50 percent) that an indefinite-lived intangible asset is impaired. If the intangible asset is impaired, an entity is required to perform the quantitative impairment test. An entity is not required to calculate the fair value of an indefinite-lived intangible asset and perform the quantitative impairment test unless the entity determines that it is more likely than not that the asset is impaired.

ASU 2013-02 - Reporting of Amounts Reclassified Out of Accumulated Other Comprehensive Income

In February 2013, the FASB issued ASU 2013-02, "Reporting of Amounts Reclassified Out of Accumulated Other Comprehensive Income." This ASU requires the presentation of the effects on the line items of net income of significant amounts reclassified out of accumulated other comprehensive income. See Note 16 "Other comprehensive income (loss)" of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements for the related disclosure.

Note 3 - Acquisitions and dispositions

We sometimes structure our acquisitions with both an initial payment and later contingent payments tied to post-closing revenue or income growth. For acquisitions completed prior to Jan. 1, 2009, we recorded the fair value of contingent payments as an additional cost of the entity acquired in the period that the payment becomes probable. For acquisitions completed after Jan. 1, 2009, subsequent changes in the fair value of a contingent consideration liability are recorded through the income statement. Contingent payments totaled $19 million in 2013.

At Dec. 31, 2013, we were potentially obligated to pay additional consideration which, using reasonable assumptions for the performance of the acquired companies and joint ventures based on contractual agreements, could amount to $6 million over the next six months. The acquisitions and dispositions described below did not have a material impact on BNY Mellon's results of operations.

Dispositions in 2013

On May 31, 2013, BNY Mellon sold SourceNet Solutions, our accounts payable outsourcing support services provider that was part of our Investment Services business, for $11 million. As a result of this sale, we recorded a pre-tax gain of $2 million and an after-tax gain of $10 million.

On Sept. 27, 2013, Newton Management Limited, together with Newton Investment Management Limited, an investment boutique of BNY Mellon, sold Newton's private client business, for $120 million. As a result of this sale, we recorded a pre-tax gain of $27 million and an after-tax gain of $5 million. In addition, goodwill of $69 million and customer relationship intangible assets of $7 million were removed from the balance sheet as a result of this sale.

Acquisition in 2012

On Oct 1, 2012, BNY Mellon acquired the remaining 50% interest of the WestLB Mellon Asset Management joint venture for cash of $22 million, plus a contingent payment of $13 million which was paid in August 2013. We later renamed the unit Meriten Investment Management GmbH. Goodwill related to this acquisition totaled $70 million and is included in our Investment Management business. This goodwill is not deductible for tax purposes. Customer relationship intangible assets related to this acquisition are included in our Investment Management business, with a life of eight years, and totaled $23 million at acquisition.

Acquisitions in 2011

On July 1, 2011, BNY Mellon acquired the wealth management operations of Chicago-based Talon Asset Management ("Talon") for cash of $11 million. We are obligated to pay, upon occurrence of certain events, contingent additional consideration of $5 million which was recorded as goodwill at the acquisition date. Talon manages assets of wealthy families and institutions. Goodwill related to this acquisition, is included in our Investment Management business and totaled $10 million and is deductible for tax purposes. Customer relationship intangible assets related to this acquisition are included in our Investment Management business, with a life of 20 years, and totaled $6 million at acquisition.

On Nov. 30, 2011, BNY Mellon acquired Penson Financial Services Australia Pty Ltd., a clearing firm located in Australia, in a $33 million share purchase transaction. Goodwill related to this acquisition is included in our Investment Services business and totaled $10 million and is non-tax deductible. Customer relationship intangible assets related to this acquisition are included in our Investment Services business, with a life of nine years, and totaled $6 million at acquisition.

Disposition in 2011

On Dec. 31, 2011, BNY Mellon sold the Shareowner Services business. The sales price of $550 million resulted in a pre-tax gain of $98 million. We recorded an immaterial after-tax gain primarily due to the write-off of non-tax deductible goodwill associated with the business. Excluding the gain on the sale, the Shareowner Services business contributed $273 million of revenue and $21 million of pre-tax income in 2011.

At Dec. 31, 2013, the book value and the fair value of UK sovereign debt of $4.5 billion and $4.6 billion respectively, exceeded 10% of BNY Mellon's shareholders' equity. In 2013, Agency RMBS securities with an amortized cost of $7.3 billion and fair value of $7.0 billion were transferred from available-for-sale securities to held-to-maturity securities. This action, in addition to realizing gains on the sales of securities, is expected to mute the impact to our accumulated other comprehensive income in the event of a rise in interest rates.

Temporarily impaired securities

At Dec. 31, 2013, substantially all of the unrealized losses on the investment securities portfolio were attributable to an increase in interest rates and credit spreads widening since purchase. We do not intend to sell these securities and it is not more likely than not that we will have to sell these securities.

The following tables show the aggregate related fair value of investments with a continuous unrealized loss position for less than 12 months and those that have been in a continuous unrealized loss position for 12 months or more.

Other-than-temporary impairment

We routinely conduct periodic reviews of all securities using economic models to identify and evaluate each investment security to determine whether OTTI has occurred. Various inputs to the economic models are used to determine if an unrealized loss on securities is other-than-temporary. For example, the most significant inputs related to non-agency RMBS are:

- Default rate - the number of mortgage loans expected to go into default over the life of the transaction, which is driven by the roll rate of loans in each performance bucket that will ultimately migrate to default; and
- Severity - the loss expected to be realized when a loan defaults.

To determine if an unrealized loss is other-than-temporary, we project total estimated defaults of the underlying assets (mortgages) and multiply that calculated amount by an estimate of realizable value upon sale of these assets in the marketplace (severity) in order to determine the projected collateral loss. In determining estimated default rate and severity assumptions, we review the performance of the underlying securities, industry studies, market forecasts, as well as our view of the economic outlook affecting collateral. We also evaluate the current credit enhancement underlying the bond to determine the impact on cash flows. If we determine that a given security will be subject to a write-down or loss, we record the expected credit loss as a charge to earnings.

The table below shows the projected weighted-average default rates and loss severities for the 2007, 2006 and late 2005 non-agency RMBS and the securities previously held in the Grantor Trust that we established in connection with the restructuring of our investment securities portfolio in 2009, at Dec. 31, 2013 and Dec. 31, 2012.

The beginning balance represents the credit loss component for which OTTI occurred on debt securities in prior periods. The additions represent the first time a debt security was credit impaired or when subsequent credit impairments have occurred. The deductions represent credit losses on securities that have been sold, are required to be sold, or for which it is our intention to sell.

Pledged assets

At Dec. 31, 2013, assets amounting to $81 billion were pledged primarily for potential borrowing at the Federal Reserve Discount Window. The significant components of pledged assets were as follows: $70 billion of securities, $5 billion of loans, $5 billion of trading assets and $1 billion of interest-bearing deposits with banks. We obtain securities under resale, securities borrowed, derivative contracts and custody agreements on terms which permit us to repledge or resell the securities to others. As of Dec. 31, 2013, the market value of the securities received that can be sold or repledged was $31 billion. We routinely repledge or lend these securities to third parties. As of Dec. 31, 2013, the market value of collateral sold or repledged was $13 billion.

(a) Net of unearned income on domestic and foreign lease financings of $1,020 million at Dec. 31, 2013 and $1,135 million at Dec. 31, 2012.

In the ordinary course of business, we and our banking subsidiaries have made loans at prevailing interest rates and terms to our directors and executive officers and to entities in which certain of our directors have an ownership interest or direct or indirect subsidiaries of such entities. The aggregate amount of these loans was $3 million at Dec. 31, 2013, $5 million at Dec. 31, 2012 and $3 million at Dec. 31, 2011. These loans are primarily extensions of credit under revolving lines of credit established for such entities.

Our loan portfolio is comprised of three portfolio segments: commercial, lease financings and mortgages. We manage our portfolio at the class level which is comprised of six classes of financing receivables: commercial, commercial real estate, financial institutions, lease financings, wealth management loans and mortgages and other residential mortgages. The following tables are presented for each class of financing receivable, and provide additional information about our credit risks and the adequacy of our allowance for credit losses.

These loans are recorded at fair value and therefore do not impact the provision for credit losses and allowance for loan losses, and accordingly are excluded from the nonperforming assets table above.

At Dec. 31, 2013, undrawn commitments to borrowers whose loans were classified as nonaccrual or reduced rate were not material.

(a) The allowance for impaired loans is included in the allowance for loan losses.

(b) When the discounted cash flows, collateral value or market price equals or exceeds the carrying value of the loan, then the loan does not require an allowance under the accounting standard related to impaired loans.

(c) Excludes an aggregate of $1 million and $2 million of impaired loans in amounts individually less than $1 million at Dec. 31, 2013 and Dec. 31, 2012, respectively. The allowance for loan loss associated with these loans totaled less than $1 million at both Dec. 31, 2013 and Dec. 31, 2012.

Troubled debt restructurings ("TDRs")

A modified loan is considered a TDR if the debtor is experiencing financial difficulties and the creditor grants a concession to the debtor that would not otherwise be considered. A TDR may include a transfer of real estate or other assets from the debtor to the creditor, or a modification of the term of the loan. Not all modified loans are considered TDRs.

The following table presents TDRs that occurred in 2013 and 2012.

TDRs	2013			2012
		Outstanding recorded investment			Outstanding recorded investment

Total TDRs	123	$ 24	$ 30	178	$ 103	$ 104

Other residential mortgages

The modifications of the other residential mortgage loans in 2013 and 2012 consisted of reducing the stated interest rates and in certain cases, a forbearance of default and extending the maturity dates. The value of modified loans is based on the fair value of the collateral. Probable loss factors are applied to the value of the modified loans to determine the allowance for credit losses.

Commercial

The modifications of the commercial loans and unfunded lending-related commitments in 2012 consisted of changing the stated interest rates and/or extending the maturity dates of the loans. The difference between the book value of the loan and net cash flow discounted at the original loan's rate, if no observable market price exists, is included in the allowance for credit losses.

Commercial real estate

The modifications of the commercial real estate loans and unfunded lending-related commitments in 2012 consisted of changing the stated interest rates and extending the maturity dates of the loans. The difference between the book value of the loan and the estimated fair value of the collateral is included in the allowance for credit losses.

Wealth management loans and mortgages

The modifications of the wealth management loans and mortgages in 2012 consisted of changes in payment terms and extensions of the maturity dates. The difference between the book value of the loan and the estimated fair value of the collateral is included in the allowance for credit losses.

Foreign

The modification of the foreign loan in 2012 consisted of extending the maturity date of the loan. The difference between the book value of the loan and the net present value discounted at the original loan's rate is included in the allowance for credit losses.

TDRs that subsequently defaulted

There were 35 residential mortgage loans that had been restructured in a TDR during the previous 12 months and have subsequently defaulted in 2013. The total recorded investment of these loans was $8 million.

Credit quality indicators

Our credit strategy is to focus on investment grade names to support cross-selling opportunities and avoid single name/industry concentrations. Each customer is assigned an internal credit rating which is mapped to an external rating agency grade equivalent based upon a number of dimensions which are continually evaluated and may change over time.

The following tables set forth information about credit quality indicators.

Commercial loan portfolio

Commercial loan portfolio – Credit risk profile by creditworthiness category

	Commercial		Commercial real estate		Financial institutions
(in millions)	Dec. 31, 2013	Dec. 31, 2012	Dec. 31, 2013	Dec. 31, 2012	Dec. 31, 2013	Dec. 31, 2012
Investment grade	$ 1,323	$ 1,064	$ 1,444	$ 1,289	$ 12,598	$ 9,935
Total	$ 1,647	$ 1,417	$ 2,010	$ 1,740	$ 14,359	$ 11,288

The commercial loan portfolio is divided into investment grade and non-investment grade categories based on rating criteria largely consistent with those of the public rating agencies. Each customer in the portfolio is assigned an internal credit rating. These internal credit ratings are generally consistent with the ratings categories of the public rating agencies. Customers with ratings consistent with BBB- (S&P)/Baa3 (Moody's) or better are considered to be investment grade. Those clients with ratings lower than this threshold are considered to be non-investment grade.

Wealth management loans and mortgages

Wealth management loans and mortgages – Credit risk profile by internally assigned grade

(in millions)	Dec. 31, 2013	Dec. 31, 2012
Wealth management loans:
Investment grade	$ 4,920	$ 4,597
Noninvestment grade	64	125
Wealth management mortgages	4,834	4,142
Total	$ 9,818	$ 8,864

Wealth management non-mortgage loans are not typically rated by external rating agencies. A majority of the wealth management loans are secured by the customers' investment management accounts or custody accounts. Eligible assets pledged for these loans are typically investment-grade, fixed-income securities, equities and/or mutual funds. Internal ratings for this portion of the wealth management portfolio, therefore, would equate to investment-grade external ratings. Wealth management loans are provided to select customers based on the pledge of other types of assets, including business assets, fixed assets or a modest amount of commercial real estate. For the loans collateralized by other assets, the credit quality of the obligor is carefully analyzed, but we do not consider this portfolio of loans to be investment grade.

Credit quality indicators for wealth management mortgages are not correlated to external ratings. Wealth management mortgages are typically loans to high-net-worth individuals, which are secured primarily by residential property. These loans are primarily interest-only adjustable rate mortgages with an average loan-to-value ratio of 64% at origination. In the wealth management portfolio, 1% of the mortgages were past due at Dec. 31, 2013.

At Dec. 31, 2013, the private wealth mortgage portfolio was comprised of the following geographic concentrations: New York - 21%; California - 21%; Massachusetts - 16%; Florida - 8%; and other - 34%.

Other residential mortgages

The other residential mortgage portfolio primarily consists of 1-4 family residential mortgage loans and totaled $1,385 million at Dec. 31, 2013 and $1,632 million at Dec. 31, 2012. These loans are not typically correlated to external ratings. Included in this portfolio at Dec. 31, 2013 are $411 million of mortgage loans purchased in 2005, 2006 and the first quarter of 2007 that are predominantly prime mortgage loans, with a small portion of Alt-A loans. As of Dec. 31, 2013, the purchased loans in this portfolio had a weighted-average loan-to-value ratio of 76% at origination and 20% of the serviced loan balance was at least 60 days delinquent. The properties securing the prime and Alt-A mortgage loans were located (in order of concentration) in California, Florida, Virginia, the tri-state area (New York, New Jersey and Connecticut) and Maryland.

Overdrafts

Overdrafts primarily relate to custody and securities clearance clients and totaled $3,715 million at Dec. 31, 2013 and $5,298 million at Dec. 31, 2012. Overdrafts occur on a daily basis in the custody and securities clearance business and are generally repaid within two business days.

Margin loans

We had $15,652 million of secured margin loans on our balance sheet at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with $13,397 million at Dec. 31, 2012. Margin loans are collateralized with marketable securities and borrowers are required to maintain a daily collateral margin in excess of 100% of the value of the loan. We have rarely suffered a loss on these types of loans and do not allocate any of our allowance for credit losses to margin loans.

Other loans

Other loans primarily includes loans to consumers that are fully collateralized with equities, mutual funds and fixed income securities, as well as bankers' acceptances.

Reverse repurchase agreements

Reverse repurchase agreements are transactions fully collateralized with high-quality liquid securities. These transactions carry minimal credit risk and therefore are not allocated an allowance for credit losses.

Matter related to Sentinel

In August 2007, BNY Mellon loaned $312 million to an asset manager, Sentinel Management Group, Inc. ("Sentinel"), secured by securities and cash. Sentinel filed for bankruptcy in 2007, and BNY Mellon's status as a secured lender is the subject of continuing litigation. In 2010, the district court ruled in favor of BNY Mellon, and the loan was repaid. An appellate court reversed the district court's ruling on Aug. 26, 2013, and remanded to the district court for further proceedings. BNY Mellon held no loans to Sentinel at Dec. 31, 2013. On Jan. 22, 2014, the Bankruptcy Court, ordered that the funds distributed to BNY Mellon after the district court's favorable decision be returned to the bankruptcy estate and held in a reserve earmarked for purposes of BNY Mellon's claim until the district court issues its decision on the merits of the challenges to BNY Mellon's lien. Accordingly, the loan was reestablished as a fully collateralized performing loan in the first quarter of 2014. The ongoing litigation could result in a ruling adverse to BNY Mellon at some point in the future. For additional information on our legal proceedings related to this matter, see Note 22 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements.

Note 6 - Goodwill and intangible assets

Impairment testing

BNY Mellon's three business segments include seven reporting units for which goodwill impairment testing is performed on an annual basis. The Investment Management segment is comprised of two reporting units. The Investment Services segment is comprised of four reporting units. One reporting unit is included in the Other segment.

The goodwill impairment test is performed in two steps. The first step compares the estimated fair value of the reporting unit with its carrying amount, including goodwill. If the estimated fair value of the reporting unit exceeds its carrying amount, goodwill of the reporting unit is considered not impaired. However, if the carrying amount of the reporting unit were to exceed its estimated fair value, a second step would be performed that would compare the implied fair value of the reporting unit's goodwill with the carrying amount of that goodwill. An impairment loss would be recorded to the extent that the carrying amount of goodwill exceeds its implied fair value.

BNY Mellon conducted its annual goodwill impairment test on a quantitative basis on all seven reporting units in the second quarter of 2013. The estimated fair value of the Company's seven reporting units exceeded the carrying value and no goodwill impairment was recognized.

Intangible assets not subject to amortization are tested annually for impairment or more often if events or circumstances indicate they may be impaired.

Goodwill

Total goodwill decreased in 2013 compared with 2012 resulting from the sale of Newton's private client business primarily offset by the impact of foreign exchange translation on non-U.S. dollar denominated goodwill. The table below provides a breakdown of goodwill by business.

Intangible assets

The decrease in intangible assets in 2013 compared with 2012 primarily resulted from amortization of intangible assets. Amortization of intangible assets was $342 million in 2013, $384 million in 2012 and $428 million in 2011. In 2013, we recorded an $8 million impairment charge related to the write-down of the value of a customer contract intangible in the Investment Services business to its fair value. The table below provide a breakdown of intangible assets by business.

Seed capital and private equity investments valued using net asset value per share

In our Investment Management business, we manage investment assets, including equities, fixed income, money market and alternative investment funds for institutions and other investors. As part of that activity we make seed capital investments in certain funds. BNY Mellon also holds private equity investments, which consist of investments in private equity funds, mezzanine financings and direct equity investments. Seed capital and private equity investments are included in other assets. Consistent with our policy to focus on our core activities, we continue to reduce our exposure to private equity investments.

The fair value of these investments has been estimated using the net asset value ("NAV") per share of BNY Mellon's ownership interest in the funds. The table below presents information about BNY Mellon's investments in seed capital and private equity investments.

Aggregate restructuring charges are included in M&I, litigation and restructuring charges on the income statement. Beginning in the fourth quarter of 2013, restructuring charges were recorded in the businesses. Prior to the fourth quarter of 2013, all restructuring charges were reported in the Other segment. Severance payments are primarily paid over the salary continuance period in accordance with the separation plan.

Operational Excellence Initiatives

In 2011, we announced our Operational Excellence Initiatives which include an expense reduction initiative impacting approximately 1,500 positions, as well as additional initiatives to transform operations, technology and corporate services that will increase productivity and reduce the growth rate of expenses. We recorded a pre-tax restructuring charge of $107 million related to the Operational Excellence Initiatives in 2011. This charge was comprised of $78 million of severance costs and $29 million primarily for operating lease-related items and consulting costs. In 2013, we recorded a net charge of $45 million reflecting additional severance charges. The following table presents the activity in the restructuring reserve related to the Operational Excellence Initiatives through Dec. 31, 2013.

As of Dec. 31, 2013, we have net operating loss carryforwards for state and local income tax purposes of $1.4 billion which will begin to expire in 2029. We have a German net operating loss carryforward of $206 million with an indefinite life. We have not recorded a valuation allowance because we expect to realize our deferred tax assets including these carryovers.

As of Dec. 31, 2013, we had approximately $5.3 billion of earnings attributable to foreign subsidiaries that have been permanently reinvested abroad and for which no incremental U.S. income tax provision has been recorded. If these earnings were to be repatriated, the estimated U.S. tax liability as of Dec. 31, 2013 would be up to $1.1 billion. Management has no intention of repatriating these earnings to the U.S. in the foreseeable future.

Our total tax reserves as of Dec. 31, 2013 were $866 million compared with $340 million at Dec. 31, 2012. If these tax reserves were unnecessary, $866 million would affect the effective tax rate in future periods. We recognize accrued interest and penalties, if applicable, related to income taxes in income tax expense. Included in the balance sheet at Dec. 31, 2013 is accrued interest, where applicable, of $203 million. The additional tax expense related to interest for the year ended Dec. 31, 2013 was $192 million compared with $11 million for the year ended Dec. 31, 2012.

It is reasonably possible the total reserve for uncertain tax positions could decrease within the next 12 months by an amount up to $270 million as a result of adjustments related to tax years that are still subject to examination.

As previously disclosed, on Nov. 10, 2009, BNY Mellon filed a petition with the U.S. Tax Court challenging the Internal Revenue Service's ("IRS") disallowance of certain foreign tax credits claimed for the 2001 and 2002 tax years. Trial was held from April 16 to May 17, 2012. On Feb. 11, 2013, BNY Mellon received an adverse decision from the U.S. Tax Court. On Sept. 23, 2013, the U.S. Tax Court amended its prior ruling to allow BNY Mellon an interest expense deduction and to exclude certain items from taxable income. The net impact of the court rulings for all years involved and related interest decreased after-tax income in 2013 by $593 million. The U.S. Tax Court ruling was finalized on Feb. 20, 2014. Finally, we intend to appeal the Tax Court's Feb. 11, 2013 decision disallowing the foreign tax credits. See Note 22 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements for additional information.

Our federal income tax returns are closed for all periods through 2005. The 2006 year remains open to examination. The years 2007 and 2008 are also closed to further examination; however, one matter is before the IRS Appeals Division. The years 2009 and 2010 are currently under examination. Our New York State and New York City income tax returns are closed to examination through 2010. Our UK income tax returns are closed to examination through 2011.

Trust-preferred securities

At Dec. 31, 2013, a wholly owned subsidiary of BNY Mellon (the "Trust") has issued cumulative Company-Obligated Mandatory Redeemable Trust Preferred Securities of Subsidiary Trust Holding Solely Junior Subordinated Debentures ("trust preferred securities"). The sole asset of this trust is junior subordinated deferrable interest debentures of BNY Mellon with maturities and interest rates that match the trust preferred securities. Our obligation under the agreement that relate to the trust preferred securities, the Trust and the debentures constitutes a full and unconditional guarantee by us of the Trust's obligation under the trust preferred securities.

Additionally, at Dec. 31, 2013, we also owned Mellon Capital IV, whose sole assets were originally junior subordinated debentures and a stock purchase contract for preferred stock. Through a remarketing in May 2012, the junior subordinated debentures issued by BNY Mellon and held by Mellon Capital IV were sold to third party investors and then exchanged for BNY Mellon's senior notes, which were sold in a public offering. The proceeds of the sale of the senior notes were used to fund the purchase by Mellon Capital IV of $500 million of BNY Mellon's Series A preferred stock, which was issued on June 20, 2012. At Dec. 31, 2013, the Series A preferred stock was the sole asset of Mellon Capital IV. See Note 15 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements for additional disclosures related to preferred stock, including the Series A preferred stock.

On June 14, 2013, BNY Mellon redeemed all outstanding 7.78% Trust Preferred Securities issued by BNY Institutional Capital Trust A (liquidation amount $1,000 per security and $300 million in aggregate).

The following tables set forth a summary of the trust preferred securities issued by the Trusts as of Dec. 31, 2013 and Dec. 31, 2012:

Note 14 - Securitizations and variable interest entities

BNY Mellon's VIEs generally include retail, institutional and alternative investment funds offered to its retail and institutional customers in which it acts as the fund's investment manager. BNY Mellon earns management fees on these funds as well as performance fees in certain funds. It may also provide start-up capital in its new funds. These VIEs are included in the scope of ASU 2010-10 and are reviewed for consolidation based on the guidance in ASC 810, Consolidation.

BNY Mellon has other VIEs, including securitization trusts, which are no longer considered qualifying special purpose entities, and CLOs, in which BNY Mellon serves as the investment manager. In addition, we provide trust and custody services for a fee to entities sponsored by other corporations in which we have no other interest. These VIEs are evaluated under the guidance included in ASU 2009-17. BNY Mellon has two securitizations and several CLOs, which are assessed for consolidation in accordance with ASU 2009-17.

The following tables present the incremental assets and liabilities included in BNY Mellon's consolidated financial statements, after applying intercompany eliminations, as of Dec. 31, 2013 and Dec. 31, 2012, based on the assessments performed in accordance with ASC 810 and ASU 2009-17. The net assets of any consolidated VIE are solely available to settle the liabilities of the VIE and to settle any investors' ownership liquidation requests, including any seed capital invested in the VIE by BNY Mellon.

Temporary equity

Temporary equity was $230 million at Dec. 31, 2013 and $178 million at Dec. 31, 2012. Temporary equity represents amounts recorded for redeemable non-controlling interests resulting from equity-classified share-based payment arrangements that are currently redeemable or are expected to become redeemable. The current redemption value of such awards is classified as temporary equity and is adjusted to its redemption value at each balance sheet date.

Capital adequacy

Regulators establish certain levels of capital for bank holding companies and banks, including BNY Mellon and our bank subsidiaries, in accordance with established quantitative measurements. For the Parent to maintain its status as a financial holding company, our bank subsidiaries and BNY Mellon must, among other things, qualify as "well capitalized".

As of Dec. 31, 2013 and 2012, BNY Mellon and our bank subsidiaries were considered "well capitalized" on the basis of the Basel I Total and Tier 1 capital to risk-weighted assets ratios and the leverage ratio (Basel I Tier 1 capital to quarterly average assets as defined for regulatory purposes).

Consolidated and largest bank subsidiary capital ratios (a)	Dec. 31, 2013	2012
Consolidated capital ratios:
Tier 1 capital to risk-weighted assets ratio	16.2%	15.0%
Total capital to risk-weighted assets ratio	17.0	16.3
Leverage	5.4	5.3
The Bank of New York Mellon capital ratios:
Tier 1 capital to risk-weighted assets ratio	14.6%	14.0%
Total capital to risk-weighted assets ratio	15.1	14.6
Leverage	5.3	5.4

(a) Determined under Basel I rules. Includes full capital credit for certain capital instruments outstanding at Dec. 31, 2013. A phase-out of non-qualifying instruments began on Jan. 1, 2014. For BNY Mellon to qualify as "well capitalized," its Basel I Tier 1 and Total (Tier 1 plus Tier 2) capital ratios must be at least 6% and 10%, respectively. For The Bank of New York Mellon, our largest bank subsidiary, to qualify as "well capitalized," its Basel I Tier 1, Total and leverage capital ratios must be at least 6%, 10% and 5%, respectively. For The Bank of New York Mellon to qualify as "adequately capitalized," Basel I Tier 1, Total and leverage capital ratios must be at least 4%, 8% and 3%, respectively.

If a financial holding company such as BNY Mellon fails to qualify as well capitalized, it may lose its status as a financial holding company, which may restrict its ability to undertake or continue certain activities or make acquisitions that are not generally permissible for bank holding companies without financial holding company status. If The Bank of New York Mellon or BNY Mellon, N.A. fails to qualify as "well capitalized," it may be subject to higher FDIC assessments.

If a bank holding company such as BNY Mellon or bank such as The Bank of New York Mellon or BNY Mellon, N.A. fails to qualify as adequately capitalized, regulatory sanctions and limitations are imposed.

At Dec. 31, 2013, the amounts of capital by which BNY Mellon and The Bank of New York Mellon, exceed the Basel I "well capitalized" thresholds are as follows:

Stock-based compensation expense related to retirement eligibility vesting totaled $65 million in 2013, $64 million in 2012 and $31 million in 2011.

Stock options

Our Long-Term Incentive Plans provide for the issuance of stock options at fair market value at the date of grant to officers and employees of BNY Mellon. Generally, each option granted is exercisable between one and ten years from the date of grant. No stock options were granted in 2013.

The compensation cost that has been charged against income was $49 million for 2013, $70 million for 2012 and $96 million for 2011. The total income tax benefit recognized in the income statement was $20 million for 2013, $29 million for 2012 and $40 million for 2011.

We used a lattice-based binomial method to calculate the fair value on the date of grant. The fair value of each option award is estimated on the date of grant using the weighted-average assumptions noted in the following table:

Assumptions	2013	2012	2011
Dividend yield	N/A	3.0%	2.2%
Expected volatility	N/A	34	32
Risk-free interest rate	N/A	1.38	2.75
Expected option lives (in years)	N/A	6.9	6.7

For 2012 and 2011, assumptions were determined as follows:

- Expected volatilities are based on implied volatilities from traded options on our stock, historical volatility of our stock, and other factors.
- We use historical data to estimate option exercises and employee terminations within the valuation model.
- The risk-free rate for periods within the contractual life of the option is based on the U.S. Treasury yield curve at the time of grant.
- The expected term of options granted is derived from the output of the option valuation model and represents the period of time that options granted are expected to be outstanding.

A summary of the status of our options as of Dec. 31, 2013, and changes during the year, is presented below:

The total intrinsic value of options exercised was $67 million in 2013, $8 million in 2012 and $7 million in 2011.

As of Dec. 31, 2013, $43 million of total unrecognized compensation cost related to nonvested options is expected to be recognized over a weighted-average period of 10 months.

Cash received from option exercises totaled $263 million in 2013, $40 million in 2012 and $18 million in 2011. The actual tax benefit realized for the tax deductions from options exercised totaled $8 million in 2013, less than $1 million in 2012 and $2 million in 2011.

Restricted stock and RSUs

Restricted stock and RSUs are granted under our long-term incentive plans at no cost to the recipient. These awards are subject to forfeiture until certain restrictions have lapsed, including continued employment, for a specified period. The recipient of a share of restricted stock is entitled to voting rights and generally is entitled to dividends on the common stock. An RSU entitles the recipient to receive a share of common stock after the applicable restrictions lapse. The recipient generally is entitled to receive cash payments equivalent to any dividends paid on the underlying common stock during the period the RSU is outstanding but does not receive voting rights.

The fair value of restricted stock and RSUs is equal to the fair market value of our common stock on the date of grant. The expense is recognized over the vesting period, which is one to four years. The total compensation expense recognized for restricted stock and RSUs was $201 million in 2013, $185 million in 2012 and $134 million in 2011. The total income tax benefit recognized in the income statement was $79 million for 2013, $76 million for 2012 and $52 million for 2011.

BNYMellon's Executive Committee members were granted a target award of 942,428 performance units ("PSUs") in 2013 that are earned annually based on an earnout percentage calculated using a metric of net income divided by risk-weighted assets under Basel III. The awards earned in each of the three performance periods vest at the end of the third performance period. Three of the awards are granted to FSA code-staff individuals and are required to be marked to market due to discretionary claw-back language contained in their grants.

BNY Mellon's Executive Committee members were granted 817,698 RSUs in 2011 which contained certain performance criteria that were achieved in 2011. The actual number of units that will ultimately vest is subject to negative discretion by BNY Mellon's Human Resources Compensation Committee and as a result, are subject to variable accounting.

The following table summarizes our nonvested PSU, restricted stock and RSU activity for 2013.

Nonvested PSU, restricted stock and RSU activity	Number of shares	Weighted-average fair value
Nonvested PSUs, restricted stock and RSUs at Dec. 31, 2012	17,419,139	$ 25.93

Nonvested PSUs, restricted stock and RSUs at Dec. 31, 2013 (a)	21,541,377	$ 26.59

(a) Includes 955,274 shares granted to members of BNY Mellon's Executive Committee that are marked-to-market based on the closing stock price at Dec. 31, 2013 of $34.94.

As of Dec. 31, 2013, $171 million of total unrecognized compensation costs related to nonvested restricted stock and RSUs is expected to be recognized over a weighted-average period of 1.6 years.

The total fair value of restricted stock and RSUs that vested was $117 million in 2013, $84 million in 2012 and $100 million in 2011.

Subsidiary Long-Term Incentive plans

BNY Mellon also has several subsidiary Long-Term Incentive Plans which have issued restricted subsidiary shares to certain employees. These share awards are subject to forfeiture until certain restrictions have lapsed, including continued employment for a specified period of time. The shares are non-voting and non-dividend paying. Once the restrictions lapse, which generally occurs in three to five years, the shares can only be sold, at the option of the employee, to BNY Mellon at a price based generally on the fair value of the subsidiary at the time of repurchase. In certain instances BNY Mellon has an election to call the shares.

Note 18 - Employee benefit plans

BNY Mellon has defined benefit and/or defined contribution retirement plans covering substantially all full-time and eligible part-time employees and other post-retirement plans providing healthcare benefits for certain retired employees.

Assumed healthcare cost trend - Domestic post-retirement healthcare benefits

The assumed healthcare cost trend rate used in determining benefit expense for 2014 is 7.00% decreasing to 4.75% in 2022. This projection is based on various economic models that forecast a decreasing growth rate of healthcare expenses over time. The underlying assumption is that healthcare expense growth cannot outpace gross national product ("GNP") growth indefinitely, and over time a lower equilibrium growth rate will be achieved. Further, the growth rate assumed in 2022 bears a reasonable relationship to the discount rate.

An increase in the healthcare cost trend rate of one percentage point for each year would increase the accumulated post-retirement benefit obligation by $16 million, or 7%, and the sum of the service and interest costs by $1 million, or 6%. Conversely, a decrease in this rate of one percentage point for each year would decrease the benefit obligation by $14 million, or 6%, and the sum of the service and interest costs by $1 million, or 5%.

Assumed healthcare cost trend - Foreign post-retirement healthcare benefits

An increase in the healthcare cost trend rate of one percentage point for each year would increase the accumulated post-retirement benefit obligation by less than $1 million and the sum of the service and interest costs by less than $1 million. Conversely, a decrease in this rate of one percentage point for each year would decrease the benefit obligation by less than $1 million and the sum of the service and interest costs by less than $1 million.

Plan contributions

BNY Mellon expects to make cash contributions to fund its defined benefit pension plans in 2014 of $17 million for the domestic plans and $56 million for the foreign plans.

BNY Mellon expects to make cash contributions to fund its post-retirement healthcare plans in 2014 of $17 million for the domestic plans and less than $1 million for the foreign plans.

Investment strategy and asset allocation

BNY Mellon is responsible for the administration of various employee pension and healthcare post-retirement benefits plans, both domestically and internationally. The domestic plans are administered by BNY Mellon's Benefits Administration Committee, a named fiduciary. Subject to the following, at all relevant times, BNY Mellon's Benefits Investment Committee, another named fiduciary to the domestic plans, is responsible for the investment of plan assets. The Benefits Investment Committee's responsibilities include the investment of all domestic defined benefit plan assets, as well as the determination of investment options offered to participants in all domestic defined contribution plans. The Benefits Investment Committee conducts periodic reviews of investment performance, asset allocation and investment manager suitability. In addition, the Benefits Investment Committee has oversight of the Regional Governance Committees for the foreign defined benefit plans.

Our investment objective for U.S. and foreign plans is to maximize total return while maintaining a broadly diversified portfolio for the primary purpose of satisfying obligations for future benefit payments.

Equities are the main holding of the plans. Alternative investments (including private equities) and fixed income securities provide diversification and, in certain cases, lower the volatility of returns. In general, equity securities and alternative investments within any domestic plan's portfolio can be maintained in the range of 30% to 70% of total plan assets, fixed-income securities can range from 20% to 50% of plan assets and cash equivalents can be held in amounts ranging from 0% to 5% of plan assets. Actual asset allocation within the approved ranges varies from time to time based on economic conditions (both current and forecast) and the advice of professional advisors.

Our pension assets were invested as follows at Dec. 31, 2013 and 2012:

We held no The Bank of New York Mellon Corporation stock in our pension plans at Dec. 31, 2013 and 2012. Assets of the U.S. post-retirement healthcare plan are invested in an insurance contract.

Fair value measurement of plan assets

In accordance with ASC 715, BNY Mellon has established a three-level hierarchy for fair value measurements of its pension plan assets based upon the transparency of inputs to the valuation of an asset as of the measurement date. The valuation hierarchy is consistent with guidance in ASC 820 which is detailed in Note 20 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements.

The following is a description of the valuation methodologies used for assets measured at fair value, as well as the general classification of such assets pursuant to the valuation hierarchy.

Cash and currency

This category consists primarily of foreign currency balances and is included in Level 1 of the valuation hierarchy. Foreign currency is translated monthly based on current exchange rates.

Common and preferred stock, exchange traded funds and equity funds

These investments include equities, exchange traded funds and equity funds and are valued at the closing price reported in the active market in which the individual securities are traded, if available. Where there are no readily available market quotations, we determine fair value primarily based on pricing sources with reasonable levels of price transparency.

Venture capital investments and partnership interests

There are no readily available market quotations for these funds. The fair value of the investments is based on the pension plan's ownership percentage of the fair value of the underlying funds as provided by the fund managers. These funds are typically valued on a quarterly basis. The pension plan's venture capital investments and partnership interests are valued at NAV as a practical expedient for fair value and classified as Level 3 of the valuation hierarchy.

Collective trust funds

Collective trust funds include commingled and U.S. equity funds that have no readily available market quotations. The fair value of the funds are based on the securities in the portfolio, which typically are the amount that the fund might reasonably expect to receive for the securities upon a sale. These funds are valued using observable inputs on either a daily or monthly basis. Collective trust funds are included as Level 2 of the valuation hierarchy.

Fixed income investments

Fixed income investments include U.S. Treasury securities, U.S. Government agencies, sovereign government obligations, U.S. corporate bonds and foreign corporate debt funds. U.S. Treasury securities are valued at the closing price reported in the active market in which the individual security is traded and included as Level 1 of the valuation hierarchy. U.S. Government agencies, sovereign government obligations, U.S. corporate bonds and foreign corporate debt funds are valued based on quoted prices for comparable securities with similar yields and credit ratings. When quoted prices are not available for identical or similar bonds, the bonds are valued using discounted cash flows that maximize observable inputs, such as current yields of similar instruments, but includes adjustments for certain risks that may not be observable, such as credit and liquidity risks. U.S. Government agencies, sovereign government obligations, U.S. corporate bonds and foreign corporate debt funds are primarily included as Level 2 of the valuation hierarchy with a small portion of foreign corporate debt funds included as Level 3.

Funds of funds

There are no readily available market quotations for these funds. The fair value of the fund is based on NAVs of the funds in the portfolio, which reflects the value of the underlying securities. The fair value of the underlying securities is typically the amount that the fund might reasonably expect to receive upon selling those hard to value or illiquid securities within the portfolios. These funds are valued using unobservable inputs on a monthly basis and are included as Level 3 of the valuation hierarchy.

The following tables present the fair value of each major category of plan assets as of Dec. 31, 2013 and Dec. 31, 2012, by captions and by ASC 820 valuation hierarchy. There were no transfers between Level 1 and Level 2.

Defined contribution plans

We have an Employee Stock Ownership Plan ("ESOP") covering certain domestic full-time employees with more than one year of service. The ESOP works in conjunction with the defined benefit pension plan. Employees are entitled to the higher of their benefit under the ESOP or such defined benefit pension plan at retirement. Benefits payable under the defined benefit pension plan are offset by the equivalent value of benefits earned under the ESOP.

At Dec. 31, 2013 and Dec. 31, 2012, the ESOP owned 6.6 million and 6.9 million shares of our common stock, respectively. The fair value of total ESOP assets was $236 million at Dec. 31, 2013 and $181 million at Dec. 31, 2012. Contributions are made equal to required principal and interest payments on borrowings by the ESOP. There were no contributions and no ESOP related expense in 2013, 2012 or 2011.

We have defined contribution plans, excluding the ESOP, for which we recognized a cost of $192 million in 2013, $180 million in 2012 and $182 million in 2011.

The Benefits Investment Committee appointed Fiduciary Counselors, Inc. to serve as the independent fiduciary to (i) make certain fiduciary decisions related to the continued prudence of offering the common stock of BNY Mellon or its affiliates as an investment option under the plans other than with respect to plan sponsor decisions, and (ii) select and monitor any managed investments (active or passive, including mutual funds) of BNY Mellon or its affiliates to be offered to participants as investment options under the plans.

Note 19 - Company financial information

Our bank subsidiaries are subject to dividend limitations under the Federal Reserve Act, as well as national and state banking laws. Under these statutes, prior regulatory consent is required for dividends in any year that would exceed the bank's net profits for such year combined with retained net profits for the prior two years. Additionally, such bank subsidiaries may not declare dividends in excess of net profits on hand, as defined, after deducting the amount by which the principal amount of all loans, on which interest is past due for a period of six months or more, exceeds the allowance for credit losses.

The payment of dividends also is limited by minimum capital requirements imposed on banks. As of Dec. 31, 2013, BNY Mellon's bank subsidiaries exceeded these minimum requirements.

Subsequent to Dec. 31, 2013, our bank subsidiaries could declare dividends to the Parent of approximately $2.9 billion without the need for a regulatory waiver. In addition, at Dec. 31, 2013, non-bank subsidiaries of the Parent had liquid assets of approximately $1.9 billion.

The bank subsidiaries declared dividends of $1.0 billion in 2013, $679 million in 2012 and $156 million in 2011. The Federal Reserve and the OCC have issued additional guidelines that require bank holding companies and national banks to continually evaluate the level of cash dividends in relation to their respective operating income, capital needs, asset quality and overall financial condition.

The Federal Reserve policy with respect to the payment of cash dividends by bank holding companies provides that, as a matter of prudent banking, a bank holding company should not maintain a rate of cash dividends unless its net income available to common shareholders has been sufficient to fully fund the dividends, and the prospective rate of earnings retention appears to be consistent with the holding company's capital needs, asset quality and overall financial condition. The Federal Reserve can also prohibit a dividend if payment would constitute an unsafe or unsound banking practice. Any increase in BNY Mellon's ongoing quarterly dividends would require approval from the Federal Reserve. The Federal Reserve's current guidance provides that, for large bank holding companies like us, dividend payout ratios exceeding 30% of projected after-tax net income will receive particularly close scrutiny.

The Federal Reserve requires U.S. bank holding companies with total consolidated assets of $50 billion or more, like BNY Mellon, to submit annual capital plans for review. The Federal Reserve will evaluate the bank holding companies' capital adequacy, internal capital adequacy assessment processes, and their plans to make capital distributions, such as dividend payments or stock repurchases.

BNY Mellon and other affected BHCs may pay dividends, repurchase stock, and make other capital distributions only in accordance with a capital plan that has been reviewed by the Federal Reserve and as to which the Federal Reserve has not objected. The Federal Reserve may object to a capital plan if the plan does not show that the covered BHC will meet all minimum regulatory capital ratios and maintain a ratio of Tier 1 common equity to risk-weighted assets of at least 5% on a pro forma basis under expected and stressful conditions throughout the nine-quarter planning horizon covered by the capital plan. The capital plan rules also stipulate that a covered BHC may not make a capital distribution unless after giving effect to the distribution it will meet all minimum regulatory capital ratios and have a ratio of Tier 1 common equity to risk-weighted assets of at least 5%. As part of this process, BNY Mellon also provides the Federal Reserve with estimates of the composition and levels of regulatory capital, risk-weighted assets and other measures under Basel III under an identified scenario. BNY Mellon's most recent capital plan was submitted to the Federal Reserve on Jan. 6, 2014. The Federal Reserve has indicated that it expects to publish its objection or non-objection to the capital plan and proposed capital actions, such as dividend payments and share repurchases, on March 26, 2014.

The Federal Reserve Act limits and requires collateral for extensions of credit by our insured subsidiary banks to BNY Mellon and certain of its non-bank affiliates. Also, there are restrictions on the amounts of investments by such banks in stock and other securities of BNY Mellon and such affiliates, and restrictions on the acceptance of their securities as collateral for loans by such banks. Extensions of credit by the banks to each of our affiliates are limited to 10% of such bank's regulatory capital, and in the aggregate for BNY Mellon and all such affiliates to 20%, and collateral must be between 100% and 130% of the amount of the credit, depending on the type of collateral.

Our insured subsidiary banks are required to maintain reserve balances with Federal Reserve Banks under the Federal Reserve Act and Regulation D. Required balances averaged $5.7 billion and $5.4 billion for the years 2013 and 2012, respectively.

In the event of impairment of the capital stock of one of the Parent's national banks or The Bank of New York Mellon, the Parent, as the banks' stockholder, could be required to pay such deficiency.

The Parent guarantees the debt issued by Mellon Funding Corporation, a wholly-owned financing subsidiary of the Company. The Parent also guarantees committed and uncommitted lines of credit of Pershing LLC and Pershing Limited subsidiaries. The Parent guarantees described above are full and unconditional and contain the standard provisions relating to parent guarantees of subsidiary debt. Additionally, the Parent guarantees or indemnifies obligations of its consolidated subsidiaries as needed. Generally there are no stated notional amounts included in these indemnifications and the contingencies triggering the obligation for indemnification are not expected to occur. As a result, we are unable to develop an estimate of the maximum payout under these indemnifications. However, we believe the possibility is remote that we will have to make any material payment under these guarantees and indemnifications.

The Parent's condensed financial statements are as follows:

Note 20 - Fair value measurement

The guidance related to "Fair Value Measurement" included in ASC 820 defines fair value as the price that would be received to sell an asset, or paid to transfer a liability, in an orderly transaction between market participants at the measurement date and establishes a framework for measuring fair value. It establishes a three-level hierarchy for fair value measurements based upon the transparency of inputs to the valuation of an asset or liability as of the measurement date and expands the disclosures about instruments measured at fair value. ASC 820 requires consideration of a company's own creditworthiness when valuing liabilities.

The standard provides a consistent definition of fair value, which focuses on exit price in an orderly transaction (that is, not a forced liquidation or distressed sale) between market participants at the measurement date under current market conditions. If there has been a significant decrease in the volume and level of activity for the asset or liability, a change in valuation technique or the use of multiple valuation techniques may be appropriate. In such instances, determining the price at which willing market participants would transact at the measurement date under current market conditions depends on the facts and circumstances and requires the use of significant judgment. The objective is to determine from weighted indicators of fair value a reasonable point within the range that is most representative of fair value under current market conditions.

Determination of fair value

Following is a description of our valuation methodologies for assets and liabilities measured at fair value. We have established processes for determining fair values. Fair value is based upon quoted market prices in active markets, where available. For financial instruments where quotes from recent exchange transactions are not available, we determine fair value based on discounted cash flow analysis, comparison to similar instruments, and the use of financial models. Discounted cash flow analysis is dependent upon estimated future cash flows and the level of interest rates. Model-based pricing uses inputs of observable prices, where available, for interest rates, foreign exchange rates, option volatilities and other factors. Models are benchmarked and validated by an independent internal risk management function. Our valuation process takes into consideration factors such as counterparty credit quality, liquidity, concentration concerns, and observability of model parameters. Valuation adjustments may be made to ensure that financial instruments are recorded at fair value.

Most derivative contracts are valued using internally developed models which are calibrated to observable market data and employ standard market pricing theory for their valuations. An initial "risk-neutral" valuation is performed on each position assuming time-discounting based on a AA credit curve. Then, to arrive at a fair value that incorporates counter-party credit risk, a credit adjustment is made to these results by discounting each trade's expected exposures to the counterparty using the counterparty's credit spreads, as implied by the credit default swap market. We also adjust expected liabilities to the counterparty using BNY Mellon's own credit spreads, as implied by the credit default swap market. Accordingly, the valuation of our derivative position is sensitive to the current changes in our own credit spreads as well as those of our counterparties.

In certain cases, recent prices may not be observable for instruments that trade in inactive or less active markets. Upon evaluating the uncertainty in valuing financial instruments subject to liquidity issues, we make an adjustment to their value. The determination of the liquidity adjustment includes the availability of external quotes, the time since the latest available quote and the price volatility of the instrument.

Certain parameters in some financial models are not directly observable and, therefore, are based on management's estimates and judgments. These financial instruments are normally traded less actively. We apply valuation adjustments to mitigate the possibility of error and revision in the model based estimate value. Examples include products where parameters such as correlation and recovery rates are unobservable.

The methods described above for instruments that trade in inactive or less active markets may produce a current fair value calculation that may not be indicative of net realizable value or reflective of future fair values. We believe our methods of determining fair value are appropriate and consistent with other market participants. However, the use of different methodologies or different assumptions to value certain financial instruments could result in a different estimate of fair value.

Valuation hierarchy

ASC 820 established a three-level valuation hierarchy for disclosure of fair value measurements based upon the transparency of inputs to the valuation of an asset or liability as of the measurement date. The three levels are described below.

Level 1: Inputs to the valuation methodology are quoted prices (unadjusted) for identical assets or liabilities in active markets. Level 1 assets and liabilities include debt and equity securities and derivative financial instruments actively traded on exchanges and U.S. Treasury securities that are actively traded in highly liquid over-the-counter markets.

Level 2: Observable inputs other than Level 1 prices, for example, quoted prices for similar assets and liabilities in active markets, quoted prices for identical or similar assets or liabilities in markets that are not active, and inputs that are observable or can be corroborated, either directly or indirectly, for substantially the full term of the financial instrument. Level 2 assets and liabilities include debt instruments that are traded less frequently than exchange-traded securities and derivative instruments whose model inputs are observable in the market or can be corroborated by market-observable data. Examples in this category are agency and non-agency mortgage-backed securities, corporate debt securities and over-the-counter derivative contracts.

Level 3: Inputs to the valuation methodology are unobservable and significant to the fair value measurement. Examples in this category include certain private equity investments, derivative contracts that are highly structured or long-dated, and interests in certain securitized financial assets.

A financial instrument's categorization within the valuation hierarchy is based upon the lowest level of input that is significant to the fair value measurement.

Following is a description of the valuation methodologies used for instruments measured at fair value, as well as the general classification of such instruments pursuant to the valuation hierarchy.

Securities

Where quoted prices are available in an active market, we classify the securities within Level 1 of the valuation hierarchy. Securities include both long and short positions. Level 1 securities include highly liquid government bonds, money market funds, foreign covered bonds and exchange-traded equities.

If quoted market prices are not available, we estimate fair values using pricing models, quoted prices of securities with similar characteristics or discounted cash flows. Examples of such instruments, which would generally be classified within Level 2 of the valuation hierarchy, include agency and non-agency mortgage-backed securities, state and political subdivisions, commercial mortgage-backed securities, sovereign debt, corporate bonds and foreign covered bonds.

For securities where quotes from recent transactions are not available for identical securities, we determine fair value primarily based on pricing sources with reasonable levels of price transparency that employ financial models or obtain comparison to similar instruments to arrive at "consensus" prices.

Specifically, the pricing sources obtain recent transactions for similar types of securities (e.g., vintage, position in the securitization structure) and ascertain variables such as discount rate and speed of prepayment for the types of transaction and apply such variables to similar types of bonds. We view these as observable transactions in the current marketplace and classify such securities as Level 2. Pricing sources discontinue pricing any specific security whenever they determine there is insufficient observable data to provide a good faith opinion on price.

In addition, we have significant investments in more actively traded agency RMBS and other types of securities such as sovereign debt. The pricing sources derive the prices for these securities largely from quotes they obtain from three major inter-dealer brokers. The pricing sources receive their daily observed trade price and other information feeds from the inter-dealer brokers.

For securities with bond insurance, the financial strength of the insurance provider is analyzed and that information is included in the fair value assessment for such securities.

In certain cases where there is limited activity or less transparency around inputs to the valuation, we classify those securities in Level 3 of the valuation hierarchy. Securities classified within Level 3 primarily include securities of state and political subdivisions and distressed debt securities.

At Dec. 31, 2013, more than 99% of our securities were valued by pricing sources with reasonable levels of price transparency. Less than 1% of our securities were priced based on economic models and non-binding dealer quotes, and are included in Level 3 of the ASC 820 hierarchy.

Consolidated collateralized loan obligations

BNY Mellon values assets in consolidated CLOs using observable market prices observed from the secondary loan market. The returns to the note holders are solely dependent on the assets and accordingly equal the value of those assets. Based on the structure of the CLOs, the valuation of the assets is attributable to the senior note holders. Changes in the values of assets and liabilities are reflected in the income statement as investment and other income and interest of investment management fund note holders, respectively. Consolidated CLOs are generally classified within Level 2 of the valuation hierarchy.

Derivatives

We classify exchange-traded derivatives valued using quoted prices in Level 1 of the valuation hierarchy. Examples include exchange-traded equity and foreign exchange options. Since few other classes of derivative contracts are listed on an exchange, most of our derivative positions are valued using internally developed models that use as their basis readily observable market parameters, and we classify them in Level 2 of the valuation hierarchy. Such derivatives include swaps and options, foreign exchange spot and forward contracts and credit default swaps.

Derivatives valued using models with significant unobservable market parameters in markets that lack two-way flow are classified in Level 3 of the valuation hierarchy. Examples include long-dated interest rate or currency swaps and options, where parameters may be unobservable for longer maturities; and certain products, where correlation risk is unobservable. The fair value of these derivatives compose approximately 1% of our derivative financial instruments. Additional disclosures of derivative instruments are provided in Note 23 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements.

Loans and unfunded lending-related commitments

Where quoted market prices are not available, we generally base the fair value of loans and unfunded lending-related commitments on observable market prices of similar instruments, including bonds, credit derivatives and loans with similar characteristics. If observable market prices are not available, we base the fair value on estimated cash flows adjusted for credit risk which are discounted using an interest rate appropriate for the maturity of the applicable loans or the unfunded lending-related commitments.

Unrealized gains and losses, if any, on unfunded lending-related commitments carried at fair value are classified in other assets and other liabilities, respectively. Loans and unfunded lending-related commitments carried at fair value are generally classified within Level 2 of the valuation hierarchy.

Seed capital

In our Investment Management business, we manage investment assets, including equities, fixed income, money market and alternative investment funds for institutions and other investors. As part of that activity, we make seed capital investments in certain funds. Seed capital is included in other assets. When applicable, we value seed capital based on the published NAV of the fund. We include funds in which ownership interests in the fund are publicly traded in an active market and institutional funds in which investors trade in and out daily in Level 1 of the valuation hierarchy. We include open-end funds where investors are allowed to sell their ownership interest back to the fund less frequently than daily and where our interest in the fund contains no other rights or obligations in Level 2 of the valuation hierarchy. However, we generally include investments in funds that allow investors to sell their ownership interest back to the fund less frequently than monthly in Level 3, unless actual redemption prices are observable.

For other types of investments in funds, we consider all of the rights and obligations inherent in our ownership interest, including the reported NAV as well as other factors that affect the fair value of our interest in the fund. To the extent the NAV measurements reported for the investments are based on unobservable inputs or include other rights and obligations (e.g., obligation to meet cash calls), we generally classify them in Level 3 of the valuation hierarchy.

Certain interests in securitizations

For certain interests in securitizations that are classified in securities available-for-sale, trading assets and long-term debt, we use discounted cash flow models, which generally include assumptions of projected finance charges related to the securitized assets, estimated net credit losses, prepayment assumptions and estimates of payments to third-party investors. When available, we compare our fair value estimates and assumptions to market activity and to the actual results of the securitized portfolio.

Private equity investments

Our Other segment includes holdings of nonpublic private equity investment through funds managed by third-party investment managers. We value private equity investments initially based upon the transaction price, which we subsequently adjust to reflect expected exit values as evidenced by financing and sale transactions with third parties or through ongoing reviews by the investment managers.

Private equity investments also include publicly held equity investments, generally obtained through the initial public offering of privately held equity investments. These equity investments are often held in a partnership structure. Publicly held investments are marked-to-market at the quoted public value less adjustments for regulatory or contractual sales restrictions or adjustments to reflect the difficulty in selling a partnership interest.

Discounts for restrictions are quantified by analyzing the length of the restriction period and the volatility of the equity security. Publicly held private equity investments are primarily classified in Level 2 of the valuation hierarchy.

The following tables present the financial instruments carried at fair value at Dec. 31, 2013 and Dec. 31, 2012, by caption on the consolidated balance sheet and by ASC 820 valuation hierarchy (as described above). We have included credit ratings information in certain of the tables because the information indicates the degree of credit risk to which we are exposed, and significant changes in ratings classifications could result in increased risk for us. There were no material transfers between Level 1 and Level 2 during 2013.

Changes in Level 3 fair value measurements

Our classification of a financial instrument in Level 3 of the valuation hierarchy is based on the significance of the unobservable factors to the overall fair value measurement. However, these instruments generally include other observable components that are actively quoted or validated to third-party sources; accordingly, the gains and losses in the table below include changes in fair value due to observable parameters as well as the unobservable parameters in our valuation methodologies. We also frequently manage the risks of Level 3 financial instruments using securities and derivatives positions that are Level 1 or 2 instruments which are not included in the table; accordingly, the gains or losses below do not reflect the effect of our risk management activities related to the Level 3 instruments.

The Company has a Level 3 Pricing Committee which evaluates the valuation techniques used in determining the fair value of Level 3 assets and liabilities.

The tables below include a roll forward of the balance sheet amounts for the years ended Dec. 31, 2013 and 2012 (including the change in fair value), for financial instruments classified in Level 3 of the valuation hierarchy.

Assets and liabilities measured at fair value on a nonrecurring basis

Under certain circumstances, we make adjustments to fair value our assets, liabilities and unfunded lending-related commitments although they are not measured at fair value on an ongoing basis. An example would be the recording of an impairment of an asset.

The following tables present the financial instruments carried on the consolidated balance sheet by caption and by level in the fair value hierarchy as of Dec. 31, 2013 and Dec. 31, 2012, for which a nonrecurring change in fair value has been recorded during the years ended Dec. 31, 2013 and Dec. 31, 2012.

Assets measured at fair value on a nonrecurring basis at Dec. 31, 2013

(in millions)	Level 1	Level 2	Level 3	Total carrying value
Loans (a)	$ —	$ 128	$ 9	$ 137
Other assets (b)	—	15	—	15

Loans (a)	$ —	$ 183	$ 23	$ 206
Other assets (b)	—	79	—	79
Total assets at fair value on a nonrecurring basis	$ —	$ 262	$ 23	$ 285

(a) During the years ended Dec. 31, 2013 and 2012, the fair value of these loans decreased $3 million and $20 million, respectively, based on the fair value of the underlying collateral as allowed by ASC 310, Accounting by Creditors for Impairment of a loan, with an offset to the allowance for credit losses.

(b) Includes other assets received in satisfaction of debt and loans held for sale. Loans held for sale are carried on the balance sheet at the lower of cost or market value.

Estimated fair value of financial instruments

The carrying amounts of our financial instruments (i.e., monetary assets and liabilities) are determined under different accounting methods - see Note 1 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements. The following disclosure discusses these instruments on a uniform fair value basis. However, active markets do not exist for a significant portion of these instruments. For financial instruments where quoted prices from identical assets and liabilities in active markets do not exist, we determine fair value based on discounted cash flow analysis and comparison to similar instruments. Discounted cash flow analysis is dependent upon estimated future cash flows and the level of interest rates. Other judgments would result in different fair values. The assumptions used at Dec. 31, 2013 and Dec. 31, 2012 include discount rates ranging principally from 0.21% to 3.74%. The fair value information supplements the basic financial statements and other traditional financial data presented throughout this report.

A summary of the practices used for determining fair value and the respective level in the valuation hierarchy for financial assets and liabilities not recorded at fair value follows.

Interest-bearing deposits with the Federal Reserve and other central banks and interest-bearing deposits with banks

The estimated fair value of interest-bearing deposits with the Federal Reserve and other central banks is equal to the book value as these interest-bearing deposits are generally considered cash equivalents. These instruments are classified as Level 2 within the valuation hierarchy. The estimated fair value of interest-bearing deposits with banks is generally determined using discounted cash flows and duration of the instrument to maturity. The primary inputs used to value these transactions are interest rates based on current LIBOR market rates and time to maturity. Interest-bearing deposits with banks are classified as Level 2 within the valuation hierarchy.

Federal funds sold and securities purchased under resale agreements

The estimated fair value of federal funds sold and securities purchased under resale agreements is based on inputs such as interest rates and tenors. Federal funds sold and securities purchased under resale agreements are classified as Level 2 within the valuation hierarchy.

Securities held-to-maturity

Where quoted prices are available in an active market for identical assets and liabilities, we classify the securities as Level 1 within the valuation hierarchy. Securities are defined as both long and short positions. Level 1 securities include U.S. Treasury securities.

If quoted market prices are not available for identical assets and liabilities, we estimate fair value using pricing models, quoted prices of securities with similar characteristics or discounted cash flows. Examples of such instruments, which would generally be classified as Level 2 within the valuation hierarchy, include certain agency and non-agency mortgage-backed securities, commercial mortgage-backed securities and state and political subdivision securities. For securities where quotes from active markets are not available for identical securities, we determine fair value primarily based on pricing sources with reasonable levels of price transparency that employ financial models or obtain comparison to similar instruments to arrive at "consensus" prices.

Specifically, the pricing sources obtain active market prices for similar types of securities (e.g., vintage, position in the securitization structure) and ascertain variables such as discount rate and speed of prepayment for the types of transaction and apply such variables to similar types of bonds. We view these as observable transactions in the current marketplace and classify such securities as Level 2 within the valuation hierarchy.

Loans

For residential mortgage loans, fair value is estimated using discounted cash flow analysis, adjusting where appropriate for prepayment estimates, using interest rates currently being offered for loans with similar terms and maturities to borrowers. The estimated fair value of margin loans and overdrafts is equal to the book value due to the short-term nature of these assets. The estimated fair value of other types of loans is determined using discounted cash flows. Inputs include current LIBOR market rates adjusted for credit spreads. These loans are generally classified as Level 2 within the valuation hierarchy.

Other financial assets

Other financial assets include cash, the Federal Reserve Bank stock and accrued interest receivable. Cash is classified as Level 1 within the valuation hierarchy. The Federal Reserve Bank stock is not redeemable or transferable. The estimated fair value of the Federal Reserve Bank stock is based on the issue price and is classified as Level 2 within the valuation hierarchy. Accrued interest receivable is generally short-term. As a result, book value is considered to equal fair value. Accrued interest receivable is included as Level 2 within the valuation hierarchy.

Noninterest-bearing and interest-bearing deposits

Interest-bearing deposits are comprised of money market rate and demand deposits, savings deposits and time deposits. Except for time deposits, book value is considered to equal fair value for these deposits due to their short duration to maturity or payable on demand feature. The fair value of interest-bearing time deposits is determined using discounted cash flow analysis. Inputs primarily consist of current LIBOR market rates and time to maturity. For all noninterest-bearing deposits, book value is considered to equal fair value as a result of the short duration of the deposit. Interest-bearing and noninterest-bearing deposits are classified as Level 2 within the valuation hierarchy.

Federal funds purchased and securities sold under repurchase agreements

The estimated fair value of federal funds purchased and securities sold under repurchase agreements is based on inputs such as interest rates and tenors. Federal funds purchased and securities sold under repurchase agreements are classified as Level 2 within the valuation hierarchy.

Payables to customers and broker-dealers

The estimated fair value of payables to customers and broker-dealers is equal to the book value, due to the demand feature of the payables to customers and broker-dealers, and are classified as Level 2 within the valuation hierarchy.

Borrowings

Borrowings primarily consist of overdrafts of subcustodian account balances in our Investment Services businesses, commercial paper and accrued interest payable. The estimated fair value of overdrafts of subcustodian account balances in our Investment Services businesses is considered to equal book value as a result of the short duration of the overdrafts. Overdrafts are typically repaid within two days. The estimated fair value of our commercial paper is based on discount and duration of the commercial paper. Our commercial paper matures within 397 days from date of issue and is not redeemable prior to maturity or subject to voluntary prepayment. Our commercial paper is included in Level 2 of the valuation hierarchy. Accrued interest payable is generally short-term. As a result, book value is considered to equal fair value. Accrued interest payable is included as Level 2 within the valuation hierarchy.

Long-term debt

The estimated fair value of long-term debt is based on current rates for instruments of the same remaining maturity or quoted market prices for the same or similar issues. Long-term debt is classified as Level 2 within the valuation hierarchy.

The following tables present the estimated fair value and the carrying amount of financial instruments not carried at fair value on the consolidated balance sheet at Dec. 31, 2013 and Dec. 31, 2012, by caption on the consolidated balance sheet and by ASC 820 valuation hierarchy (as described above).

Note 21 - Fair value option

ASC 825 provides an option to elect fair value as an alternative measurement for selected financial assets, financial liabilities, unrecognized firm commitments and written loan commitments.

The following table presents the assets and liabilities, by type, of consolidated investment management funds recorded at fair value.

Assets and liabilities of consolidated investment management funds, at fair value (in millions)	Dec. 31, 2013	Dec. 31, 2012
Assets of consolidated investment management funds:
Trading assets	$ 10,397	$ 10,961
Other assets	875	520
Total assets of consolidated investment management funds	$ 11,272	$ 11,481
Liabilities of consolidated investment management funds:
Trading liabilities	$ 10,085	$ 10,152
Other liabilities	46	29
Total liabilities of consolidated investment management funds	$ 10,131	$ 10,181

BNY Mellon values assets in consolidated CLOs using observable market prices observed from the secondary loan market. The returns to the note holders are solely dependent on the assets and accordingly equal the value of those assets. Mark-to-market valuation best reflects the limited interest BNY Mellon has in the economic performance of the consolidated CLOs. Changes in the values of assets and liabilities are reflected in the income statement as investment income of consolidated investment management funds.

We have elected the fair value option on $240 million of long-term debt in connection with ASC 810. The fair value of this long-term debt was $321 million at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with $345 million at Dec. 31, 2012. The long-term debt is valued using observable market inputs and is included in Level 2 of the ASC 820 hierarchy.

The following table presents the changes in fair value of the long-term debt included in foreign exchange and other trading revenue in the consolidated income statement.

Foreign exchange and other trading revenue (in millions)	Year ended Dec. 31, 2013	2012
Changes in the fair value of long-term debt (a)	$ 24	$ (19)

(a) The change in fair value of the long-term debt is approximately offset by an economic hedge included in foreign exchange and other trading revenue.

Note 22 - Commitments and contingent liabilities

In the normal course of business, various commitments and contingent liabilities are outstanding that are not reflected in the accompanying consolidated balance sheets.

Our significant trading and off-balance sheet risks are securities, foreign currency and interest rate risk management products, commercial lending commitments, letters of credit and securities lending indemnifications. We assume these risks to reduce interest rate and foreign currency risks, to provide customers with the ability to meet credit and liquidity needs and to hedge foreign currency and interest rate risks. These items involve, to varying degrees, credit, foreign currency and interest rate risk not recognized in the balance sheet. Our off-balance sheet risks are managed and monitored in manners similar to those used for on-balance sheet risks. Significant industry concentrations related to credit exposure at Dec. 31, 2013 are disclosed in the financial institutions portfolio exposure table and the commercial portfolio exposure table below.

Financial institutions portfolio exposure (in billions)	Dec. 31, 2013 Loans	Unfunded commitments	Total exposure
Banks	$ 9.4	$ 2.3	$ 11.7
Asset managers	1.4	4.1	5.5
Securities industry	2.9	2.0	4.9
Insurance	0.1	4.3	4.4
Government	0.4	3.2	3.6
Other	0.2	1.1	1.3
Total	$ 14.4	$ 17.0	$ 31.4

Commercial portfolio exposure (in billions)	Dec. 31, 2013 Loans	Unfunded commitments	Total exposure
Energy and utilities	$ 0.7	$ 5.9	$ 6.6
Services and other	0.6	6.0	6.6
Manufacturing	0.2	5.9	6.1
Media and telecom	0.1	1.7	1.8
Total	$ 1.6	$ 19.5	$ 21.1

Major concentrations in securities lending are primarily to broker-dealers and are generally collateralized with cash. Securities lending transactions are discussed below.

The following table presents a summary of our off-balance sheet credit risks, net of participations.

Off-balance sheet credit risks (in millions)	Dec. 31, 2013	Dec. 31, 2012
Lending commitments (a)	$ 34,039	$ 31,265
Standby letters of credit (b)	6,721	7,167
Commercial letters of credit	310	219
Securities lending indemnifications (c)	244,382	245,717

(a) Net of participations totaling $6 million at Dec. 31, 2013 and $350 million at Dec. 31, 2012.

(b) Net of participations totaling $720 million at Dec. 31, 2013 and $1.0 billion at Dec. 31, 2012.

(c) Excludes the indemnification for securities booked at BNY Mellon beginning in late 2013 resulting from the CIBC Mellon joint venture, which totaled $60 billion at Dec. 31, 2013. The balance at Dec. 31, 2012 excludes $66 billion of securities lending at the CIBC Mellon joint venture.

Included in lending commitments are facilities that provide liquidity for variable rate tax-exempt securities wrapped by monoline insurers. The credit approval for these facilities is based on an assessment of the underlying tax-exempt issuer and considers factors other than the financial strength of the monoline insurer.

The total potential loss on undrawn lending commitments, standby and commercial letters of credit, and securities lending indemnifications is equal to the total notional amount if drawn upon, which does not consider the value of any collateral.

Since many of the commitments are expected to expire without being drawn upon, the total amount does not necessarily represent future cash requirements. A summary of lending commitment maturities is as follows: $9.3 billion in less than one year, $24.6 billion in one to five years and $0.1 billion over five years.

Standby letters of credit ("SBLC") principally support corporate obligations. As shown in the off-balance sheet credit risks table, the maximum potential exposure of SBLCs was $6.7 billion at Dec. 31, 2013 and $7.2 billion at Dec. 31, 2012, and includes $418 million and $781 million that were collateralized with cash and securities at Dec. 31, 2013 and Dec. 31, 2012, respectively. At Dec. 31, 2013, $3.3 billion of the SBLCs will expire within one year and $3.4 billion in one to five years.

We must recognize, at the inception of standby letters of credit and foreign and other guarantees, a liability for the fair value of the obligation undertaken in issuing the guarantee. As required by ASC 460 Guarantees, the fair value of the liability, which was recorded with a corresponding asset in other assets, was estimated as the present value of contractual customer fees.

The estimated liability for losses related to these commitments and SBLCs, if any, is included in the allowance for lending-related commitments. The allowance for lending-related commitments was $134 million at Dec. 31, 2013 and $121 million at Dec. 31, 2012.

Payment/performance risk of SBLCs is monitored using both historical performance and internal ratings criteria. BNY Mellon's historical experience is that SBLCs typically expire without being funded. SBLCs below investment grade are monitored closely for payment/performance risk. The table below shows SBLCs by investment grade:

Standby letters of credit	Dec. 31, 2013	Dec. 31, 2012
Noninvestment grade	14%	7%

A commercial letter of credit is normally a short-term instrument used to finance a commercial contract for the shipment of goods from a seller to a buyer. Although the commercial letter of credit is contingent upon the satisfaction of specified conditions, it represents a credit exposure if the buyer defaults on the underlying transaction. As a result, the total contractual amounts do not necessarily represent future cash requirements. Commercial letters of credit totaled $310 million at Dec. 31, 2013 compared with $219 million at Dec. 31, 2012.

A securities lending transaction is a fully collateralized transaction in which the owner of a security agrees to lend the security (typically through an agent, in our case, The Bank of New York Mellon), to a borrower, usually a broker-dealer or bank, on an open, overnight or term basis, under the terms of a prearranged contract, which normally matures in less than 90 days.

We typically lend securities with indemnification against borrower default. We generally require the borrower to provide collateral with a minimum value of 102% of the fair value of the securities borrowed, which is monitored on a daily basis, thus reducing credit risk. Market risk can also arise in securities lending transactions. These risks are controlled through policies limiting the level of risk that can be undertaken. Securities lending transactions are generally entered into only with highly-rated counterparties. Securities lending indemnifications were secured by collateral of $252 billion at Dec. 31, 2013 and $253 billion at Dec. 31, 2012.

CIBC Mellon, a joint venture between BNY Mellon and the Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce ("CIBC"), engages in securities lending activities. CIBC Mellon, BNY Mellon, and CIBC jointly and severally indemnify securities lenders against specific types of borrower default. At Dec. 31, 2013, $60 billion of borrowings at CIBC Mellon booked at BNY Mellon beginning in late 2013 were secured by collateral of $64 billion. At Dec. 31, 2012, $66 billion of borrowings at CIBC Mellon were secured by collateral of $70 billion. If, upon a default, a borrower's collateral was not sufficient to cover its related obligations, certain losses related to the indemnification could be covered by the indemnitors.

We expect many of these guarantees to expire without the need to advance any cash. The revenue associated with guarantees frequently depends on the credit rating of the obligor and the structure of the transaction, including collateral, if any.

Operating leases

Net rent expense for premises and equipment was $335 million in 2013, $313 million in 2012 and $350 million in 2011.

At Dec. 31, 2013, we were obligated under various noncancelable lease agreements, some of which provide for additional rents based upon real estate taxes, insurance and maintenance and for various renewal options. A summary of the future minimum rental commitments under noncancelable operating leases, net of related sublease revenue, is as follows: 2014—$276 million; 2015—$266 million; 2016—$241 million; 2017—$208 million; 2018—$176 million; and 2019 and thereafter—$733 million.

Exposure for certain administrative errors

In connection with certain funds that we manage, we may be liable to the funds for certain administrative errors. The errors relate to questions about the resident status of certain offshore tax exempt funds, potentially exposing the Company to a tax liability related to the funds' earnings. The Company is in discussions with tax authorities regarding the funds. In addition to amounts accrued, we believe it is reasonably possible that we could have a potential additional exposure of approximately $100 million.

Indemnification Arrangements

We have provided standard representations for underwriting agreements, acquisition and divestiture agreements, sales of loans and commitments, and other similar types of arrangements and customary indemnification for claims and legal proceedings related to providing financial services that are not otherwise included above. Insurance has been purchased to mitigate certain of these risks. Generally, there are no stated or notional amounts included in these indemnifications and the contingencies triggering the obligation for indemnification are not expected to occur. Furthermore, often counterparties to these transactions provide us with comparable indemnifications. We are unable to develop an estimate of the maximum payout under these indemnifications for several reasons. In addition to the lack of a stated or notional amount in a majority of such indemnifications, we are unable to predict the nature of events that would trigger indemnification or the level of indemnification for a certain event. We believe, however, that the possibility that we will have to make any material payments for these indemnifications is remote. At Dec. 31, 2013 and Dec. 31, 2012, we have not recorded any material liabilities under these arrangements.

Clearing and Settlement Exchanges

We are a minority equity investor in, and/or member of, several industry clearing or settlement exchanges through which foreign exchange, securities, derivatives or other transactions settle. Certain of these industry clearing and settlement exchanges require their members to guarantee their obligations and liabilities or to provide financial support in the event other members do not honor their obligations. We believe the likelihood that a clearing or settlement exchange (of which we are a member) would become insolvent is remote. Additionally, certain settlement exchanges have implemented loss allocation policies that enable the exchange to allocate settlement losses to the members of the exchange. It is not possible to quantify such mark-to-market loss until the loss occurs. In addition, any ancillary costs that occur as a result of any mark-to-market loss cannot be quantified. At Dec. 31, 2013 and Dec. 31, 2012, we have not recorded any material liabilities under these arrangements.

Legal proceedings

In the ordinary course of business, BNY Mellon and its subsidiaries are routinely named as defendants in or made parties to pending and potential legal actions and regulatory matters. Claims for significant monetary damages are often asserted in many of these legal actions, while claims for disgorgement, penalties and/or other remedial sanctions may be sought in regulatory matters. It is inherently difficult to predict the eventual outcomes of such matters given their complexity and the particular facts and circumstances at issue in each of these matters. However, on the basis of our current knowledge and understanding, we do not believe that judgments or settlements, if any, arising from these matters (either individually or in the aggregate, after giving effect to applicable reserves and insurance coverage) will have a material adverse effect on the consolidated financial position or liquidity of BNY Mellon, although they could have a material effect on net income in a given period.

In view of the inherent unpredictability of outcomes in litigation and regulatory matters, particularly where (i) the damages sought are substantial or indeterminate, (ii) the proceedings are in the early stages, or (iii) the matters involve novel legal theories or a large number of parties, as a matter of course there is considerable uncertainty surrounding the timing or ultimate resolution of litigation and regulatory matters, including a possible eventual loss, fine, penalty or business impact, if any, associated with each such matter. In accordance with applicable accounting guidance, BNY Mellon establishes accruals for litigation and regulatory matters when those matters proceed to a stage where they present loss contingencies that are both probable and reasonably estimable. In such cases, there may be a possible exposure to loss in excess of any amounts accrued. BNY Mellon will continue to monitor such matters for developments that could affect the amount of the accrual, and will adjust the accrual amount as appropriate. If the loss contingency in question is not both probable and reasonably estimable, BNY Mellon does not establish an accrual and the matter will continue to be monitored for any developments that would make the loss contingency both probable and reasonably estimable. BNY Mellon believes that its accruals for legal proceedings are appropriate and, in the aggregate, are not material to the consolidated financial position of BNY Mellon, although future accruals could have a material effect on net income in a given period.

For certain of those matters described herein for which a loss contingency may, in the future, be reasonably possible (whether in excess of a related accrued liability or where there is no accrued liability), BNY Mellon is currently unable to estimate a range of reasonably possible loss. For those matters where BNY Mellon is able to estimate a reasonably possible loss, the aggregate range of such reasonably possible loss is up to $730 million in excess of the accrued liability (if any) related to those matters.

Sentinel Matters

As previously disclosed, on Jan. 18, 2008, The Bank of New York Mellon filed a proof of claim in the Chapter 11 bankruptcy proceeding of Sentinel Management Group, Inc. ("Sentinel") pending in federal court in the Northern District of Illinois, seeking to recover approximately $312 million loaned to Sentinel and secured by securities and cash in an account maintained by Sentinel at The Bank of New York Mellon. On March 3, 2008, the bankruptcy trustee filed an adversary complaint against The Bank of New York Mellon seeking to disallow The Bank of New York Mellon's claim and seeking damages for allegedly aiding and abetting Sentinel insiders in misappropriating customer assets and improperly using those assets as collateral for the loan. In a decision dated Nov. 3, 2010, the court found for The Bank of New York Mellon and against the bankruptcy trustee, holding that The Bank of New York Mellon's loan to Sentinel is valid, fully secured and not subject to equitable subordination. The bankruptcy trustee appealed this decision, and on Aug. 9, 2012, the United States Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit issued a decision affirming the trial court's judgment. On Sept. 7, 2012, the bankruptcy trustee filed a petition for rehearing on the fraudulent transfer portion of the opinion and, on Nov. 30, 2012, the Court of Appeals withdrew its opinion and vacated its judgment. On Aug. 26, 2013, the Court of Appeals reversed its own prior decision and the district court's decision with respect to the bankruptcy trustee's fraudulent transfer and equitable subordination claims and remanded the case to the district court for further proceedings. See Note 5 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements for additional information.

As previously disclosed, in November 2009, the Division of Enforcement of the U.S. Commodities Futures Trading Commission ("CFTC") indicated that it is considering a recommendation to the CFTC that it file a civil enforcement action against The Bank of New York Mellon for possible violations of the Commodity Exchange Act and CFTC regulations in connection with its relationship to Sentinel. The Bank of New York Mellon responded in writing to the CFTC on Jan. 29, 2010 and provided an explanation as to why an enforcement action is unwarranted.

Securities Lending Matters

As previously disclosed, BNY Mellon or its affiliates have been named as defendants in a number of lawsuits initiated by participants in BNY Mellon's securities lending program, which is a part of BNY Mellon's Investment Services business. The lawsuits were filed on various dates from 2009 to 2013, and are currently pending in courts in New York, North Carolina and Illinois. The complaints assert contractual, statutory, and common law claims, including claims for negligence and breach of fiduciary duty. The plaintiffs allege losses in connection with the investment of securities lending collateral, including losses related to investments in Sigma Finance Inc. ("Sigma") and Lehman Brothers Holdings, Inc., and seek damages as to those losses.

Foreign Exchange Matters

As previously disclosed, beginning in December 2009, government authorities have been conducting inquiries seeking information relating primarily to standing instruction foreign exchange transactions in connection with custody services BNY Mellon provides to public pension plans and certain other custody clients. BNY Mellon is cooperating with these inquiries.

In addition, in early 2011, as previously disclosed, the Virginia Attorney General's Office and the Florida Attorney General's Office each intervened in a qui tam lawsuit pending in its jurisdiction, and, on Aug. 11, 2011, filed superseding complaints. On Nov. 9, 2012, the Virginia court, which had previously dismissed all of the claims against BNY Mellon, dismissed the Virginia lawsuit with prejudice by agreement of the parties. On Nov. 18, 2013, the Florida Attorney General's Office dismissed the Florida lawsuit with prejudice by agreement of the parties. On Oct. 4, 2011, the New York Attorney General's Office, the New York City Comptroller and various city pension and benefit funds filed a lawsuit asserting, claims under the Martin Act and state and city false claims acts. On Aug. 5, 2013, the court dismissed the false claims act claims, and certain plaintiffs have since filed a notice of appeal. Also, on Oct. 4, 2011, the United States Department of Justice ("DOJ") filed a civil lawsuit seeking civil penalties under 12 U.S.C. Section 1833a and injunctive relief under 18 U.S.C. Section 1345 based on alleged ongoing violations of 18 U.S.C. Sections 1341 and 1343 (mail and wire fraud). On Jan. 17, 2012, the court approved a partial settlement resolving the DOJ's claim for injunctive relief. In October 2011, several public pension funds in the state of California purported to intervene in a qui tam lawsuit that was removed to federal district court in California. On March 30, 2012, the court dismissed certain of plaintiffs' claims, including all claims under the California False Claims Act. Certain plaintiffs have since filed an amended complaint. Several plaintiffs also had their claims dismissed for improper venue and one refiled on Sept. 5, 2012 in a different California federal district court. On Oct. 26, 2011, the Massachusetts Securities Division filed an Administrative Complaint against BNY Mellon, but closed the matter on Jan. 30, 2014 by agreement of the parties.

BNY Mellon has also been named as a defendant in several putative class action federal lawsuits filed on various dates in 2011 and 2012. The complaints, which assert claims including breach of contract and ERISA and securities laws violations, all allege that the prices BNY Mellon charged for standing instruction foreign exchange transactions executed in connection with custody services provided by BNY Mellon were improper. In addition, BNY Mellon has been named as a nominal defendant in several derivative lawsuits filed in 2011 and 2012 in state and federal court in New York. On July 2, 2013, the court in the consolidated federal derivative action dismissed all of plaintiffs' claims, and plaintiffs have appealed that decision. On Oct. 1, 2013, the court in the consolidated state derivative action dismissed all of plaintiffs' claims, and one of the plaintiffs filed a notice of appeal. BNY Mellon was also named in a qui tam lawsuit filed on May 22, 2012 in Massachusetts state court, but the court dismissed all of plaintiff's claims on Sept. 10, 2013. To the extent these lawsuits are pending in federal court, they are being coordinated for pre-trial purposes in federal court in New York.

Lyondell Litigation

As previously disclosed, in an action filed in New York State Supreme Court for New York County, on Sept. 14, 2010, plaintiffs as holders of debt issued by Basell AF in 2005 allege that The Bank of New York Mellon, as indenture trustee, breached its contractual and fiduciary obligations by executing an intercreditor agreement in 2007 in connection with Basell's acquisition of Lyondell Chemical Company. Plaintiffs sought damages for their alleged losses resulting from the execution of the 2007 intercreditor agreement that allowed the company to increase the amount of its senior debt. After its motion to dismiss was denied in part, BNY Mellon appealed the denial. On May 21, 2013, the appellate court found in our favor and held that BNY Mellon had been released from liability. Plaintiffs then sought leave to pursue an appeal to the New York Court of Appeals, but that court denied plaintiffs' motion on Dec. 17, 2013.

Tax Litigation

As previously disclosed, on Aug. 17, 2009, BNY Mellon received a Statutory Notice of Deficiency disallowing tax benefits for the 2001 and 2002 tax years in connection with a 2001 transaction that involved the payment of UK corporate income taxes that were credited against BNY Mellon's U.S. corporate income tax liability. On Nov. 10, 2009, BNY Mellon filed a petition with the U.S. Tax Court contesting the disallowance of the benefits. Trial was held from April 16 to May 17, 2012. On Feb. 11, 2013, the Tax Court upheld the IRS's Notice of Deficiency and disallowed BNY Mellon's tax credits and associated transaction costs. On Sept. 23, 2013, the Tax Court issued a supplemental opinion, partially reducing the tax implications to BNY Mellon of its earlier decision. The Tax Court entered its Decision, which formally implemented its prior opinions and rulings, on Feb. 20, 2014. BNY Mellon will appeal. See Note 12 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements for additional information.

Mortgage-Securitization Trusts Proceeding

As previously disclosed, The Bank of New York Mellon as trustee is the petitioner in a legal proceeding filed in New York State Supreme Court, New York County on June 29, 2011, seeking approval of a proposed settlement involving Bank of America Corporation and bondholders in certain Countrywide residential mortgage-securitization trusts. The New York and Delaware Attorneys General have intervened in this proceeding. The trial in this matter ended on Nov. 21, 2013. On Jan. 31, 2014, the court issued its decision approving the settlement except to the extent that it releases loan modification claims. The court approved all the other terms of the settlement.

Matters Related to R. Allen Stanford

In late December 2005, Pershing LLC became a clearing firm for Stanford Group Co. ("SGC"), a registered broker dealer that was part of a group of entities ultimately controlled by R. Allen Stanford. Stanford International Bank ("SIB"), also controlled by Stanford, issued certificates of deposit ("CDs"). Some investors allegedly wired funds from their SGC accounts to purchase CDs. In 2009, the SEC charged Stanford with operating a Ponzi scheme in connection with the sale of CDs, and SGC was placed into receivership. Alleged purchasers of CDs have four pending lawsuits against Pershing in Texas. In addition, alleged purchasers have filed twenty-seven FINRA arbitration claims against Pershing in Texas, Florida, Louisiana, Tennessee and Georgia. The purchasers allege that Pershing, as SGC's clearing firm, assisted Stanford in a fraudulent scheme, and assert contractual, statutory and common law claims.

Note 23 - Derivative instruments

We use derivatives to manage exposure to market risk including interest rate risk, equity price risk and foreign currency risk, as well as credit risk. Our trading activities are focused on acting as a market-maker for our customers and facilitating customer trades. In addition, we periodically manage positions for our own account. Positions managed for our own account are immaterial to our foreign exchange and other trading revenue and to our overall results of operations.

The notional amounts for derivative financial instruments express the dollar volume of the transactions; however, credit risk is much smaller. We perform credit reviews and enter into netting agreements and collateral arrangements to minimize the credit risk of derivative financial instruments. We enter into offsetting positions to reduce exposure to foreign currency, interest rate and equity price risk.

Use of derivative financial instruments involves reliance on counterparties. Failure of a counterparty to honor its obligation under a derivative contract is a risk we assume whenever we engage in a derivative contract. Counterparty default losses were $2.1 million in 2013 and less than $1 million in 2012.

Hedging derivatives

We utilize interest rate swap agreements to manage our exposure to interest rate fluctuations. For hedges of available-for-sale investment securities, deposits and long-term debt, the hedge documentation specifies the terms of the hedged items and the interest rate swaps and indicates that the derivative is hedging a fixed rate item and is a fair value hedge, that the hedge exposure is to the changes in the fair value of the hedged item due to changes in benchmark interest rates, and that the strategy is to eliminate fair value variability by converting fixed-rate interest payments to LIBOR.

The available-for-sale investment securities hedged consist of sovereign debt, U.S. Treasury bonds, agency commercial mortgage-backed securities and covered bonds that had original maturities of 30 years or less at initial purchase. The swaps on all of these investment securities are not callable. All of these securities are hedged with "pay fixed rate, receive variable rate" swaps of similar maturity, repricing and fixed rate coupon. At Dec. 31, 2013, $6.4 billion face amount of securities were hedged with interest rate swaps that had notional values of $6.6 billion.

The fixed rate long-term debt instruments hedged generally have original maturities of five to 30 years. We issue both callable and non-callable debt. The non-callable debt is hedged with simple interest rate swaps similar to those described for deposits. Callable debt is hedged with callable swaps where the call dates of the swaps exactly match the call dates of the debt. At Dec. 31, 2013, $14.8 billion par value of debt was hedged with interest rate swaps that had notional values of $14.8 billion.

In addition, we enter into foreign exchange hedges. We use forward foreign exchange contracts with maturities of nine months or less to hedge our British Pound, Euro, Hong Kong Dollar, Indian Rupee and Singapore Dollar foreign exchange exposure with respect to foreign currency forecasted revenue and expense transactions in entities that have the U.S. dollar as their functional currency. As of Dec. 31, 2013, the hedged forecasted foreign currency transactions and designated forward foreign exchange contract hedges were $185 million (notional), with a pre-tax gain of $7 million recorded in accumulated other comprehensive income. This gain will be reclassified to income or expense over the next nine months.

We use forward foreign exchange contracts with remaining maturities of nine months or less as hedges against our foreign exchange exposure to Australian Dollar, Euro, Swedish Krona, British Pound, Danish Krone, Norwegian Krone and Japanese Yen with respect to interest-bearing deposits with banks and their associated forecasted interest revenue. These hedges are designated as cash flow hedges. These hedges are effected such that their maturities and notional values match those of the deposits with banks. As of Dec. 31, 2013, the hedged interest-bearing deposits with banks and their designated forward foreign exchange contract hedges were $1.6 billion (notional), with a pre-tax gain of less than $1 million recorded in accumulated other comprehensive income. This gain will be reclassified to net interest revenue over the next nine months.

Forward foreign exchange contracts are also used to hedge the value of our net investments in foreign subsidiaries. These forward foreign exchange contracts have maturities of less than two years. The derivatives employed are designated as hedges of changes in value of our foreign investments due to exchange rates. Changes in the value of the forward foreign exchange contracts offset the changes in value of the foreign investments due to changes in foreign exchange rates. The change in fair market value of these forward foreign exchange contracts is deferred and reported within accumulated translation adjustments in shareholders' equity, net of tax. At Dec. 31, 2013, forward foreign exchange contracts with notional amounts totaling $5.6 billion were designated as hedges.

In addition to forward foreign exchange contracts, we also designate non-derivative financial instruments as hedges of our net investments in foreign subsidiaries. Those non-derivative financial instruments designated as hedges of our net investments in foreign subsidiaries were all long-term liabilities of BNY Mellon in various currencies, and, at Dec. 31, 2013, had a combined U.S. dollar equivalent value of $541 million.

Trading activities (including trading derivatives)

We manage trading risk through a system of position limits, a VaR methodology based on Monte Carlo simulations, stop loss advisory triggers, and other market sensitivity measures. Risk is monitored and reported to senior management by a separate unit on a daily basis. Based on certain assumptions, the VaR methodology is designed to capture the potential overnight pre-tax dollar loss from adverse changes in fair values of all trading positions. The calculation assumes a one-day holding period for most instruments, utilizes a 99% confidence level, and incorporates the non-linear characteristics of options. The VaR model is one of several statistical models used to develop economic capital results, which is allocated to lines of business for computing risk-adjusted performance.

As the VaR methodology does not evaluate risk attributable to extraordinary financial, economic or other occurrences, the risk assessment process includes a number of stress scenarios based upon the risk factors in the portfolio and management's assessment of market conditions. Additional stress scenarios based upon historic market events are also performed. Stress tests, by their design, incorporate the impact of reduced liquidity and the breakdown of observed correlations. The results of these stress tests are reviewed weekly with senior management.

Revenue from foreign exchange and other trading included the following:

Foreign exchange and other trading revenue
(in millions)	2013	2012	2011
Foreign exchange	$ 608	$ 520	$ 761
Other trading revenue:
Fixed income	38	142	65
Equity/other	28	30	22
Total other trading revenue	66	172	87
Total	$ 674	$ 692	$ 848

Foreign exchange includes income from purchasing and selling foreign currencies and currency forwards, futures and options. Fixed income reflects results from futures and forward contracts, interest rate swaps, structured foreign currency swaps, options, and fixed income securities. Equity/Other primarily includes revenue from equity securities and equity derivatives.

Counterparty credit risk and collateral

We assess credit risk of our counterparties through regular examination of their financial statements, confidential communication with the management of those counterparties and regular monitoring of publicly available credit rating information. This and other information is used to develop proprietary credit rating metrics used to assess credit quality.

Collateral requirements are determined after a comprehensive review of the credit quality of each counterparty. Collateral is generally held or pledged in the form of cash or highly liquid government securities. Collateral requirements are monitored and adjusted daily.

Additional disclosures concerning derivative financial instruments are provided in Note 20 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements.

Disclosure of contingent features in over-the-counter ("OTC") derivative instruments

Certain OTC derivative contracts and/or collateral agreements of The Bank of New York Mellon, our largest banking subsidiary and the subsidiary through which BNY Mellon enters into the substantial majority of all of its OTC derivative contracts and/or collateral agreements, contain provisions that may require us to take certain actions if The Bank of New York Mellon's public debt rating fell to a certain level. Early termination provisions, or "close-out" agreements, in those contracts could trigger immediate payment of outstanding contracts that are in net liability positions. Certain collateral agreements would require The Bank of New York Mellon to immediately post additional collateral to cover some or all of The Bank of New York Mellon's liabilities to a counterparty.

The following table shows the fair value of contracts falling under early termination provisions that were in net liability positions as of Dec. 31, 2013 for three key ratings triggers:

If The Bank of New York Mellon's rating was changed to (Moody's/S&P)	Potential close-out exposures (fair value) (a)
A3/A-	$ 110 million
Baa2/BBB	$ 745 million
Ba1/BB+	$ 1,849 million

(a) The amounts represent potential total close-out values if The Bank of New York Mellon's rating were to immediately drop to the indicated levels.

The aggregated fair value of contracts impacting potential trade close-out amounts and collateral obligations can fluctuate from quarter to quarter due to changes in market conditions, changes in the composition of counterparty trades, new business, or changes to the agreement definitions establishing close-out or collateral obligations.

Additionally, if The Bank of New York Mellon's debt rating had fallen below investment grade on Dec. 31, 2013, existing collateral arrangements would have required us to have posted an additional $430 million of collateral.

Offsetting assets and liabilities

The following tables present derivative instruments and financial instruments that are either subject to an enforceable netting agreement or offset by collateral arrangements. There were no derivative instruments or financial instruments subject to a netting agreement for which we are not currently netting.

Note 24 - Lines of businesses

We have an internal information system that produces performance data along product and services lines for our two principal businesses and the Other segment.

Business accounting principles

Our business data has been determined on an internal management basis of accounting, rather than the generally accepted accounting principles used for consolidated financial reporting. These measurement principles are designed so that reported results of the businesses will track their economic performance.

Business results are subject to reclassification whenever improvements are made in the measurement principles or when organizational changes are made.

The accounting policies of the businesses are the same as those described in Note 1 of the Notes to Consolidated Financial Statements.

The operations of acquired businesses are integrated with the existing businesses soon after they are completed. As a result of the integration of staff support functions, management of customer relationships, operating processes and the financial impact of funding acquisitions, we cannot precisely determine the impact of acquisitions on income before taxes and therefore do not report it.

The primary types of revenue for our two principal businesses and the Other segment are presented below:

Business	Primary types of revenue
Investment Management	• Investment management and performance fees from: Mutual funds Institutional clients Private clients High-net-worth individuals and families, endowments and foundations and related entities • Distribution and servicing fees
Investment Services	• Asset servicing fees, including institutional trust and custody fees, broker-dealer services, global collateral services and securities lending • Issuer services fees, including Corporate Trust and Depositary Receipts • Clearing services fees, including broker-dealer services, registered investment advisor services and prime brokerage services • Treasury services fees, including global payment services and working capital solutions • Foreign exchange
Other segment	• Credit-related activities • Leasing operations • Corporate treasury activities • Global markets and institutional banking services • Business exits

The results of our businesses are presented and analyzed on an internal management reporting basis:

- Revenue amounts reflect fee and other revenue generated by each business. Fee and other revenue transferred between businesses under revenue transfer agreements is included within other revenue in each business.
- Revenues and expenses associated with specific client bases are included in those businesses. For example, foreign exchange activity associated with clients using custody products is allocated to Investment Services.
- Net interest revenue is allocated to businesses based on the yields on the assets and liabilities generated by each business. We employ a funds transfer pricing system that matches funds with the specific assets and liabilities of each business based on their interest sensitivity and maturity characteristics.
- Incentive expense related to restricted stock and certain corporate overhead charges are allocated to the businesses.
- Support and other indirect expenses are allocated to businesses based on internally-developed methodologies.
- Recurring FDIC expense is allocated to the businesses based on average deposits generated within each business.
- Litigation expense is generally recorded in the business in which the charge occurs.
- Management of the investment securities portfolio is a shared service contained in the Other segment. As a result, gains and losses associated with the valuation of the securities portfolio are included in the Other segment.
- Client deposits serve as the primary funding source for our investment securities portfolio. We typically allocate all interest revenue to the businesses generating the deposits. Accordingly, accretion related to the portion of the investment securities portfolio restructured in 2009 has been included in the results of the businesses.
- M&I expense is a corporate level item and is recorded in the Other segment.
- Beginning in the fourth quarter of 2013, restructuring charges were recorded in the businesses. Prior to the fourth quarter of 2013, restructuring charges were reported in the Other segment.
- Balance sheet assets and liabilities and their related income or expense are specifically assigned to each business. Businesses with a net liability position have been allocated assets.

- Goodwill and intangible assets are reflected within individual businesses.

Total revenue includes approximately $2.3 billion in 2013, $2.3 billion in 2012 and $2.2 billion in 2011, of international operations domiciled in the UK which comprised 15%, 16% and 15% of total revenue, respectively.

Note 25 - International operations

International activity includes Investment Management and Investment Services fee revenue generating businesses, foreign exchange trading activity, loans and other revenue producing assets and transactions in which the customer is domiciled outside of the United States and/or the international activity is resident at an international entity. Due to the nature of our international and domestic activities, it is not possible to precisely distinguish between internationally and domestically domiciled customers. As a result, it is necessary to make certain subjective assumptions such as:

- Income from international operations is determined after internal allocations for interest revenue, taxes, expenses and provision for credit losses.
- Expense charges to international operations include those directly incurred in connection with such activities, as well as an allocable share of general support and overhead charges.

Total assets, total revenue, income before income taxes and net income of our international operations are shown in the table below.

Report of Independent Registered Public Accounting Firm

The Bank of New York Mellon Corporation:

We have audited the accompanying consolidated balance sheets of The Bank of New York Mellon Corporation and subsidiaries ("BNY Mellon") as of December 31, 2013 and 2012, and the related consolidated statements of income, comprehensive income, changes in equity, and cash flows for each of the years in the three-year period ended December 31, 2013. These consolidated financial statements are the responsibility of BNY Mellon's management. Our responsibility is to express an opinion on these consolidated financial statements based on our audits.

We conducted our audits in accordance with the standards of the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States). Those standards require that we plan and perform the audit to obtain reasonable assurance about whether the financial statements are free of material misstatement. An audit includes examining, on a test basis, evidence supporting the amounts and disclosures in the financial statements. An audit also includes assessing the accounting principles used and significant estimates made by management, as well as evaluating the overall financial statement presentation. We believe that our audits provide a reasonable basis for our opinion.

In our opinion, the consolidated financial statements referred to above present fairly, in all material respects, the financial position of BNY Mellon as of December 31, 2013 and 2012, and the results of their operations and their cash flows for each of the years in the three-year period ended December 31, 2013, in conformity with U.S. generally accepted accounting principles.

We also have audited, in accordance with the standards of the Public Company Accounting Oversight Board (United States), BNY Mellon's internal control over financial reporting as of December 31, 2013, based on criteria established in Internal Control - Integrated Framework (1992) issued by the Committee of Sponsoring Organizations of the Treadway Commission (COSO), and our report dated February 28, 2014 expressed an unqualified opinion on the effectiveness of BNY Mellon's internal control over financial reporting.

(c) The City has determined to improve and expand the Water System, and to issue bonds and other obligations to pay the costs of such improvement and expansion.

(d) The estimated useful life of the Projects is longer than the final maturity of the Project Bonds. It is advisable and necessary and in the best interests of the City that the City undertake and complete the Projects.

(e) The City does not have available funds sufficient to pay Project Costs.

(f) The City (i) has issued and has outstanding its Series 1993 Bonds; its Series 1997 Bonds; its Series 2000 Bonds, consisting of its 2000 Senior Lien Bonds, its 2000 Second Lien Bonds and its 2000 Subordinate Lien Obligations; its Series 2001 Bonds, consisting of its 2001 Second Lien Bonds and its 2001 Subordinate Lien Obligations; its Series

Any Capital Appreciation 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds subject to optional redemption shall be redeemed at a price equal to their Compound Accreted Value as of the applicable redemption date and, subject to the remaining provisions of this Section 2.05, upon such other terms as the Chief Financial Officer shall provide in the related Senior Lien Bond Determination Certificate, each and all of which each the Chief Financial Officer is authorized to determine and approve on behalf of and in the name of the City. The 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, other than Capital Appreciation 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, shall be subject to optional redemption at a redemption price not exceeding 103 percent of the principal amount of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds to be so redeemed. Any Capital Appreciation 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds which are subject to optional redemption shall be redeemable at a redemption price not exceeding 103 percent of the Compound Accreted Value of Capital Appreciation 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds to be so redeemed.

The 103 percent limitations set forth in the preceding paragraph on the redemption price of 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds shall not apply where the redemption price is to be based upon a formula designed to compensate the owner of the Bonds to be redeemed based upon prevailing market conditions on the date fixed for redemption, commonly known as a "make-whole" redemption price (the "Make-Whole Redemption Price"). At the time of sale of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, the Chief Financial Officer shall determine the provisions of the formula to be used to establish any Make-Whole Redemption Price, which may vary depending on whether such Bonds are issued as Taxable Bonds or issued on a tax-exempt basis or, in the case of the redemption of Federal Compliant Obligations, on whether such Bonds are being redeemed as a result of an occurrence of an "Extraordinary Event" as determined by the Chief Financial Officer, including, but not limited to, any determination by the City that a change has occurred to any applicable section of the Internal Revenue Code or of the applicable Federal Compliant Obligation Authorization, or there is any guidance published by the Internal Revenue Service, the Treasury Department or other applicable department or agency of the United States Government with respect to such sections or any other determination by the Internal Revenue Service, the Treasury Department or other applicable department or agency of the United States Government, pursuant to which the Federal Subsidies with respect to the Federal Compliant Obligations are reduced, eliminated or adversely affected. The Chief Financial Officer shall confirm and transmit the applicable Make-Whole Redemption Price on such dates and to such parties as shall be necessary to effectuate such redemption.

(b) Mandatory Sinking Fund Redemption. Any term 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds subject to mandatory sinking fund redemption shall be selected for redemption by lot by the Bond Registrar, as provided below, and shall be so redeemed at a price of 100 percent of the principal amount of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds to be redeemed plus accrued interest to the date fixed for redemption if not an interest payment date. In lieu of making all or any part of any sinking fund payment in cash, the City may, at its option, redeem the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds through the purchase of 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds in the open market or by tender therefor. 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds shall not be purchased in the open market from money in the Water Fund at a price in excess of the principal amount of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds plus the redemption premium applicable to the redemption of such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds on the next date on which they may be optionally redeemed and accrued and unpaid interest on the principal of the purchased 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds to the date of purchase (or for Capital Appreciation 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, their Compound Accreted Value at such date of purchase plus any redemption premium on their next redemption date). The amount of mandatory sinking fund redemption payments due for any 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds shall be reduced upon the redemption of 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds other than pursuant to mandatory sinking fund redemption (or by the purchase for cancellation of 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds from money otherwise to be used for such redemption not pursuant to mandatory sinking fund redemption), on or prior to the due dates of specific mandatory sinking fund payments. The total credit against mandatory sinking fund payments shall equal the amount of 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds so redeemed or purchased. An amount equal to the aggregate principal amount of the Outstanding 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds that have been redeemed or purchased and canceled shall be applied to reduce the sinking fund installments due, provided that such amount shall reduce the sinking fund installments in denominations of $5,000 and integral multiples of $5,000. The Chief Financial Officer shall in his or her sole discretion determine the amounts and due dates of the mandatory sinking fund payments against which the redemption or purchase shall be credited, and shall notify the Bond Registrar in writing of such determination.

(c) Partial Redemption of Bonds. At the time of sale of any 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, the Chief Financial Officer is authorized to determine the manner of redeeming such Bonds either by lot or on a pro-rata basis as provided herein.

(i) Redemption by lot. In the event of a redemption of fewer than all the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds of a specified maturity and interest rate within such maturity, the Bond Registrar shall assign to each Outstanding 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond of a denomination greater than the applicable minimum Authorized Denomination (the "Minimum Denomination") a distinctive number for each portion of such Bond equal to the applicable Minimum Denomination so as to distinguish each such portion from each other portion of such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond. The Bond Registrar shall select by lot, using such method of selection as it shall deem proper in its sole discretion, from the numbers assigned to the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds as many numbers as, at the applicable Minimum Denomination for each number, shall equal the principal amount of 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds to be redeemed. The 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds to be redeemed shall be the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds to which were assigned the numbers so selected, but only so much of the principal amount of each such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond of a denomination greater than the applicable Minimum Denomination shall be redeemed as shall equal the applicable Minimum Denomination for each number assigned to it and so selected. The foregoing procedure shall be applied to any Capital Appreciation 2014

Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds to be so redeemed in denominations equal to the applicable Minimum Denomination of Compound Accreted Value at maturity.

Pro-rata Redemption. In the event of a redemption of fewer than all of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds of a specified maturity and interest rate within such maturity, if the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds are held in book-entry form at the time of redemption, at the time of sale of such Bonds, the Chief Financial Officer is authorized to direct the Bond Registrar to instruct the book-entry depository to select the specific 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds within such maturity and interest rate for redemption pro-rata among such Bonds. If so determined by the applicable book-entry depository, the particular 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds or portions thereof to be redeemed may be selected on a pro-rata pass-through distribution of principal basis in accordance with the applicable procedures and operational arrangements of such depository. The City shall have no responsibility or obligation to insure that the book-entry depository properly selects such Bonds for redemption.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, in the event the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds are issued as Taxable Bonds (including Federal Compliant Obligations), at the time of sale of such Bonds, the Chief Financial Officer is authorized to determine the manner of redeeming such Bonds, either pro rata or by lot, in the event less than all of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds of a single maturity and the same interest rate are to be redeemed. If the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds are held in book-entry form at the time of redemption, at the time of sale of such Bonds, the Chief Financial Officer is authorized to direct the Bond Registrar to instruct the book-entry depository to select the specific 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds within such maturity and interest rate for redemption pro-rata among such Bonds. If so determined by the applicable book-entry depository, the particular 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds or portions thereof to be redeemed may be selected on a pro-rata pass-through distribution of principal basis in accordance with the applicable procedures and operational arrangements of such depository. The City shall have no responsibility or obligation to insure that the book-entry depository properly selects such Bonds for redemption.

(d) Notice of Redemption. Notice of redemption shall be given by first class mail, postage prepaid, not fewer than 30 nor more than 60 days prior to the date fixed for redemption to each Registered Owner of 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds to be redeemed at such Registered Owner's address as shown in the bond register kept by the Bond Registrar and by such other additional method, if any, as the City shall deem appropriate. Notice of redemption shall specify the maturities and interest rates within such maturities of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds to be redeemed, the date fixed for redemption and, if fewer than all of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds of any specified maturity and interest rate within such maturity are to be redeemed, the numbers of such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds to be redeemed and, in the case of 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds to be redeemed in part only, the respective portions of the principal amounts of such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds to be redeemed. Failure to give such notice by mail or a defect in the notice or the mailing as to any 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond will not affect the validity of any proceedings for redemption as to any other 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond as to which notice was given properly and the failure of any Registered Owner of a 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond to receive the notice shall not affect the validity of the redemption.

With respect to an optional redemption of any 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, unless moneys sufficient to pay the principal of, redemption premium, if any, and interest on the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds to be redeemed shall have been received by the Bond Registrar prior to the giving of such notice of redemption, such notice may, at the option of the City, state that said redemption shall be conditional upon the receipt of such moneys by the Paying Agent on or prior to the date fixed for redemption. If such moneys are not received, such notice shall be of no force and effect, the City shall not redeem such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds and the Bond Registrar shall give notice, in the same manner in which the notice of redemption was given, that such moneys were not so received and that such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds will not be redeemed.

If less than the entire principal amount of a 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond shall be called for redemption, the City shall execute and the Authenticating Agent shall authenticate and deliver, upon surrender of such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond, without charge to the Registered Owner, one or more new 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds of any authorized denomination, of like maturity, interest rate and aggregate principal amount as the unredeemed balance of the principal amount of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond so surrendered. If, on the date fixed for redemption, (a) money in an amount equal to the redemption price of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds to be redeemed shall be held by the Paying Agent and is available for such redemption and (b) notice of redemption shall have been given as described above, interest on the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds so redeemed shall cease from and after the date fixed for redemption.

Section 2.06. Interest. The 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds shall bear interest from their date until principal is paid at a rate or rates per year determined by the Chief Financial Officer and provided in the related Senior Lien Bond Determination Certificate, which shall be in the judgment of the Chief Financial Officer the best interest rates for which the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds can be sold in the market and which, in the aggregate, result in a net interest cost (expressed as a percentage) not in excess of 15 percent per year computed on the basis of a 360-day year consisting of twelve 30-day months. Interest on the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, other than Capital Appreciation 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, shall be payable semi-annually on May 1 and November 1 in each year, with the first interest payment date being as provided by the Chief Financial Officer in the related Senior Lien Bond Determination Certificate. Capital Appreciation 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds shall bear interest payable either solely by an appreciation in their principal amount, from their date, compounded on each May 1 and November 1, or by such appreciation to a specified compounding date and then by current interest as provided for current interest 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, all as provided in the related Senior Lien Bond Determination Certificate.

Section 2.07. Places and Medium of Payment.

(a) Interest on each 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond (other than Capital Appreciation 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds), shall be paid on each interest payment date to the person in whose name the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond is registered in the bond register kept by the Bond Registrar at the close of business on the 15th day (whether or not a business day) of the calendar month next preceding such interest payment date. Interest shall be paid by check or draft mailed to such Registered Owner at such owner's address as it appears in the bond register or, at the request of Registered Owners of more than $1,000,000 total principal amount of 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds (other than Capital Appreciation 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds), by wire transfer to such bank in the continental United States as the Registered Owner of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds shall request in writing to the Bond Registrar.

(b) Principal of and redemption premium, if any, on any 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond shall be paid only upon presentation and surrender of that 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond for cancellation at the principal corporate trust office of the Paying Agent. The Paying Agent is authorized to pay the principal of and the premium, if any, on the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds as provided in this paragraph.

(c) Payment shall be made in lawful money of the United States of America.

Section 2.08. Transfers and Exchanges of Bonds. The City shall cause a bond register for the registration and transfer of 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds to be maintained at the principal corporate trust office of the Bond Registrar.

Any 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond of a series may be transferred only upon surrender of such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond to the Bond Registrar, upon which the City shall execute and the Authenticating Agent shall authenticate and deliver, in the name of the designated transferee or transferees, one or more new 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds of any authorized denomination, of like series, maturity, interest rate and aggregate principal amount as the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond surrendered.

At the option of the Registered Owner of a 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond of a series, such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond may be exchanged for another 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond or 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds of any authorized denomination, of like series, maturity, interest rate and aggregate principal amount, upon surrender of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond to be exchanged to the Bond Registrar. Upon such surrender for exchange, the City shall execute and the Authenticating Agent shall authenticate and deliver the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds which the Registered Owner making the exchange is entitled to receive.

In all cases in which 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds are to be transferred or exchanged, the Bond Registrar may require payment of a sum sufficient to cover any tax, fee or other general governmental charge that may be imposed and to reimburse it for any expenses incurred in connection with such transfer or exchange. The Bond Registrar shall not be required to transfer or exchange any 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond during a period beginning at the opening of business on the 15th day next preceding any date of selection of 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds to be redeemed and ending at the close of business on the day on which notice of redemption is given or after notice selecting such Bond for redemption has been given.

Neither the City nor any agent of the City shall be affected by any notice to the contrary. All such payments shall be valid and effectual to satisfy and discharge the liability upon such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond to the extent of the sum or sums paid.

Section 2.09. Lost, Stolen, Mutilated or Destroyed Bonds. If any 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond becomes mutilated or is lost, stolen or destroyed, the City may execute and the Authenticating Agent shall authenticate and deliver a new 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond of the same series, date of issue, maturity date, principal amount and interest rate per annum as the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond mutilated, lost, stolen or destroyed, provided that (a) in the case of a mutilated 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond, the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond is first surrendered to the City, (b) in the case of any lost, stolen or destroyed 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond, there is first furnished both evidence of loss, theft or destruction and an indemnity satisfactory to the City and the Bond Registrar, (c) all other reasonable requirements of the City are complied with and (d) expenses in connection with the transaction are paid by the Registered Owner of such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds. Any new 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds issued pursuant to this Section 2.09 in substitution for 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds alleged to have been destroyed, stolen or lost shall constitute original additional contractual obligations on the part of the City whether or not the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds alleged to be destroyed, stolen or lost are at any time enforceable by anyone, and shall be equally secured by and entitled to equal and proportionate benefits with all other 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds in any money or securities held by the City or any Paying Agent for the benefit of such Registered Owners.

Any amounts in any Subaccount of the Senior Lien Debt Service Reserve Account which are not required to be transferred to the Senior Lien Principal and Interest Account may, from time to time, be used to pay costs of acquiring a Senior Lien Debt Service Reserve Account Credit Instrument for that Subaccount or to make payments due under a Senior Lien Bond Reimbursement Agreement with respect to such Senior Lien Debt Service Reserve Account Credit Instrument, but only if after such payment, the value of the amounts on deposit in such Subaccount of the Senior Lien Debt Service Reserve Account shall not be less than the Senior Lien Debt Service Reserve Requirement for that series of Senior Lien Bonds. These fees, charges and rates shall not be reduced, while any Senior Lien Bonds are Outstanding, below the level necessary to ensure compliance with the covenants of this Section 5.02.

The City will, prior to the end of each Fiscal Year, conduct a review to determine if it has been and will be in compliance with the rate covenant set forth above. Whenever the annual review indicates that projected Gross Revenues will not be sufficient to comply with the rate covenant, the City shall have prepared a rate study for the Water System identifying the rate changes necessary to comply with the rate covenant and the Office of Budget and Management of the City and the Chief Financial Officer shall recommend appropriate action to the City Council to comply with this rate covenant.

Section 5.03. Repairs, Replacements, Additions, Betterments. The City from time to time will make all necessary and proper repairs, replacements, additions and betterments to the Water System so that the Water System may at all times be operated efficiently, economically and properly. When any necessary equipment or facility shall have been worn out, destroyed or otherwise is insufficient for proper use, it shall be promptly replaced so that the value and efficiency of the Water System shall be at all times fully maintained.

Section 5.04. Control and Operation of Water System. The City will establish such rules and regulations for the control and operation of the Water System as are necessary for the safe, lawful, efficient and economical operation of the Water System.

Section 5.05. Books and Records. The City will make and keep proper books, records and accounts (separate and apart from all other books, records and accounts of the City) in which correct and complete entries shall be made of all transactions relating to the Water System. Within 180 days following the close of each Fiscal Year, the City will cause the financial statements of the Water System to be audited by independent certified public accountants. Such audited financial statements will be available for inspection by the Registered Owners of any of the Senior Lien Bonds. The financial statements shall, without limitation, include the following:

(a) a statement of revenue and expenses of the Water System for each Fiscal Year;

(b) a balance sheet as of the end of such Fiscal Year, including the amounts in each of the accounts of the Water Fund;

(c) a statement of cash flow of the Water System for such Fiscal Year; and

(d) the amounts, maturities, interest rates and redemption provisions of all Outstanding Bonds.

All expenses of the audit required by this provision shall be regarded and paid as an Operation and Maintenance Cost.

The accountants who audit such financial statements shall also prepare a separate compliance letter regarding the manner in which the City has complied with the financial covenants of this Ordinance, which compliance letter may be prepared on a different basis than that of the financial statements. A copy of the financial statements shall be provided to any Registered Owner of Senior Lien Bonds upon request.

Section 5.06. Customer Report. The City shall prepare annually a report of the number of customers served by the Water System at the end of the Fiscal Year, the number of metered and nonmetered customers at the end of the Fiscal Year and the quantity of water provided.

Section 5.07. Water System Dispositions or Encumbrances. Except as provided in the immediately succeeding sentence, the City will not sell, lease, loan or mortgage or in any manner dispose of or encumber the Water System (subject to the rights of the City to issue Senior Lien Parity Bonds as provided in this Ordinance, to issue bonds payable from the Net Revenues Available for Bonds on a basis subordinate to the Senior Lien Bonds, including Second Lien Bonds, Subordinate Lien Obligations, CP Notes and Water System Line of Credit Notes and to dispose of real or personal property which is no longer useful or necessary to the operation of the Water System). At such time as the Series 1993 Bonds and the Series 1995 Bonds are no longer Outstanding (as such term is defined in the respective ordinances authorizing the issuance of such Bonds), the City may, subject to Section 5.09(d), sell, lease, loan, mortgage, dispose of or encumber the Water System, provided that the then-existing rating on the Series 1997 Bonds, the Series 2000 Senior Lien Bonds, the 2001 Senior Lien Bonds, the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds and any Senior Lien Parity Bonds issued after the date of issuance of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds then Outstanding shall not be reduced as a result of such sale, lease, loan, mortgage, disposition or encumbrance.

Section 5.08. No Arbitrage. The City will not direct or permit any action which (or fail to take any action the failure of which) would cause any 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond to be an "arbitrage bond" within the meaning of the Internal Revenue Code. The provisions of this Section 5.08 shall not apply to any Bond described in Section 1.09 of Part D of this Ordinance (other than any Federal Compliant Obligations for which the Federal Subsidy is pledged or is due and payable to owners of such Federal Compliant Obligations).

Section 5.09. Special Tax Covenant.

(a) The covenants and agreements of the City set forth in this Section 5.09 shall apply as long as any of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds other than those issued as Taxable Bonds continue to bear interest (whether or not they are Outstanding Senior Lien Bonds within the meaning of this Ordinance) (or for Capital Appreciation 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, so long as their principal amount continues to appreciate) and shall also apply after the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds cease to bear interest (or for Capital Appreciation 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, their principal amount ceases to appreciate) but only within such subsequent period as shall be required for the City to comply with the covenants of this Section 5.09. At the discretion of the Chief Financial Officer, the Chief Financial Officer may execute an agreement in the name of and on behalf of the City to ensure compliance with the requirements of this Section 5.09.

(b) The City (i) will take all actions which are necessary to be taken (and avoid taking any action which it is necessary to avoid being taken) so that interest on the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds (including appreciation in principal amount for Capital Appreciation 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds) will not be or become subject to federal income taxation under present law and (ii) will take all actions reasonably within its power to take which are necessary to be taken (and avoid taking any actions which are reasonably within its power to avoid taking and which it is necessary to avoid) so that interest on the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds (including appreciation in principal amount for Capital Appreciation 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds) will not be or become includable in gross income for federal income tax purposes under the federal income tax laws as in effect from time to time. In furtherance and not in limitation of the foregoing, the City will proceed with due diligence to construct the Projects.

(c) The City will, without limitation, (i) restrict the yield on investments of amounts received upon the sale of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds and other amounts and (ii) timely rebate to the United States of America certain amounts which may be received as interest or other investment earnings on Accounts of the Water Fund, all as shall be necessary to comply with this Section. The City shall also make or cause to be made identifiable investments of amounts allocable to the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds as shall be necessary or appropriate in order to be able to ascertain the amounts which may be required so to be rebated to the United States of America. The City shall from time to time determine the amounts in Accounts of the Water Fund which shall be subject so to be rebated and those amounts from time to time shall be held by the City in the Senior Lien Rebate Account for the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds and shall be rebated to the United States of America in the amounts and at the times as required. Such amounts so subject from time to time so to be rebated shall not be available for the other purposes for which the Water Fund and its accounts and accounts established by this Part B may be applied, except as provided in Section 4.03(c) of this Part B and, for purposes of computing the balance in the Water Fund and such various Accounts, shall be disregarded. At the time of delivery of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, and from time to time after their delivery, the City shall provide instructions to appropriate officials as to the restrictions to be made on the yield and segregation of investments and as to the calculations and rebate of amounts to the United States of America, as are required in order for the City to comply with this Section 5.09.

(d) The City will not take any of the following actions without in each such event obtaining the opinion of nationally recognized bond counsel (which may represent the City from time to time in other matters) that such action will not contravene any covenant of this Ordinance and will not make compliance with those covenants impossible: (i) defease any Senior Lien Bonds; (ii) sell, lease or otherwise dispose of any material portion of the Water System; (iii) enter into or amend any short-term or long-term contract for the supply of water by the City other than pursuant to general rates charged to the general public; or (iv) enter into or amend any contract or arrangement for persons other than its employees to manage the Water System.

(e) The provisions of this Section 5.09 shall not be interpreted to impose upon the City any obligation to redeem or to purchase any 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds other than with proceeds or other amounts available under this Ordinance.

(f) Except as may otherwise be determined by the Chief Financial Officer pursuant to the following Paragraph (g) of this Section 5.09, the provisions of this Section 5.09 shall not apply to any Bond described in Section 1.09 of Part D of this Ordinance.

(g) If in the best interest of the City, as determined by the Chief Financial Officer at the time of sale of any 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, the Senior Lien Bond Determination Certificate delivered by the Chief Financial Officer at the time of sale of such Bonds may include covenants of the City that it will take no action with respect to (i) the investment or use of the proceeds of any 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds issued as Federal Compliant Obligations pursuant to this Ordinance, (ii) the earnings on the proceeds of such Bonds or (iii) any other moneys on deposit in any fund or account maintained in respect of such Bonds which would adversely affect the qualification and treatment of such Bonds as Federal Compliant Obligations.

(h) The Chief Financial Officer is hereby authorized to execute such certifications, tax returns and agreements as shall be necessary, in the opinion of nationally recognized bond counsel, to (i) evidence the City's compliance with the covenants contained in the preceding Section 5.09(g), (ii) establish and maintain the qualification of 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds as Federal Compliant Obligations, (iii) apply for and obtain any Tax Credits and transfer any such Tax Credits to such owners to the extent the City is the direct recipient of such Tax Credits as a result of any of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds being issued as Federal Compliant Obligations and (iv) apply for and obtain any Federal Subsidy pursuant to any applicable Federal Compliant Obligation Authorization that may be available to the City or the owners of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds and transfer any Federal Subsidy to such owners if so determined by the Chief Financial Officer to be in the best interest of the City and upon such terms and conditions as determined by the Chief Financial Officer.

ARTICLE VI

ISSUANCE OF ADDITIONAL SENIOR LIEN BONDS

Section 6.01. Senior Lien Parity Bonds. As long as there are any Outstanding 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, no bonds, notes or other obligations of any kind which are payable from Net Revenues or any Accounts of the Water Fund with a claim senior to that of the Senior Lien Bonds shall be issued. As long as there are any Outstanding 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, the City may issue Senior Lien Parity Bonds for any lawful purpose of the Water System, including without limitation to pay the cost of repairs, replacements, renewals, improvements, equipment or extensions to the Water System, funding capitalized interest and reserve funds for Senior Lien Bonds or particular series of Senior Lien Bonds, funding working capital for the Water System, refunding Outstanding Senior Lien Bonds or obligations payable from revenues of the Water System on a basis subordinate to the Senior Lien Bonds, including Second Lien Bonds, Subordinate Lien Obligations, CP Notes and Water System Line of Credit Notes, or for paying Costs of Issuance or for a Senior Lien Debt Service Reserve Account Credit Instrument, and then only upon compliance with the following conditions:

(a) the funds required to be transferred to the Senior Lien Principal and Interest Account, the various Subaccounts of the Senior Lien Debt Service Reserve Account and the various Subaccounts of the Second Lien Bonds Account and the Subordinate Lien Obligations Account, the Commercial Paper Account and the Line of Credit Notes Account shall have been transferred in full up to the date of delivery of such Senior Lien Parity Bonds;

(b) the ordinance authorizing the issuance of Senior Lien Parity Bonds shall require either (i) the transfer at the time of the delivery of such Senior Lien Parity Bonds of sufficient proceeds of such Senior Lien Parity Bonds or Net Revenues Available for Bonds, or the deposit of a Senior Lien Debt Service Reserve Account Credit Instrument, or any combination of Senior Lien Bond proceeds, Net Revenues Available for Bonds and Senior Lien Debt Service Reserve Account Credit Instruments, to the various Subaccounts of the Senior Lien Debt Service Reserve Account so that the balance in such Subaccounts is at least equal to the Senior Lien Debt Service Reserve Requirement for each series of Senior Lien Bonds, or (ii) equal monthly transfers to the Subaccount of the Senior Lien Debt Service Reserve Account for such Senior Lien Parity Bonds during a period not exceeding 60 months following the delivery of such Senior Lien Parity Bonds sufficient to cause the balance in such Subaccount to be an amount at least equal to the Senior Lien Debt Service Reserve Requirement for that series of Senior Lien Parity Bonds; and

(c) Net Revenues Available for Bonds for the last completed Fiscal Year prior to the issuance of the Senior Lien Parity Bonds (as shown by the audit of an independent certified public accountant), or Net Revenues Available for Bonds for such last completed Fiscal Year, adjusted as described below, shall equal at least 120 percent of the maximum annual Senior Lien Debt Service Requirement for Senior Lien Bonds which will be Outstanding following the issuance of the proposed Senior Lien Parity Bonds, computed on a pro forma basis assuming the issuance of the proposed Senior Lien Parity Bonds, and the application of the proceeds of any Senior Lien Parity Bonds as provided in the ordinance authorizing their issuance, sale and delivery. For purposes of this Section 6.01, Net Revenues Available for Bonds may be adjusted as follows for purposes of this paragraph (c):

(i) if there shall have been an increase in the rates of the Water System from the rates in effect for such last completed Fiscal Year, which increase is in effect at the time of the issuance of any such Senior Lien Parity Bonds, Net Revenues Available for Bonds may be adjusted to reflect the Net Revenues Available for Bonds for such last completed Fiscal Year as they would have been had the existing rates been in effect during all of that last completed Fiscal Year, provided, that in the case of an enactment by the City of a rate schedule under which rates increase from time to time, the rate to be used in applying the test set forth in this clause (i) shall be the lowest rate effective for any period described in such rate schedule; and

(ii) any such adjustment shall be evidenced by the certificate of an independent Consulting Engineer or an independent certified public accountant employed for that purpose, which certificate shall be filed with the City Council prior to the sale of the proposed Senior Lien Parity Bonds.

The addition of the proviso at the end of clause (i) above is solely intended to clarify the application of the adjustment described in said clause (i) and not to make any substantive revisions to the current application thereof.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, from and after the earlier to occur of (i) the date all Senior Lien Bonds issued prior to the date of issuance of the 2000 Senior Lien Bonds are no longer Outstanding or (ii) the effective date of amendments to the ordinances authorizing Outstanding Senior Lien Bonds issued prior to the date of issuance of the 2000 Senior Lien Bonds which permit the following, any such adjustment shall be evidenced solely by the certificate of the Chief Financial Officer. For purposes of calculating the adjustment described in this paragraph (c), any rate increase enacted by the City and scheduled to take effect in a future Fiscal Year may be reflected in Net Revenues Available for Bonds for purposes of calculating debt service coverage for the last completed Fiscal Year.

If during the first six months of a Fiscal Year, an audit of the Water System for the preceding Fiscal Year by an independent certified public accountant is not available, the conditions of paragraph (c) shall be deemed to have been satisfied if both (1) Net Revenues Available for Bonds for the second preceding Fiscal Year (as shown by the audit of an independent certified public accountant), adjusted as described in this paragraph (c), and (2) Net Revenues Available for Bonds for the preceding Fiscal Year (as estimated by the Chief Financial Officer and estimated either by an independent Consulting Engineer or by an independent certified public accountant based on a review the scope of which, as specified by such accountant, may be less complete than an audit), adjusted as described in this paragraph (c), shall equal at least 120 percent of the maximum Senior Lien Debt Service Requirement for any Fiscal Year for Senior Lien Bonds which will be Outstanding following the issuance of the proposed Senior Lien Parity Bonds, computed on a pro forma basis assuming the issuance of the proposed Senior Lien Parity Bonds and the application of the proceeds of any Senior Lien Parity Bonds as provided in the ordinance authorizing their issuance, sale and delivery. Notwithstanding the foregoing, from and after the earlier to occur of (i) the date all Senior Lien Bonds issued prior to the date of issuance of the 2000 Senior Lien Bonds are no longer Outstanding or (ii) the effective date of amendments to the ordinances authorizing Outstanding Senior Lien Bonds issued prior to the date of issuance of the 2000 Senior Lien Bonds which permit the following, Net Revenues Available for Bonds for the preceding Fiscal Year shall be estimated for purposes of clause (2) solely by the Chief Financial Officer, and an estimate by an independent Consulting Engineer or independent certified public accountant shall no longer be required.

(d) The City may issue Senior Lien Parity Bonds without complying with either of the tests in paragraph (c) of this Section 6.01:

(i) to pay, redeem or refund Bonds if in the judgment of the City there will be no money available to make payments of interest or principal of those Bonds (at maturity or on sinking fund installment dates) as such amounts become due; and

(ii) to pay, redeem or refund any Bonds if the total Senior Lien Debt Service Requirement on all Senior Lien Bonds Outstanding after the issuance of the Senior Lien Parity Bonds and the payment, redemption or refunding of such Bonds will not be in excess of the total Senior Lien Debt Service Requirement on all Senior Lien Bonds Outstanding prior to the issuance of the Senior Lien Parity Bonds in each Fiscal Year in which there was to be any Senior Lien Debt Service Requirement on those prior Outstanding Senior Lien Bonds.

Section 6.02. Subordinate Obligations. Other obligations, including bonds, may be issued payable from Net Revenues Available for Bonds on a basis subordinate to the Senior Lien Bonds and on a parity with or subordinate to any 2014 Second Lien Project and Refunding Bonds.

ARTICLE VII

DEFEASANCE

Section 7.01. Defeasance.

(a) If the City shall in accordance with Section 7.01(b) below pay or cause to be paid, or there shall otherwise be paid, to the Registered Owners of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds then Outstanding, the principal, redemption premium, if any, and interest to become due on all or a portion of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, at the times and in the manner stipulated in this Part B and in the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, then the covenants, agreements and other obligations of the City to the Registered Owners of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds with respect to which such payment has been made shall be discharged and satisfied. In such event, the Paying Agent shall pay over or deliver to the City all money or securities held by it pursuant to this Ordinance which are no longer required for the payment or redemption of such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds with respect to which such payment has been made not already then surrendered for such payment or redemption.

(b) 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds for the payment or redemption of which money shall have been set aside and shall be held in trust by the Paying Agent (through deposit by the City of funds for such payment or redemption or otherwise), whether at or prior to the maturity or the redemption date of such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, shall be deemed to have been paid within the meaning of and with the effect expressed in paragraph (a) of this Section 7.01. 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds shall, prior to their maturity or redemption date, be deemed to have been paid within the meaning of and with the effect expressed in paragraph (a) of this Section 7.01 if:

(i) there shall have been deposited with the Paying Agent or a refunding escrow agent selected by the Chief Financial Officer either money in an amount which shall be sufficient, or Defeasance Obligations the principal of and interest on which when due will provide money which, without reinvestment, when added to the money, if any, deposited with the Paying Agent or refunding escrow agent at the same time, shall be sufficient to pay the principal of such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds at maturity, or on sinking fund installment dates for term 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, or the principal, redemption premium, if any, and interest due and to become due on such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds on and prior to the redemption date or maturity date (or sinking fund installment dates for term 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds) of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, as the case may be;

(ii) in case any such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds are to be redeemed on any date prior to their maturity, the City shall have given to the Bond Registrar irrevocable instructions to give any required notice of redemption as provided in Article II of this Part B, which instructions the Bond Registrar has accepted in writing; and

(iii) if applicable, the City shall receive an opinion of nationally recognized bond counsel to the effect that the defeasance of such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds shall not (1) cause interest on such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds to be included in "gross income" of their Registered Owners for federal income tax purposes or (2) affect the status of such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds as Federal Compliant Obligations if such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds are Federal Compliant Obligations.

(c) Neither Defeasance Obligations nor money deposited with the Paying Agent or refunding escrow agent selected by the Chief Financial Officer pursuant to this Section 7.01 nor principal of or interest payments on any such Defeasance Obligations shall be withdrawn or used for any purpose other than, and shall be held in trust for, the payment of the principal (at maturity or pursuant to mandatory sinking fund redemption), redemption premium, if any, and interest on those 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, provided that any cash received from such principal or interest payments on such Defeasance Obligations, if not then needed for such purpose, shall, to the extent practicable, be reinvested in Defeasance Obligations maturing at times and in principal amounts sufficient to pay when due the principal, redemption premium, if any, and interest to become due on those 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds on and prior to such redemption date or maturity date of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, as the case may be. Nothing in this Ordinance shall prohibit a defeasance deposit of Defeasance Obligations, as provided in this Part B, from being subject to a subsequent sale of such Defeasance Obligations and reinvestment of all or a portion of the proceeds of that sale in Defeasance Obligations which, together with money to remain so held in trust with the Paying Agent or such refunding escrow agent selected by the Chief Financial Officer, shall be sufficient to provide for payment of principal, redemption premium, if any, and interest on any defeased 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds as provided in and subject to the conditions set forth in this Part B. Amounts held by the Bond Registrar in excess of the amounts needed so to provide for payment of the defeased 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds may be subject to withdrawal by the City for deposit in the Water Fund. The Mayor or the Chief Financial Officer is authorized to execute and deliver from time to time one or more agreements with counterparties selected by the Chief Financial Officer, with respect to the investment and use of such excess amounts held by the Paying Agent or such refunding escrow agent.

Section 7.02. Unclaimed Money. Anything in this Ordinance to the contrary notwithstanding, any money held by the Paying Agent in trust for the payment and discharge of any of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds which remain unclaimed for two years after the date when such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds became due and payable shall, at the written request of the City, be repaid by the Paying Agent to the City, as its absolute property and free from trust, and the Paying Agent shall then be released and discharged with respect to such amounts and the Registered Owners of such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds shall look only to the City for the payment of such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds.

ARTICLE VIII

AMENDMENT OF PART B OF THIS ORDINANCE

Section 8.01. Amendment of Part B of this Ordinance. Subject to Sections 8.02 and 8.03 of this Part B, the City may amend or modify this Part B from time to time and may modify the rights and obligations of the City and of the Registered Owners of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds by adopting a supplemental ordinance to this Ordinance. No such modification or amendment shall extend the maturity of or reduce the interest rate on, or otherwise alter or impair the obligation of the City to pay the principal of, redemption premium, if any, or interest on any 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond without the express consent of the Registered Owner of such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond, nor permit the creation by the City of any mortgage, pledge, lien or security interest on the Water System, or upon the Net Revenues Available for Bonds or other money pledged or held pursuant to this Ordinance, other than those contemplated by this Ordinance, including Section 8.02 of this Part B, nor permit the preference or priority of any Senior Lien Bond over any other Senior Lien Bond, nor reduce the percentages of 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds required for the written consent to an amendment or modification of this Part B, nor modify any of the rights or obligations of any Paying Agent at the time acting pursuant to this Ordinance without the written consent of such Paying Agent.

Section 8.02. Amendments Without Written Consent. The City may amend or modify this Part B from time to time for any one or more of the following purposes without obtaining the prior written consent of any of the Registered Owners of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds:

(a) to add additional covenants and agreements of the City for the purpose of further securing the payment of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, provided such additional covenants and agreements are not contrary to or inconsistent with the covenants and agreements of the City contained in this Ordinance;

(b) to prescribe further limitations and restrictions upon the issuance of Senior Lien Parity Bonds and the incurring of obligations by the City which are not contrary to or inconsistent with the limitations and restrictions on such issuance or incurring of obligations in effect prior to the adoption of such supplemental ordinance;

(c) to surrender any right, power or privilege reserved to or conferred upon the City by the terms of this Ordinance;

(d) to confirm as further assurance any covenant, lien, pledge or security interest created or recognized by the provisions of this Ordinance;

(e) to take any further action necessary or desirable for the collection and application of Net Revenues Available for Bonds sufficient to pay the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds as to principal, at maturity or on mandatory sinking fund installment dates, and to pay interest on the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds as it falls due; and

(f) to correct any ambiguity or defect or inconsistent provisions in this Part B or to insert such provisions clarifying matters or questions arising under this Part B as are necessary or desirable, provided that any such amendments or modifications are not contrary to or inconsistent with this Ordinance as in effect prior to the adoption of any such supplemental ordinance, and provided further that any such amendments or modifications are not adverse to the interests of the Registered Owners of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds.

Section 8.03. Amendments by Majority Consent of Registered Owners; Consent of Registered Owners of 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond to Certain Amendments; Right of Bond Insurer or Senior Lien Bond Provider to Vote in Certain Circumstances. The City may amend or modify this Part B from time to time for any purpose other than one or more of the purposes not prohibited in Section 8.01 of this Part B and not authorized by Section 8.02 of this Part B of this Ordinance only pursuant to the consent of Registered Owners of 51 percent in principal amount of all Outstanding 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds by written instrument. For purposes of this Section, 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds registered in the name of the book-entry depository selected by the Chief Financial Officer, or its nominee, shall be treated as separate bonds with $5,000 denominations and such book-entry depository, or its nominee, may consent to the amendment or modification with respect to certain of such bonds and not others. The City may grant to the provider of a policy of municipal bond insurance or a Senior Lien Bond Provider the right to consent to amendments of this Ordinance on behalf of the Registered Owners of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds of a series so long as such provider is not in default in observing its obligations under such policy or Senior Lien Bond Debt Service Reserve Account Credit Instrument.

Section 8.04. Method of Obtaining Written Consent of Registered Owners. The City may at any time adopt a supplemental ordinance amending the provisions of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds or of this Part B, to the extent that such an amendment is permitted by the provisions of Section 8.03 of this Part B, to take effect when and as provided in this Section. A copy of such supplemental ordinance, together with a written consent form, shall be mailed by the City to Registered Owners of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, first class postage prepaid, at the address appearing for such owner upon the bond register maintained by the Bond Registrar. Failure to mail copies of such supplemental ordinance and written consent form as to any Registered Owner shall not affect the validity of the supplemental ordinance when assented to as provided in this Article VIII.

A supplemental ordinance adopted in accordance with this Section shall not be effective unless and until there shall have been filed with the City the written consents of the Registered Owners of percentages in principal amount of Outstanding 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds specified in Section 8.03 of this Part B as provided in this paragraph. Each such consent shall be effective only if accompanied by proof of ownership of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds for which such consent is given, which proof shall be such as the City may prescribe from time to time. Any such consent shall be binding upon the Registered Owner of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds giving such consent and on any subsequent Registered Owner (whether or not such subsequent Registered Owner has notice of the consent) unless such consent is revoked in writing by the Registered Owner giving such consent or a subsequent Registered Owner by filing a notice of revocation with the City prior to the first date when the notice provided for in the next sentence of this paragraph has been given. After the Registered Owners of the required percentages of 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds shall have filed their consents to the supplemental ordinance, the City shall mail a notice to the Registered Owners of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, in the manner provided in the first paragraph of this Section for the mailing of the supplemental ordinance and request for consent, stating in substance that the supplemental ordinance has been consented to by the Registered Owners of the required percentages of 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds and will be effective as provided in this Section. A certificate of the City reciting compliance with the provisions of this Section shall be filed with the Paying Agent and shall be proof of the matters stated until the contrary is proved, and the supplemental ordinance shall be deemed conclusively binding upon the City and the Registered Owners of all 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds at the expiration of 60 days after the filing with the City of the certificate, except in the event of a final decree of a court of competent jurisdiction setting aside such consent in a legal action or equitable proceeding commenced within such 60-day period.

Section 8.05. Endorsement of 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds. 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds authenticated and delivered after the effective date of any action taken by the Registered Owners of 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds as provided in this Article may bear a notation by endorsement or otherwise in form approved by the City as to such action, and in that case upon demand of the Registered Owner of any 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond Outstanding at such effective date and presentation of the 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond for that purpose at the office of the City Clerk or the Deputy City Clerk or at such additional offices as the City may select and designate for that purpose, a suitable notation shall be made on such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond. If the City shall so determine, new 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds so modified as to conform to such Registered Owner's action shall be prepared, authenticated and delivered, and upon demand of the Registered Owner of any 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond then Outstanding shall be exchanged in the City of Chicago, without cost to any Registered Owner, for any Outstanding 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, upon surrender of such 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond.

The Chief Financial Officer shall confirm and transmit the applicable Make-Whole Redemption Price on such dates and to such parties as shall be necessary to effectuate such redemption.

Notwithstanding the foregoing, in the event the 2014 Second Lien Project and Refunding Bonds are issued as Taxable Bonds (including Federal Compliant Obligations), at the time of sale of such Bonds, the Chief Financial Officer is authorized to determine the manner of redeeming such Bonds, either pro rata or by lot, in the event less than all of the 2014 Second Lien Project and Refunding Bonds of a single maturity and the same interest rate are to be redeemed. If the 2014 Second Lien Project and Refunding Bonds are held in book-entry form at the time of redemption, at the time of sale of such Bonds, the Chief Financial Officer is authorized to direct the Bond Registrar to instruct the book-entry depository to select the specific 2014 Second Lien Project and Refunding Bonds within such maturity and interest rate for redemption pro-rata among such Bonds. If so determined by the applicable book-entry depository, the particular 2014 Second Lien Project and Refunding Bonds or portions thereof to be redeemed may be selected on a pro-rata pass-through distribution of principal basis in accordance with the applicable procedures and operational arrangements of such depository. The City shall have no responsibility or obligation to insure that the book-entry depository properly selects such Bonds for redemption.

Section 1.04. Severability. If any section, paragraph, clause or provision of this Ordinance shall be held invalid, the invalidity of such section, paragraph, clause or provision shall not affect any of the other provisions of this Ordinance.

Section 1.05. Registered Owner Remedy. Section 1.06. Contract. The provisions of this Ordinance shall constitute a contract between the City and the Registered Owners of the Series 2014 Project and Refunding Bonds, and no changes, additions or alterations of any kind shall be made to that contract except as provided in this Ordinance, and as provided in the Second Lien Bonds Master Indenture, Eighth Supplemental Indenture and each Supplemental Indenture, so long as the Series 2014 Project and Refunding Bonds are Outstanding.

Section 1.07. Appropriation. The provisions of this Ordinance constitute an appropriation of the amounts received upon the sale of the Series 2014 Project and Refunding Bonds for the purposes specified in Section 2.02 of each of Part B and Part C of this Ordinance and an appropriation of the Net Revenues Available for Bonds for deposit in the various Accounts established as provided by Section 4.03 of Part B of this Ordinance and for payment of principal of, redemption premium, if any, and interest on the Series 2014 Project and Refunding Bonds and for other payments required to be made by the City pursuant to the documents, agreements and instruments authorized herein, all as provided in this Ordinance.

Section 1.08. Continuing Disclosure Undertaking. The Mayor and the Chief Financial Officer are each authorized to execute and deliver, as to each series of 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds and 2014 Second Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, an undertaking (a "Continuing Disclosure Undertaking") evidencing the City's agreement to comply with the requirements of Section (b)(5) of Rule 15c2-12 adopted by the Securities and Exchange Commission under the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as from time to time in effect, in a form approved by the Corporation Counsel of the City. Upon its execution and delivery on behalf of the City, the Continuing Disclosure Undertaking shall be binding upon the City, and the officers, employees and agents of the City are authorized to do all such acts and things and to execute all such documents as may be necessary to carry out and comply with the provisions of the Continuing Disclosure Undertaking as executed. The Chief Financial Officer is further authorized to make such amendments to the Continuing Disclosure Undertaking in accordance with its terms from time to time following its execution and delivery as said officer shall deem necessary. Notwithstanding any other provision of this Ordinance, the sole remedies for failure by the City to comply with the Continuing Disclosure Undertaking shall be the ability of the beneficial owner of any 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bond or 2014 Second Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, as appropriate, to seek mandamus or specific performance by court order to cause the City to comply with its obligations under the Continuing Disclosure Undertaking. No failure by the City to comply with the Continuing Disclosure Undertaking shall constitute a default under this Ordinance or under any Bonds.

Section 1.09. Taxable Bonds. If determined by the Chief Financial Officer to be in the City's financial interest, 2014 Senior Lien Project and Refunding Bonds, 2014 Second Lien Project and Refunding Bonds Bonds and Water System Line of Credit Notes may be issued hereunder such that the interest thereon is subject to Federal income taxation ("Taxable Bonds"). Any Federal Compliant Obligations shall, to the extent required by the applicable Federal Compliant Obligation Authorization, be issued as Taxable Bonds.

Section 1.10. Escrow Restructuring. Nothing in this Ordinance shall restrict or limit the ability of the City to restructure securities held for the payment of Senior Lien Bonds, Second Lien Bonds, or Subordinate Lien Obligations.

Section 1.11. Book-Entry. In order to provide for the initial issuance of obligations issued pursuant to this Ordinance ("Obligations") in a form that provides for a system of book-entry only transfers, the ownership of one fully registered Obligation for each maturity in the aggregate principal amount of such maturity may be registered in the name of Cede & Co., as a nominee of The Depository Trust Company, New York, New York ("DTC"), or a successor nominee or successor securities depository. In the event that the City determines that the system of book-entry only transfers through DTC (or a successor securities depository) is not in the best interests of the Beneficial Owners (as hereinafter defined) of the Obligations or is burdensome to the City, the City may notify DTC, whereupon DTC will notify the DTC Participants (as hereinafter defined) of the availability through DTC of Obligation certificates. In such event, the City shall issue and the note registrar shall authenticate, transfer and exchange Obligation certificates as requested by DTC of like principal amount, series and maturity, in authorized denominations, to the identifiable Beneficial Owners, in replacement of such Beneficial Owners' beneficial interests in the Obligations. For the purposes of this paragraph, the term "Beneficial Owners" shall mean (a) those persons for whom DTC was created to hold their securities ("DTC Participants"), and (b) the persons for whom the DTC Participants acquire interests in the Obligations as nominees.

Section 1.12. Headings. Any headings preceding the texts of the several Articles and Sections of this Ordinance shall be solely for convenience or reference and shall not constitute a part of this Ordinance nor shall they affect its meaning, construction or effect.

Section 1.13. Effectiveness. This Ordinance shall be in full force and effect from and after its adoption.

FORM OF BACK OF SERIES 2014 PROJECT AND REFUNDING BOND

The following seven paragraphs, including the tables, are applicable if any of the Series 2014 Project and Refunding Bonds are subject to redemption, in whole or in part, prior to maturity at the option of the City, or are sold as term bonds subject to mandatory sinking fund redemption. They shall not be included in any Series 2014 Project and Refunding Bonds which are Capital Appreciation Bonds. The Chief Financial Officer (as defined in the Bond Ordinance) may in the Determination Certificate set forth language to be included in the form of Bond for (i) any Series 2014 Project and Refunding Bond which is a Capital Appreciation Bond and (ii) any Series 2014 Project and Refunding Bond which is a Build America Bond (as defined in the Bond Ordinance).

The Bonds due on or after November 1, _____ are subject to redemption prior to maturity at the option of the City, in whole on any date on or after November 1, _____ or in part on _____, ____ or on any interest payment date after that date, at the redemption prices set forth in the table below, expressed as a percentage of the principal amount to be redeemed, plus accrued interest to the date fixed for redemption.

Date of Redemption	Redemption Price
____ to and including _____	_____%
____ to and including _____	_____
on and after _____	_____

The Bonds maturing on November 1, ____ and _____ 1, ____ are subject to mandatory sinking fund redemption prior to maturity on _____ 1 of each of the years and in the principal amounts set forth in the table below, as selected by lot by the Bond Registrar as provided below, at a price of 100 percent of the principal amount to be redeemed plus accrued interest to the date fixed for redemption.

Bonds Maturing November, 1, ___:

Year	Amount	Year	Amount

Bonds Maturing November 1, ___:

To the extent that the Bonds maturing on November 1, _____ or November 1, _____ have been previously called for redemption in part other than from sinking fund payments or purchase by the City, annual sinking fund payments for the Bonds maturing on November 1, _____ or on November 1, _____, as the case may be, shall be reduced as provided in the Bond Ordinance.

In the event of a redemption of fewer than all the Bonds of a specified maturity and interest rate within such maturity, the Bond Registrar shall assign to each outstanding Bond of such maturity and interest rate within such maturity of a denomination greater than $5,000 a distinctive number for each $5,000 portion of such Bond so as to distinguish each such $5,000 portion from each other portion of such Bond. The Bond Registrar shall select by lot, using such method of selection as it shall deem proper in its sole discretion, from the numbers assigned to the Bonds, as many numbers as, at $5,000 for each number, shall equal the principal amount of Bonds to be redeemed. The Bonds to be redeemed shall be the Bonds to which were assigned the numbers so selected, but only so much of the principal amount of each such Bond of a denomination of greater than $5,000 shall be redeemed as shall equal $5,000 for each number assigned to it and so selected.

If less than the entire principal amount of a Bond shall be called for redemption, the City shall execute and the Authenticating Agent shall authenticate and deliver, upon surrender of such Bond, without charge to the Registered Owner, one or more new Bonds of any authorized denomination, of like maturity, interest rate and aggregate principal amount as the unredeemed balance of the principal amount of the Bond so surrendered. If, on the date fixed for redemption, (a) money in an amount equal to the redemption price of the Bonds to be redeemed shall be held by the Paying Agent and is available for such redemption and (b) notice of redemption shall have been given as described above, interest on the Bonds so redeemed shall cease from and after the date fixed for redemption.

Notice of redemption shall be given by first class mail, postage prepaid, not less than 30 nor more than 60 days prior to the date fixed for redemption to each Registered Owner of Bonds to be redeemed at such owner's address as shown in the bond register kept by the Bond Registrar and by such other additional method, if any, as the City shall deem appropriate. Notice of redemption shall specify the maturities and interest rates within such maturities of the Bonds to be redeemed, the date fixed for redemption and, if less than all of the Bonds of any specified maturity and interest rate within such maturity are to be redeemed and, in the case of Bonds to be redeemed in part only, the respective portions of the principal amounts of such Bonds to be redeemed. Failure to give such notice by mail or a defect in the notice or the mailing as to any Bond will not affect the validity of any proceedings for redemption as to any other Bond as to which notice was given properly and the failure of any owner of a Bond to receive the notice shall not affect the validity of the redemption.

If less than the entire principal amount of a Bond shall be called for redemption, the City shall execute and the Authenticating Agent shall authenticate and deliver, upon surrender of such Bond, without charge to the Registered Owner, one or more new Bonds of any authorized denomination, of the same maturity, interest rate and aggregate principal amount as the unredeemed balance of the principal amount of the Bond so surrendered. If, on the date fixed for redemption, (a) money in an amount equal to the aggregate principal amount of all of the Bonds or portions of Bonds to be redeemed, together with any redemption premium and interest accrued on the Bonds to the redemption date, shall be held by the Paying Agent and are available for such redemption, and (b) notice of redemption shall have been given as described above, interest on the Bonds so redeemed shall cease from and after the date fixed for redemption.

The following seven paragraphs and the Assignment for Transfer shall appear on all Bonds.

This Bond is negotiable, subject to the following provisions for registration, registration of transfer and exchange. The City shall maintain books for the registration of this Bond at the principal corporate trust office of the Bond Registrar. This Bond shall be registered on those books.

This Bond is transferable on the bond register upon surrender of this Bond for transfer at the principal corporate trust office of the Bond Registrar, upon which one or more new Bonds of any authorized denomination of like maturity, interest rate and aggregate principal amount will be issued to the designated transferee or transferees.

At the option of the Registered Owner, any Bond may be exchanged for another Bond or Bonds of any authorized denomination, of the same maturity, interest rate and aggregate principal amount, upon surrender of the Bond to be exchanged to the Bond Registrar. Upon such surrender for exchange, the City shall execute and the Authenticating Agent shall authenticate and deliver the Bonds which the Registered Owner making the exchange is entitled to receive.

Every Bond presented or surrendered for transfer or exchange shall (if so required by the Bond Registrar) be duly endorsed, or be accompanied by a written instrument of transfer in form satisfactory to the Bond Registrar duly executed, by the Registered Owner of such Bond or such owner's duly authorized representative.

In all cases in which Bonds are to be transferred or exchanged, the Bond Registrar may require payment of a sum sufficient to cover any tax, fee or other general governmental charge that may be imposed and to reimburse it for any expenses incurred in connection with such transfer or exchange. The Bond Registrar shall not be required to transfer or exchange any Bond during a period beginning at the opening of business on the 15th day next preceding any date of selection of Bonds to be redeemed and ending at the close of business on the day on which notice of redemption is given or after notice selecting such Bond for redemption has been given.

The Bonds may be deposited with a fiscal agent in New York, New York, or such other agent as the Bond Registrar may designate, for transmission to the Bond Registrar for purposes of exchange or transfer.

The City and any agent of the City may deem and treat the person in whose name this Bond is registered as the absolute owner of this Bond for the purpose of receiving payment of or on account of principal, redemption premium, if any, and interest due on this Bond and for all other purposes. The Series 2014 Bonds shall be executed on behalf of the City with the official manual or facsimile signature of the Mayor of the City and attested with the official manual or facsimile signature of its City Clerk or Deputy City Clerk, and shall have affixed, impressed, imprinted or otherwise reproduced on such Series 2014 Bonds the corporate seal of the City or a facsimile of such seal. The Series 2014 Bonds are issued pursuant to and in full compliance with the Constitution and laws of the State, and pursuant to the Series 2014 Bond Ordinance. The Series 2014 Bonds, the Section 2.08 Obligations and the Section 2.09 Obligations are not general obligations of the City, but are limited obligations payable solely from the Trust Estate, including Second Lien Bond Revenues, amounts on deposit in the Second Lien Bonds Account and the 2014 Construction Account, and shall be a valid claim of the respective Registered Owners of the Series 2014 Bonds only against the Trust Estate, including amounts on deposit in the Second Lien Bonds Account and the 2014 Construction Account and other moneys held by the Trustee or otherwise pledged therefor, which amounts are by this Eighth Supplemental Indenture pledged, assigned and otherwise held as security for the equal and ratable payment of the Series 2014 Bonds, the Section 2.08 Obligations and the Section 2.09 Obligations, and shall be used for no other purpose than to pay the principal of, premium, if any, and interest on the Series 2014 Bonds, the Section 2.08 Obligations and the Section 2.09 Obligations, except as may be otherwise expressly authorized in the Indenture or in this Eighth Supplemental Indenture. Neither the Series 2014 Bonds, the Section 2.08 Obligations nor the Section 2.09 Obligations shall constitute an indebtedness of the City or a loan of credit of the City within the meaning of any constitutional or statutory limitation, and neither the faith and credit nor the taxing power of the City, the State or any political subdivision of the State is pledged to the payment of the principal of premium, if any, or the interest on the Series 2014 Bonds, the Section 2.08 Obligations or the Section 2.09 Obligations, or other costs incident to the Series 2014 Bonds, the Section 2.08 Obligations or the Section 2.09 Obligations. In case any officer whose signature or a facsimile of whose signature shall appear on the Series 2014 Bonds shall cease to be such officer before the delivery of such Series 2014 Bonds, such signature or such facsimile shall nevertheless be valid and sufficient for all purposes, as if such officer had remained in office until delivery.

Section 2.03. Authentication. No Series 2014 Bond shall be valid or obligatory for any purpose or be entitled to any security or benefit under this Eighth Supplemental Indenture unless and until such certificate of authentication in substantially the form attached to this Indenture as part of Exhibit A shall have been duly executed by the Trustee, and such executed certificate of the Trustee, upon any such Series 2014 Bond shall be conclusive evidence that such Series 2014 Bond has been authenticated and delivered under this Eighth Supplemental Indenture. The Trustee's certificate of authentication on any Series 2014 Bond shall be deemed to have been executed by it if (i) signed by an authorized signatory of the Trustee, but it shall not be necessary that the same signatory sign the certificates of authentication on all of the Series 2014 Bonds issued under this Eighth Supplemental Indenture and (ii) the date of authentication on such Series 2014 Bond is inserted in the place provided for such date in the certificate of authentication.

Section 2.04. Form of Series 2014 Bonds; Temporary Series 2014 Bonds. The Series 2014 Bonds issued under this Eighth Supplemental Indenture shall be substantially in the form attached to this Indenture as Exhibit A, with such appropriate variations, omissions and insertions as are permitted of required by this Eighth Supplemental Indenture.

Pending preparation of definitive Series 2014 Bonds, or by agreement with the purchasers of such Series 2014 Bonds, the City may issue and, upon its request, the Trustee shall authenticate, in lieu of definitive Series 2014 Bonds, one or more temporary printed or typewritten Bonds in Authorized Denominations of substantially the tenor recited above. Upon request of the City, the Trustee shall authenticate definitive Series 2014 Bonds in exchange for and upon surrender of an equal principal amount of temporary Series 2014 Bonds. Until so exchanged, temporary Series 2014 Bonds shall have the same rights, remedies and security under this Eighth Supplemental Indenture as definitive Series 2014 Bonds.

Section 2.05. Delivery of Series 2014 Bonds. Upon the execution and delivery of this Eighth Supplemental Indenture, the City shall execute and deliver to the Trustee, and the Trustee shall authenticate, the Series 2014 Bonds and deliver them to the purchasers as may be directed by the City as provided in this Section.

Prior to the delivery by the Trustee of the Series 2014 Bonds there shall be filed with the Trustee:

(i) a copy, duly certified by the City Clerk or Deputy City Clerk of the City, of the Series 2014 Bond Ordinance;

(ii) original executed counterparts of the Indenture and this Eighth Supplemental Indenture;

(iii) a Counsel's Opinion or Opinions to the effect that (A) the City had the right and power to adopt the Series 2014 Bond Ordinance; (B) the Series 2014 Bond Ordinance has been duly and lawfully adopted by the City Council, is in full force and effect and is valid and binding upon the City and enforceable in accordance with its terms (except as limited by any applicable bankruptcy liquidation, reorganization, insolvency or other similar laws and by general principles of equity in the event equitable remedies are sought); (C) the Indenture and this Eighth Supplemental Indenture have been duly and lawfully authorized by all necessary action on the part of the City, have been duly and lawfully executed by authorized officers of the City, are in full force and effect and are valid and binding upon the City and enforceable in accordance with their terms (except as limited by any applicable bankruptcy, liquidation, reorganization, insolvency or other similar laws and by general principles of equity in the event equitable remedies are sought); (D) the Series 2014 Bond Ordinance, the Indenture and this Eighth Supplemental Indenture create the valid pledge of the Trust Estate, including Second Lien Bond Revenues and moneys and securities held in the Second Lien Bonds Account under the Series 2014 Bond Ordinance, the Indenture and this Eighth Supplemental Indenture for the benefit and security of the Series 2014 Bonds; subject to application of such moneys and securities in the manner provided in the Indenture and this Eighth Supplemental Indenture; (E) upon the execution, authentication and delivery of the Indenture and this Eighth Supplemental Indenture, the Series 2014 Bonds will have been, duly and validly authorized and issued in accordance with the Constitution and laws of the State, the Series 2014 Bond Ordinance, the Indenture and this Eighth Supplemental Indenture and (F) any required approval for the issuance of the Series 2014 Bonds has been obtained;

(iv) a written order as to the delivery of the Series 2014 Bonds, signed by the Authorized Officer and stating (A) the identity of the purchasers, the aggregate purchase price and the date and place of delivery; and (B) that no Event of Default has occurred and is continuing under the Indenture or this Eighth Supplemental Indenture; and

(v) a Certificate of the Chief Financial Officer stating that the conditions of Section 2.06 of the Indenture have been met.

Section 2.06. Mutilated, Lost, Stolen or Destroyed Series 2014 Bonds. In the event a Series 2014 Bond is mutilated, lost, stolen or destroyed, the City may execute and the Trustee may authenticate a new Series 2014 Bond of like date, maturity, interest rate and denomination as the Series 2014 Bond mutilated, lost, stolen or destroyed; provided that, in the case of any mutilated Series 2014 Bond, such mutilated Series 2014 Bond shall first be surrendered to the Trustee, and in the case of any lost, stolen or destroyed Series 2014 Bond, there shall be first furnished to the City and the Trustee evidence of such loss, theft or destruction satisfactory to the City and the Trustee, together with indemnity satisfactory to them. In the event any such 2014 Second Lien Bond has matured, instead of issuing a substitute Series 2014 Bond the City may pay the same without surrender of such 2014 Second Lien Bond. The City and the Trustee may charge the Registered Owner of such Series 2014 Bond with their reasonable fees and expenses in this connection. All Series 2014 Bonds so surrendered to the Trustee shall be canceled and destroyed, and evidence of such destruction shall be given to the City. Upon the date of final maturity or redemption of all of the Series 2014 Bonds, the Trustee shall destroy any inventory of unissued certificates.

All duplicate Series 2014 Bonds issued and authenticated pursuant to this Section shall constitute original, contractual obligations of the City (whether or not, in the case of the first paragraph of this Section, lost, stolen or destroyed Series 2014 Bonds be at any time found by anyone), and shall be entitled to equal and proportionate rights and benefits under this Eighth Supplemental Indenture as all other Outstanding Series 2014 Bonds issued under this Eighth Supplemental Indenture.

All Series 2014 Bonds shall be owned upon the express condition that the foregoing provisions, to the extent permitted by law, are exclusive with respect to the replacement or payment of mutilated, destroyed, lost, stolen or purchased Series 2014 Bonds, and shall preclude any and all other rights or remedies.

Section 2.07. Transfer and Exchange of Series 2014 Bonds; Persons Treated as Owners. (a) Subject to the limitations contained in subsection (c) of this Section, upon surrender for registration of transfer of any Series 2014 Bond at the principal corporate trust office of the Trustee, duly endorsed by, or accompanied by a written instrument or instruments of transfer in form satisfactory to the Trustee and duly executed by the Bondholder or such Bondholder's attorney duly authorized in writing, the City shall execute, and the Trustee shall authenticate and deliver, in the name of the transferee or transferees a new Series 2014 Bond or Bonds of like date and tenor in Authorized Denominations of the same Maturity Date and interest rate for the aggregate principal amount which the Registered Owner is entitled to receive bearing numbers not contemporaneously Outstanding. Subject to the limitations contained in subsection (c) of this Section, Series 2014 Bonds may be exchanged at such times at such designated corporate trust office of the Trustee upon surrender of such Series 2014 Bond together with an assignment duly executed by the Registered Owner of such Series 2014 Bonds or such Registered Owner's attorney in such form and with guarantee of signature as shall be satisfactory to the Trustee for an equal aggregate principal amount of Series 2014 Bonds of like date and tenor of any Authorized Denomination as the Series 2014 Bonds surrendered for exchange bearing numbers not contemporaneously Outstanding. The execution by the City of any Series 2014 Bond of any Authorized Denomination shall constitute full and due authorization of such Authorized Denomination, and the Trustee shall thereby be authorized to authenticate and deliver such registered Series 2014 Bond.

(b) No service charge shall be imposed upon the Registered Owners for any exchange or transfer of Series 2014 Bonds. The City and the Trustee may, however, require payment by the person requesting an exchange or transfer of Series 2014 Bonds of a sum sufficient to cover any tax, fee or other governmental charge that may be imposed in relation to such exchange or transfer, except in the case of the issuance of one or more Series 2014 Bonds for the unredeemed portion of a Series 2014 Bond surrendered for redemption in part.

(c) The Trustee shall not be required to transfer or exchange any Series 2014 Bond during the period commencing on the Record Date next preceding any Interest Payment Date of such Series 2014 Bond and ending on such Interest Payment Date, or to transfer or exchange such Series 2014 Bond after the mailing of notice calling such Series 2014 Bond for redemption has been made as provided in this Eighth Supplemental Indenture or during the period of 15 days next preceding the giving of notice of redemption of Series 2014 Bonds of the same Maturity Date and interest rate.

(d) Series 2014 Bonds delivered upon any registration of transfer or exchange as provided in this Section 2.07 or as provided in Section 2.08 hereof shall be valid limited obligations of the City, evidencing the same debt as the Series 2014 Bonds surrendered, shall be secured by the Indenture and shall be entitled to all of the security and benefits of this Eighth Supplemental Indenture to the same extent as the Series 2014 Bond surrendered.

(e) The City, the Trustee and any Paying Agent may treat the Registered Owner of any Series 2014 Bond as the absolute owner of such Series 2014 Bond for all purposes, whether or not such Series 2014 Bond shall be overdue, and shall not be bound by any notice to the contrary. All payments of or on account of the principal of, premium, if any, and interest on any such Series 2014 Bond as provided in this Eighth Supplemental Indenture shall be made only to or upon the written order of the Registered Owner of such Series 2014 Bond or such Registered Owner's legal representative, but such registration may be changed as provided in this Eighth Supplemental Indenture. All such payments shall be valid and effectual to satisfy and discharge the liability upon such Series 2014 Bond to the extent of the sum or sums so paid.

Section 2.08. Cancellation. Any Series 2014 Bond surrendered for the purpose of payment or retirement, or for exchange, transfer or replacement, shall be canceled upon surrender of such Series 2014 Bond to the Trustee or any Paying Agent. If the City shall acquire any of the Series 2014 Bonds, the City shall deliver such Series 2014 Bonds to the Trustee for cancellation and the Trustee shall cancel the same. Any such Series 2014 Bonds canceled by any Paying Agent other than the Trustee shall be promptly transmitted by such Paying Agent to the Trustee. Certification of Series 2014 Bonds canceled by the Trustee and 2014 Second Lien Bonds canceled by a Paying Agent other than the Trustee which are transmitted to the Trustee shall be made to the City. Canceled Series 2014 Bonds may be destroyed by the Trustee unless instructions to the contrary are received from the City. Upon the date of final maturity or redemption of all Series 2014 Bonds, the Trustee shall destroy any inventory of unissued certificates.

Section 2.09. Book-Entry Provisions. The provisions of this Section shall apply as long as the Series 2014 Bonds are maintained in book-entry form with DTC or another Securities Depository, any provisions of this Eighth Supplemental Indenture to the contrary notwithstanding.

(a) Payments of the principal of and interest on the Series 2014 Bonds shall be made to the Securities Depository, or its nominee, as the Registered Owner of the Series 2014 Bonds, in same day funds on each date on which the principal of, premium; if any, and interest on the Series 2014 Bonds is due as set forth in this Eighth Supplemental Indenture and the Series 2014 Bonds. Such payments shall be made to the offices of the Securities Depository specified by the Securities Depository to the City and the Trustee in writing. Without notice to or the consent of the beneficial owners of the Series 2014 Bonds, the City and the Securities Depository may agree in writing to make payments of principal and interest in a manner different from that set forth herein. If such different manner of payment is agreed upon, the City shall give the Trustee written notice thereof, and the Trustee shall make payments with respect to the Series 2014 Bonds in the manner specified in such notice as set forth herein. Neither the City nor the Trustee shall have any obligation with respect to the transfer or crediting of the principal of, premium, if any, and interest on the Series 2014 Bonds to Participants or the beneficial owners of the Series 2014 Bonds or their nominees.

(b) The Registered Owners of the Series 2014 Bonds have no right to the appointment or retention of a Securities Depository for the Series 2014 Bonds. If (i) the City determines, or (ii) the City receives notice that the Securities Depository has received notice from its Participants having interests in at least 50 percent in principal amount of the Series 2014 Bonds that the Securities Depository or its successor is incapable of discharging its responsibilities as a securities depository, or that it is in the best interests of the beneficial owners that they obtain certificated Series 2014 Bonds, the City may (or, in the case of clause (ii) above, the City shall) cause the Trustee to authenticate and deliver Series 2014 Bond certificates. The City shall have no obligation to make any investigation to determine the occurrence of any events that would permit the City to make any determination described in this paragraph.

(c) If, following a determination or event specified in paragraph (b) above, the City discontinues the maintenance of the Series 2014 Bonds in book-entry form with the then current Securities Depository, the City will issue replacement Series 2014 Bonds to the replacement Securities Depository, if any, or, if no replacement Securities Depository is selected for the Series 2014 Bonds, directly to the Participants as shown on the records of the former Securities Depository or, to the extent requested by any Participant, to the beneficial owners of the Series 2014 Bonds shown on the records of such Participant. Replacement Series 2014 Bonds shall be in fully registered form and in Authorized Denominations, be payable as to interest on the Interest Payment Dates of such Series 2014 Bonds by check mailed to each Registered Owner at the address of such Registered Owner as it appears on the Bond Register or, at the option of any Registered Owner of not less than $1,000,000 principal amount of Series 2014 Bonds, by wire transfer to any address in the United States of America on such Interest Payment Date to such Registered Owner as of such Record Date, if such Registered Owner provides the Trustee with written notice of such wire transfer address not later than the Record Date (which notice may provide that it will remain in effect with respect to subsequent Interest Payment Dates unless and until changed or revoked by subsequent notice). Principal and premium, if any, on the replacement Series 2014 Bonds are payable only upon presentation and surrender of such replacement Series 2014 Bond or Bonds at the principal corporate trust office of the Trustee.

(d) The Securities Depository and its Participants, and the beneficial owners of the 2014 Second Lien Bonds, by their acceptance of the Series 2014 Bonds, agree that the City and the Trustee shall not have liability for the failure of such Securities Depository to perform its obligations to the Participants and the beneficial owners of the Series 2014 Bonds, nor shall the City or the Trustee be liable for the failure of any Participant or other nominee of the beneficial owners to perform any obligation of the Participant to a beneficial owner of the 2014 Second Lien Bonds.

(e) As long as Cede & Co. is the Registered Owner of the Series 2014 Bonds, as nominee of DTC, references herein to the Registered Owners of the Series 2014 Bonds shall mean Cede & Co. and shall not mean the beneficial owners of the Series 2014 Bonds.

(f) As long as Cede & Co. is the Registered Owner of the Series 2014 Bonds:

(i) selection of Series 2014 Bonds to be redeemed upon partial redemption or presentation of such Series 2014 Bonds to the Trustee upon partial redemption shall be deemed made when the right to exercise ownership rights in such Series 2014 Bonds through DTC or DTC's Participants is transferred by DTC on its books; and

(ii) DTC may present notices, approvals, waivers or other communications required or permitted to be made by Registered Owners under this Eighth Supplemental Indenture on a fractionalized basis on behalf of some or all of those persons entitled to exercise ownership rights in the Series 2014 Bonds through DTC or its Participants.

(b) In lieu of redeeming the Term Bonds pursuant to the mandatory sinking fund redemption provisions described above, on or before the 60th day next preceding any mandatory sinking fund redemption date for such Term Bonds, the Trustee may, at the written direction of the Authorized Officer, use such funds available under the Indenture to purchase Term Bonds in the open market at a price not exceeding par plus accrued interest.

On or before the 60th day next preceding any mandatory sinking fund redemption date for the Term Bonds (or such shorter period as may be acceptable to the Trustee), the City may, at its option, (i) deliver to the Trustee for cancellation, Term Bonds or portions thereof in Authorized Denominations subject to mandatory sinking fund redemption or (ii) receive a credit in respect of its mandatory sinking fund redemption obligation for Term Bonds or portions thereof in Authorized Denominations which prior to said date have been redeemed (otherwise than through the operation of such mandatory sinking fund redemption) and canceled by the Trustee and not theretofore applied as a credit against any mandatory sinking fund redemption obligation. Each Term Bond or portion thereof subject to mandatory sinking fund redemption so delivered or previously redeemed will be credited against future mandatory sinking fund redemption obligations on Term Bonds in such order as the City designates, or if no such designation is made, in chronological order, the principal amount of such Term Bonds to be redeemed by operation of such mandatory redemption to be accordingly reduced.

Section 3.03. Redemption Terms; Notice of Redemption.

(a) Series 2014 Bonds may be called for redemption by the Trustee pursuant to Section 3.01 hereof upon receipt by the Trustee at least 45 days prior to the redemption date (or such shorter period as shall be acceptable to the Trustee) of a written request of the City requesting such redemption. Term Bonds shall be called for redemption by the Trustee pursuant to Section 3.02 hereof without further request or direction from the City or any other party.

(b) Unless waived by any owner of Series 2014 Bonds to be redeemed, notice of the call for any optional or mandatory redemption pursuant to Section 3.01 or 3.02 hereof shall be given by the Trustee on behalf of the City by mailing the redemption notice by first class mail at least 30 days and not more than 45 days prior to the date fixed for redemption to the Registered Owner of the Series 2014 Bond or Bonds to be redeemed at the address shown on the Bond Register or at such other address as is furnished in writing by such Registered Owner to the Trustee, but the failure to mail any such notice or any defect therein as to any Series 2014 Bond to be redeemed shall not affect the validity of the proceedings for the redemption of any other Series 2014 Bond to be redeemed. Any notice of redemption mailed as provided in this Section shall be conclusively presumed to have been given whether or not actually received by the addressee.

(c) All notices of redemption shall specify, at a minimum: (i) the series name and designation and certificate numbers of Series 2014 Bonds being redeemed, (ii) the CUSIP numbers of the Series 2014 Bonds being redeemed, (iii) the principal amount of Series 2014 Bonds being redeemed and the redeemed amount for each certificate (for partial calls), (iv) the redemption date, (v) the redemption price, (vi) the Date of Issuance of the Series 2014 Bonds being redeemed, (vii) the interest rate and maturity date of the Series 2014 Bonds being redeemed, (viii) the date of mailing of notices to Registered Owners and information services (if required), and (ix) the name of the employee of the Trustee which may be contacted with regard to such notice. With respect to an optional redemption of any Series 2014 Bonds, such notice may state that said redemption is conditioned upon the receipt by the Trustee on or prior to the date fixed for redemption of moneys sufficient to pay the redemption price of the Series 2014 Bonds being redeemed. If such moneys are not so received, such redemption notice shall be of no force and effect, the City shall not redeem such Series 2014 Bonds and the Trustee shall give notice, in the same manner in which the notice of redemption was given, that such moneys were not so received and that such Series 2014 Bonds will not be redeemed. Unless the notice of redemption shall be made conditional as provided above, on or prior to any redemption date for Series 2014 Bonds, the City shall deposit with the Trustee an amount of money sufficient to pay the redemption price of all Series 2014 Bonds or portions thereof which are to be redeemed on that date.

(d) Notice of redemption having been given as aforesaid, the Series 2014 Bonds, or portions thereof, so to be redeemed shall, on the redemption date (unless the redemption has been canceled as described in Section 3.03(c) hereof), become due and payable at the redemption price therein specified, and from and after such date (unless the City shall default in the payment of the redemption price) such Series 2014 Bonds, or portions thereof, shall cease to bear interest. Upon surrender of such Series 2014 Bonds for redemption in accordance with said notice, such Series 2014 Bonds shall be paid by the Trustee at the redemption price. Installments of interest due on or prior to the redemption date shall be payable as herein provided for payment of interest. Upon surrender for any partial redemption of any Series 2014 Bond, there shall be prepared for the Registered Owner a new Series 2014 Bond or Bonds of the same interest rate and maturity in the amount of the unpaid principal. If any Series 2014 Bond, or portion thereof, called for redemption shall not be so paid upon surrender thereof for redemption, the principal shall, until paid, bear interest from the redemption date at the rate borne by such Bond, or portion thereof, so called for redemption.

Section 3.04. Selection of Series 2014 Bonds for Redemption. In the event of the redemption of fewer than all the Series 2014 Bonds of the same interest rate and maturity, the aggregate principal amount thereof to be redeemed shall be in an Authorized Denomination, and the Trustee shall assign to each Series 2014 Bond of such interest rate and maturity a distinctive number for each minimum Authorized Denomination of such Bond and shall select by lot from the numbers so assigned as many numbers as, at such minimum Authorized Denomination for each number, shall equal the principal amount of such Series 2014 Bonds to be redeemed. The Series 2014 Bonds to be redeemed shall be those to which were assigned numbers so selected; provided that only so much of the principal amount of each Series 2014 Bond shall be redeemed as shall equal such minimum Authorized Denomination for each number assigned to it and so selected. For purposes of any redemption of fewer than all of the outstanding Series 2014 Bonds of a single interest rate and maturity, the particular Series 2014 Bonds or portions thereof to be redeemed shall be selected not more than 60 days prior to the redemption date by the Trustee.

In addition to the Series 2014 Deposit Requirement, there shall be deposited into the Series 2014 Dedicated Subaccount any other moneys received by the Trustee under and pursuant to the Indenture or this Eighth Supplemental Indenture, when accompanied by directions from the person depositing such moneys that such moneys are to be paid into the Series 2014 Dedicated Subaccount or to one or more Accounts in that Subaccount.

Upon calculation by the Trustee of each Series 2014 Deposit Requirement under this Section, the Trustee shall notify the City of the Series 2014 Deposit Requirement and the Deposit Date to which it relates; and shall provide the City with such supporting documentation and calculations as the City may reasonably request.

Section 4.05. Use of Moneys in Principal and Interest Account. Moneys in the Principal and Interest Account shall be used solely for the payment of the principal of, premium, if any, and interest on the Series 2014 Bonds, for the redemption of Series 2014 Bonds prior to their respective Maturity Dates and for the payment of Section 2.08 Obligations and Section 2.09 Obligations. Funds for payment of principal of, premium, if any, and interest due on each Payment Date with respect to the Series 2014 Bonds (including the optional redemption of Series 2014 Bonds pursuant to Section 3.01 hereof and not otherwise provided for; and with respect to Section 2.08 Obligations and Section 2.09 Obligations), shall be derived from moneys held in the Principal and Interest Account, ratably, without preference or priority of any kind, except that termination and other non-scheduled payments with respect Section 2.09 Obligations shall be paid on a subordinate basis.

Section 4.06. Use of Moneys in Costs of Issuance Account and Program Fee Account. Moneys deposited into the Costs of Issuance Account pursuant to paragraph (i) of Section 4.03 shall be used solely for the payment of Costs of Issuance of the Series 2014 Bonds as directed in a certificate of the City filed with the Trustee. If after the earlier to occur of (i) payment of all Costs of Issuance, as specified in a certificate of the City filed with the Trustee or (ii) [_____, 20___], there shall be any balance remaining in such Subaccount, any such balance shall be transferred to the Program Fee Account. Moneys deposited into the Program Fee Account pursuant to Section 4.04(b) shall be used solely for the payment of Program Fees payable by the City to third parties with respect to the Series 2014 Bonds as set forth in a certificate of the City filed with the Trustee.

Section 4.07. Use of Moneys in the Capitalized Interest Account. Moneys on deposit in the Capitalized Interest Account shall be withdrawn by the Trustee on [_____ 1, 20___] in an amount sufficient to pay the interest due on the Series 2014 Bonds on that date. Moneys remaining on deposit in the Capitalized Interest Account on [_____ 2, 20___] shall be deposited into the Principal and Interest Account and applied to the payment of the next interest becoming due on the Series 2014 Bonds.

Section 4.08. Use of Moneys in the 2014 Construction Account. Except as otherwise provided in the Series 2014 Bond Ordinance and this Eighth Supplemental Indenture, and subject to the provisions of and limitations contained in the Tax Regulatory Agreement, moneys on deposit in the 2014 Construction Account shall be disbursed and applied to pay, or to reimburse the payment of, Project Costs related to the Series 2014 Current Projects.

Section 4.09. Tax Covenants. The City covenants to take any action required by the provisions of the Code and within its power to take in order to preserve the exclusion of interest on the Series 2014 Bonds from gross income for federal income tax purposes, including, but not limited to, the provisions of Section 148 of the Code relating to "arbitrage bonds."

The City further covenants to comply with the provisions of the Tax Regulatory Agreement relating to the Series 2014 Bonds, including, but not limited to, those provisions relating to the status of the Series 2014 Bonds as "private activity bonds" under Section 141 of the Code.

Section 4.10. Non-presentment of Bonds. In the event any Series 2014 Bond shall not be presented for payment when the principal of such Series 2014 Bond becomes due, whether at maturity, at the date fixed for redemption or otherwise, if moneys sufficient to pay such Series 2014 Bond shall have been made available to the Trustee for the benefit of the Registered Owner of such Series 2014 Bond, subject to the provisions of the immediately following paragraph, all liability of the City to the Registered Owner of such Series 2014 Bond for the payment of such Series 2014 Bond shall immediately cease; determine and be completely discharged, and thereupon it shall be the duty of the Trustee to hold such moneys, without for interest on such monies; for the benefit of the Registered Owner of such Series 2014 Bond who shall thereafter be restricted exclusively to such moneys, for any claim of whatever nature on his or her part under the Indenture or on, or with respect to, such Series 2014 Bond.

Any moneys so deposited with and held by the Trustee not so applied to the payment of Series 2014 Bonds within two years after the date on which the same shall have become due shall be repaid by the Trustee to the City upon the City's written request, and thereafter the Registered Owners of such Series 2014 Bonds shall be entitled to look only to the City for payment, and then only to the extent of the amount so repaid, and all liability of the Trustee with respect to such moneys shall thereupon cease, and the City shall not be liable for any interest on such monies and shall not be regarded as a trustee of such moneys. The obligation of the Trustee under this Section to pay any such funds to the City shall be subject, however, to any provisions of law applicable to the Trustee or to such funds providing other requirements for disposition of unclaimed property.

Section 4.11. Moneys Held in Trust. All moneys required to be deposited with or paid to the Trustee for the account of any Fund or Account referred to in any provision of this Eighth Supplemental Indenture shall be held by the Trustee in trust as provided in Section 8.03 of the Indenture, and shall, while held by the Trustee, constitute part of the Trust Estate and be subject to the lien or security interest created by this Eighth Supplemental Indenture.

ARTICLE V

INVESTMENT OF MONEYS

Section 5.01. Investment of Moneys. Moneys held in the funds, accounts and subaccounts established under this Eighth Supplemental Indenture, including moneys held for payment of Series 2014 Bonds not presented for payment as described in Section 4.10 hereof, shall be invested and reinvested in Permitted Investments in accordance with the provisions governing investments contained in the Indenture; provided, however, that moneys in the Principal and Interest Account and the Capitalized Interest Account representing principal of or interest on the Series 2014 Bonds shall only be invested in Governmental Obligations scheduled to mature on the earlier of (i) (A) 30 days from the date of investment (in the case of amounts representing principal of the Series 2014 Bonds) or (B) six months from the date of investment (in the case of amounts representing interest payable on the Series 2014 Bonds) or (ii) the date upon which such moneys will be required to be used in accordance with this Eighth Supplemental Indenture. All such investments shall be held by or under the control of the Trustee and shall be deemed at all times part of the fund, account or subaccount for which they were made.

ARTICLE VI

DISCHARGE OF LIEN

Section 6.01. Defeasance. If the City shall pay to the Registered Owners of the Series 2014 Bonds, or provide for the payment of, the principal, premium, if any, and interest to become due on the Series 2014 Bonds, then this Eighth Supplemental Indenture shall be fully discharged and satisfied upon the satisfaction and discharge of this Eighth Supplemental Indenture, the Trustee shall, upon the request of the City, execute and deliver to the City all such instruments as may be desirable to evidence such discharge and satisfaction, and all fiduciaries shall pay over or deliver to the City all funds, accounts and other moneys .or securities held by them pursuant to this Eighth Supplemental Indenture which are not required for the payment or redemption of the Series 2014 Bonds.

If the City shall pay and discharge a portion of the Series 2014 Bonds as provided above, including any Series in full, such portion shall cease to be entitled to any lien, benefit or security under the Indenture. The liability of the City with respect to such Series 2014 Bonds shall continue, but the Registered Owners of the Series 2014 Bonds so defeased shall thereafter be entitled to payment (to the exclusion of all other Bondholders) only out of the moneys or Governmental Obligations described in clause (a) of the definition of such term deposited with the Trustee under Article IX of the Indenture.

The provisions of this Section 6.01 are subject in all respects to the provisions of Sections 9.01 and 9.02 of the Indenture.

ARTICLE VII

REMEDIES

The provisions of Article VII of the Indenture shall be applicable to any Event of Default which shall have occurred and be continuing under this Eighth Supplemental Indenture.

Under no circumstance may the Trustee declare the principal of or interest on the Series 2014 Bonds to be due and payable prior to the Maturity Date following the occurrence of an Event of Default under the Indenture or this Eighth Supplemental Indenture.

ARTICLE VIII

TRUSTEE AND PAYING AGENT

Section 8.01. Acceptance of Trusts.

(a) The Trustee accepts the trusts imposed upon it by this Eighth Supplemental Indenture, and agrees to perform said trusts, but only upon and subject to the express terms and conditions set forth in this Eighth Supplemental Indenture and in the Indenture. Except as otherwise expressly set forth in this Eighth Supplemental Indenture, the Trustee assumes no duties, responsibilities or liabilities by reason of its execution of this Eighth Supplemental Indenture other than as set forth in the Indenture and this Eighth Supplemental Indenture, and this Eighth Supplemental Indenture is executed and accepted by the Trustee subject to all the terms and conditions of its acceptance of the trust under the Indenture, as fully as if said terms and conditions were set forth at length in this Eighth Supplemental Indenture. Notwithstanding the provisions of Section 8.04 or 8.05 of the Indenture, the Trustee shall have no lien or security interest in and to amounts in the Principal and Interest Account for the purpose of paying the fees or expenses of the Trustee or any Paying Agent. Notwithstanding any provision of the Indenture to the contrary, the Trustee may not resign or be removed until a successor Trustee shall have been appointed as provided in the Master indenture.

(b) The Trustee may appoint a Trustee's Agent with power to act on its behalf and subject to its direction in the authentication, registration and delivery of Series 2014 Bonds of any Series in connection with transfers and exchanges hereunder, as fully to all intents and purposes as though such Trustee's Agent had been expressly authorized by this Eighth Supplemental Indenture to authenticate, register and deliver such Series 2014 Bonds. The foregoing notwithstanding, the Trustee need not appoint a Trustee's Agent for as long as the Trustee shall have an office in New York, New York capable of handling the duties of Trustee's Agent hereunder. Any Trustee's Agent appointed pursuant to this Section shall evidence its acceptance by a certificate filed with the Trustee and the City. For all purposes of this Eighth Supplemental Indenture, the authentication, registration and delivery of Series 2014 Bonds by the Trustee or any Trustee's Agent pursuant to this Section shall be deemed to be the authentication, registration and delivery of such Series 2014 Bonds "by or to the Trustee." Such Trustee's Agent shall at all times be a commercial bank having an office in New York, New York, and shall at all times be a corporation organized and doing business under the laws of the United States or of any state with combined capital and surplus of at least $15,000,000 and authorized under such laws to exercise corporate trust powers and subject to supervision or examination by Federal or state authority. If such corporation publishes reports of condition at least annually pursuant to law or the requirements of such authority, then for the purposes of this Section the combined capital and surplus of such corporation shall be deemed to be its combined capital and surplus as set forth in its most recent report of condition so published. Any Trustee's Agent appointed hereunder shall also be a Paying Agent for purposes of this Eighth Supplemental Indenture

Section 8.02. Dealing in Series 2014 Bonds. The Trustee, in its individual capacity, may buy, sell, own, hold and deal in the Series 2014 Bonds, and may join in any action which the Registered Owner of any Series 2014 Bond may be entitled to take with like effect as if it did not act in any capacity under this Eighth Supplemental Indenture. The Trustee, in its individual capacity, either as principal or agent, may also engage in or be interested in any financial or other transaction with the City, and may act as depositary, trustee or agent for any committee or body of the Registered Owners of the Series 2014 Bonds secured by this Eighth Supplemental Indenture or other obligations of the City as freely as if it did not act in any capacity under this Eighth Supplemental Indenture.

Section 8.03. Paying Agent.

(a) The Trustee is hereby appointed Paying Agent for the Series 2014 Bonds. The City may at any time or from time to time appoint one or more other Paying Agents having the qualifications set forth in subsection (c) below for a successor Paying Agent.

(b) The Trustee hereby accepts the duties and obligations imposed upon it as Paying Agent by this Eighth Supplemental Indenture. Each other Paying Agent shall signify its acceptance of the duties and obligations imposed upon it by this Eighth Supplemental Indenture by executing and delivering to the City and to the Trustee a written acceptance thereof.

(c) Any Paying Agent may at any time resign and be discharged of the duties and obligations imposed upon it by this Eighth Supplemental Indenture by giving at least 60 days' written notice to the City and the Trustee, and such resignation shall take effect upon the day specified in such notice but only if a successor shall have been appointed as provided herein. Any Paying Agent appointed by the City may be removed at any time by an instrument signed by the Authorized Officer and filed with such Paying Agent and the Trustee. The Trustee may at any time terminate the agency of any Paying Agent appointed by it by giving written notice of such termination to such Paying Agent and the City. Upon receiving such a notice of resignation or upon such a termination, or in case at any time such Paying Agent shall cease to be eligible under this Section, the Trustee shall promptly appoint a successor Paying Agent shall give written notice of such appointment to the City and shall mail notice of such appointment to all Owners of Series 2014 Bonds. Any successor Paying Agent shall be appointed by the City and shall be a bank or trust company organized under the laws of any state of the United States or a national banking association; having capital stock and surplus aggregating at least $15,000,000, or shall be a wholly-owned subsidiary of such an entity, willing and able to accept the office on reasonable and customary terms and authorized by law to perform all the duties imposed upon it by this Eighth Supplemental Indenture.

(d) In the event of the resignation or removal of any Paying Agent, such Paying Agent shall pay over, assign and deliver any moneys held by it as Paying Agent to its successor, or if there be no successor, to the Trustee and shall be subject to audit of all of its books, records and accounts with respect to the Bonds.

ARTICLE IX

SUPPLEMENTAL INDENTURES

Section 9.01. Supplemental Indentures. This Eighth Supplemental Indenture may be supplemented and amended in the manner set forth in Articles V and VI, respectively, of the Indenture.

Additionally, this Eighth Supplemental Indenture may, without the consent of, or notice to, any of the Bondholders, be supplemented and amended, in such manner as shall not be inconsistent with the terms and provisions of this Eighth Supplemental Indenture or of the Indenture, for any one or more of the following purposes:

(a) to provide for certificated Series 2014 Bonds; and

(b) to secure or maintain ratings from any Rating Agency in the highest long-term debt rating category of such Rating Agency which are available for the Series 2014 Bonds, which changes will not restrict, limit or reduce the obligation of the City to pay the principal of, premium, if any, and interest on such Series 2014 Bonds as provided in the Indenture or otherwise adversely affect the Registered Owners of such Series 2014 Bonds under the Indenture.

ARTICLE X

MISCELLANEOUS

Section 10.06. Captions. The captions and headings in this Eighth Supplemental Indenture are for convenience only and in no way define, limit or describe the scope or intent of any provisions or Sections of this Eighth Supplemental Indenture.

Any capitalized term used in this Attachment B will have the definition set forth in the EDS, except as provided below.

SECTION III: BUSINESS RELATIONSHIPS WITH CITY ELECTED OFFICIALS

To the best knowledge of the Disclosing Party, after reasonable inquiry, the Disclosing Party has not had a "business relationship," as defined in Chapter 2-156 of the Municipal Code, with any City elected official in the 12 months ending on the date that the Disclosing Party executed the EDS. For purposes of this statement, the term "City elected official" is treated as including only the City's Mayor, Aldermen, Treasurer and Clerk and not including their spouses, domestic partners (as defined in Chapter 2-156 of the Municipal Code) or any entity in which any such person has an interest.

SECTION V – CERTIFICATIONS

B. FURTHER CERTIFICATIONS

The Disclosing Party certifies that, as of the date that the Disclosing Party executed the EDS, to the best of its knowledge, after reasonable inquiry, (x) the statement contained in Section V, paragraph B.2.d is accurate with respect to itself; and (y) the statements contained in Section V, paragraphs B.1 and B.2.a through and including B.2.e are accurate with respect to the executive officers and managers of the Disclosing Party. With respect to Section V, paragraphs B.2.b, c and e, the Disclosing Party hereby makes reference to the information on legal proceedings set forth in the filings made by its ultimate parent company, The PNC Financial Services Group, Inc., with the Securities and Exchange Commission, which may be found at www.sec.gov or www.pnc.com/secfilings. Copies of the most current such disclosures are attached as Annex I to this Attachment B. The Disclosing Party certifies that none of the judgments set forth therein, individually or in the aggregate, would have a material adverse effect on its ability to perform with respect to the Matter.

The Disclosing Party certifies that, as of the date that the Disclosing Party executed the EDS, to the best of its knowledge, after reasonable inquiry, the statements contained in Section V, paragraphs B.3.a through and including B.3.d and B.4 are accurate with respect to any Affiliated Entity of the Disclosing Party or any responsible official of the Disclosing Party or any such Affiliated Entity acting in such capacity or any other official or employee of the Disclosing Party or any such Affiliated Entity acting in such capacity pursuant to the direction or authorization of a responsible official of the Disclosing Party or any such Affiliated Entity acting in such capacity. The Disclosing Party makes no certification concerning (x) any Contractor, any Affiliated Entity of a Contractor or any Agent of any such Contractor or Affiliated Entity; (y) any agent of the Disclosing Party or any Affiliated Entity of the Disclosing Party; or (z) any partner of any Affiliated Entity of the Disclosing Party, except to the extent that such partner is also an Affiliated Entity of the Disclosing Party.

With respect to the statements contained in Section V, paragraph B.5, the Disclosing Party is only certifying with respect to any Affiliated Entity of the Disclosing Party.

For purposes of the certifications contained in the EDS as modified in this Attachment B: The term "Affiliated Entity" does not include BlackRock, Inc. or any of its subsidiaries or other affiliates (as such term is defined for purposes of the Securities Exchange Act of 1934, as amended), except to the extent that such entity would be an Affiliated Entity of the Disclosing Party for any other reason.

D. INTEREST IN CITY BUSINESS

As to the disclosure set forth in Section V, paragraph D.1., to the best knowledge of the Disclosing Party, after reasonable inquiry, no official or employee of the City of Chicago has a financial interest in his or her own name or in the name of any other person in the Matter.

As to the disclosure set forth in Section V, paragraph D.4., the Disclosing Party only certifies that no official or employee of the City of Chicago will acquire a prohibited financial interest in the Matter from the Disclosing Party, any Affiliated Entity of the Disclosing Party or any responsible official of the Disclosing Party or any such Affiliated Entity acting in such capacity or any other official or employee of the Disclosing Party or any such Affiliated Entity acting in such capacity pursuant to the direction or authorization of a responsible official of the Disclosing Party or any such Affiliated Entity acting in such capacity.

E. CERTIFICATION REGARDING SLAVERY ERA BUSINESS

The PNC Financial Services Group, Inc. extensively reviewed the historical records of banks it has acquired and has discovered two instances in the records of the National Bank of Kentucky, a predecessor of PNC Bank, National Association, an Affiliated Entity of the Disclosing Party.

In 1836, the National Bank of Kentucky loaned $200,000 to the City of Louisville. Records indicate the City then invested in the Lexington & Ohio Railroad Company

In 1852, the National Bank of Kentucky loaned $135,000 to the Louisville & Nashville Railroad Company.

Research indicates that both railroads employed forced labor. There is no evidence that the National Bank of Kentucky accepted individuals as collateral for either loan, or otherwise directly profited from slavery.

SECTION VII – ACKNOWLEDGMENTS, CONTRACT INFORMATION, COMPLIANCE, PENALTIES, DISCLOSURE

With respect to the statements contained in Section VII, paragraph F.1, the Disclosing Party certifies, to the best of its knowledge, after reasonable inquiry, that neither the Disclosing Party nor any Affiliated Entity of the Disclosing Party is delinquent in paying any fine, fee, tax or other charge owed to the City or any tax administered by the Illinois Department of Revenue other than fines, fees, taxes or other charges that are being contested in good faith by the Disclosing Party or such Affiliated Entity by appropriate legal proceedings.

NOTE 16 INCOME TAXES

The net operating loss carryforwards at March 31, 2013 and December 31, 2012 follow:

Table 126: Net Operating Loss Carryforwards and Tax Credit Carryforwards

In millions	March 31 2013	December 31 2012
Net Operating Loss Carryforwards
Federal	$1,692	$ 1,698
State	2,407	2,468
Valuation allowance – State	59	54
Tax Credit Carryforwards
Federal	$ 29	$ 29
State	4	4

The federal net operating loss carryforwards expire from 2027 to 2032. The state net operating loss carryforwards will expire from 2013 to 2031. The majority of the tax credit carryforwards expire in 2032.

Examinations are substantially completed for PNC's consolidated federal income tax returns for 2007 and 2008 and there are no outstanding unresolved issues. The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) is currently examining PNC's 2009 and 2010 returns. National City's consolidated federal income tax returns through 2008 have been audited by the IRS. Certain adjustments remain under review by the IRS Appeals Division for years 2003 through 2008.

The Company had unrecognized tax benefits of $133 million at March 31, 2013 and $176 million at December 31, 2012. At March 31, 2013, $101 million of unrecognized tax benefits, if recognized, would favorably impact the effective income tax rate.

It is reasonably possible that the liability for unrecognized tax benefits could increase or decrease in the next twelve months due to completion of tax authorities' exams or the expiration of statutes of limitations. Management estimates that the liability for unrecognized tax benefits could decrease by $82 million within the next twelve months.

NOTE 17 LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

We establish accruals for legal proceedings, including litigation and regulatory and governmental investigations and inquiries, when information related to the loss contingencies represented by those matters indicates both that a loss is probable and that the amount of loss can be reasonably estimated. Any such accruals are adjusted thereafter as appropriate to reflect changed circumstances. When we are able to do so, we also determine estimates of possible losses or ranges of possible losses, whether in excess of any related accrued liability or where there is no accrued liability, for disclosed legal proceedings ("Disclosed Matters," which are those matters disclosed in this Note 17 and also those matters disclosed in Note 23 Legal Proceedings in Part II, Item 8 of our 2012 Form 10-K (such prior disclosure referred to as "Prior Disclosure")). For Disclosed Matters where we are able to estimate such possible losses or ranges of possible losses, as of March 31, 2013, we estimate that it is reasonably possible that we could incur losses in an aggregate amount of up to approximately $400 million. The estimates included in this amount are based on our analysis of currently available information and are subject to significant judgment and a variety of assumptions and uncertainties. As new information is obtained we may change our estimates. Due to the inherent subjectivity of the assessments and unpredictability of outcomes of legal proceedings, any amounts accrued or included in this aggregate amount may not represent the ultimate loss to us from the legal proceedings in question. Thus, our exposure and ultimate losses may be higher, and possibly significantly so, than the amounts accrued or this aggregate amount.

The aggregate estimated amount provided above does not include an estimate for every Disclosed Matter, as we are unable, at this time, to estimate the losses that it is reasonably possible that we could incur or ranges of such losses with respect to some of the matters disclosed for one or more of the following reasons. In our experience, legal proceedings are inherently unpredictable. In many legal proceedings, various factors exacerbate this inherent unpredictability, including, among others, one or more of the following: the proceeding is in its early stages; the damages sought are unspecified, unsupported or uncertain; it is unclear whether a case brought as a class action will be allowed to proceed on that basis or, if permitted to proceed as a class action, how the class will be defined; the plaintiff is seeking relief other than or in addition to compensatory damages; the matter presents meaningful legal uncertainties, including novel issues of law; we have not engaged in meaningful settlement discussions; discovery has not started or is not complete; there are significant facts in dispute; and there are a large number of parties named as defendants (including where it is uncertain how damages or liability, if any, will be shared among multiple defendants). Generally, the less progress that has been made in the proceedings or the broader the range of potential results, the harder it is for us to estimate losses or ranges of losses that it is reasonably possible we could incur. Therefore, as the estimated aggregate amount disclosed above does not include all of the Disclosed Matters, the amount disclosed above does not represent our maximum reasonably possible loss exposure for all of the Disclosed Matters. The estimated aggregate amount also does not reflect any of our exposure to matters not so disclosed, as discussed below under "Other."

We include in some of the descriptions of individual Disclosed Matters certain quantitative information related to the plaintiff's claim against us as alleged in the plaintiff's pleadings or other public filings or otherwise publicly available information. While information of this type may provide insight into the potential magnitude of a matter, it does not necessarily represent our estimate of reasonably possible loss or our judgment as to any currently appropriate accrual.

Some of our exposure in Disclosed Matters may be offset by applicable insurance coverage. We do not consider the possible availability of insurance coverage in determining the amounts of any accruals (although we record the amount of related insurance recoveries that are deemed probable up to the amount of the accrual) or in determining any estimates of possible losses or ranges of possible losses.

The following description updates our disclosure of pending legal proceedings provided in our Prior Disclosure.

Captive Mortgage Reinsurance Litigation

Argument on our motion to dismiss the amended complaint in White, et al. v. The PNC Financial Services Group, Inc., et al. (Civil Action No. 11-7928), pending in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, was held in April 2013.

Other Regulatory and Governmental Inquiries

PNC is the subject of investigations, audits and other forms of regulatory and governmental inquiry covering a broad range of issues in our banking, securities and other financial services businesses, in some cases as part of reviews of specified activities at multiple industry participants. Over the last few years, we have experienced an increase in regulatory and governmental investigations, audits and other inquiries. Areas of current regulatory or governmental inquiry with respect to PNC include consumer financial protection, fair lending, mortgage origination and servicing, mortgage-related insurance and reinsurance, municipal finance activities, and participation in government insurance or guarantee programs, some of which are described in Prior Disclosure. These inquiries, including those described in Prior Disclosure, may lead to administrative, civil or criminal proceedings, and possibly result in remedies including fines, penalties, restitution, or alterations in our business practices, and in additional expenses and collateral costs. Our practice is to cooperate fully with regulatory and governmental investigations, audits and other inquiries, including those described in Prior Disclosure.

Other

In addition to the proceedings or other matters described above and in Prior Disclosure, PNC and persons to whom we may have indemnification obligations, in the normal course of business, are subject to various other pending and threatened legal proceedings in which claims for monetary damages and other relief are asserted. We do not anticipate, at the present time, that the ultimate aggregate liability, if any, arising out of such other legal proceedings will have a material adverse effect on our financial position. However, we cannot now determine whether or not any claims asserted against us or others to whom we may have indemnification obligations, whether in the proceedings or other matters described above or otherwise, will have a material adverse effect on our results of operations in any future reporting period, which will depend on, among other things, the amount of the loss resulting from the claim and the amount of income otherwise reported for the reporting period.

See Note 18 Commitments and Guarantees for additional information regarding the Visa indemnification and our other obligations to provide indemnification, including to current and former officers, directors, employees and agents of PNC and companies we have acquired, including National City.

NOTE 18 COMMITMENTS AND GUARANTEES

Equity Funding and Other Commitments

Our unfunded commitments at March 31, 2013 included private equity investments of $178 million, and other investments of $1 million.

Standby Letters of Credit

We issue standby letters of credit and have risk participations in standby letters of credit issued by other financial institutions, in each case to support obligations of our customers to third parties, such as insurance requirements and the facilitation of transactions involving capital markets product execution. Net outstanding standby letters of credit and internal credit ratings were as follows:

Table 127: Net Outstanding Standby Letters of Credit

Dollars in billions	March 31 2013	December 31 2012
Net outstanding standby letters of credit	$ 11.5	$ 11.5
Internal credit ratings (as a percentage of portfolio):
Pass (a)	96%	95%
Below pass (b)	4%	5%

(a) Indicates that expected risk of loss is currently low.
(b) Indicates a higher degree of risk of default.

If the customer fails to meet its financial or performance obligation to the third party under the terms of the contract or there is a need to support a remarketing program, then upon the request of the guaranteed party, subject to the terms of the letter of credit, we would be obligated to make payment to them. The standby letters of credit and risk participations in standby letters of credit and bankers' acceptances outstanding on March 31, 2013 had terms ranging from less than 1 year to 7 years. The aggregate maximum amount of future payments PNC could be required to make under outstanding standby letters of credit and risk participations in standby letters of credit and bankers' acceptances was $14.6 billion at March 31, 2013, of which $7.4 billion support remarketing programs.

NOTE 16 INCOME TAXES

The net operating loss carryforwards at June 30, 2013 and December 31, 2012 follow:

Table 126: Net Operating Loss Carryforwards and Tax Credit Carryforwards

In millions	June 30 2013	December 31 2012

Tax Credit Carryforwards:
Federal	$ 33	$ 29
State	4	4
Valuation Allowance:
State	$ 59	$ 54

The federal net operating loss carryforwards expire from 2027 to 2032. The state net operating loss carryforwards will expire from 2013 to 2031. The majority of the tax credit carryforwards expire in 2032. All federal and most state net operating loss and credit carryforwards are from acquired entities and utilization is subject to various statutory limitations. It is anticipated that the company will be able to fully utilize its carryforwards for federal tax purposes. A valuation allowance has been recorded against certain state carryforwards as reflected above.

Examinations are substantially completed for PNC's consolidated federal income tax returns for 2007 and 2008 and there are no outstanding unresolved issues. The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) is currently examining PNC's 2009 and 2010 returns. National City's consolidated federal income tax returns through 2008 have been audited by the IRS. Certain adjustments remain under review by the IRS Appeals Division for years 2003 through 2008.

The Company had unrecognized tax benefits of $109 million at June 30, 2013 and $176 million at December 31, 2012. The decrease results from the company partially resolving certain adjustments relating to legacy National City federal examinations and from resolving various state examinations. At June 30, 2013, $86 million of unrecognized tax benefits, if recognized, would favorably impact the effective income tax rate.

It is reasonably possible that the liability for unrecognized tax benefits could increase or decrease in the next twelve months due to completion of tax authorities' exams or the expiration of statutes of limitations. Management estimates that the liability for unrecognized tax benefits could decrease by $68 million within the next twelve months.

NOTE 17 LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

We establish accruals for legal proceedings, including litigation and regulatory and governmental investigations and inquiries, when information related to the loss contingencies represented by those matters indicates both that a loss is probable and that the amount of loss can be reasonably estimated. Any such accruals are adjusted thereafter as appropriate to reflect changed circumstances. When we are able to do so, we also determine estimates of possible losses or ranges of possible losses, whether in excess of any related accrued liability or where there is no accrued liability, for Disclosed Matters. "Disclosed Matters" includes those matters disclosed in this Note 17 and also those matters disclosed in Note 23 Legal Proceedings in Part II, Item 8 of our 2012 Form 10-K and Note 17 Legal Proceedings in Part I, Item 1 of our Form 10-Q for the quarter ended March 31, 2013 (such prior disclosure referred to as "Prior Disclosure"). For Disclosed Matters where we are able to estimate such possible losses or ranges of possible losses, as of June 30, 2013, we estimate that it is reasonably possible that we could incur losses in an aggregate amount of up to approximately $400 million. The estimates included in this amount are based on our analysis of currently available information and are subject to the application of significant judgment and a variety of assumptions and uncertainties. As new information is obtained, we may change our estimates. Due to the inherent subjectivity of the assessments and unpredictability of outcomes of legal proceedings, any amounts accrued or included in this aggregate amount may not represent the ultimate loss to us from the legal proceedings in question. Thus, our exposure and ultimate losses may be higher, and possibly significantly so, than the amounts accrued or this aggregate amount.

The aggregate estimated amount provided above does not include an estimate for every Disclosed Matter, as we are unable, at this time, to estimate the losses that it is reasonably possible that we could incur or ranges of such losses with respect to some of the matters disclosed for one or more of the following reasons. In our experience, legal proceedings are inherently unpredictable. In many legal proceedings, various factors exacerbate this inherent unpredictability, including, among others, one or more of the following: the proceeding is in its early stages; the damages sought are unspecified, unsupported or uncertain; it is unclear whether a case brought as a class action will be allowed to proceed on that basis or, if permitted to proceed as a class action, how the class will be defined; the plaintiff is seeking relief other than or in addition to compensatory damages; the matter presents meaningful legal uncertainties, including novel issues of law; we have not engaged in meaningful settlement discussions; discovery has not started or is not complete; there are significant facts in dispute; and there are a large number of parties named as defendants (including where it is uncertain how damages or liability, if any, will be shared among multiple defendants). Generally, the less progress that has been made in the proceedings or the broader the range of potential results, the harder it is for us to estimate losses or ranges of losses that it is reasonably possible we could incur. Therefore, as the estimated aggregate amount disclosed above does not include all of the Disclosed Matters, the amount disclosed above does not represent our maximum reasonably possible loss exposure for all of the Disclosed Matters. The estimated aggregate amount also does not reflect any of our exposure to matters not so disclosed, as discussed below under "Other."

We include in some of the descriptions of individual Disclosed Matters certain quantitative information related to the plaintiff's claim against us as alleged in the plaintiff's pleadings or other public filings or otherwise based on publicly available information. While information of this type may provide insight into the potential magnitude of a matter, it does not necessarily represent our estimate of reasonably possible loss or our judgment as to any currently appropriate accrual.

Some of our exposure in Disclosed Matters may be offset by applicable insurance coverage. We do not consider the possible availability of insurance coverage in determining the amounts of any accruals (although we record the amount of related insurance recoveries that are deemed probable up to the amount of the accrual) or in determining any estimates of possible losses or ranges of possible losses.

The following descriptions update our disclosure of pending legal proceedings provided in our Prior Disclosure.

INTERCHANGE LITIGATION

In the cases that have been consolidated for pretrial proceedings in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of New York under the caption In re Payment Card Interchange Fee and Merchant-Discount Antitrust Litigation (Master File No. 1:05-md-1720-JG-JO), the court has scheduled a hearing with respect to final court approval for September 2013. Numerous merchants, including some large national merchants, have objected to or requested exclusion (opted out) from the proposed class settlements, and some of those opting out have filed complaints in the U.S. District Courts for the Southern and Eastern Districts of New York against Visa, MasterCard and, in some instances, one or more of the other issuing banks.

CBNV MORTGAGE LITIGATION

MDL Proceedings in Pennsylvania. In June 2013, the court in the multidistrict litigation proceeding (MDL) in the United States District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania under the caption In re: Community Bank of Northern Virginia Lending Practices Litigation (No. 03-0425 (W.D. Pa.), MDL No. 1674) granted in part and denied in part the motion, dismissing the claims of any plaintiff whose loan did not originate or was not assigned to our predecessor, Community Bank of Northern Virginia (CBNV), narrowing the scope of the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act (RESPA) claim, and dismissing several of the named plaintiffs for lack of standing. The court also dismissed the claims against the other lender defendant on jurisdictional grounds. The limitation of the potential class to CBNV borrowers reduces its size to approximately 22,500. Also in June 2013, the plaintiffs filed a motion for class certification, which was granted in July 2013.

OVERDRAFT LITIGATION

In August 2013, the United States District Court for the Southern District of Florida (the "MDL Court") granted final approval to the settlement described below of the three pending lawsuits naming PNC Bank that had been consolidated for pre-trial proceedings in the MDL Court (together with one other case naming National City Bank, two cases naming RBC Bank (USA), and similar lawsuits against numerous other banks) under the caption In re Checking Account Overdraft Litigation (MDL No. 2036, Case No. 1:09-MD-02036-JLK). PNC Bank had reached an agreement to settle these cases for $90 million in June 2012.

The complaints in these three lawsuits alleged that PNC Bank engaged in unlawful practices in assessing overdraft fees arising from electronic point-of-sale and ATM debits. The principal practice challenged in these lawsuits is PNC Bank's purportedly common policy of posting debit transactions on a daily basis from highest amount to lowest amount, thereby allegedly inflating the number of overdraft fees assessed. Other practices challenged include the failure to decline to honor debit card transactions where the account has insufficient funds to cover the transactions.

In the consolidated amended complaint against PNC Bank in the MDL Court, the plaintiffs asserted claims for breach of the covenant of good faith and fair dealing; unconscionability; conversion; unjust enrichment; and violation of the consumer protection statutes of Pennsylvania, Illinois and New Jersey.

The cases against PNC Bank in the MDL Court sought to certify multi-state classes of customers for the common law claims described below (covering all states in which PNC Bank had retail branch operations during the class periods), and subclasses of PNC Bank customers with accounts in Pennsylvania and New Jersey branches, with each subclass being asserted for purposes of claims under those states' consumer protection statutes. No class periods were stated in any of the complaints, other than for the applicable statutes of limitations, which vary by state and claim.

PNC Bank's motion to dismiss a consolidated amended complaint with respect to the cases pending against it in the MDL Court was denied in March 2011. In December 2011, the plaintiffs in cases pending against PNC Bank in the MDL Court moved for class certification, which was granted in May 2012.

The lawsuits pending against RBC Bank (USA) consolidated in the MDL Court as well as another lawsuit making similar allegations against PNC Bank, as described in Prior Disclosure, remain pending.

CAPTIVE MORTGAGE REINSURANCE LITIGATION

In June 2013, the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania, in White, et al. v. The PNC Financial Services Group, Inc., et al. (Civil Action No. 11-7928), dismissed, without prejudice, the amended complaint on statute of limitations grounds. A second amended complaint, in response to the court's dismissal order, was filed in July 2013. We filed a motion to dismiss the second amended complaint, also in July 2013. The court has not yet ruled on this motion.

RESIDENTIAL MORTGAGE-BACKED SECURITIES INDEMNIFICATION DEMANDS

The parties have settled several of the cases with respect to which we have received indemnification demands. There has not been any determination that the parties seeking indemnification have any liability to the plaintiffs in the other lawsuits and the amount, if any, for which we are responsible in the settled cases has not been determined.

LENDER PLACED INSURANCE LITIGATION

In June 2013, a lawsuit (Lauren v. PNC Bank, N.A., et al., Case No. 2:13-cv-00762-TFM) was filed in the United States District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania against PNC Bank and a provider of property and casualty insurance to PNC for certain residential mortgages. This lawsuit, which was brought as a class action, alleges, with respect to PNC Bank, that it breached alleged contractual (including the implied covenant of good faith and fair dealing) and fiduciary duties to residential mortgage borrowers, and, as to Ohio borrowers, violated the Ohio Consumer Sales Practice Act in connection with the administration of PNC Bank's program for placement of insurance for borrowers who fail to obtain certain insurance coverages required by the terms of their mortgages. The plaintiff alleges, among other things, that defendants placed insurance in unnecessary and excessive amounts and that PNC Bank improperly profited from these arrangements by means of the payment of commissions to PNC Bank and by reinsurance arrangements between PNC Bank and the insurance provider. The plaintiff seeks to certify a nationwide class and an Ohio sub-class (for the Ohio statutory claim) of all persons who, during applicable periods, have or had a residential mortgage loan or line of credit with PNC Bank, and had hazard insurance placed upon the secured property by PNC Bank. The plaintiff seeks, among other things, damages, restitution or disgorgement of profits improperly obtained, injunctive relief, interest, and attorneys' fees.

PATENT INFRINGEMENT LITIGATION

In June 2013, a lawsuit (Intellectual Ventures I LLC & Intellectual Ventures II LLC v. PNC Financial Services Group, Inc., and PNC Bank NA, Case No. 2:13-cv-00740-AJS) was filed in the United States District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania against PNC and PNC Bank for patent infringement. The plaintiffs allege that multiple systems by which PNC and PNC Bank provide online banking services and other services via electronic means infringe five patents owned by the plaintiffs. The plaintiffs seek, among other things, a declaration that PNC and PNC Bank are infringing each of the patents, damages for past and future infringement, and attorneys' fees.

OTHER REGULATORY AND GOVERNMENTAL INQUIRIES

PNC is the subject of investigations, audits and other forms of regulatory and governmental inquiry covering a broad range of issues in our banking, securities and other financial services businesses, in some cases as part of reviews of specified activities at multiple industry participants. Over the last few years, we have experienced an increase in regulatory and governmental investigations, audits and other inquiries. Areas of current regulatory or governmental inquiry with respect to PNC include consumer financial protection, fair lending, mortgage origination and servicing, mortgage-related insurance and reinsurance, sales by third party providers of voluntary identity protection services to PNC customers, municipal finance activities, and participation in government insurance or guarantee programs, some of which are described below and in Prior Disclosure. These inquiries, including those described below and in Prior Disclosure, may lead to administrative, civil or criminal proceedings, and possibly result in remedies including fines, penalties, restitution, or alterations in our business practices, and in additional expenses and collateral costs.

- PNC has received a subpoena from the U.S. Attorney's Office for the Southern District of New York seeking information regarding claims for foreclosure expenses that are incurred in connection with the foreclosure of loans insured or guaranteed by FHA, Fannie Mae or Freddie Mac. This inquiry is in its early stage, and PNC is cooperating with the investigation.
- The Department of Justice, Civil Rights Division, and the Consumer Financial Protection Bureau are jointly investigating whether mortgage loan pricing by National City and PNC had a disparate impact on protected classes. In June 2013, PNC was advised by the CFPB that it had authorized settlement negotiations with PNC, as successor to National City Corporation, and by the Department of Justice that it had authorized the filing of a civil complaint against PNC, also as successor to National City. PNC continues to cooperate with the agencies' investigation.

Our practice is to cooperate fully with regulatory and governmental investigations, audits and other inquiries, including those described in this Note 17 and in Prior Disclosure.

OTHER

In addition to the proceedings or other matters described above and in Prior Disclosure, PNC and persons to whom we may have indemnification obligations, in the normal course of business, are subject to various other pending and threatened legal proceedings in which claims for monetary damages and other relief are asserted. We do not anticipate, at the present time, that the ultimate aggregate liability, if any, arising out of such other legal proceedings will have a material adverse effect on our financial position. However, we cannot now determine whether or not any claims asserted against us or others to whom we may have indemnification obligations, whether in the proceedings or other matters described above or otherwise, will have a material adverse effect on our results of operations in any future reporting period, which will depend on, among other things, the amount of the loss resulting from the claim and the amount of income otherwise reported for the reporting period.

See Note 18 Commitments and Guarantees for additional information regarding the Visa indemnification and our other obligations to provide indemnification, including to current and former officers, directors, employees and agents of PNC and companies we have acquired.

NOTE 18 COMMITMENTS AND GUARANTEES

EQUITY FUNDING AND OTHER COMMITMENTS

STANDBY LETTERS OF CREDIT

We issue standby letters of credit and have risk participations in standby letters of credit issued by other financial institutions, in each case to support obligations of our customers to third parties, such as insurance requirements and the facilitation of transactions involving capital markets product execution. Net outstanding standby letters of credit and internal credit ratings were as follows:

Table 137: Net Outstanding Standby Letters of Credit

Dollars in Millions	June 30 2013	December 31 2012
Internal credit ratings (as a percentage of portfolio):
Pass (b)	96%	95%
Below pass (c)	4%	5%

(a) The amounts above exclude participations in standby letters of credit of $3.3 billion to other financial institutions as of June 30, 2013 and December 31, 2012. The amounts above also include $6.8 billion and $7.5 billion which support remarketing programs at June 30, 2013 and December 31, 2012, respectively.
(b) Indicates that expected risk of loss is currently low.
(c) Indicates a higher degree of risk of default.

If the customer fails to meet its financial or performance obligation to the third party under the terms of the contract or there is a need to support a remarketing program, then upon the request of the guaranteed party, subject to the terms of the letter of credit, we would be obligated to make payment to them. The standby letters of credit outstanding on June 30, 2013 had terms ranging from less than 1 year to 7 years.

As of June 30, 2013, assets of $2.4 billion secured certain specifically identified standby letters of credit. In addition, a portion of the remaining standby letters of credit issued on behalf of specific customers is also secured by collateral or guarantees that secure the customers' other obligations to us. The carrying amount of the liability for our obligations related to standby letters of credit and participations in standby letters of credit was $215 million at June 30, 2013.

STANDBY BOND PURCHASE AGREEMENTS AND OTHER LIQUIDITY FACILITIES

We enter into standby bond purchase agreements to support municipal bond obligations. At June 30, 2013, the aggregate of our commitments under these facilities was $556 million. We also enter into certain other liquidity facilities to support individual pools of receivables acquired by commercial paper conduits. At June 30, 2013, our total commitments under these facilities were $145 million.

INDEMNIFICATIONS

We are a party to numerous acquisition or divestiture agreements under which we have purchased or sold, or agreed to purchase or sell, various types of assets. These agreements can cover the purchase or sale of entire businesses, loan portfolios, branch banks, partial interests in companies, or other types of assets.

These agreements generally include indemnification provisions under which we indemnify the third parties to these agreements against a variety of risks to the indemnified parties as a result of the transaction in question. When PNC is the seller, the indemnification provisions will generally also provide the buyer with protection relating to the quality of the assets we are selling and the extent of any liabilities being assumed by the buyer. Due to the nature of these indemnification provisions, we cannot quantify the total potential exposure to us resulting from them.

We provide indemnification in connection with securities offering transactions in which we are involved. When we are the issuer of the securities, we provide indemnification to the underwriters or placement agents analogous to the indemnification provided to the purchasers of businesses from us, as described above. When we are an underwriter or placement agent, we provide a limited indemnification to the issuer related to our actions in connection with the offering and, if there are other underwriters, indemnification to the other underwriters intended to result in an appropriate sharing of the risk of participating in the offering. Due to the nature of these indemnification provisions, we cannot quantify the total potential exposure to us resulting from them.

In the ordinary course of business, we enter into certain types of agreements that include provisions for indemnifying third parties. We also enter into certain types of agreements, including leases, assignments of leases, and subleases, in which we agree to indemnify third parties for acts by our

The net operating loss carryforwards at September 30, 2013 and December 31, 2012 follow:

Table 138: Net Operating Loss Carryforwards and Tax Credit Carryforwards

In millions	September 30 2013	December 31 2012
Net Operating Loss Carryforwards:
Federal	$ 1,158	$ 1,698
State	2,326	2,468
Tax Credit Carryforwards:
Federal	$ 77	$ 29
State	4	4
Valuation Allowance:
State	$ 59	$ 54

The federal net operating loss carryforwards expire from 2027 to 2032. The state net operating loss carryforwards will expire from 2013 to 2031. The majority of the tax credit carryforwards expire in 2032. All federal and most state net operating loss and credit carryforwards are from acquired entities and utilization is subject to various statutory limitations. It is anticipated that the company will be able to fully utilize its carryforwards for federal tax purposes. A valuation allowance has been recorded against certain state carryforwards as reflected above.

Examinations are substantially completed for PNC's consolidated federal income tax returns for 2007 and 2008 and there are no outstanding unresolved issues. The Internal Revenue Service (IRS) is currently examining PNC's 2009 and 2010 returns. National City's consolidated federal income tax returns through 2008 have been audited by the IRS. Certain adjustments remain under review by the IRS Appeals Division for years 2003 through 2008.

The Company had unrecognized tax benefits of $105 million at September 30, 2013 and $176 million at December 31, 2012. The decrease results from the company partially resolving certain adjustments relating to legacy National City federal examinations and from resolving various state examinations. At September 30, 2013, $84 million of unrecognized tax benefits, if recognized, would favorably impact the effective income tax rate.

It is reasonably possible that the liability for unrecognized tax benefits could increase or decrease in the next twelve months due to completion of tax authorities' exams or the expiration of statutes of limitations. Management estimates that the liability for unrecognized tax benefits could decrease by $61 million within the next twelve months.

NOTE 17 LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

We establish accruals for legal proceedings, including litigation and regulatory and governmental investigations and inquiries, when information related to the loss contingencies represented by those matters indicates both that a loss is probable and that the amount of loss can be reasonably estimated. Any such accruals are adjusted thereafter as appropriate to reflect changed circumstances. When we are able to do so, we also determine estimates of possible losses or ranges of possible losses, whether in excess of any related accrued liability or where there is no accrued liability, for disclosed legal proceedings ("Disclosed Matters," which are those matters disclosed in this Note 17 and also those matters disclosed in Note 23 Legal Proceedings in Part II, Item 8 of our 2012 Form 10-K and Note 17 Legal Proceedings in Part I, Item 1 of our Forms 10-Q for the quarters ended March 31, 2013 and June 30, 2013 (such prior disclosure referred to as "Prior Disclosure")). For Disclosed Matters where we are able to estimate such possible losses or ranges of possible losses, as of September 30, 2013, we estimate that it is reasonably possible that we could incur losses in an aggregate amount of up to approximately $425 million. The estimates included in this amount are based on our analysis of currently available information and are subject to significant judgment and a variety of assumptions and uncertainties. As new information is obtained we may change our estimates. Due to the inherent subjectivity of the assessments and unpredictability of outcomes of legal proceedings, any amounts accrued or included in this aggregate amount may not represent the ultimate loss to us from the legal proceedings in question. Thus, our exposure and ultimate losses may be higher, and possibly significantly so, than the amounts accrued or this aggregate amount.

The aggregate estimated amount provided above does not include an estimate for every Disclosed Matter, as we are unable, at this time, to estimate the losses that it is reasonably possible that we could incur or ranges of such losses with respect to some of the matters disclosed for one or more of the following reasons. In our experience, legal proceedings are inherently unpredictable. In many legal proceedings, various factors exacerbate this inherent unpredictability, including, among others, one or more of the following: the proceeding is in its early stages; the damages sought are unspecified, unsupported or uncertain; it is unclear whether a case brought as a class action will be allowed to proceed on that basis or, if permitted to proceed as a class action, how the class will be defined; the other party is seeking relief other than or in addition to compensatory damages (including, in the case of regulatory and governmental investigations and inquiries, the possibility of fines and penalties); the matter presents meaningful legal uncertainties, including novel issues of law; we have not engaged in meaningful settlement discussions; discovery has not started or is not complete; there are significant facts in dispute; and there are a large number of parties named as defendants (including where it is uncertain how damages or liability, if any, will be shared among multiple defendants). Generally, the less progress that has been made in the proceedings or the broader the range of potential results, the harder it is for us to estimate losses or ranges of losses that it is reasonably possible we could incur. Therefore, as the estimated aggregate amount disclosed above does not include all of the Disclosed Matters, the amount disclosed above does not represent our maximum reasonably possible loss exposure for all of the Disclosed Matters. The estimated aggregate amount also does not reflect any of our exposure to matters not so disclosed, as discussed below under "Other."

We include in some of the descriptions of individual Disclosed Matters certain quantitative information related to the plaintiff's claim against us as alleged in the plaintiff's pleadings or other public filings or otherwise publicly available information. While information of this type may provide insight into the potential magnitude of a matter, it does not necessarily represent our estimate of reasonably possible loss or our judgment as to any currently appropriate accrual.

Some of our exposure in Disclosed Matters may be offset by applicable insurance coverage. We do not consider the possible availability of insurance coverage in determining the amounts of any accruals (although we record the amount of related insurance recoveries that are deemed probable up to the amount of the accrual) or in determining any estimates of possible losses or ranges of possible losses.

The following descriptions update our disclosure of pending legal proceedings provided in our Prior Disclosure.

Interchange Litigation
In the cases that have been consolidated for pretrial proceedings in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of New York under the caption In re Payment Card Interchange Fee and Merchant-Discount Antitrust Litigation (Master File No. 1:05-md-1720-JG-JO), in September 2013 the court held a hearing to consider final approval of the settlement reached in 2012. The court has not yet reached a decision as to final approval. Numerous merchants, including some large national merchants, have objected to or requested exclusion (opted out) from the proposed class settlements, and some of those opting out have complaints pending in U.S. District Courts against Visa, MasterCard and, in some instances, one or more of the other issuing banks (including PNC).

CBNV Mortgage Litigation
MDL Proceedings in Pennsylvania. In the lawsuits consolidated for pretrial proceedings in the Western District of Pennsylvania under the caption In re: Community Bank of Northern Virginia Lending Practices Litigation (No. 03-0425 (W.D. Pa.), MDL No. 1674), we filed a motion seeking leave to appeal the granting of the motion for class certification in August 2013. The United States Court of Appeals for the Third Circuit granted the motion in October 2013, allowing an appeal of the class certification motion to proceed before it.

North Carolina Proceedings. In August 2013, the North Carolina Supreme Court reversed the decision of the North Carolina Court of Appeals in Bumpers, et al. v. Community Bank of Northern Virginia (01-CVS-011342) and remanded the case to the Superior Court for further proceedings. In September 2013, one of the two plaintiffs was voluntarily dismissed from the lawsuit, and the remaining plaintiff filed a motion for leave to amend his complaint in the trial court. The plaintiff's remaining claims, under the proposed amended complaint, would relate exclusively to the loan discount fee.

Fulton Financial
In the lawsuit pending against NatCity Investments, Inc. in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of Pennsylvania (Fulton Financial Advisors, N.A. v. NatCity Investments, Inc. (No. 5:09-cv-04855)), in October 2013, the court granted the motion to dismiss with respect to claims under the Pennsylvania Securities Act and for negligent misrepresentation, common law fraud, and aiding and abetting common law fraud, and denied the motion with respect to claims for negligence and breach of fiduciary duty.

Lender Placed Insurance Litigation
In October 2013, the court in Lauren vs. PNC Bank, N.A., et al. (Case No. 2:13-cv-00762-TFM), pending in the United States District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania, ruled on our motion to dismiss the complaint, granting our motion with respect to the Ohio Consumer Sales Practice Act claim and otherwise denying the motion. We have filed a motion seeking reconsideration of the denial as to the fiduciary duty claim, which motion is pending.

Other Regulatory and Governmental Inquiries
PNC is the subject of investigations, audits and other forms of regulatory and governmental inquiry covering a broad range of issues in our banking, securities and other financial services businesses, in some cases as part of reviews of specified activities at multiple industry participants. Over the last few years, we have experienced an increase in regulatory and governmental investigations, audits and other inquiries. Areas of current regulatory or governmental inquiry with respect to PNC include consumer financial protection, fair lending, mortgage origination and servicing, mortgage-related insurance and reinsurance, sales by third party providers of voluntary identity protection services to PNC customers, municipal finance activities, and participation in government insurance or guarantee programs, some of which are described below or in Prior Disclosure. These inquiries, including those described below and in Prior Disclosure, may lead to administrative, civil or criminal proceedings, and possibly result in remedies including fines, penalties, restitution, or alterations in our business practices, and in additional expenses and collateral costs.

- The office of the Inspector General ("OIG") for the Small Business Administration ("SBA") has served a subpoena on PNC requesting documents concerning PNC's relationship with a broker named Jade Capital Investments, LLC ("Jade"), including concerning SBA guaranteed loans made through Jade, as well as information regarding other PNC-originated SBA guaranteed loans made to businesses located in Maryland, Virginia, and Washington, DC. Certain of the Jade loans have been identified in an indictment and subsequent superseding indictment charging persons associated with Jade with conspiracy to commit bank fraud, substantive violations of the federal bank fraud statute, and money laundering. PNC is cooperating with the U.S. Attorney's Office for the District of Maryland, which is overseeing the OIG's civil investigation.

Our practice is to cooperate fully with regulatory and governmental investigations, audits and other inquiries, including those described in this Note 17 and in Prior Disclosure.

Other

In addition to the proceedings or other matters described above and in Prior Disclosure, PNC and persons to whom we may have indemnification obligations, in the normal course of business, are subject to various other pending and threatened legal proceedings in which claims for monetary damages and other relief are asserted. We do not anticipate, at the present time, that the ultimate aggregate liability, if any, arising out of such other legal proceedings will have a material adverse effect on our financial position. However, we cannot now determine whether or not any claims asserted against us or others to whom we may have indemnification obligations, whether in the proceedings or other matters described above or otherwise, will have a material adverse effect on our results of operations in any future reporting period, which will depend on, among other things, the amount of the loss resulting from the claim and the amount of income otherwise reported for the reporting period.

See Note 18 Commitments and Guarantees for additional information regarding the Visa indemnification and our other obligations to provide indemnification, including to current and former officers, directors, employees and agents of PNC and companies we have acquired.

NOTE 18 COMMITMENTS AND GUARANTEES

Equity Funding and Other Commitments

Our unfunded commitments at September 30, 2013 included private equity investments of $175 million.

Standby Letters of Credit

We issue standby letters of credit and have risk participations in standby letters of credit issued by other financial institutions, in each case to support obligations of our customers to third parties, such as insurance requirements and the facilitation of transactions involving capital markets product execution. Net outstanding standby letters of credit and internal credit ratings were as follows:

Table 129: Net Outstanding Standby Letters of Credit

Net outstanding standby letters of credit (a)	$ 10.6	$ 11.5
Internal credit ratings (as a percentage of portfolio):
Pass (b)	95%	95%
Below pass (c)	5%	5%

(a) The amounts above exclude participations in standby letters of credit of $3.1 billion and $3.3 billion to other financial institutions as of September 30, 2013 and December 31, 2012, respectively. The amounts above also include $6.5 billion and $7.5 billion which support remarketing programs at September 30, 2013 and December 31, 2012, respectively.
(b) Indicates that expected risk of loss is currently low.
(c) Indicates a higher degree of risk of default.

If the customer fails to meet its financial or performance obligation to the third party under the terms of the contract or there is a need to support a remarketing program, then upon a draw by a beneficiary, subject to the terms of the letter of credit, we would be obligated to make payment to them. The standby letters of credit outstanding on September 30, 2013 had terms ranging from less than 1 year to 6 years.

As of September 30, 2013, assets of $2.3 billion secured certain specifically identified standby letters of credit. In addition, a portion of the remaining standby letters of credit issued on behalf of specific customers is also secured by collateral or guarantees that secure the customers' other obligations to us. The carrying amount of the liability for our obligations related to standby letters of credit and participations in standby letters of credit was $202 million at September 30, 2013.

Standby Bond Purchase Agreements and Other Liquidity Facilities

We enter into standby bond purchase agreements to support municipal bond obligations. At September 30, 2013, the aggregate of our commitments under these facilities was $1.3 billion. We also enter into certain other liquidity facilities to support individual pools of receivables acquired by commercial paper conduits. At September 30, 2013, our total commitments under these facilities were $145 million.

The principal source of parent company cash flow is the dividends it receives from its subsidiary bank, which may be impacted by the following:

- Capital needs,
- Laws and regulations,
- Corporate policies,
- Contractual restrictions, and
- Other factors.

Also, there are statutory and regulatory limitations on the ability of national banks to pay dividends or make other capital distributions. The amount available for dividend payments to the parent company by PNC Bank, N.A. without prior regulatory approval was approximately $1.4 billion at December 31, 2013.

Under federal law, a bank subsidiary generally may not extend credit to, or engage in other types of covered transactions (including the purchase of assets) with, the parent company or its non-bank subsidiaries on terms and under circumstances that are not substantially the same as comparable transactions with nonaffiliates. A bank subsidiary may not extend credit to, or engage in a covered transaction with, the parent company or a non-bank subsidiary if the aggregate amount of the bank's extensions of credit and other covered transactions with the parent company or non-bank subsidiary exceeds 10% of the capital stock and surplus of such bank subsidiary or the aggregate amount of the bank's extensions of credit and other covered transactions with the parent company and all non-bank subsidiaries exceeds 20% of the capital and surplus of such bank subsidiary. Such extensions of credit, with limited exceptions, must be at least fully collateralized in accordance with specified collateralization thresholds, with the thresholds varying based on the type of assets serving as collateral. In certain circumstances, federal regulatory authorities may impose more restrictive limitations.

Federal Reserve Board regulations require depository institutions to maintain cash reserves with a Federal Reserve Bank (FRB). At December 31, 2013, the balance outstanding at the FRB was $11.7 billion.

NOTE 23 LEGAL PROCEEDINGS

We establish accruals for legal proceedings, including litigation and regulatory and governmental investigations and inquiries, when information related to the loss contingencies represented by those matters indicates both that a loss is probable and that the amount of loss can be reasonably estimated. Any such accruals are adjusted thereafter as appropriate to reflect changed circumstances. When we are able to do so, we also determine estimates of possible losses or ranges of possible losses, whether in excess of any related accrued liability or where there is no accrued liability, for disclosed legal proceedings ("Disclosed Matters," which are those matters disclosed in this Note 23). For Disclosed Matters where we are able to estimate such possible losses or ranges of possible losses, as of December 31, 2013, we estimate that it is reasonably possible that we could incur losses in an aggregate amount of up to approximately $800 million. The estimates included in this amount are based on our analysis of currently available information and are subject to significant judgment and a variety of assumptions and uncertainties. As new information is obtained we may change our estimates. Due to the inherent subjectivity of the assessments and unpredictability of outcomes of legal proceedings, any amounts accrued or included in this aggregate amount may not represent the ultimate loss to us from the legal proceedings in question. Thus, our exposure and ultimate losses may be higher, and possibly significantly so, than the amounts accrued or this aggregate amount.

The aggregate estimated amount provided above does not include an estimate for every Disclosed Matter, as we are unable, at this time, to estimate the losses that it is reasonably possible that we could incur or ranges of such losses with respect to some of the matters disclosed for one or more of the following reasons. In our experience, legal proceedings are inherently unpredictable. In many legal proceedings, various factors exacerbate this inherent unpredictability, including, among others, one or more of the following: the proceeding is in its early stages; the damages sought are unspecified, unsupported or uncertain; it is unclear whether a case brought as a class action will be allowed to proceed on that basis or, if permitted to proceed as a class action, how the class will be defined; the other party is seeking relief other than or in addition to compensatory damages (including, in the case of regulatory and governmental investigations and inquiries, the possibility of fines and penalties); the matter presents meaningful legal uncertainties, including novel issues of law; we have not engaged in meaningful settlement discussions; discovery has not started or is not complete; there are significant facts in dispute; and there are a large number of parties named as defendants (including where it is uncertain how damages or liability, if any, will be shared among multiple defendants). Generally, the less progress that has been made in the proceedings or the broader the range of potential results, the harder it is for us to estimate losses or ranges of losses that it is reasonably possible we could incur. Therefore, as the estimated aggregate amount disclosed above does not include all of the Disclosed Matters, the amount disclosed above does not represent our maximum reasonably possible loss exposure for all of the Disclosed Matters. The estimated aggregate amount also does not reflect any of our exposure to matters not so disclosed, as discussed below under "Other."

We include in some of the descriptions of individual Disclosed Matters certain quantitative information related to the plaintiff's claim against us as alleged in the plaintiff's pleadings or other public filings or otherwise publicly available information. While information of this type may provide insight into the potential magnitude of a matter, it does not necessarily represent our estimate of reasonably possible loss or our judgment as to any currently appropriate accrual.

Some of our exposure in Disclosed Matters may be offset by applicable insurance coverage. We do not consider the possible availability of insurance coverage in determining the amounts of any accruals (although we record the amount of related insurance recoveries that are deemed probable up to the amount of the accrual) or in determining any estimates of possible losses or ranges of possible losses.

INTERCHANGE LITIGATION

Beginning in June 2005, a series of antitrust lawsuits were filed against Visa®, MasterCard®, and several major financial institutions, including cases naming National City (since merged into PNC) and its subsidiary, National City Bank of Kentucky (since merged into National City Bank which in turn was merged into PNC Bank, N.A.). The cases have been consolidated for pretrial proceedings in the United States District Court for the Eastern District of New York under the caption In re Payment Card Interchange Fee and Merchant-Discount Antitrust Litigation (Master File No. 1:05-md-1720-JG-JO). Those cases naming National City were brought as class actions on behalf of all persons or business entities who have accepted Visa® or Master Card®. The plaintiffs, merchants operating commercial businesses throughout the U.S. and trade associations, allege, among other things, that the defendants conspired to fix the prices for general purpose card network services and otherwise imposed unreasonable restraints on trade, resulting in the payment of inflated interchange fees, in violation of the antitrust laws. In January 2009, the plaintiffs filed amended and supplemental complaints adding, among other things, allegations that the restructuring of Visa and MasterCard, each of which included an initial public offering, violated the antitrust laws. In their complaints, the plaintiffs seek, among other things, injunctive relief, unspecified damages (trebled under the antitrust laws) and attorneys' fees.

In July 2012, the parties entered into a memorandum of understanding with the class plaintiffs and an agreement in principle with certain individual plaintiffs with respect to a settlement of these cases, under which the defendants will collectively pay approximately $6.6 billion to the class and individual settling plaintiffs and have agreed to changes in the terms applicable to their respective card networks (including an eight-month reduction in default credit interchange rates). The parties entered into a definitive agreement with respect to this settlement in October 2012. The court granted final approval to the settlement in December 2013. Several objectors have appealed the order of approval to the United States Court of Appeals for the Second Circuit, which appeal is pending. As a result of the previously funded litigation escrow (described in Note 24 Commitments and Guarantees), which will cover substantially all of our share of the Visa portion of this settlement, we anticipate no material financial impact from the monetary amount of this settlement. Numerous merchants, including some large national merchants, have objected to or requested exclusion (opted out) from the proposed class settlements, and some of those opting out have lawsuits pending in federal and state courts against Visa, MasterCard and, in some instances, one or more of the other issuing banks (including PNC).

National City and National City Bank entered into judgment and loss sharing agreements with Visa and certain other banks with respect to all of the above referenced litigation. All of the litigation against Visa is also subject to the indemnification obligations described in Note 24 Commitments and Guarantees. PNC Bank, N.A. is not named a defendant in any of the Visa or MasterCard related antitrust litigation nor was it initially a party to the judgment or loss sharing agreements, but it has been subject to these indemnification obligations and became responsible for National City Bank's position in the litigation and responsibilities under the agreements upon completion of the merger of National City Bank into PNC Bank, N.A. In March 2011, we entered into a MasterCard Settlement and Judgment Sharing Agreement with MasterCard and other financial institution defendants and an Omnibus Agreement Regarding Interchange Litigation Sharing and Settlement Sharing with Visa, MasterCard and other financial institution defendants. If there is a resolution of all claims against all defendants, the Omnibus Agreement, in substance, apportions that resolution into a Visa portion and a MasterCard portion, with the Visa portion being two-thirds and the MasterCard portion being one-third. This apportionment only applies in the case of either a global settlement involving all defendants or an adverse judgment against the defendants, to the extent that damages either are related to the merchants' inter-network conspiracy claims or are otherwise not attributed to specific MasterCard or Visa conduct or damages. The MasterCard portion (or any MasterCard-related liability not subject to the Omnibus Agreement) will then be apportioned under the MasterCard Settlement and Judgment Sharing Agreement among MasterCard and PNC and the other financial institution defendants that are parties to this agreement. The responsibility for the Visa portion (or any Visa-related liability not subject to the Omnibus Agreement) will be apportioned under the pre-existing indemnification responsibilities and judgment and loss sharing agreements.

CBNV MORTGAGE LITIGATION

Between 2001 and 2003, on behalf of either individual plaintiffs or proposed classes of plaintiffs, several separate lawsuits were filed in state and federal courts against Community Bank of Northern Virginia (CBNV), a PNC Bank predecessor, and other defendants asserting claims arising from second mortgage loans made to the plaintiffs. The state lawsuits were removed to federal court and, with the lawsuits that had been filed in federal court, were consolidated for pre-trial proceedings in a multidistrict litigation (MDL) proceeding in the United States District Court for the Western District of Pennsylvania under the caption In re: Community Bank of Northern Virginia Lending Practices Litigation (No. 03-0425 (W.D. Pa.), MDL No. 1674). In January 2008, the Pennsylvania district court issued an order sending back to the General Court of Justice, Superior Court Division, for Wake County, North Carolina the claims of two proposed class members. These claims are asserted in a case originally filed in 2001 and captioned Bumpers, et al. v. Community Bank of Northern Virginia (01-CVS-011342).

MDL Proceedings in Pennsylvania. In October 2011, the plaintiffs filed a joint consolidated amended class action complaint covering all of the class action lawsuits pending in this proceeding. The amended complaint names CBNV, another bank, and purchasers of loans originated by CBNV and the other bank (including the Residential Funding Company, LLC) as defendants. (In May 2012, the Residential Funding Company, LLC filed for bankruptcy protection under Chapter 11.) The principal allegations in the amended complaint are that a group of persons and entities collectively characterized as the "Shumway/Bapst Organization" referred prospective second residential mortgage loan borrowers to CBNV and the other bank, that CBNV and the other bank charged these borrowers improper title and loan fees at loan closings, that the disclosures provided to the borrowers at loan closings were inaccurate, and that CBNV and the other bank paid some of the loan fees to the Shumway/Bapst Organization as purported "kickbacks" for the referrals. The amended complaint asserts claims for violations of the Real Estate Settlement Procedures Act (RESPA), the Truth in Lending Act (TILA), as amended by the Home Ownership and Equity Protection Act (HOEPA), and the Racketeer Influenced and Corrupt Organizations Act (RICO).

The amended complaint seeks to certify a class of all borrowers who obtained a second residential non-purchase money mortgage loan, secured by their principal dwelling, from either CBNV or the other defendant bank, the terms of which made the loan subject to HOEPA. The plaintiffs seek, among other things, unspecified damages (including treble damages under RICO and RESPA), rescission of loans, declaratory and injunctive relief, interest, and attorneys' fees. In November 2011, the defendants filed a motion to dismiss the amended complaint. In June 2013, the court granted in part and denied in part the motion, dismissing the claims of any plaintiff whose loan did not originate or was not assigned to CBNV, narrowing the scope of the RESPA claim, and dismissing several of the named plaintiffs for lack of standing. The court also dismissed the claims against the other lender defendant on jurisdictional grounds. The limitation of the potential class to CBNV borrowers reduces its size to approximately 22,500 from the 50,000 members alleged in the amended complaint. Also in June 2013, the plaintiffs filed a motion for class certification, which was granted in July 2013. In August 2013, we filed a motion seeking leave to appeal the granting of the motion for class certification. The court granted the motion in October 2013 and our appeal is pending.

North Carolina Proceedings. The plaintiffs in Bumpers make similar allegations to those included in the amended complaint in the MDL proceedings. Following the remand to North Carolina state court, the plaintiffs in Bumpers sought to represent a class of North Carolina borrowers in state court proceedings in North Carolina. The plaintiffs claim that this class consists of approximately 650 borrowers. The district court in Pennsylvania handling the MDL proceedings enjoined class proceedings in Bumpers in March 2008. In April 2008, the North Carolina Superior Court granted the Bumpers plaintiffs' motion for summary judgment on their individual claims and awarded them approximately $11,000 each plus interest. CBNV appealed the grant of the motion for summary judgment. In September 2011, the North Carolina Court of Appeals affirmed in part and reversed in part the granting of the plaintiffs' motion for summary judgment. The court affirmed the judgment on the plaintiffs' claim that they paid a loan discount fee but were not provided a loan discount. It reversed the judgment on the plaintiffs' claim that they were overcharged for settlement services and remanded that claim for trial. The court also held that, in light of the Pennsylvania district court's injunction against class proceedings having been vacated in September 2010, the trial court may on remand consider the issue of class certification. In August 2012, the North Carolina Supreme Court granted our petition for discretionary review of the decision of the North Carolina Court of Appeals. The appeal was argued in January 2013. In August 2013, the North Carolina Supreme Court reversed the decision of the Court of Appeals and remanded the case to the Superior Court for further proceedings. In September 2013, the remaining plaintiff filed a motion for leave to amend his complaint in the trial court. The plaintiff's remaining claims, as reflected in the proposed amended complaint, relate exclusively to the loan discount fee.

OVERDRAFT LITIGATION

Beginning in October 2009, PNC Bank, National City Bank and RBC Bank (USA) have been named in lawsuits brought as class actions relating to the manner in which they charged overdraft fees on ATM and debit transactions to customers and related matters. Several of these lawsuits have been settled. The following is a description of the remaining pending lawsuits.

Status of MDL Cases. Two pending lawsuits naming RBC Bank (USA), along with similar lawsuits pending against numerous other banks, have been consolidated for pre-trial proceedings in the United States District Court for the Southern District of Florida (the "MDL Court") under the caption In re Checking Account Overdraft Litigation (MDL No. 2036, Case No. 1:09-MD-02036-JLK). A consolidated amended complaint was filed in December 2010 that consolidated all of the claims in these MDL Court cases. The first case against RBC Bank (USA) pending in the MDL Court (Dasher v. RBC Bank (10-cv-22190-JLK)) was filed in July 2010 in the United States District Court for the Southern District of Florida. The other case against RBC Bank (USA) (Avery v. RBC Bank (Case No. 10-cv-329)) was originally filed in North Carolina state court in July 2010 and was removed to the United States District Court for the Eastern District of North Carolina before being transferred to the MDL Court. An amended complaint was filed in Avery in August 2010.

The cases now pending in the MDL Court seek to certify multi-state classes of customers for the common law claims described below (covering all states in which RBC Bank (USA) had retail branch operations during the class periods), and subclasses of RBC Bank (USA) customers with accounts in North Carolina branches, with each subclass being asserted for purposes of claims under those states' consumer protection statutes. No class periods are stated in any of the complaints, other than for the applicable statutes of limitations, which vary by state and claim.

The customer agreements with the RBC Bank (USA) plaintiffs contain arbitration provisions. RBC Bank (USA)'s original motion in Dasher to compel arbitration under these provisions was denied by the MDL Court. This denial was appealed to the United States Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit. While this appeal was pending, the United States Supreme Court issued its decision in AT&T Mobility v. Concepcion, following which the court of appeals vacated the MDL Court's denial of the arbitration motion and remanded to the MDL Court for further consideration in light of the Concepcion decision. RBC Bank (USA)'s motion to compel arbitration, now covering both Dasher and Avery, was denied in January 2013. We appealed the denial of the motion to the United States Court of Appeals for the Eleventh Circuit, which, in February 2014, affirmed the order of the district court denying arbitration.

Status of Non-MDL Case. In December 2010, an additional lawsuit (Henry v. PNC Bank, National Association (No. GD-10-022974)) was filed in the Court of Common Pleas of Allegheny County, Pennsylvania on behalf of all current citizens of Pennsylvania who are domiciled in Pennsylvania who had or have a PNC checking or debit account used primarily for personal, family or household purposes and who incurred overdraft and related fees on transactions resulting from the methodology of posting transactions from December 8, 2004 through August 14, 2010. We filed preliminary objections seeking dismissal of each of the claims in this lawsuit in March 2011. In January 2012, the court ruled on our preliminary objections, dismissing several claims but overruling our objections with respect to claims for breach of contract and the duty of good faith and fair dealing and for violation of Pennsylvania's consumer protection statute. In November 2013, the parties agreed to a dismissal of this lawsuit.

Nature of Claims. The complaints in each of these lawsuits allege that the banks engaged in unlawful practices in assessing overdraft fees arising from electronic point-of-sale and ATM debits. The principal practice challenged in these lawsuits is the banks' purportedly common policy of posting debit transactions on a daily basis from highest amount to lowest amount, thereby allegedly inflating the number of overdraft fees assessed. Other practices challenged include the failure to decline to honor debit card transactions where the account has insufficient funds to cover the transactions.
